To be clear, these factors are not excusable reasons to justify my violence. I made a choice and I hold myself accountable for that. However, I now have a full understanding where my past impulsivity and tendency for violence come from. With this self-understanding I became remorseful for the harm I caused Mr. Kazaryan and vowed to refrain from acting out violently even again. Nobody deserves to be hurt because I was unable to deal with my own pain.

I learned from several peer/prisoner group programs on how to cope with my mental and emotional struggles with self-love, empathy, and compassion. I constantly think about the harm I caused Mr. Kazaryan and his family; as well as my family whom I abandoned and disgraced. I aim to make amends and redeem my wrongs.

I believe that I could be an asset in society as an ambassador for healing and peace. Sharing my experience with people at risk could possibly deter them from going down the same road I took. I now understand how important public safety is and that many communities continue to suffer from senseless violence by emotionally illiterate people.

With a healthy sense of guilt and remorse, I intend to make amends by never forgetting what I've done, and honoring the survivors of my criminal acts through positive service. Furthermore, CDCR has determined that I am a low risk to recidivate in my risk assessment (see Appendix "B").

Humbly, I'm not in the position to say that I deserve clemency or a time commutation. I only hope to receive one through the basis of my authentic change.

I truly thank you Honorable Governor Brown for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Fateen L. Jackson

Part 4

Shamefully, early in my incarceration I continued to misbehave from old belief systems that kept me in arrested development. My past gang and criminal conduct were the results of that old selfish belief system that disregarded others. Gratefully, I no longer hold those destructive belief systems anymore. Furthermore, I have been disciplinary free for many years now.

My epiphany occurred within my seventh year in prison when I decided to change my life around. Because previous prisons I was housed in lacked self-help programs, I began a self-help correspondence course called Criminon. (See Appendix "C") I completed all seven modules and desired to do more for my rehabilitation and redemption.

Upon arrival at San Quentin State Prison in 2012, I felt fortunate to be at an institution that would support my rehabilitative efforts. I immediately got involved with various programs at San Quentin. They all were beneficial to me and the most notable were "Houses of Healing" - "Guiding Rage Into Power (G.R.I.P.)" - "Restorative Justice" and "Criminal & Gang Anonymous (C.G.A.)." (See Appendix "D")

These programs taught me how to take accountability for my actions, reconcile past traumas, identify any unpleasant emotional arousal, and employ tools to cope with them in healthy ways. I learned about the cycle of addiction in criminality, gang activity, and substance abuse. The unmet needs behind them were revealing. Most importantly, I learned about the wide impact my violent acts had on my victim Mr. Kazaryan and his family; also the adverse impact it had on my family and the larger community. I hope to be part of the solution by helping to reduce levels of violence in the community.

In addition to my personal change, I was twenty-one years old when I committed my offense against Mr. Kazaryan. Again, I make no excuses for committing my crime. I am guilty and responsible. However, because I was sentenced under the "Three Strikes" law as a "Second Striker" with a determinate sentence, I am considered ineligible to get a Youth Offender hearing under Senate Bill 261. This bill gives youth offenders an opportunity to earn their release through the Board of Parole Hearings if the crime was committed under the age of twenty-three. Determinate sentence offenders with lengthy terms are afforded this opportunity after serving fifteen years in prison.

Penal Code 667(a) and 1170(a - d) has precluded me from participating in the rehabilitation process that ensure public safety. Although, I accept my prison sentence as fairly imposed, however, I hope to be granted this request for clemency to earn my release back into society. The suspension of the second strike enhancement would make me eligible for a youth offender hearing with the BPH. Furthermore, if Senate Bill 261 were available at the time of my guilty plea, it's possible that my sentence could have been different.

I am humbly requesting for the second strike enhancement to be forgiven whereas I could have an opportunity to receive a youth offender hearing with the BPH; or whatever the Governor's office deems appropriate.

Sincerely,

Fateen L. Jackson

Tyrone Jackson

On November 24, 1978, Mr. Jackson fatally shot two of his male associates, and kidnapped a female associate at gunpoint. The woman was later released unharmed. On March 27, 1979, Mr. Jackson was sentenced by the Los Angeles County Superior Court to eleven years in state prison. Due to a November 7, 1978 change in the law, Mr. Jackson was returned to court for resentencing. Subsequently, on October 12, 1979, Mr. Jackson was sentenced to life without the possibility of parole.

Mr. Jackson has now been incarcerated for forty years. He is 64 years old and has not been disciplined for over a decade. Mr. Jackson suffered a stroke in 2007 that left him with memory problems, paralyzed on one side of his body, and unable to speak. In February 2018, his primary care physician made a referral to the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation for medical parole, noting that Mr. Jackson is bedbound and therefore needs staff assistance with bathing, eating, dressing, and other activities of daily living. Mr. Jackson was found ineligible for medical parole due to his prison sentence. When he was interviewed by an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings in 2018, Mr. Jackson was wheeled into the meeting in his bed due to his physical condition. The investigator reported that Mr. Jackson used to communicate primarily through written notes, but can no longer read.

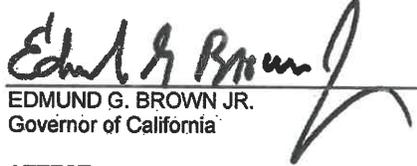

Mr. Jackson's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Jackson.

I do not discount the fact that Mr. Jackson's crimes show a complete disregard for the lives of his victims. However, he is currently bedbound and poses no threat to the community; it is plain that his continued incarceration serves no public good. I believe that Mr. Jackson's sentence should be reduced so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Tyrone Jackson to a total of 40 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Dean Jacobs

In 1997, a group of gang members stabbed Michael Gonzalez to death in rival gang territory. Dean Jacobs was convicted of participating in the crime. On August 8, 2008, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Jacobs to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a one-year deadly weapon enhancement.

In an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Jacobs denied being present for this crime, but accepted responsibility for Mr. Gonzalez's death because he was an active gang member at the time and encouraged others in the gang to prove themselves through acts of violence. In his application for clemency, Mr. Jacobs wrote, "I wish to atone for my crimes and actions; to be a part of society again; and help prevent other young people from making the mistakes I have." Mr. Jacobs has been a model inmate throughout his incarceration. He dropped out of his gang and has never been disciplined for any misconduct. He earned his GED and is currently pursuing an A.A. degree from Palo Verde College. Mr. Jacobs participated in several self-help programs including Criminal and Addictive Thinking, Alternatives to Violence, and Nonviolent Conflict resolution. He has maintained a positive work record and participated in charitable events.

Additionally, Mr. Jacobs's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Jacobs.

I acknowledge that Mr. Gonzalez's family has been deeply affected by Mr. Jacobs' actions, and wrote to me describing the ongoing pain they feel as a result of his loss. However, I cannot overlook the significant transformation that Mr. Jacobs has undertaken. It is clear that he has made a serious commitment to changing his life and encouraging others to do the same. For these reasons, I believe it is appropriate to reduce Mr. Jacobs's sentence so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Dean Jacobs to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

I had foolishly joined a gang in high school, and continued with it into early adulthood. This gangs rival, had killed two members by 1997. That same year I, disgustingly, fomented other members of my gang to seek revenge. Unfortunately on 10/6/97 they killed Miguel Gonzales, a rival gang member. Police believed that I was actually there for the crime. I am still convicted.

3. Explain why you are requesting a pardon or commutation (attach additional pages as necessary):

I am requesting a pardon chiefly because I was not physically present for the murder, and have spent 13 years incarcerated for it. I fully deserved to spend those 13 years for the parts I did play in this crime. But I don't believe I deserve a Life sentence. I also wish to be free so that I can help others not go down the path I did. I have already helped a few from in here, and long to help many more.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a pardon or commutation (attach additional pages if necessary):

I believe I should be granted a pardon because I have greatly evolved from the ignorant selfish person I use to be. I wrote about this transition in a tell-all memoir (see attachment) and put it online to help others. After 7 a year of many people reading it, I have received many positive responses from people. Most notably from parents who have kids that were heading down the wrong path. — I have no doubt that a lot of them would vouch for this, if you would give them an ear.

APPLICATION FOR EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

I was convicted in 1999; after 4½ years of having a Life sentence, my conviction was temporarily overturned; my family believed so much in my innocence, that they put up their only house to bond me out while I waited for a new trial. That trial was postponed over and over for almost four years. During that time I never attempted to run; and never returned to my former gang lifestyle. Instead, I reconnected with family; stayed employed; traveled the world to enjoy life; and showed up for every single court date. — Despite having a Life sentence hanging over my head.

With all due respect to the Justice System, I don't believe I can receive a fair trial in Orange County. I am still actively seeking a new trial; but I humbly beg you to please grant me a pardon. The D.A.'s office will never believe my claim that I did not stab Miguel Gonzales. And even if you too believe that I was present for his murder; I hope and pray you will take into consideration everything I have accomplished since my conviction. In addition to helping parents of teens

With my memoir, I have earned my G.E.D. ; I have "Dropped Out" of the Main Line prison population, into the S.N.Y./P.C. population and in the 13 years incarcerated since my conviction, I have not a single disciplinary write-up.

Make no mistake : I fully acknowledge that my verbal rantings in 1997 to other gang members, most likely played a role in their decision to seek revenge and murder Miguel Gonzales. His murder was a very brutal stabbing death. It is an absolutely horrible way to die. Shortly after his death, Miguel's father died from heart failure — undoubtedly as a result of his sons death ; his family is absolutely devastated.

Not a day goes by that I don't think about this reality. If in 1997 I had been a voice of reason, and peace to my fellow gangmembers, I firmly believe Miguel would still be alive. Instead, I was a voice for vengeance ; and Miguel is dead.

I wish to atone for my crimes and actions ; to be a part of society again ; and help prevent other young people from making the mistakes I have. Please grant me a pardon, and let me be free again.

Howard William James

On January 18, 1986, Howard James and some other gang members planned to steal a car. The group approached Israel De Leon outside of an apartment complex and ordered him out of his car. Mr. De Leon refused and a struggle ensued. Mr. James pulled out a gun and shot Mr. De Leon in the chest, killing him. On November 6, 1987, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. James to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a five-year prior felony enhancement.

Mr. James is now 53 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 32 years – over half his life. During that time, he dropped out of his gang and has dedicated himself to self-improvement. In his application for clemency, Mr. James wrote, "I have done the work of accepting responsibility for my deplorable actions, developing remorse and reflecting the life that led to such behavior...I abdicated all gang ties and became a zealous promoter of transforming prisoner yards from violent centers that housed hardened criminals into institution[s] for change and harvesting potential . . . a grant would permit me to participate in further programs now out of my reach due to the life without the possibility of parole sentence."

Despite serving more than three decades without any possibility of parole, Mr. James has been dedicated to rehabilitation. He earned his GED and has completed vocational training in silk screen. Mr. James has participated in self-help programs, including Criminals and Gang Members Anonymous, Alternatives to Violence, Breaking Barriers, and Anger Management. He has routinely received above average work ratings and has earned praise from his supervisors. A Prison Industry Authority bakery superintendent wrote that Mr. James "is reliable, dedicated, and hardworking . . . [he] is very respectful to supervisors and staff members, and works well with the other offenders . . . James is a great asset to the [Prison Industry Authority] bakery."

Additionally, his application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. James.

Despite serving a sentence that offered him no hope of release from prison, Mr. James has dedicated himself to rehabilitation and has worked hard to turn his life around. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. James has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Howard William James to a total of 33 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

County of Conviction: Los Angeles

Sentence: Five years

4. Offense: Murder 1st

Date of Offense: November 20, 1987

Appendix B.

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime for which you are requesting commutation.

This crime began when I enlisted the assistance of two associate gang members to accompany me as I set out on a mission to steal a car. Armed with a loaded fire arm I eventually approached Mr. Israel DeLeon who had just entered his family vehicle. With the weapon drawn I demanded the keys from Mr. DeLeon. who refused. Again I demanded the keys as Mr. De Leon exited his automobile and again he refused. At that I pulled the hammer back on the revolver, aimed the weapon at Mr. DeLeon's chest and pulled the trigger. The weapon did not fire, I then drew the hammer back again, aimed and pulled the trigger again and the gun fired, striking Mr. DeLeon in his chest. It was then that I heard the screams from Mr. DeLeon's family. Startled from the number of people I took flight and ran.

Appendix C.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

Because I have done the work of accepting responsibility for my deplorable actions, developing remorse and reflecting on the life that led to such behavior. In addition willingly participated in group programs such as: Breaking Barriers, Criminals and Gang members Anonymous (C.G.A.), and The Alternatives to Violence Project (A.V.P.), just to name a few. While learning and growing in these group programs I developed into a facilitator and most importantly built friendships with guys across racial boundaries. I abdicated all gang ties and became a zealous promoter of transforming prison yards from violent centers that housed hardened criminals into institution for change and harvesting potential.

Because a grant is not a decision to release me or pardon my behavior but rather a validation of in custody behavior for thirty-two years.

Because a grant would permit me to participate in further programs now out of my reach due to the life without the possibility of parole sentence.

I thank you for your review and consideration.

Daniel Johnson

In 1994, Vincent Henneberry caught Daniel Johnson stealing money from him and threatened to turn him in to police. On January 3, 1995, Mr. Johnson armed himself with a baseball bat and went to Mr. Henneberry's home where he hit Mr. Henneberry six times with the baseball bat, killing him. On October 19, 2001, the Alameda County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Johnson to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Johnson was 20 years old when he committed this crime, and has now been incarcerated for nearly 24 years. He has demonstrated by his conduct in prison that he has completely turned his life around. In his application for commutation, Mr. Johnson wrote, "A commutation will allow me to show...that the rehabilitation which I have been participating in is not just daily practice but a lifestyle for me." Mr. Johnson explained that, to him, "remorse is only a word if you don't act to remedy this feeling." During an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Johnson stated that he "wants a chance to show the Board of Parole Hearings, the Governor, and his family, that rehabilitation is real and has worked for him."

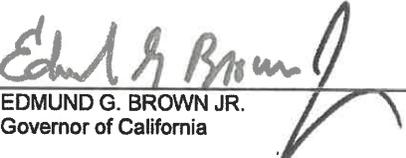

In over two decades, Mr. Johnson has shown a clear commitment to his rehabilitation efforts. Mr. Johnson has not been disciplined for a serious rule violation since 2006. He has completed three vocational training programs, and he routinely receives positive work ratings from correctional staff. He is also working to earn an associate's degree. Mr. Johnson has also participated in self-help programs including Victim Awareness, Veteran's Support, Houses of Healing, and Anger Management. Mr. Johnson is currently a dog trainer in the Paws for Life program and has trained various dogs for adoption. In 2018, a self-help sponsor wrote, "In the time that I have known Mr. Johnson I have seen tremendous growth in his character and thought process mentally, emotionally, and spiritually." She added that "putting Mr. Johnson back out into the community will be an asset for everyone he comes in contact with."

I do not discount the seriousness of the crime Mr. Johnson committed, but it is clear that he has dedicated himself to self-improvement through his positive programming and efforts to upgrade educationally. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Johnson has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Daniel Johnson to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

(2.) Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime:

On January 3, 1995, I murdered Vincent L. Henneberry. Mr. Henneberry caught me stealing from him and threatened to turn me over to the police. For my part, I waited for Mr. Henneberry to come home and I murdered him. Despite having previously denied the two special circumstances of lying in wait and financial gain, they are true.

At the time, I thought that if I tried shifting blame of what I had done, I would not be in trouble. This was my egotistical, greedy, and criminal way of thinking. I chose to kill instead of resolving the situation within the law.

(3.) Explain why you are requesting commutation:

A commutation will allow me to show you and the Parole Board that the Rehabilitation which I have been participating in is not just daily practice but a lifestyle for me. The rehabilitation groups I have been and still a part of are:

Alcoholics Anonymous; Narcotics Anonymous; Anger Management 2X2; Self Awareness and Recovery; Concerned About Recovery Education (CARE); Veterans Support; Lifers Support; Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous; also a participant and facilitator for all three phases of Victims Awareness Offender Program (VAOP).

I have been working on becoming aware of the causes of my actions. I could never apologize enough for murdering Mr. Henneberry. The remorse I feel for my actions has put me on this current path. Each day I live the amends that I owe. To me remorse is only a word if you don't act to remedy this feeling.

Along with the above self-help groups I have also been enrolled with Coastline College working towards a Business Degree. This will further my chances of successfully accomplishing my future and current goals.

I have been able to work for Prison Industry Authority from December, 2009, until July, 2017. I was able to be a Shipping and Receiving Clerk in charge of final safety and quality checks of the Wildland Fire Fighting gear for CALFIRE. I have received training with Hospital Facilities Maintenance (HFM). I am now barred from completing this training due to my LWOP sentence. I have been working extensively on battling and correcting the defects and shortcomings in my life. Commutation is a serious matter, I would not be requesting this if I didn't feel confident that I have shown a pattern of positive change.

At this time I am running into obstacles with attending state sponsored rehabilitation and vocational training. Due to my LWOP sentence, I am no longer considered a "priority placement" for vocational training, and self help groups which I could benefit from. A "Stellar" inmate, I was not. With the training I have been through I am hoping to have the chance to speak to our youth and offer them an alternative to the paths which will lead down the trail to prison. I need to give back to the Henneberry family and community that I took so much from.

(4.) Why I should be granted commutation.

As a twenty-year-old young man going through a divorce, the loss of a soon-to-be child, and discharge from the Navy was too much for me to take at that time. My destructive behaviors escalated. I felt lost, emasculated, abandoned, and anger towards everybody and everything. At that time in my life I did not understand these feelings. I thought other people should feel my pain. I wanted the easiest way to hurt people, and that was stealing. I was caught by Mr. Henneberry when I wrote checks in his name. He was going to press charges for the crime I was committing against him. Being greedy, selfish and a coward I murdered Vincent Henneberry. I confessed to murdering Mr. Henneberry but I was not being accountable or responsible. I didn't even realize the full gravity of what I had done.

It took ten long years of self-destruction to finally see the truth of my actions. I now understand that being accountable is not just admitting to what I have done, but it is showing through my words and actions that I have changed.

With the rehabilitation groups I have been in through the years it has opened new thought patterns. I now look at my beliefs, habits, behaviors, and thoughts to figure out why things are going on. I have built a network of people who can help me when I need it and to hold me accountable for what I say and do. Most importantly I have learned to pause before I act. My life has totally changed in the last 24 years. Where I was irresponsible, judgemental, selfish, and greedy, I am now responsible, caring, compassionate and giving of myself to others.

My job history was non-existent. All but one was less than six months, that was my irresponsibility. Jobs in prison came with my custody level. I was a building porter from 2003 to 2008, then again for six months in 2009. I was also a wheelchair assistant from 2008 to 2009. From 2009 until 2017, I was a part of Prison Industry Authority in the fabric products, where I was promoted to shipping and receiving clerk. I was the final quality check of the CALFIRE gear. The safety of the men and women on the fire lines was my top priority. This was an important way for me to give back. The only vocation training I was allowed to participate in was Hospital Facilities Maintenance, where I was able to learn with on-the-job training. Having the responsibility of sterilizing medical treatment rooms, and cleaning of bio-hazard spills, to help ensure the health and safety of staff and offenders was an honor. My current job is a member of the Paws 4 Life program run through Karma Rescue. We receive dogs from the local shelters and from Los Angeles for training in obedience, and soon for PTSD service. This job has taught me the value of caring for another life. Most of the dogs that have come through this program have been adopted by correctional staff here. These dogs have shown me that my decision to be of service to others is correct.

Over the past 12 years I have taken advantage of the rehabilitation programs that I am able to attend. When I am not allowed in a program due to my sentence, I will and do ask about the material being utilized so I can order it and have the opportunity to at least learn. My goal is to attend the Offender Mentor Counseling program so I can help other men in the prison system and God willing to the youth, women and men in our community.

I have been growing and continue growing in understanding the impact I have had on the Henneberry family, my family, and the community which I am deeply sorry for. I can never ask for forgiveness, that's not my right. But by living with Mr. Henneberrys' memory every waking moment I have vowed to never create another victim. I try to pass this belief and vow on to others around me.

Why should I be granted commutation? So that I can show that the rehabilitation has worked. That I may have the chance to further my education, I am currently on my way to a Business Degree. Also to have the chances to continue to pass the message that has worked in my life on to others here in prison and hopefully to the people in our community. I am including one (1) letter in support of commutation from a staff member. Also a request form from the Correctional Counselor III in charge of the rehabilitation groups I am not currently allowed in. My current Parole Plans and Post Commutation plans are included.

Thank you for the time you have taken to review my request for commutation.

Charles Jones

On May 13, 1992, Charles Jones entered a market and shot and killed the clerk Abdo Ahmed during the course of a robbery. Mr. Jones took cash and cigarettes and fled. On August 11, 1993, the Fresno County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Jones to life without the possibility of parole.

Mr. Jones is now 68 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 27 years. Rather than succumbing to gangs, drugs, or violence in over two decades in prison, Mr. Jones has been committed to changing his life. He has received only one rule violation, over twenty years ago. Mr. Jones resided on an honor yard for several years and consistently earned positive work ratings. A California Prison Industry Authority supervisor wrote that Mr. Jones always stayed busy and assisted where needed. Other supervisors noted that Mr. Jones was an "exceptional worker," "conscientious," "cooperative," and "very dedicated." Mr. Jones participated in self-help programs, including Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous and Anger Management. An Alcoholics Anonymous sponsor praised Mr. Jones in 2008 for his participation in the group, noting he "displays a positive attitude towards other group members, staff and outside guest sponsors during meetings." The sponsor wrote, "Inmate Jones shows a commitment towards his recovery from alcohol addiction."

Mr. Jones, who reported that he is a Vietnam veteran, has also dedicated his time and effort to several veterans groups. In 2016, a sponsor for Veterans Embracing Truth commended Mr. Jones on his work with the group and praised the initiative Mr. Jones had shown assisting other veterans with self-help activities. In the event of his release, Mr. Jones has the support of his family, who continue to visit him in prison and have written in support of his release.

Over more than two and a half decades of incarceration, Mr. Jones has demonstrated his commitment to his rehabilitation. I believe that he has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Charles Jones to a total of 26 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Dear Governor

My name is Lillie Johnson, sister of Charles Jones H89284, in the system.
I'm only writing to say thank you for such a speedy answer to my email. Thank you for allowing my brother a chance to be heard again in perhaps now in a better light.
My, our families desire is for Charles to have the representation we believe he did not receive in 1993. As I've begun this journey to help him, help himself, I found that his public defender, at that is still having some type of dealings in Court in December regarding DNA. I'm not knowledgeable in the Court system, however I ask that you look into his situation. Because all I, or my family is desiring is some type of real and true justice. That his representative would be on his corner 100% without wavering. We are to be able to trust the person that's fighting on our behalf so at least give it their all and all guiltlessness until proven otherwise.

(9)

we felt that this was not the case. Although my belief is that God allows certain things to happen for a purpose. I believe in my heart that this season He has blessed my brother because a work has been done. Forgive me for bringing my faith into this if you're offended forgive me.

Thank you so much for your

Philippe Kelly

In July 1999, Philippe Kelly and other gang members were harassing Demetria Smith as she walked down the road towards her home. Ms. Smith informed her boyfriend, Joseph Cox. After Mr. Cox confronted the group, Mr. Kelly shot and killed him. On January 25, 2001, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Kelly to 15 years to life for second degree murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement—a total of 40 years to life. Mr. Kelly has a youth offender parole eligible date of July 2023.

In his application for clemency Mr. Kelly wrote, "I wanted to prove myself as being 'down'" and "Mr. Cox was an opportunity to show my worth and value to the gang." In an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Kelly explained that at the time of this crime, he had a warped belief system. Mr. Kelly has also explained, "I know I cannot undo the past, the damage I have caused but I have made a lifetime commitment to being a positive person and a role model for others, especially our youth."

Mr. Kelly was very young when he committed this crime—he was 15 years old—he is now 35 and has been incarcerated for nearly 20 years. During this time, he has not been disciplined for violence or gang involvement. Mr. Kelly earned his GED and has taken several college courses. He has also completed vocational trades, including Auto Body Repair and Masonry. Mr. Kelly has also obtained certificates for completing a vocational computer literacy course, and a 16-week addiction recovery counseling program. He has participated in numerous self-help programs, including Insight, Anger Management, Victim Offender Education, Alternatives to Violence, and Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous. Mr. Kelly participated in a youth offender writing and arts program, volunteered in the prison as a peacekeeper, and wrote letters to at-risk youth.

Mr. Kelly has received commendations for his work mentoring youthful inmates in the prison. A volunteer stated, "Mr. Kelly has been an instrumental member of [youth offender] programs who regularly contributes and also inspires other inmates and volunteers to do the same." A teacher wrote, "Mr. Kelly is an exemplary student and tutor. I believe he would be a great asset to the community and especially youth that struggle." A program sponsor wrote, "I feel Mr. Kelly will be a strong role model for our troubled youths, and a solid backbone for his family and community." A San Francisco State University professor supported his application for a commutation stating, "I have seen Philippe Kelly work to improve himself and support others in their work. I believe that he has developed patterns of thought and behavior to effectively transition from life inside San Quentin to life outside." In support of Mr. Kelly's application, a volunteer wrote, "I believe that Mr. Kelly holds himself fully accountable for the crimes he committed years ago at a young age. I believe he is no longer a threat to the community and has earned the privilege of walking into the free community to begin his life."

Mr. Kelly committed a very serious crime. He has since dedicated himself to self-improvement and community service. For these reasons, I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Philippe Kelly to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Application for Commutation of Sentence:

2. On July 14, 1999, at around 6:00 pm, I shot Mr. Cox in cold blood three times and murdered him. I did this for the benefit of my gang and myself, and I also wanted everyone in the neighborhood to know that I was heartless and a murderer, which were two qualities admired by gang members. I wanted to prove myself as being "down" and Mr. Cox was an opportunity to show my worth and value to the gang.

3. I am requesting a commutation of my sentence for good behavior. I have not committed an act of violence in 11 years. I have left violence behind but I have committed several disciplinary infractions like out of bounds, climbing trees, disobeying direct orders, and manipulating staff. The reasons I struggled to remain disciplinary free is because I came into prior very young at the age of 18 with low self-esteem and self-worth. I was depressed, angry, hurt, and immature. I had no idea who I was and no clue as to what I wanted out of life in a positive way. I started to want different things for my life. I wanted to make better decisions so when the opportunity arose, I attended a victims' awareness workshop in CMC (California Men's Colony) on West Yard, level 2, in the chapel. I started to understand how much of a negative impact I had on people for the horrible decision I made to murder Mr. Cox while emotionally, spiritually, and mentally damaging his family and everyone connected to them, as well as the people in the community that knew him, and for those who never met him but were afraid, because of the violence I committed.

I have joined a group here called KIDCAT which stands for Creating Awareness Together, which put together drives like collecting hygiene for homeless kids in conjunction with the Huckleberry House in San Francisco. I participate in this drive since my arrival, both donating funds, and picking up items from fellow inmates. KIDCAT also do support walks with Project Avery that raise money for kids with incarcerated parents. We hold symposiums with local community members like D.A.s, council women and me, lawyers, teachers, etc. to talk about victims' impact, criminal justice, and give personal insight into that and how to reduce crime and stop cycles of violence.

I donate money to end breast cancer and participate in the annual breast cancer walk here at San Quentin. I am a mentor in the Youth Offender Program (YOP) as well as a support system for the YOP's in terms of getting them in self-help groups, programs, and education, via GED College. Constantly talking to them about their lives and how they have choices, their lives matter, and they can become a better person through sound decision making, and most importantly understanding impact and how their selfish actions affect so many people. I am also a part of the SQUIRES Program, which is a youth diversion program that brings in at-risk youth from the outside, and qualified inmates talk to them and share their life experiences with them, with the hope that they learn from these mistakes, and make better decisions with their lives, and stop making victims in the process.

I co-facilitate a group called The California Re-Entry Program, which helps inmates that are 3 years or less to the house or the board, by getting them job opportunities, transitional housing, a start-up kit which includes a cell phone, clothes, cosmetics, etc., or preparing for the board by helping with putting together relapse prevention plans, job resumes, obtaining a California Driver's License, parole plans, etc. and basically helping all inmates to make a smooth transition back into the streets.

I also co-facilitate another group called "The Beat Within," which is a literary magazine that allows for inmates to mentor the youth through art and writings, drawings from our personal experiences in where we went wrong in our life, to show them a better way of decision making, so that they do not make new victims. Through these writings, we help the youth identify their problems, come up with positive ways to deal with those problems, and recognize that they have internal issues that they did not know existed that have not been death with, which is part of the reason for anger issues, how self-esteem, false pride, insecurities, abandonment, etc.

I am also working on another project with the help of teachers, volunteers, and state workers, which will identify each youth that arrives at San Quentin, bring them all together, and have conversations about their struggles, challenges, what is wrong in their life, and how we have help each other overcome it, get on the right track, do this time the right way, while fully taking advantage of all the good things that San Quentin has to offer, showing them how to stay away from all the pitfalls and negative destructive activities in the prison. This will help them build confidence in themselves, rely on the tolls they've learned to deal with situations and problems as they arise, earn their way through life as opposed to taking shortcuts, and most importantly, understanding impact and prevent from making new victims.

I was a part of making a video for the Huckleberry House in San Francisco, CA, which is a homeless shelter for the youth, for guidance counselors, in sharing my experiences in my life regarding what went wrong that I decided to commit my life crime, and what I needed at that time that could have helped me stay on the right path.

I participate in a class called the micssessions, which is an artistic expression class that gives the youth a platform to express themselves in a way that can reach other young people and speak to them through poetry, singing, rapping, or just speaking what is on their heart, in a way that helps them to deal with their issues or problems. Writing about this brings it to life and it also sets up for others who have been down that road to show or teach them a better way of dealing than violence.

I have been actively involved in inside community service work since 2013. I am a mentor to my peers and the youth, full supporter of the youth in helping them to recognize that they have the opportunity to change their life for the better. I participate, give back, and do all these things because I have helped to pillage, destroy, and maintain a fever of fear in my community, and in the lives of everyone that was in some way negatively affected by my bad decision-making skills. No human being should have to live in fear, deal with trauma, grief, sadness, anger that was brought on by criminal thinking and heartless criminal acts. By me now knowing better and having a broad understanding of impact and trauma, I feel as though I have a responsibility not only to the survivors of Mr. Cox, my family, the community, and abroad to help bring back the people who are still sick like I once was, and to prevent long term damage and trauma that I did to so many innocent people. I never want any family to experience what Mr. Cox's family experienced, like hurt, frustration, sadness, fear, grief, vengeance, so I try my hardest to show the sick what I know in hopes that they wake up and pass it on to the people who really need it.

4. It is safe to grant me a commutation because I have matured and through self-help groups and programs, I have been able to identify and manage my triggers to prevent me from committing crimes and hurting people. I am done committing crimes because I am not the same selfish, angry, violent youth that I once was.

The victims' awareness class I mentioned before kick-started my transformation. Sister Mary and Angie taught me the importance of understanding impact in how one decision can affect so many people in a negative way that could change who they were for the worst, and could potentially start making victims of their own because they feel hurt. I also learned that loving myself is essential to loving others. Another thing that was taught to me was the value of giving back, and making amends for the harm I have caused on so many levels whether it was physical, spiritual, or mental abuse. Arriving at San Quentin in 2016, I was able to get involved with various self-help groups and programs which gives inmates the chance to perform community service work.

Being here at San Quentin and getting involved in various programs, I started to identify the defects of my character and the destructive way I was thinking and where it came from which dictated the way I interact with people and reacted in every situation. For instance, when a male challenged me, I would either react physically or verbally abusive. Before the transformation, I never knew what was going on with me and how I lost my true self. After willingly opening up and being receptive to a few good guys and actively seeking out programs, self-help groups, fully participating while gathering all kinds of good information and guidance, which showed me that I had low self-esteem issues, suffering from mental, physical, and emotional abuse as a kid inside my home, as well as in my neighborhood, which taught me that "a man never breaks down or cries." I was able to address this issue through AVP (Alternative to Violence Project) by talking to other people about how I feel, what I am feeling, and different coping techniques to aid in my distress, such as working out, playing games, and listening to music that helps me to relax and think about and understand my complex and why I feel the need to be strong and physically exert myself. I have worked diligently, still working to continue to be a productive citizen inside, and hopefully upon release, a responsible citizen of our society.

I got involved in N/A A/A in 2013 to address my drug addiction. I was addicted to gambling, criminal thinking, and verbally abusing other people. I do not know how bad or extensive it was at the time, but I knew I needed help. For the last 4+ years, I have participated in graduated from numerous self-help groups and programs while emerging as a facilitator in CGA, Alliance for Change, The Beat Within, and SQUIRES.

Being in different programs like Quest, ARC drug counseling, AVP, Victim Awareness, they helped me to recognize how selfish and destructive my mind was, and that the style of thinking came about from external influences and traumatic experiences as a child. I grew up with the understanding that violence was the key to solve my problems and get an acceptance. I had low self-esteem, I resented my parents for not showing me the tension or validation I was seeking, and I resented it to my mother for her physical abuse on me. I eventually gravitated towards games and thought I found myself in the power I was seeking. I took advantage of every opportunity to cause harm to people and damage my community to get attention and praise for my gang. I eventually murdered Mr. Cox and took him from his daughter and family. I am sorry for hurting them and for murdering Mr. Cox.

I damaged my community while corrupting my peers, the young people my age at the time, and the ones that looked up to me. I taught them that it was okay to hurt and murder people, sell drugs, and rob and destroy the community. One of the ways I make indirect amends to Mr. Cox and his family is by teaching the young people that loving each other is pivotal in stopping the violence on many different levels like mental, emotional, and physical, so they do not make people hurt and suffer, like what I did to the Cox family. I work on myself daily to improve and become a decent caring human being so that I can be an example to all of those that are still stuck and suffering, that change is possible, showing people to not be afraid and look inside themselves and figure out why they think the way they do, are more prone to react and respond, and where did these beliefs systems come from. I donate funds, as I spoke of before, mentor to the young, and help my peers in ways to deal with trauma and hurt the way I have dealt with, to wake me up and make better decisions.

I know I cannot undo the past, the damage I have caused but I have made a lifetime commitment to being a positive person and role model for others, especially our youth, and show them that they do not have to succumb to their situation, make better conscious decisions with their lives, and deal with their problems and a nonviolent way.

I have learned patience, empathy, and came into an understanding of how my decisions affect so many people and how that painful experience can foster and translate into new victims, because hurt people hurt people. I am violent every second of every day of everything that I will not commit another crime because of my support system which consists of my family, closest friends, and my N/A sponsor. I have family and friends that are willing to be my accountability partners and I am constantly alert and conscious of what causes criminal behavior. I joined a gang because I felt powerless and invisible in my home. Today, I find my power in having a support system with an N/A sponsor and accountability partners that will help me monitor my emotions, and how to respond to adversity, because I practice regularly revealing myself and artistic or circles I have joined like Shakespeare, and the mic sessions. It is safe to grant me a commutation because I know my triggers and I have developed effective coping strategies to aid me when I am triggered. For instance, one of my triggers is feeling like someone is trying to control me. When I feel this is happening to me, my face becomes flustered, my chest gets tight, my heart rate increases, and I start to make all kinds of assumptions and judgments about the situation and the person whom I am getting triggered by, and start to rationalize my actions which gives me the strength to react to what is happening. Once I realize I am in the zone, I step back and assess the situation for what it is, look around for someone I can talk to you, and trust and get with them. If no one is in the immediate area, I apologize and walk away and find a friend and talk it out. I have found out by apologizing to someone even if I am not in the wrong, temporarily disarm is the other person from escalating the situation because this makes them feel superior in a way but I do not match that energy so it throws them off slightly, which gives me enough time to walk away. A couple of other coping strategies I have one feeling triggered is working out, which I am able to take out my frustrations on the bars or concrete, doing push-ups, sit ups, Burpee's, pull-ups, curls; it burns off the tension and redirects it to my work out because now I have to focus on how much I am doing, what I am doing so that I do not hurt myself or burn out too quickly. I take my mind off the situation and still go and talk to a trusted friend doing good things; a second opinion is always helpful. Another one I use is art, writing music, books, and practicing Shakespeare. Another trigger of mine is when I feel like someone is trying to manipulate me and belittle my comprehension skills. My palms get sweaty, my head gets hot, a wicked smile appears on my face, my job gets tight, in my thoughts become to manipulate you into hurting yourself or someone else. When I realize my mind gets to thinking this way, I step back, assess the person and their intelligence level. I also take a look at myself and figure out what gave this person impression that I could be manipulated. After that, I agree and start to think about a song I wrote about situations like this and then realize that people are sick and need healing and I should not add to the damage other things that have been able to assist me and trying times in like taking deep breaths, think about what I am feeling, why am feeling it, is reacting to this crap worth it for real, talking to a trusted friend or sponsors, accountability partner, positive self-talk, and just being compassionate and conscious of how many people can possibly get hurt by my selfish actions in dealing with false pride and anger issues, which teams from being abused as a kid, not having control of my life, low self-esteem, being in a gang which created that false pride, and getting angry, suppressing my authentic self.

It is safe to grant me a commutation because I am sorry for murdering Mr. Cox and hurting his family. I put fear in them that they may never recover from and possibly alter just thinking on many levels. I was selfish, a follower, and Mr. Cox did not deserve to die and I am truly sorry for murdering him. His daughter lost her father and his family lost a love one. I am also sorry for trying to kill Mrs. Smith and traumatizing her; she may never feel safe again. I had no right to try and further inflict pain on her after she saw her companion get shot to death in front of her. I have made it my life's mission to make my community safe and with the help of others upright citizens to make their community safe.

It is safe to grant me a commutation because I have prepared myself through taking vocational trades and writing letters to job companies for hire to succeed as a law-abiding citizen in our society. I am a certified brick mason, carpenter, and auto body repair man. My brother, sister, and cousin have offered to let me stay with them until I am ready to live on my own. In addition, I am in contact transitional homes that can help me. I also have a job opportunity from an organization called PROJECT WHAT! upon release to work with the youth and mentor them in Oakland, California.

It is safe to grant me a commutation because I have dedicated myself to restoring my community. I plan to continue to give back by working with my peers and the young people. I want to connect them with programs, self-help groups, afterschool activities, and taking trades. Being in the self-help groups and programs will help them deal with their traumas and challenges. I want to help them find healthy ways to possess their issues and get positive outcomes. I also want to teach them how to mentor each other because through my experience when dealing with the young people, they have more incline to listen to other youth.

My mission and passion in life is to help the young people heal from the inside out and stop making victims. My mission does not repair the harm I have inflicted on Mr. Cox, his family, friends, Demetria Smith and her family, nor does it entitle me to a second chance, but I would be so thankful and grateful for one..

Adnan Khan

In 2003, 18-year-old Adnan Khan and Rick Page decided to steal some marijuana from Kevin McNutt. During the robbery, Mr. Page started fighting with Mr. McNutt and stabbed him multiple times, killing him. On December 15, 2006, the Contra Costa County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Khan to 25 years to life for murder.

Mr. Khan is now 34 years old and has been incarcerated for over 15 years. In his application for clemency, he demonstrated sincere remorse for his role in this crime, writing, "I understand my actions took Mr. Kevin McNutt away from his family and friends for the remainder of their lives. I understand that my actions on Monday, March 24, 2003 created lifelong grief to the McNutt family and nothing I can do will change the results of my callous act." He continued, "If given the opportunity to reenter society, I will live a life of service with the purpose of preventing and deterring crime and increasing public safety for our communities."

While in prison, Mr. Khan has shown a remarkable commitment to self-improvement. He has only been disciplined twice for misconduct, and has never been involved with gang activity, drugs, or alcohol. He participated in numerous self-help programs including Anger Management, Victim Awareness, Guiding Rage into Power, and Alternatives to Violence. Mr. Khan is active in the San Quentin media program, through which he has received exceptional work ratings and participated in forums on public safety. He also earned accolades from staff members who regularly interact with him and have witnessed his commitment to rehabilitation. One correctional officer commended Mr. Khan for his dedication to mentoring young people, and wrote, "I strongly support Mr. Khan's commutation. I truly believe Mr. Khan serves us far better in our communities, not in our prisons." Another correctional officer also praised Mr. Khan, writing, "I am aware of the crime Mr. Khan committed and I believe that it does not serve the State, nor society, a purpose to keep him in prison an extra decade. I am writing in strong support of Mr. Khan's commutation and hope you will consider giving him a second chance that I know he has worked incredibly hard for."

Mr. Khan's commutation is also supported by Senator Steve Glazer, who wrote, "I believe Mr. Khan has been sufficiently punished for his crime and should be released." Senator Glazer continued, "His actions since being incarcerated make it evident that Mr. Khan is not the same person he was when he committed his crime at the age of 18... I believe it is reasonable to conclude that Mr. Khan is no longer a threat to society." Diana Becton, the Contra Costa County District Attorney, also expressed support for Mr. Khan, writing, "Our office recognizes the severity of the crime he committed and the trauma that he inflicted upon the family of the victim. However, given the specific facts and circumstances of this case, we believe that justice would be served by granting clemency." Mr. Khan's family and several community organizations also support his commutation of sentence. They have offered him housing and financial support to help him transition into society if released.

For all of these reasons, I believe Mr. Khan has earned an earlier opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Adnan Khan to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.

INTRODUCTION

Adnan Anjum Khan (hereafter Adnan or applicant), CDCR Prisoner No. F55145, date of birth [REDACTED] 1984, is currently housed at San Quentin State Prison, serving an indefinite term of incarceration of 25 years to life for felony murder. He hereby applies, by and through counsel, for a commutation of his sentence such that he would be immediately eligible for parole. He will include herein all the information required by the Application for Commutation of Sentence form issued by the Governor's Office.¹

Adnan has not previously applied for any form of executive clemency. His minimum eligible parole date is currently August 21, 2027. Absent the Governor's intervention, he will be warehoused for another decade for no rational or penologically justifiable reason. We are well aware that this Office reviews a voluminous number of commutation applications and that, as sporadic press reports make clear, only a handful succeed. Adnan, however, presents an extraordinarily powerful case for commutation that should well qualify his application for inclusion in that latter select group, as certain highlighted facts alone should demonstrate:

- Adnan's intention in perpetrating the commitment offense was to grab a bag of marijuana from a marijuana dealer and run. He was not the killer of the dealer; he was not armed; he had no intent to kill; he evinced no reckless indifference to human life; he had no reason to believe that an accomplice was armed, in direct contravention of the plan to steal; and he had no reason to believe that this accomplice even had the capacity to commit a potentially fatal act because he was completely unaware of the accomplice's inadequately medicated psychosis. In other words, his indeterminate life sentence is out of all proportion to his individual culpability.

- The probation officer asserted in her report to the sentencing court that, were it legally permissible, a probationary sentence would be the appropriate punishment for him.
- Adnan was the paradigmatic youthful offender – he was 18 years old at the time of his offense, and homeless. It was the older boy who had taken him in and permitted Adnan to live with him rent free that instigated the robbery predicated the felony-murder conviction. As Adnan told the detective who interviewed him the day after the homicide, he agreed to steal the marijuana because he did not want the older boy to think him a “punk.”
- As the supporting letters submitted herewith attest, Adnan has garnered extraordinary support for his commutation application from prison staff, that is, from those individuals who know best the young man he has become.
- Regarding sentencing disparity: the individual who perpetrated the murder predicated Adnan’s felony-murder conviction was permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder; the two young men who planned the predicate felony robbery and recruited Adnan and the killer to execute it were given immunity and never punished at all.
- Adnan is beloved by a large circle of family, friends, and others who have come into contact with him as a contributing member of the San Quentin community. They paint a portrait of exactly the sort of young man worthy of gubernatorial grace. Moreover, many of these upstanding citizens are willing – indeed, eager – to be part of the strong support network, dedicated to assisting Adnan successfully re-adjust to life outside prison walls, which is waiting for him.
- A forensic psychologist reported to the sentencing court that, based on his clinical interview of Adnan, the administration of a battery of psychological tests, and interviews of close family members, his conclusion in “one of the most tragic cases [he had] worked on in almost 30 years as a forensic psychologist,” was that “there is not a scintilla of clinical evidence in the results of [his] assessment that suggests any propensity for violence or aggressive behavior in Mr. Khan’s personality.”

As the evaluators of this application will see upon reviewing Adnan’s prison conduct and the exhibits submitted in support of this application, that latter conclusion is truer today than ever. “A people confident in its laws and institutions should not be ashamed of mercy.” (Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, Associate Justice, U.S. Supreme Court, Address at the American Bar Association Annual Meeting (Aug. 9, 2004), reprinted in 16 Fed. Sent’g Rep. (2004) 126, 128.) Far from being nothing to be ashamed of, granting the mercy sought by this application – which seeks only the opportunity for Adnan to prove to the satisfaction of the Board of Parole Hearings that he is suitable for parole – would be something to make the people of this State proud.

BACKGROUND LEGAL PRINCIPLES

Although the Governor’s Legal Affairs staff is surely well aware of the relevant legal principles, the following may provide a helpful summary:

The Governor may ameliorate any sentence through use of his commutation power. (People v. Farnum (2002) 28 Cal.4th 107, 190.) Commutation is one aspect of the Governor’s broader clemency powers; it is defined as “a permanent reduction in degree or amount of punishment” (Black’s Law Dict. (rev. 4th ed. 1968) p. 351). That power is granted him by section 8 of article 5 of the California Constitution (see Pen. Code, § 4800 [so stating]), and it is “absolute” (Ex Parte Kelly (1908) 155 Cal. 39, 41).

A applicant for clemency has no “right” thereto; indeed, he has nothing more than a “unilateral hope” that his sentence will be commuted. (Connecticut Board of Pardons v. Dumschat (1981) 452 U.S. 458, 465.) Executive clemency is an ad hoc “act of grace,” which may be granted for any reason without reference to any standards. (Solem v. Helm (1983) 463 U.S. 277, 300–301, overruled on other grounds in Harmelin v. Michigan (1991) 501 U.S. 957, 965.) Indeed, gubernatorial discretion in these matters is “virtually unlimited,” and, moreover, it may be exercised on any reasonable “conditions the Governor deems proper.” (In re Ramirez (2001) 94 Cal.App.4th 549, 560, citing Cal. Const., art. V, § 8(a).) The authority to impose reasonable conditions has been upheld on the grounds that:

[S]uch action by the Governor is in perfect harmony with the policy of the parole system in force in this state, and is a useful and beneficial application of that policy to the class of cases in which the Governor would be willing to exercise clemency if he could exact some security for the future good behavior of the prisoner.

(Ex Parte Kelly, supra, 155 Cal. at p. 41 [upholding Governor’s commuting 15-year sentence upon condition that inmate not be convicted of another felony].)

Thus, for example, the Governor may commute a sentence on the condition that it revive and become operative once again upon an inmate’s subsequent conviction of a felony (Ex parte Wilson (1916) 29 Cal.App. 702, 703), or on the condition that he abstain from the use of “intoxicating liquors” (ibid.). If an inmate accepts a commutation that includes conditions, “he must take it subject to the specified conditions,” or else it is invalid. (Green v. Gordon (1952) 39 Cal.2d 230, 232.)

“[E]xecutive clemency exists to provide relief from harshness or mistake in the judicial system, and is therefore vested in an authority other than the courts.” (Ohio Adult Parole Authority v. Woodard (1998) 523 U.S. 272, 284-285.) Claims of personal growth or transformation are appropriately made in a clemency application. (People v. Ansell (2001) 25 Cal.4th 868, 891.) As will be seen, post, there is a great deal of harshness meted out to Adnan by the judicial system, just as he has undergone a great deal of personal growth and transformation in the long years of his incarceration. Again, he is a worthy candidate for commutation, which he seeks with conditions that should assuage any concerns (of which there should be none, in any event) regarding his future good behavior.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. Adnan's Early Life

Adnan was born in San Mateo, California, in 1984, the middle son of three children. He is, and always has been, close to his two sisters, both of whom have submitted support letters on his behalf (Ex. *). His family members are professionals, and all dearly loved him. (See, e.g., Ex. 1, Probation Officer's Report and Recommendation, at 39.) His mother was a well-educated biochemist; his father, "an irresponsible alcoholic" (in the words of one of his daughters [Ex. 2 at 6]) and compulsive gambler. As his mother informed the sentencing court, her husband had "abandoned the children," which left a "void in Adnan's life" as he was "looking for paternal love which he did not have in his life." (Ex. 1 at 27.) Adnan's mother divorced her husband when Adnan was 10 years old, taking the children with her. For the next three years, Adnan had only sporadic contact with his father, who was more often than not remiss in making child payments.

When Adnan was 13, he was sent to live with his father in San Francisco, but that did not turn out well. Habitually drunk, often absent, his father continued to provide none of the essential parenting or guiding hand an adolescent boy sorely needs. Within a year, Adnan returned to his mother, who was then living in the house of relatives. He spent the tenth and eleventh grades at an Antioch high school, he worked part-time jobs after school, but he was starting to become overwhelmed by the family situation. His mother remarried and moved to Seattle with her new husband, leaving the three children with her relatives. Adnan began smoking marijuana daily, abusing alcohol, and hanging around with boys his family surely would have preferred he avoided, the result, "no doubt [of] feeling abandoned by both parents" (in the words of Dr. Burstein, the forensic psychologist who evaluated him in anticipation of sentencing).

Strict adherents to Pakistani traditions, the relatives with whom Adnan was left imposed a severe set of old-world rules upon him that he could not abide. He dropped out of high school in the twelfth grade. As his mother explained, one of his uncles asked him to move out of the house and not return "unless he was willing to accept their authority.” (Ex. 1 at 28; see also id. at 39-40 [uncle’s sentencing letter].) Adnan stayed on the street and slept in parks and with a series of friends until, on a fateful day, he met David Cedeno, the older boy who took him in. As will be seen, post, Cedeno was not a good influence.

The sentencing letters of his family describe the young Adnan they intimately knew.² His mother wrote:

My son is not capable of hurting a fly, let alone being involved in somebody’s murder. This is a boy who was the first person to help people get out of their homes when there was a fire in the neighborhood. He is a boy who willingly went out with his uncles to distribute food to the needy. This is a boy who helped his school mates to safety when their school was flooded.

(Ex. 1 at 28.)

One uncle:

I know Adnan Khan from his childhood and attest to the fact that he is a very noble, polite, loving and respectful young boy who due to his pleasant, peace-loving nature is loved by all members of our family.

(Id. at 30.)

His stepfather:

Adnan, a young man of great promise, an honor student in his middle school, my wife’s only son, a handsome young man, who loved sports, was raised by this great family. Consequently, throughout his growing period, he demonstrated his teachings of love by caring for others and by being there for those who needed his help, even at the peril of his own life. From helping his uncle in distributing food to the needy to jumping into the burning house in the neighborhood and pulling out young children to safety to helping the school mates to security when the school was flooded are some of the hallmarks of his character, valor and compassion.

² These letters, appended to the probation officer’s sentencing report (Ex. 1 at 27-40), really should be read in their entirety for a full flavor of the familial background from whence Adnan comes. With an understanding of that background, it will come as no surprise that, with his troubled teen years behind him, he developed into the accomplished, caring young man that he did (discussed, post).

(Id. at 32-33.)

One sister:

Adnan is and has always been a respectful, loving, and wholehearted young man who would never wish harm upon any person.

(Id. at 37.)

His grandfather:

He is a handsome young lad, very respectful, well mannered and very polite for which he is loved by all members of our family. He possesses extremely pleasant temperament and habits. He is dutiful, obedient and respectful to the elders; and affectionate and loving to the young ones. He is God fearing and religious minded. He goes out of the way to help the poor and needy. In short, he is good natured and law abiding person.

(Ex. * at 38.)

The uncle who threw him out of the house:

Adnan is a bright, intelligent and suave young man with full vitalities of life. He has a great sense of humor and a gregarious personality which puts him on people's favorite list in no time as evident in his countless number of friends and his good conduct in the jail. Everybody in the jail speaks well of him

(Id. at 39.)

In short, Adnan was no hardened criminal when he was 18. Far from it. He was, instead, a beloved, "lost soul,"³ with no criminal disposition whatsoever, trying to find his way. As will be shown, post, his luck could not have been worse.

B. Conviction Summary

The probation report indicates that Adnan "has no prior criminal history." (Ex. 1 at 21; see also id. at 23 [noting one mitigating fact for purposes of sentencing was that Adnan "has no prior criminal record"].) That report also indicated that he had no known juvenile record (id. at 26), but it appears that he did suffer a sustained finding for fighting when he was 16 years old.

On February 23, 2006, a jury found Adnan guilty of first degree murder (on a theory of felony murder) and second degree robbery. On December 15, 2006, he was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence of 25 years to life on the murder conviction, with sentencing stayed on the robbery count.

C. Commitment Offense

The following is a summary of the commitment offense, gleaned from the probation report (Ex. 1), the discovery provided to trial counsel, and the appellate-court decision in his case (Ex. 3). Applicant believes it is virtually, if not literally, undisputed.

Adnan and Rick Page were recruited by two older accomplices, David Cedeno and Robert Wilson, to rob Kevin McNutt of marijuana. In the course of that effort, on March 24, 2003, Page stabbed McNutt to death. Among other things of which Adnan was unaware at the time of that robbery gone (extremely) bad: (1) Page had a history of hospitalization for a mental illness alternatively diagnosed as schizophrenia or schizoaffective disorder; (2) several months earlier, Page had attacked his foster grandmother (whom he loved) in her sleep thinking she was Osama bin Laden, choking her at a time when he was off his medication; (3) in the weeks before the attempted robbery, Page ran out of his medication and, consequently, was not properly medicated on the night of the attempted robbery; and (4) Page was armed with a concealed knife that night, despite the fact that the “plan” had been for there to be no weapons involved.

The 18-year-old Adnan had met Cedeno several weeks earlier. Having only recently left his family home for the reasons set out in the preceding subsection, Adnan accepted Cedeno’s offer to stay with him, rent-free. He was living at Cedeno’s place for about one week prior to the murder. He met Page through Cedeno approximately two weeks before the murder,⁴ and saw him only a handful of times during that period. In his interactions with Page, Adnan observed no unusual behavior, and no evidence of violence.

Marijuana users Ceden and Wilson bought their merchandise from Robert Owen. Earlier on the day of March 24, they hatched a plan to lure Owen's "cousin" McNutt,⁵ a marijuana dealer, from Folsom to Antioch, using as a ruse that Ceden's "cousin," that is, Adnan, wanted to buy $900 worth of marijuana. That plan did not contemplate violence or the use of any weapons. Wilson specifically assured everyone it would be easy, nobody would even touch McNutt. Apparently, Ceden and Wilson had learned that McNutt had been robbed before, and they concluded it would be a simple matter for someone to just grab his marijuana and run. They needed Adnan and Page to pose as the buyer and the buyer's friend because McNutt knew both Ceden and Wilson and, this way, they believed that could avoid being linked to the theft (there is no allegation that Ceden and Wilson were young Einsteins, though they were apparently smart enough to avoid any punishment for what they did. as will be further discussed, post).

The plan went awry when, instead of McNutt's simply taking out the marijuana while they were outside their vehicles at the designated rendezvous point, and thereby affording Adnan the opportunity to grab it and run per the plan, McNutt insisted on conducting the anticipated transaction inside Page's van. With Adnan and McNutt inside and Page standing outside, Adnan tried to grab the marijuana, McNutt resisted, Adnan hit him on the side of the head, McNutt got out, and, surreally, Page stabbed him eight times in the upper torso, with Adnan screaming at Page all the while from inside the van, "What are you doing? What are you doing? Get in the car. Get in the car."

D. The Killer's Mental-Health History

As noted in the preceding subsection, Adnan barely knew Page on the night of the attempted robbery, having met him for the first time a mere few days earlier. Adnan noted nothing aberrant in their few interactions.

⁵ They considered each other cousins, though, according to the victim's father, they were close because he was Owen's godfather.

The forensic psychologist appointed by the court to evaluate Page's competency to stand trial, Dr. Burstein (the same psychologist who would later evaluate Adnan), learned a great deal more about him. Page had "an extensive psychiatric history," had been diagnosed as suffering from Schizophreniform Disorder and Schizoaffective Disorder, and had a history of "suffering from command hallucinations, homosexual panic, delusions, and sudden mood swings." (Ex. 2 at 5.) Some four months before the homicide, he had assaulted his grandmother, with whom he lived and had a very good relationship, stopping only when he realized who she was. He was hospitalized and prescribed anti-psychotic medication in response to that incident, but he went off his meds prior to the homicide. (Ibid.) In Dr. Burstein's opinion, although it unjustifiably received little judicial respect (see, e.g., Ex. 3, People v. Khan, at 5), Page was psychotic when he killed McNutt (Ex. 2 at 5).⁶

When Page was booked into jail, the following medications were booked in with him: Zyprexa 10mg, Trazodone HCL 50mg, Hydrocodone Bit/ Acetaminophen 5-500mg, 260 Pyridoxine 50mg, Isoniazid 300mg, Benztropine 1mg, and Zoloft 50mg. (Ex. 4, Discovery Excerpts, at *61-62.)

Page wrote to his foster grandmother while incarcerated in the county jail awaiting trial, at a time when he was again (unlike at the time of the homicide) properly medicated. Among other things, he stated:

I don't know what I was thinking to do something like this. You know me and how I am. That's not like me. I'm still very sorry for what I did to you [i.e., choking her in her sleep when he thought she was Bin Laden]. I still can't forgive myself or live it down. But I can't even begin to explain why I was feeling like that and where did it come from. I couldn't even tell what I was doing was wrong till [sic] I snapped out of it. Same thing happened with this case. I wasn't myself. Next thing I knew the guy was being stabbed. Then when I saw the blood I freaked out and stopped. He was alive when I left. I didn't stab him to death. He was stabbed then died.

(Ex. 4 at *443.)

As noted, Adnan knew nothing about any of that at the time that Cedeno and Wilson assigned the task of physically stealing the marijuana to Page and him.

E. Adnan's Post-Arrest Exemplary Conduct

1. Adnan's Statements on the Day of His Arrest

It did not take Adnan very long to accept responsibility for his actions. Arrested the morning following the homicide, he waived his Miranda rights and honestly answered all and sundry questions posed to him over the course of a lengthy interview, despite clearly being under the tremendous stress of having only recently learned that the victim had died and he had been arrested for murder. What leaps out from the pages of the transcript of that interview (Ex. 5) is that, despite the horror and shock, he tried his best to honestly cooperate with the interviewing detective as best he could.⁷ For example, he identified Wilson and Cedeno as planners of the marijuana robbery (Ex. 5 at 40, 55); reported that Cedeno was present at the scene when everything went wrong (id. at 40); identified Wilson as the person who had telephoned McNutt to lure him to

⁷ Contrast that conduct with that of Cedeno, one of the co-planners of the robbery, who, far from being given a life sentence, was not prosecuted, told a police officer at the murder scene, asking who had stabbed the victim, that it had been two black men wearing hoods who drove away in a white van (Ex. 4 at *12), though he knew all too well that it was Page, who drove away in a brown van (id. at *49). When taken to the Antioch police station to be further interviewed, he told his interviewers that he did not know the people in the van (ibid.), before finally identifying them. When he did identify them, however, he attempted to make it appear that no robbery had been planned, that Adnan was merely a buyer whom Cedeno hooked up with McNutt. (Id. at *59.) It was not until some 22 months later that he first told the truth about the incident. (Id. at *472-474.) Not unimportantly, when he did so, he confirmed everything that Adnan had said about it all, even though they had not spoken since the homicide. Wilson, the other planner who escaped all justice, likewise told the police initially that he did not know the people in the van, the only reason he was at the scene was because he had stopped to ask if anyone needed help, he expressly denied advance knowledge of what was supposed to have taken place at the crime scene, and he played no part in setting up any marijuana sale. (Id. at *49, 70, 74, 75.) When he later admitted to his part in setting up the sale, he continued to deny any plan to rob McNutt. (Id. at *254, 476.)

Antioch (id. at 53); identified Cedeno as the person who had directed him to the location at which he was to meet McNutt (id. at 60); tried to recall as best he could the route Page had taken driving away so that the police could attempt to recover a napkin Page had used to wipe off blood and thrown out the van's window (id. at 33-35); and tried to describe as best he could the shirt Page had been wearing to help the police recover it (id. at 31). As Adnan told his interviewer, "Anything you ask, I'll tell you" (to which the interviewing detective responded, "I appreciate your honesty.") (Id. at 69.)

Among other things, Adnan explained that the plan had been for him to grab the marijuana and run, and Page was to pick him up in Page's van. (Ex. 5 at 14) He described how the plan went awry when McNutt wanted to do the deal inside the van, which forced Adnan to get inside with McNutt while Page stood outside the passenger door. (Id. at 18-19.) Adnan had the marijuana baggies in his hand, McNutt grabbed for it, and Adnan instinctively hit him on his head. (Id. at 18.) McNutt then got out of the van – Adnan wasn't certain whether he did so on his own or was pulled out by Page – and then Adnan saw Page fighting with him. (Id. at 20.) Adnan did not ever see Page's knife – he believed that Page was beating up McNutt, but then he saw blood. (Id. at 20-22.) Per their plan, they were not supposed to have had any weapons. (Id. at 21.) When he saw them fighting, he repeatedly yelled at Page at the top of his lungs to get into the van. (Id. at 23-24.)⁸ He saw that Page "went crazy." (Id. at 25.) Adnan already had the marijuana, so he couldn't understand what Page was doing. (Ibid.)

After Page got in and they drove away, Adnan saw the blood on him, asked him what happened, and he said that he stabbed the guy. (Ex. 5 at 25.) As Adnan described his reaction: "I'm, like, what the f*ck?" Adnan observed, "He went crazy. I don't know, something was wrong with his f*cking mind. He was like, I don't know what's going on with him. I have no idea. It's like he snapped or something, all of a sudden." (Id. at 26.) Adnan returned to this point repeatedly: "I don't know, it's just like he snapped or something like he's a different person or some sh*t. I don't know what the f*ck his problem was.” (Id. at 28.) And again a few minutes later: “I’m telling you, he snapped or some shit, man. I don’t know what the f*ck happened to him.” (Id. at 32.)⁹

As they were driving away, they tried calling Wilson, to no avail. (Ex. 5 at 27.) They also tried contacting Cedeno, also without success. (Id. at 50.) They ended up at Page’s house, Adnan spent the night in the van parked outside, and that was where the police found and arrested him the following morning.

It bears noting that the subsequent law-enforcement investigation, which would include DNA, blood, and fingerprint analyses and multiple witness interviews, did not yield a single fact contradicting any of the things Adnan conveyed at this interview. Indeed, examples abound of the investigation’s corroboration of Adnan’s statements. Adnan told his interviewer that, when he struck McNutt one time in the head, he did not hit him hard. (Ex. 5 at 36.) When the forensic pathologist performed the autopsy, he did not note a single bruise, abrasion, injury, etc., in the face or head area. (Ex. 4 at *113, 116, 411-413.) When Wilson finally told the truth about the plan to steal McNutt’s marijuana (nearly two years after repeatedly lying about it), he confirmed Adnan’s recounting of it (), just as Cedeno had earlier done. ()

As highlighted, ante, Adnan told the truth the morning after the homicide and received a life sentence for taking part in a robbery related to it; Cedeno and Wilson lied and lied and lied again, they planned that robbery, and they were not prosecuted for anything.

2. Adnan’s Sentencing Allocution

Adnan, without any obligation to do so, spoke at his sentencing hearing. (Ex. 6.) He used his opportunity to apologize directly to the victim’s family. He acknowledged their agony caused by his mistake. He wanted them to know that he lives with what he did and feels the hurt every day. He took full responsibility for the “living nightmare” he caused and expressed his hope that the McNutt family would somehow find closure and could someday forgive him.

F. The Probation Officer’s Report and Recommendation

The probation officer’s sentencing report (Ex. 1) provides an excellent summary of the facts surrounding the commitment offense. Following that summary, the officer made the following concluding remarks most apposite to the instant application:

Regrettably, were it not for the fact that a young man lost his life, probation would have been recommended for Mr. Khan. He has no prior record of criminal conduct, is willing and capable of adhering to the terms of probation, has the overwhelming support of his family, and does not pose a threat to society. Mr. Khan voices remorse for his actions and appears greatly saddened by the death of a young man, near his own age. Presently, the defendant has a support system in place that includes his mother, stepfather, grandfather, siblings, and uncles.

The defendant, now twenty-two years of age, is before the Court, facing 25 years to life in confinement, not as a result of his own actions, but as a consequence of a law we have in place, to protect our community from violent offenders. Mr. Khan has no prior criminal history and psychological testing concluded that he does not have the propensity for violence or aggressive behavior.

Circumstances in Mitigation (rule 4.423):

A. Facts Related to the Crime:

(1) The defendant was an active contributor in the robbery of Kevin McNutt, but a passive participant in the victim’s death....

(3) The crime of first degree murder was committed by Rick Page (a man with a documented history of mental illness), which is unlikely to recur by Mr. Kahn.

[(4)] The defendant, with no apparent predisposition to do so, was induced by David Cedeno to participate in the crime of robbery, as Cedeno provided him rent-free housing.

b. Facts Related to the Defendant:

- (1) The defendant has no prior criminal record.
- (3) The defendant voluntarily acknowledged wrongdoing at an early stage in the criminal process.
- (4) The defendant is ineligible for probation and but for that ineligibility would have been granted probation.

G. The Presentencing Psychological Evaluation

Dr. Jules Burstein was initially appointed by the superior court to evaluate Page for competency to stand trial. Adnan's trial counsel subsequently asked him to evaluate Adnan in anticipation of sentencing. (Ex. 2 at 1.)

Dr. Burstein reviewed case-related documents, interviewed Adnan, administered a battery of psychological tests to him, and interviewed members of Adnan's family. (Ex. 2 at 2.) Two of the "several themes" evinced by one test's results were Adnan's remorse for his offense and his concerns over his personal shortcomings. (Id. at 7.) The results of the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory, which included no indication of malingering, showed elevated clinical scales "suggestive of a young man who is immature, has poor judgment, and who is easily manipulated by others." (Id. at 7-8.)¹⁰ The results of the Millon Clinical Multiaxial Inventory-III most notably showed that Adnan "scored extremely low on the three scales that most often correlate with a propensity for violent or unlawful behavior, namely the 'Narcissistic,' 'Sadistic,' and 'Anti-social Personality' Disorder scales." (Id. at 8.)

Dr. Burstein well summarized the teenage Adnan who had merely sought to grab some marijuana and run to please his older buddy:

At the time of the murder of Kevin McNutt, Adnan Khan was an immature, 18 year old "lost soul," abandoned by his father; left by his mother to marry a man in Seattle; kicked out of the family home by his uncles and grandparents; numbing his emotional pain and confusion by drinking alcohol and smoking marijuana daily. He has no prior criminal behavior of any significance and he had absolutely no intention nor any reasonable expectation that there would be any violence involved in the attempt to steal Mr. McNutt's marijuana.

(Ex. 2 at 10.)

Likewise, Dr. Burstein well summarized the 22-year-old Adnan he evaluated:

He is one of the few young men I have seen in thirty years of working as a forensic psychologist who seems genuine[ly] traumatized, not by being in jail, nor by the prospect of a very long prison sentence, but rather by the genuine remorse he feels and the overwhelming shock he continues to process about having participated in a crime which resulted in the death of an innocent 19 year old young man.

(Ibid.)

H. Adnan's Incarceration Record

The United States Supreme Court has observed that “[m]aturity can lead to that considered reflection which is the foundation for remorse, renewal, and rehabilitation,” Graham v. Florida (2010) 560 U.S. 48, 79, and Adnan's sojourn through the prison system has demonstrated in a very concrete manner the truth of those words. Mature beyond his years, he is the epitome of a rehabilitated offender.

1. Disciplinary History

Like numerous young men faced with the prospect of decades, if not life, in prison, Adnan got into some trouble early in his incarceration. As reported in the probation officer's sentencing report:

In September 2003, Khan acted as a look out for two other inmates, caught gambling with dice on the module. He was subsequently counseled for his involvement and the fact that he was verbally disrespectful to a module deputy.... In June 2004, Khan was relieved as a module worker, for “sometimes” questioning authority about what needed to be done.

(Ex. 1 at 19.)

“[A]ccording to staff in the classification unit at the main jail, Khan has been an ideal inmate since.” (Ibid.) Indeed, his conduct improved to such a point that the jail staff made him a trustee. (Ex. 2 at 10.)

That ideal inmate lapsed in June 2009, when he was issued a CDCR-115 disciplinary report after two cellphones and two chargers were found in his double cell. Following a hearing, he was found guilty of possession of a cellphone.

In addition, in February 2010, he received a CDCR-115 disciplinary report for engaging in a fistfight on a basketball court. Originally charged as a battery on an inmate without serious injury, it was reduced to a fighting infraction by the hearing officer. There was no serious injury, there was no use of weapons. The involved inmates all agreed that they were not enemies and that they could continue living together on the same yard.

Adnan has been disciplinary-free for the seven and one-half years since.

2. Accomplishments Memorialized in Adnan's Central File

Adnan's C-File contains numerous positive achievements apposite to the instant petition:

- A series of laudatory chronos and certificates indicated that:¹¹
 1. In June 2017, Adnan was commended for being an active member of Kid C.A.T. ("Creating Awareness Together") for the previous two years. The writer indicated that Adnan "strives to inspire humanity through education, mentorship, and restorative practices," and praised him for his active participation in group functions and for "continuing to work to improve his life and making amends."
 2. In January 2017, a lieutenant commended Adnan for participating in a two-hour forum with San Francisco District Attorney George Gascon and two dozen prosecutors from around the country. The purpose of the forum was to establish community relationships with public-safety officials, and the discussion focused on how best to address criminal thinking and negative behavior in the rehabilitation process. Adnan shared his personal story, discussing the factors that he believed contributed to his own incarceration and describing the process that he undertook toward rehabilitation. Among other things, the lieutenant noted that Adnan “accepted full responsibility for his crime.”

3. In December 2016, the same lieutenant praised Adnan for participating in a two-hour forum with eight representatives of the San Francisco District Attorney’s Office. Among other things, the lieutenant noted that Adnan shared his thoughts as to the type of support he would need to assist his transition from prison.

4. In November 2016, Adnan was commended for his donation of “money products” to a non-profit organization that provides services to homeless children. The writer indicated that Adnan “is a person who is not only capable of being loving and supportive, but is also an example of the restorative spirit.”

5. Also in November 2016, Adnan was commended for completing a 26-week childhood-development curriculum, a course designed to help participants “connect the dots between their past and present behaviors and thinking patterns” and to utilize their greater understanding to formulate a plan “on how to move forward in their life in a positive and productive manner.”

6. In September 2016, Adnan’s contribution for over a year to the SQUIRES (“San Quentin Utilization of Inmate Resources, Experiences, and Studies”) Program was acknowledged. The writer noted that Adnan is “trained and experienced in counseling juvenile delinquents and youth who are at risk for entry into the criminal justice system as a consequence of their anti-social behavior.” She noted that workshops were conducted two weekends per month with youth referred to the program by law enforcement, probations departments, school districts, and social workers, and that, as a prerequisite for his participation, Adnan had to demonstrate his “personal integrity, which includes remaining disciplinary free ... and promoting pro-social values.” The writer concluded with the following:

“KHAN displays an ability to work in harmony and cooperation with others to achieve the objective of dissuading youth from a criminal lifestyle. KHAN’s leadership ability and commitment to helping others will be assets to any community he joins.”

7. In June 2016, Adnan was commended for completing the one-year intensive GRIP (“Guiding Rage Into Power”) Program. The writer noted that the program functioned as a comprehensive offender-accountability program that commits its participants “to a process of deep self-inquiry and healing.” The participants discussed their commitment offenses and investigated “exactly which behavioral factors led to the crime.”

8. In April 2016, Adnan was commended for his participation in the Day of Peace program. “He was instrumental in the development and operational coordination of the Day of Peace event involving administration, staff, outside guests, and other volunteers.... Mr. KHAN has demonstrated a strong personal commitment to the concept of peace and the promotion of harmony among the residents and employees of San Quentin.... [He] represents a positive role model for others....”

9. In March 2016, Adnan was commended for his participation in a forum featuring teachers from the Bay Area and around the country at which youth mentorship, emotional development, trauma, and preventing school violence were discussed. Adnan shared with the educators his personal educational experiences, “taking responsibility for his past actions, and providing insight to improve educational settings”; he also “explored how his past actions had severe consequences for victims, community members, and public.”

10. In January 2016, Adnan was commended for his planning and participation in a TEDx San Quentin event called “Life Revealed.” He spent many hours in that endeavor, and the “dispositions he displayed were of the highest standard, which represented himself and San Quentin Prison in good standing.”

11. Also in January 2016, Adnan was commended for donating money and products to Bay Area homeless children.

12. In March 2015, Adnan was commended for his participation in a writing workshop with at-risk youth. He “shared his story of personal transformation to inspire at-risk youth to make a positive lifestyle change by considering actions and consequences and holding themselves accountable.” Adnan was specifically praised for “his willingness to give back to his community.”

13. In December 2013, Adnan was commended for his participation in an Alternatives to Violence workshop.

14. In March 2013, Adnan was commended for completing 30 hours of facilitator training for the KATARGEO “Going Home” program, a comprehensive training course touching upon the entire spectrum of re-entry issues.

15. In December 2011, Adnan received a certificate in recognition of his outstanding achievement in Anger Management. He had participated in 13 weeks of group sessions and was commended for his attendance and participation.

- A “Core Risk Assessment” was conducted of him in September 2012. Designed to measure needs that had been found in research studies to correlate with criminal behavior, that assessment found “substance abuse,” “criminal personality,” “family criminality,” “educational problems,” and “employment problems” all “unlikely” to contribute to future criminality. No factors were found “likely” to contribute to future criminality.
- In May 2014, Adnan appeared before a classification committee, which noted that his minimum mandatory placement score was 19, which is the lowest possible score for an inmate convicted of his commitment offense, and that his “preliminary score” had decreased by 32 points due to his disciplinary-free periods and positive work performance periods.

- Work Supervisor’s Reports typically characterized Adnan’s work as “exceptional” or “above average,” though always, at a minimum, “satisfactory.” Supervisors’ comments included, “Good job,” “Does job well,” and “Usually receptive to changes or new ideas.”

I. Adnan’s Plans Should He Be Granted His Conditional Freedom

REASONS FOR GRANTING A COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

A. Adnan Was a Paradigmatic Youthful Offender

As noted, Adnan was 18 years old at the time of the commitment offense. Although not technically a juvenile, he was the minimum age of a “youthful offender” (defined in the Penal Code as an individual 18 – 23 years old). In the time since Adnan’s offense, and apposite herein, the State has demonstrated an increasing solicitude for exactly what that means in terms of an individual’s culpability.

Advancements in brain research and the understanding of developmental differences between youths and adults propelled the Legislature to pass Senate Bill 260, adding sections 3051, 3046, subdivision (c), and 4801, subdivision (c), to the Penal Code, effective January 1, 2014. These additions, inter alia, created a new type of parole-suitability hearing for a life prisoner who was under the age of 18 when he perpetrated his commitment offense, said hearing to be especially solicitous of the offender’s youth at that time. (See former § 3051, added by Stats 2013, ch. 312, § 4.) The Legislature subsequently passed Senate Bill 261, effective January 1, 2016, extending the right to such “youth offender parole hearings” to those who were 18 – 23 years old at the time of their commitment offense. (See Stats 2015, ch. 471, § 1.)

The legislative intent behind the latter extension – to treat youthful offenders aged 18 – 23 at the time of their offense the same as juvenile offenders – is abundantly clear:

Science, law, and common sense support the appropriateness of SB 260 youth offender parole hearings for young adults between the age 18 and 23.

Recent scientific evidence on adolescent and youth adult development and neuroscience shows that certain areas of the brain – particularly those affecting judgment and decision-making – do not fully develop until the early-to-mid-20s. Various studies by researchers from Stanford University (2009), University of Alberta (2011), and the National Institute of Mental Health (2011), all confirm that the process of brain development continues well beyond age 18.

This research has been relied on by judges and lawmakers. The US and California Supreme Courts have recognized in several recent opinions that adolescents are still developing in ways relevant to their culpability for criminal behavior and their special capacity to turn their lives around.

California already recognizes the uniqueness of young adults in Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ). DJJ is mandated to detain and provide services and programming to some young adults until age 23. The state has recognized early adulthood as a vulnerable period in other arenas as well, for example, extending foster care support beyond age 18 to age 21 in AB 12 (Beall, 2010). As recently as 2013, the Legislature passed AB 1276 (Bloom), which provided special protections and opportunities for young adults through age 22 entering prison.

(Sen. Rules Com., Off. of Sen. Floor Analyses, 3d reading analysis of Sen. Bill No. 261 (2015-2016 Reg. Sess.), as amended Jun. 1, 2015, pp. 3-4.)

Recent neurological research shows that cognitive brain development continues well beyond age 18 and into early adulthood. For boys and young men in particular, this process continues into the mid-20s. The parts of the brain that are still developing during this process affect judgment and decision-making, and are highly relevant to criminal behavior and culpability. Recent United States Supreme Court cases including Roper v. Simmons, Graham v. Florida, and Miller v. Alabama recognize the neurological difference between youth and adults. The fact that youth are still developing makes them especially capable of personal development and growth.

Thus, the California Legislature has recognized that what the United States Supreme Court has said about juveniles in this context, including such observations as, “From a moral standpoint it [is] misguided to equate the failings of a minor with those of an adult” (Roper v. Simmons (2005) 543 U.S. 551, 570) apply equally to an 18-year-old offender such as Adnan.

The statutory changes specifically require the Board, in assessing a youthful offender’s parole suitability, to not merely consider, but to “give great weight to the diminished culpability of juveniles as compared to adults, the hallmark features of youth, and any subsequent growth and increased maturity.” (§§ 4801, subd. (c), 3051, subd. (d).) The Board must do so to the end of providing such inmate “a meaningful opportunity to obtain release.” (§ 3051, subd. (e).) As our Supreme Court has recognized:

These statutory provisions echo language in constitutional decisions of the high court and this court. The core recognition underlying this body of case law is that children are, as a class, constitutionally different from adults due to distinctive attributes of youth that diminish the penological justifications for imposing the harshest sentences on juvenile offenders. Among these hallmark features of youth are immaturity, impetuosity, and failure to appreciate risks and consequences, as well as the capacity for growth and change.

(People v. Franklin (2016) 63 Cal.4th 261, 283 [citations and internal quotation marks omitted].)

Although Franklin couches its discussion in terms of “juvenile offenders” (Franklin was 16 years old at the time he perpetrated his controlling offense), there is no question but that, because the statutory changes were, for all the same reasons, applied equally to anyone who was 23 or younger at the time of his controlling offense, Thus, Franklin’s rationale applies to Adnan, 18 years old at the time of his controlling offense. (See People v. Perez (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 612 [ordering limited remand for Franklin hearing for defendant who was 20 years old at time of his controlling offense].)

Recall that Adnan was evaluated by a forensic psychologist prior to his sentencing and was contemporaneously found to have exhibited the very hallmarks of a developing youth that motivated the statutory and constitutional changes cited above:

On the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory-2 Mr. Khan showed no signs of malingering i.e. fabricating or exaggerating psychological symptoms in order to mitigate his level of criminal responsibility. He did, however, produce three elevated clinical scales. Those elevations are suggestive of a young man who is immature, has poor judgment, and who is easily manipulated by others. He has extremely low ego strength, tending to feel unsure of himself, self-critical, and needing direction from others. His lack of deliberation and weighing of alternatives before acting has led him to engage in self-defeating behavior in the past, and he is plagued by feelings of shame and self-condemnation at this time.

(Ex. 2 at 7-8.)

Thus, the material question is whether Adnan should be warehoused for another decade before providing him his first opportunity to prove his suitability for conditional freedom based at least in part on the indisputable fact that he was precisely the sort of offender found worthy of great consideration in that process, or, instead, he should be provided that opportunity now. The reasons for the latter outcome, set out in the following subsections, should be persuasive.

B. Adnan's Life Sentence Is Out of All Proportion to His Individual Culpability

Adnan, most assuredly, had no intent to kill anyone. Moreover, he at no point acted with a reckless indifference towards McNutt's life. Asked to determine whether the special allegation were true that Adnan committed the charged murder "while he was engaged in and an accomplice to the commission and attempted commission of the crime of robbery," the jury returned a finding of "not true." To have found that special allegation true, as the jury was instructed, it would have had to find three elements: that (1) Adnan acted "with reckless indifference to human life"; (2) he was "a major participant" in the predicate robbery; and (3) the murder was committed in the commission of the robbery or immediate flight after the robbery. Given that the evidence overwhelmingly established the latter two elements, the most reasonable inference from the “not true” finding is that the jury concluded that Adnan had not acted with reckless indifference to human life, which, likewise, was also supported by overwhelming evidence. This finding, like so much else in this tragic case, highlights the disproportionate nature of the life sentence imposed upon him.

Adnan planned to grab some baggies of marijuana and run. When things took an unexpected turn, having to think fast, he hit the marijuana dealer one time, causing no visible injury. He did not participate in Page’s murderous attack at all – he was inside a vehicle, the assault took place outside. He screamed at Page to stop. Adnan was recruited to commit the crime that he actually committed by an older boy who had taken him in at a time when he was homeless. As the probation officer put it, “[W]ith no apparent predisposition to do so, [Adnan] was induced by David Cedeno to participate in the crime of robbery, as Cedeno provided him rent-free housing.” (Ex. 1 at 22.)¹² He knew virtually nothing about Page, whom he had met only twice before. He knew nothing of Page’s mental illness, that Page had engaged in delusional violence in the past, that Page was not properly medicated on the night of the robbery, and that Page was carrying a concealed knife on that fateful night.

A life sentence for an 18-year-old boy who engaged in such actions under such circumstances with such mens rea is precisely the sort of harsh disproportion to which a commutation is most appropriately addressed. Again: the assigned probation officer believed a probationary sentence would have been the most appropriate punishment. Instead, a life sentence was meted out to a boy with no criminal predisposition who agreed, at the behest of an older friend to whom he was beholden, to grab some marijuana and run, threw a single punch when things went bad, and had the tragic misfortune to have been sent on this mission with a deeply troubled young man who, completely unbeknownst to Adnan, was capable of great violence when in the throes of his (entirely unforeseeable) insufficiently medicated psychosis.

C. A Harsh, Unjust Sentencing Disparity Exists

Cedeno and Wilson, the two young men who concocted the idea of the robbery, planned it, and recruited Adnan and Page to execute it, were given immunity by the prosecution in exchange for their cooperation against Adnan. Page, the actual killer, was initially found incompetent to stand trial, and was then permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder. It was the 18-year-old Adnan – who never thought for a single moment that the planned robbery could result in a death as the whole idea, were it to have crossed his mind, would have seemed so utterly preposterous to him, so beyond anything in his experience – against whom the prosecution brought the full brunt of its power. It is he, though he was far less culpable than Page (assuming he was not insane when he did what he did) and the planners of the robbery, who was given the 25-years-to-life sentence.

The fact that the planners of the robbery escaped justice did not evade the attention of the victim's father. For example, at Adnan's sentencing, he said to the court:

Robert Wilson, one of the instigators is out there living with his girlfriend, probably smoking pot every day, getting drunk every day, enjoying a full life.

Adnan never got to live with a girlfriend or enjoy a full life. His life, instead, has been one of pain and struggle. By any rational measure, the apportioning of blame in this case by the Contra Costa County District Attorney's Office through the exercise of its prosecutorial discretion is morally questionable.

D. Liability Under the Felony-Murder Rule Is Inherently Harsh

England, Canada, India, all European countries, and several of the United States have abolished felony-murder liability entirely. (See Enmund v. Florida (1982) 458 U.S. 782, 796, fn. 22 [so stating].) And that is for good reason. (See People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 462-463, 477-489 [our Supreme Court's noting its own repeated criticism of felony-murder doctrine, which it characterized as a "highly artificial concept” that “is much censured because it anachronistically resurrects from a bygone age a barbaric concept that has been discarded in the place of its origin and because in almost all cases in which it is applied it is unnecessary and it erodes the relation between criminal liability and moral culpability”]; People v. Aaron (Mich. 1980) 299 N.W.2d 304, 327-329 [concluding that original justifications for felony-murder rule no longer exist]; State v. Price (Ct. App. N. Mex. 1986) 726 P.2d 857, 859 [criticizing doctrine as “result-oriented”]; Wayne R. LaFare & Austin W. Scott, Jr., Criminal Law (1972) § 72, at pp. 560-561 [criticizing doctrine as unjustified and predicting its obsolescence]; Model Penal Code (1980) § 210.2 commentary at p. 37 [noting that it is difficult to find “[p]rincipled argument in favor of felony-murder”].)

E. The Judicial System Has Treated Adnan’s Felony-Murder Case with Particularized, Unwarranted Harshness

Even setting aside the inherent harshness of application of felony-murder doctrine to anyone, the judicial system’s putting its imprimatur on that application to Adnan was especially severe because the trial court kept from the jury – arguably in violation of controlling rules of evidence – the very facts that would have made an acquittal possible. In a felony-murder case where robbery also served as the predicate felony, our Supreme Court held that evidence that a coparticipant “had a private motive” for killing the victim “was relevant to the jury’s determination that the homicide and the [robbery] were part of a single continuous transaction,” an essential element of felony murder. (People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 210.)

As noted, ante, a court-appointed psychologist evaluated Page and was prepared to testify at Adnan’s trial that Page was in a psychotic state when he killed McNutt, motivated by a psychotic delusion. He also would have opined that, in his expert opinion, Page’s attack was unrelated to the drug transaction – as is commonly seen in psychotics, something in the biochemistry of his brain “snapped” (echoing Adnan’s description of what he had observed). In the face of Cavitt’s holding, however, the trial court refused to permit the jury to consider that testimony on the question of whether the robbery and murder were part of a “single continuous transaction,” an essential element for conviction under a felony-murder theory. That ruling passed muster when challenged on habeas corpus, where the argument was rejected that Adnan's Sixth Amendment right to present this evidence and Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment right to a meaningful opportunity to present a defense were thereby violated.

The impact of that ruling on Adnan's chances for acquittal, though clear enough in any event, is amply demonstrated by the jury's treatment of the special-circumstance allegation. Although the trial court precluded the jury's consideration of Page's mental illness with respect to Adnan's guilt under the felony-murder doctrine, it did permit the psychologist to testify about that illness and permitted the jury to consider it for a single purpose, and that purpose only, namely, whether the special-circumstance were true. So permitted, as noted, ante, the jury found the allegation not true, and manifestly did so because of their predicate finding that he had not shown reckless indifference to McNutt's life. It is eminently reasonable to infer that, had the jury been permitted to more broadly consider the psychologist's testimony, it would have had a similar impact on its verdict of felony-murder liability.

There is absolutely no question but that Adnan could not reasonably foresee the victim's death. The thought, not surprisingly, never crossed his mind. His life sentence is unduly "harsh" by any measure.

F. Adnan's Personal Transformation, Growth, and Accomplishments Are Extraordinary

We have an understanding of who the 18-year-old Adnan was because of the psychological evaluation (Ex. 2) and probation officer's investigation performed in anticipation of his sentencing (Ex. 1). The hallmarks of that work have already been noted in subsections F and G of the Factual Background section, ante. He was immature, exercised poor judgment, was easily manipulated by others, was deeply troubled by a broken home, etc.

Contrast those characteristics with what we know about the 33-year-old young man Adnan has become, as described by those who best know him. (See Ex. 7, Support Letters.) The writers of the support letters submitted herewith describe him in consistent terms, and, consequently, a definable portrait emerges. Davia Moore, a CDCR staff member at San Quentin working in the prison's Testing Office, based on her interactions with Adnan over a year's time, noted, among other things:

I was immediately struck by how upbeat and positive Adnan was, and also by how intelligent he seemed.

He takes full responsibility for the bad decisions he made and the terrible consequences that happened as a result. I see Adnan as very mature in how he considers his part in the tragedy. He does not make excuses for his bad decisions, but instead has dedicated himself to helping others hopefully avoid the pitfalls to which he succumbed.

I've noted Adnan's quiet kindness to those less fortunate. He shows consistent respect for others, as well as consideration of their needs. He is a most helpful and extremely patient person, who's very tolerant of other people's shortcomings. Adnan is a thoughtful, introspective member of the San Quentin community. He is well liked and respected by inmates and staff alike.

[Adnan's] real interest is in working on projects that help other people – especially young people – in their lives. It is my sincere belief that Adnan's motivation comes from his deeply-felt regret and remorse over the events he participated in that took another person's life. He is utterly sincere in his desire and efforts to improve the lives of others. I believe that this motivation is helping Adnan to atone for the grievous mistakes he has made, and the pain and suffering his acts have caused others.

Joy Alferness, a participant in a restorative-justice program run by inmates at San Quentin, after meeting and interacting with Adnan on several occasions, described him as follows:

Mr. Khan has proved himself to be poised, respectful and respected, kind, thoughtful and smart. He always treats his fellow inmates with kindness and respect. As a visitor, I have found Mr. Khan to be friendly and warm. He sets a stellar example for those that surround him. Mr. Khan has spent a great deal of his time while incarcerated working on himself, and he has also taken that knowledge and helped those around him to rehabilitate. I once observed him providing deep support to another inmate who was experiencing an extremely difficult time while recounting his own life experience. Mr. Khan was an empathetic listener and friend, and helped this inmate feel safe during a painful and scary time.

(Ex. 7 at *.)

Ms. Alferness summed up her thoughts by writing that she “would absolutely trust him in my home, and around my children. Mr. Khan, as I have seen him, is also the type of person that I would love to see my children grow up to be.” (Ibid.)

Two other participants in that restorative-justice program, Philip and Gail Towle, able to observe Adnan over a 3-4 year period, noted that he was “thrust into leadership ... because of his authentic ability to inspire others, project teams and prison groups to achieve their best.” They observed “his extreme passion for self-help, self-reflection, personal healing and growth,” and how he “has converted stressful relationships and situations into cooperative collaborations.” It was “[h]ow well Mr. Khan has exhibited personal evolution and moral leadership, bettering himself and others” that provided the Towles their “baseline objective confidence” in their opinion that Adnan is suitable for release. (Ex. 7 at *.)

Julie Mai, a volunteer at San Quentin, who has worked with Adnan on “dozens of occasions,” was initially struck by Adnan’s “transparency and authentic nature.” She noted that, when he spoke to a group of his personal story, he did so “with a rare sense of self-awareness, honesty, open vulnerability, and remorse that I continue to hear in every conversation with him to this day.” Adnan “does all that he can in order to help and educate others to prevent situations like his from happening to others.”

[H]e has demonstrated his propensity to be a great leader, one who selflessly listens and provides unwavering guidance to those around him. From our collaborations in the media lab to discussions in restorative justice circles, Mr. Khan is easily one of the most trustworthy, responsible, kind, ambitious, articulate, creative, and genuine individuals I have ever met. It has been an incredible experience work with him over the past two years and see his ideas unfold through the media project that he founded, #FirstWatch, which spreads messages of accountability and transformation with vast audiences. With tireless dedication and enthusiasm, I have seen him motivate and cultivate passion for issues around juvenile justice and rehabilitation in everyone he comes across, from the incarcerated community to incoming visitors.

(Ex. 7 at *.)

Ms. Mai summarized her thoughts with strong words of praise: “Of all the youth offenders who I have been fortunate to work with, Mr. Khan is one who restores my faith in humanity by embodying the meaning of justice, hope, and redemption.” (Id. at *.)

Michael Wheelless has been Adnan’s direct supervisor at work since July 2016, when Adnan began working as a clerk in the education department, and was duly “impressed by the traits and behavior he exhibits.”

Mr. Khan works very hard both in his duties with the education department as well as the level of effort he puts toward the outside volunteer programs he is involved with. These volunteer programs include Dream Corps, Kid Kat, outside tours, Squires, SQ TV, and Prison University Project. In my observation, Mr. Khan takes each of these responsibilities seriously and uses the opportunities offered at San Quentin to not only prepare himself for life outside of incarceration but to better himself as a person.

(Ex. 7 at *.)

Hera Chan, another volunteer at San Quentin, who worked with Adnan over the course of several months between 2015 and 2016, writes:

In the time that I have known Mr. Khan, he has proven himself to be a thoughtful, kind and honest person. He treats each individual – staff, inmates and volunteers – with respect and shows consideration about how his actions may impact others. In my experience of knowing him, he has proven to be a supportive, self-aware, and responsible person.

Ex. * at *.)

Another volunteer at San Quentin, Sara Sandija, who interacted with Adnan weekly over the course of a year and one-half, writes of what she observed of Adnan in the group settings in which they both participated:

[He] was empathetic and supportive of those in the group, and I was surprised by the vulnerability he displayed when finally sharing the story of his crime. His accountability for the events that took place that day are clear, and he has accepted his role in the death of the young man who lost his life that day.

(Ex. 7 at *.)

Ms. Sandija also took note of Adnan's growth during their time together:

[He grew] tremendously in this time from an inmate, who was courteous to all but stayed diligent and guarded while on his personal path, to a friend and a leader to those around him. As Mr. Khan became more comfortable in his own narrative I witnessed him step up to guide those around him in their journey towards accountability and forgiveness. I will never forget the way he supported a close friend in the group through a painful breakthrough. Mr. Khan was a symbol of joy and light-heartedness during that time, while remaining a steadfast advocate in support of this fellow inmate's personal journey. In turn, he grew more confident in exploring and sharing his own story. I saw him become keenly self-aware and critical in approach to his rehabilitation and this was a source of strength for those around him....

Mr. Khan is naturally curious and sharp. He has maintained an interest in the world outside the walls of San Quentin and stays connected to his network of family and friends. What has taken many of his peers decades to accomplish Mr. Khan has already achieved thus far in his time served. I have seen him outgrow his surroundings and firmly believe that to keep him locked away any longer is depriving our community of a young man they so desperately need back. At San Quentin, he has become a constant in the lives of several young inmates and fostered an interest in education and discouraged them from negative behaviors. He has also been a key figure in the media program, which has given those inside a creative platform to amplify their voices and perspectives. Mr. Khan has exhibited an excellent rapport among inmates, volunteers, and guards alike. He is truly a symbol of dignity, grace, and perseverance to those around him. I have heard firsthand from other inmates how he has provided a sense of normalcy to what can often be a chaotic world of incarceration. I can only imagine that his impact on the outside would be limitless.

(Ex. * at *.)

These words from those who know Adnan need no elaboration herein. He has been a credit to the CDCR's rehabilitation model.

G. Adnan Is Suitable for Parole

It is virtually certain that, were Adnan to appear before a parole panel today, he would be found suitable for parole. He was found at age 22, when he was sentenced, to pose no danger to the public, and the record he has created in the years since, a fortiori, renders that conclusion essentially inescapable. The reviewers of this application must be aware of how very unusual it is for an inmate to garner the quality of support from prison staff that Adnan has done. Couple that with all that is known of his history – the absence of criminal disposition, the striving for self-understanding and the attainment of insight, the positive acts of helping others, the deep remorse – and his parole plans and support network waiting for him, and it should be clear that Adnan is well situated to rejoin free society, at no risk, let alone an unreasonable one, to the safety of others.

Almost needless to add, Adnan is willing to abide by whatever conditions may be set in conjunction with a commutation and/or parole release.

CONCLUSION

Perhaps, had the adolescent-development research been available to the Contra Costa District Attorney's Office in 2003, the 18-year-old Adnan would never have been charged with felony murder as an initial matter. Regardless, however, the time has surely come to recognize, in light of that research, the disproportionality of the punishment judicially meted out for his offense, and to adjust it accordingly. Our criminal justice system, to date, has treated Adnan with great harshness, but rather than surrender to bitterness, or simply mute resignation, he has striven mightily through the years to rehabilitate himself, in precisely the manner the system encourages, and should be proud of. As a contributor to the betterment of the lives of fellow inmates, a boon to staff, and a seeker of deeper truths in his unceasing self-exploration of the factors that led him to his commitment offense, and in his sufferings and repeated expressions of remorse, Adnan has demonstrated himself worthy of executive grace. If but given the chance, he will contribute mightily to our State's arc toward a more just and caring society. Because of the unique, albeit extremely painful, path of his life to date, and the insights it has generated, he is well-positioned to do so. He has shown over the course of years, through all his good works and the young man he has become, that he will be a very productive member of the free community, precisely as he has been for San Quentin's. To the extent anyone can, he has earned the grace he seeks.

James Simpson King

In 2004, James King walked into a bank, pretended he had a gun, and demanded money from a teller. He left the bank with about $3,000, and was caught later that day. On February 15, 2005, the San Diego County Superior Court sentenced Mr. King to 25 years to life for robbery plus a 5-year enhancement for a prior felony conviction – a total term of 30 years to life in prison.

Mr. King is now 49 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 15 years. In that time, he has maintained an excellent record. He has only been disciplined for misconduct one time, and has never been involved with gangs, drugs, or alcohol. Mr. King earned several vocational certifications and is currently taking college classes from Patten University. He has participated in self-help programs including Restorative Justice, Relapse Prevention, and Creative Conflict Resolution.

Notably, Mr. King has earned the respect of many staff members and volunteers at San Quentin. In 2017, a staff psychologist supported Mr. King's commutation and wrote, "Mr. King is as dedicated to understanding and healing himself as any man I have worked with... He is also an example of how a man can embrace incarceration as a rare opportunity to assess himself frankly, heal himself with support, and redeem himself in his own eyes and the eyes of his community." Also in 2017, a correctional officer supported Mr. King's commutation and wrote, "Inmate King has proven his commitment to rehabilitation, and I believe he is ready to re-enter society and positively contribute to his community." Another correctional officer praised Mr. King's positive behavior and wrote, "I believe he poses no risk to public safety and will be a productive and law-abiding citizen upon release." Several representatives from the Prison University Project also wrote in support of Mr. King's commutation and noted his exceptional service to others and dedication to rehabilitation.

Additionally, Mr. King's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. King.

For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. King has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of James Simpson King to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

understand my personality defects like low-self esteem, and inability to process anxiety and stress. Also, I have strategies in place now that will prevent me from reacting to life's stressors by breaking laws or harming others. At this point, please allow me to be more specific.

For as long as I can remember, I've had low feelings of self-worth and tremendous resentment towards authority. My mother was 19 years old when I was born and worked a full-time job to support us, I struggled with feelings of neglect and lacked the tools to deal with those feelings in an healthy manner. I also had a step-father who used corporal punishment as a means of discipline. It was hard for me to reconcile why my parent would physically hurt me.

From those experiences, I developed a character that was extremely self-sabotaging and harmful to others. I broke laws in reaction to the hurt and pain I felt and because it served as a release. I have spent the last 13 years since my incarceration working to understand the causes of the pain and why I do things that hurt others. I now have the tools to deal with these character traits in a healthy manner. I'm asking for an opportunity to go before the parole board so they can determine my suitability for release.

criminal thinking and developing new thought patterns. This has not been easy. In fact, it is the hardest thing I've ever attempted.

I always felt neglected by my parents. To grossly oversimplify, my feelings of neglect caused me to distrust authority, become resentful, and at the same time internalize feelings of low self-worth. By age seven I was shoplifting from the corner store, breaking windows and lights in my neighborhood, and being disruptive at school. My parents responded with punishments and beatings. They repeatedly told me that something was wrong with me. I believed them and acted on that belief for most of my life.

After I was sentenced to life in 2005, I realized the hard truth that my life was unmanageable. As a result, I made two ~~decisions~~ decisions. First, I gave my life over to Jesus; second, I sought professional help.

For me, accepting Jesus as my Lord and Savior meant that I submitted myself to the Bible as the ruling authority in my life. I've worked very hard to internalize the Bible's ethics as my own, even down to my diet and setting the 7th day apart for worship. I stopped lying and hurting other people, and started trying to be loving towards them. Doing good things caused me to feel better about myself, and I would often encourage myself by pointing to my newfound values to prove that I was no longer the same person who earned a life sentence.

I also sought professional help through self-help groups, books, and therapy. At first I was resistant, looking at my family life as a child felt like I was trying to avoid responsibility for the choices I made as an adult. Finally, I began to realize that being traumatized as a child was an important factor in why I traumatized others as an adult.

I've spent the last ten years cataloging and processing the traumas I experienced and the thinking patterns I developed as a result. I do not claim that I no longer have esteem or authority issues, but what I can say now is that I recognize when those issues come up and I use self-talk, writing, my support system, and several other tools to avoid making bad decisions. Ultimately, it's not my place to say whether I should or should not have my sentence commuted. I robbed a bank and was sentenced appropriately under the laws of this state. All I can say is that I strongly believe that I have addressed the factors that caused me to commit crimes. I'm asking for a chance to prove myself before the parole board.

Karen Kirksey

In 2010, Karen Kirksey learned that her husband was having an affair. On September 27, 2010, armed with a gun, Ms. Kirksey entered the home of her husband's girlfriend and found the two in bed together. Ms. Kirksey fired a single shot into the bedroom ceiling, then hit her husband in the head with the gun several times. Ms. Kirksey also vandalized her husband's car with a tire iron. On August 24, 2011, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Kirksey to three years for two counts of assault with a firearm, one year and four months for burglary, eight months for negligent discharge of a firearm, eight months for vandalism, 3 years for great bodily injury enhancement, plus 5 years and eight months for three firearm enhancements—a total term of 14 years and four months.

Ms. Kirksey has now been incarcerated for eight years and is 65 years old. At sentencing, the trial judge stated, "these crimes [] were committed because of unusual circumstances which are unlikely to reoccur." In her application for clemency, she wrote, "I am a person that made a horrible life changing error for which I do need to pay the price for it. I have worked very hard on myself to understand my actions. I can now say that the work was not in vain because it has caused me to get help through various classes, such as anger management, life skills, compass group, and spiritual classes. I now understand my hurt and anger." Additionally, Ms. Kirksey has participated in Alternatives to Violence, Addictions, and 12 Steps. Regarding her rehabilitative efforts, a chaplain wrote, "She is very remorseful regarding her case and she recognizes how the darkness of the world overtook her and has taken away her family. I am sure she will be quite an asset to her community again and to her family upon her release."

Ms. Kirksey's work performance and efforts toward self-improvement have impressed prison staff. One staff member commented, "She is courteous and professional and I know is an incredible team player, an asset to any Department she works and the facility as a whole." A correctional sergeant commended Ms. Kirksey for her "exceptional abilities" as a clerk, writing, "She is efficient, displays a strong work ethic and continues to broaden the scope of her responsibilities in the program office due to the level of integrity she has earned during her time in this role." A counselor stated that Ms. Kirksey "has always displayed a high degree of integrity, independence, and creativity." A correctional officer wrote, "I believe she will be a successful and productive member of society, deserving of reintegration into the community." Ms. Kirksey has family support as well as a plan for housing and employment upon her release from prison.

Ms. Kirksey has demonstrated remorse and a commitment to rehabilitation. For these reasons, I believe that Ms. Kirksey is ready to be released on parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Karen Kirksey to release her on parole.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

KAREN SHANNON KIRKSEY

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
THE HONORABLE JERRY BROWN

In Re: KAREN SHANNON KIRKSEY APPLICATION FOR CLEMENCY

I. Introduction

Since 2011, I, KAREN KIRKSEY have been dedicated and devoted to working as a tutor, PIA Industry, Chaplain's Clerk and Self Help groups, facilitator to rehabilitate myself that I may be successful and a positive asset to society.

I have been commended on my leadership roll at VSPW and CIW, where I currently reside. I also have community support, most importantly from my family who have offered permanent residency in their homes and assistance in finding employment.

I have also been offered spiritual, financial and moral support from my church family that have great concern for me. Both my biological and spiritual family have my best interest and success in the forefront.

II. Criminal Conviction

I am serving a sentence of 14 years and 8 months for (1) 1st degree burglary (P.C. §459) with a firearm unse allegation (§12022.5, subd. (a)); (2) assault with a firearm (§,subd. (a) (2)) with firearm use (§12022.5, subd. (a)/(d) and great bodily injury (§12022.7, subd. (e)) allegations; (3) discharging a firearm with gross negligence (§246.3, subd. (a));

1 (4) inflicting corporal injury on a spouse (§ 273.5, subd. (a) with firearm
2 use (§12022.5, subd and great bodily injury (§12022.7, subd. (e)
3 allegations; (5) felony vandalism (§j594, subd. (a); and (s6) assault with a 4 firearm (§ 245, subd. (a)(2) with firearm use 12022.5, subd. (a)/(d) and 5 great bodily injury (§12022.7 subd. (e)/(d) allegations (CT 46-50).

6 On December 15, 2010, I pleaded not guilty to all six counts. (CT
7 53).

8 III. My in-custody behavior

9 A. Certificates earned in prison

10 Since my incarceration, not only did I spend my time working and in 11 leadership roles, but I have rehabilitated myself by earning certificates in 12 self-help groups.

13 For instance, I have earned a Twelve Step certificate,
14 Compass/Critical Thinking in which I also facilitateds, Addictions,
15 Lifeskills, Self Determination Training & Reentry Program, Laubach Literacy
16 Action in which I tutored and facilitated. I have also continued to focus on 17 my religious studies, earning certificates on the outside and the inside as 18 the Director of Bishop's Aides, Certificate of Ordination, Certificate of 19 Achievement in 1st & 2nd John study, Certificate of Appreciation from Pastor
20 Selma J. Brown of God's Grace Christian Fellowship, Pastorial appointment from 21 Bishops' Howard & Linda Shelley, Certificate of Ordination from Pastors'
22 Kenneth & Joanne Lee of Wsord Enrichment Christian Center, Inc., Certificate
23 of Appreciation from Bishops' Dr. George & Dr. Cheryl Ferrand of Mishpachah
24 Ministies.

25 B. Laudatory chronos

26 People from correctional officers, employers and self-help
27 instructors, have commended me on my effort, attitude and progress with 28 laudatory chronos. (please see Ex. A - E). These are proof that I have and I am continuing to better myself rather than merely earning certificates. I am striving to maintain an active positive role.

For instance, Catholic Chaplain D. Grajales of VSPW wrote "Kirksey should be commended on her participation in healing, growth and rehabilitation

1 (4) inflicting corporal injury on a spouse (§ 273.5, subd. (a) with firearm
2 use (§12022.5, subd and great bodily injury (§ 12022.7, subd. (e)
3 allegations; (5) felony vandalism (§594, subd. (a); and (6) assault with a 4 firearm (§ 245. subd. (a)(2)) with firearm use 12022.5 subd. (a)/(d)) and 5 great bodily injury (§12022.7), subd. (e)/(d) allegations (CT46-50).

6 On December 15, 2010, I pleaded not guilty to all six counts. (CT
7 53).

8 III. My in-custody behavior

9 A. Certificates earned in prison

10 Since my incarceration, not only did I spend my time working and in 11 leadership roles, but I have rehabilitated myself by earning certificates 12 in self-help groups.

13 For instance, I have earned a Twelve Step certificate, Compass/Critical 14 Thinking in which I also facilitated, Addictions, Lifeskills, Self Determination 15 Training & Reentry Program, Laubach Literacy Action in which I tutored and 16 facilitated. I have also continued to focus on my religious studies, earning 17 certificates on the outside and the inside as the Director of Bishop's Aide, 18 Certificate of Achievement in 1st & 2nd John, Certificate of Appreciation from 19 Pastor Selma J. Brown of God's Grace Christian Fellowship, Certificate of 20 Appreciation in Music. All of my certificates are attached and reflect the effort 21 that I have made to rehabilitate myself while being incarcerated.

22 B. Laudatory chronos

23 People from correctional officer, employers and self-help instructors, 24 have commended me on my effort, attitude and progress with laudatory chronos.
25 (please see attached) These are proof that I have and am continuing to better 26 myself rather than merely earning certificates. I am striving to maintain an 27 active positive role, rather than just receiving chronos.

1 For instance, C.O. Brown wrote in 2014, that I maintain professionalism and 2 and adhere to rules, regulations and policies. Also, that I have donned a mentor-
3 ship role among my peers. Compass instructor and sponsor, Yolanda Lare commended
4 me on my attendance and a job well done in gaining knowledge and becoming a 5 facilitator. Superintendent II, Hilda Najera expressed her thanks for my 6 assistance in volunteering in special projects and for a job well done.
7 Supervisor Celestine Elder states that I display a high degree of integrity,
8 independence and creativity. She also states that I am a good worker, reliable 9 and has a good attitude, displaying professionalism.

10 IV. Public safety and plans for release

11 I know that adjusting to life outside of prison will present some 12 challenges, but I am ready for them. I plan to live in San Pedro with my daughter 13 for 90 days, which is the approximate time it will take to establish myself
14 with a steady income and housing. During those 90 days, I will apply for my SSI
15 benefits, contact my old job and two other employers that have offered me
16 employment upon my release. My ultimate goal is to go back into ministry, 17 assisting troubled families. I intend to use the knowledge I have gained and 18 obtain more information and take classes in real estate to further assist 19 me in helping find homes for families that need assistance.

20 Establishing close family ties plays a role in my plan too, as well
21 as building relationships with other people at my church. I plan to involve 22 myself with local Christian groups that will also play an important role in 23 my life.

24 Further, I listed positive hobbies and activities to keep me busy.
25 These include small vacations, christian retreats, school volunteering with 26 local outreach ministries.

27 I have broken my action plan into several phases. Immediately upon 28

1 my release, I will contact my parole officer, go to DMV, SSI office and
2 contact my pastor/mentor. I will set in place a meditation/prayer schedule.
3 My lifelong goals include attending church, educating myself in business
4 management so that I can maintain a lucrative business.

5 V. Letter of apology and remorse

6 I have prepared a letter of apology and attempted to mail it to the 7 last known address of my ex-husband.

8 I wrote that I am sincerely sorry for the hurt that my actions
9 caused him physically and mentally. And that nothing can excuse my behavior.

10 VI. Community and family support

11 In addition to briefly residing with my daughter, I have family and 12 friends that are willing to lend support. Melinda Williams, Founder/Director
13 of Self Determination Reentry Initiative has offered her support in the form 14 a program and job placement. Noreen McClendon Executive Director of 15 Concerned Citizens of South Central Los Angeles has offered her support in 16 the form of employment. Shelley Brown sister in law, Pastors' Steve and 17 Hazel Owens, Stephanie Johnson, sister, Helese Brown, sister, Erin Shannon, 18 daughter and Carmen Twillie, friend have all offered their financial 19 support to insure my success upon release from prison.

20 VII. Conclusion

21 Releasing me will not endanger public safety, but it will improve 22 society. My direct impact will be to care for and mentor young adults, 23 providing them with needed guidance and direction. To share my experience 24 in a positive way that would possibly circumvent negative thinking and 25 behavior.

26 I respectfully request the Governor Brown commute my sentence to 27 7 years, so that I may reunite with my family.

Dear Curtis,

I am writing you to express my sincere regret for my actions against you. I had no right to cause you injury or to inflict pain upon you.

I now recognize that my actions go further just an injury. I have hurt both our families, including both our children and grandchildren. No matter what the case may be, you did not and do not deserve what I did to you. For that I truly apologize.

I know now that causing pain is not the answer or the solution to any situation. I cannot undo what I have done, but I pray that you can somehow and someday forgive me. I wish that I could go back in time and use wisdom instead of illogical behavior, and perhaps you never would have been hurt physically or mentally.

I have to spend the rest of my life insuring that I never cause hurt, harm or danger to another human being.

Again, I ask for your forgiveness and I apologize from the very depth of my heart

Sincerely and remorsefully,

Karen Kirksey

Ricardo Lagunas

In 2007, Ricardo Lagunas shot and killed Mark Enoch, who had been dating Mr. Lagunas' sister. Mr. Lagunas reported that his sister recruited him to attack Mr. Enoch because he had been harassing and scaring her. On September 29, 2011, the Riverside Superior Court sentenced Mr. Lagunas to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a 10-year firearm enhancement.

In his application for clemency, Mr. Lagunas explained that since coming to prison, he has been devoted to his personal growth, and has sought out resources to help him understand the factors that led him to participate in this crime. He wrote, "Moving forward, I can only pray to have one chance at the possibility of one day being reunited with my family and working to build a more productive community."

Mr. Lagunas has maintained a spotless record during more than 11 years of incarceration. He has never been disciplined for any misconduct, and has never been involved with drugs, gang activity, and violence in prison. For years, Mr. Lagunas has lived on the Lancaster Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard where inmates have access to unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities. He has participated in self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Anger Management, Domestic Violence, and Victim Sensitivity. He has maintained a positive work record and received above average ratings from his supervisors. In the event of his release, Mr. Lagunas plans to live with his father, find a job to support himself, and reunite with other family members.

There is no question that Mr. Lagunas participated in a senseless crime. But for many years since, he has demonstrated his ability to refrain from violence, his commitment to rehabilitation, and his desire to become a productive citizen. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Lagunas has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Ricardo Lagunas to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

— ATTACHMENT "A" —
(STATEMENT OF FACTS)

ON MAY 25, 2007, I WAS GATHERED WITH FAMILY AND FRIENDS IN NORWALK, CA. AS WE HAD PLANNED A PARTY FOR THAT EVENING, TASKED WITH STOCKING UP ON ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES, I, ACCOMPANIED BY (CARLOS AGUILAR) AND (BENNY LOPEZ), STOPPED AT A LOCAL CONVENIENCE STORE. IT WAS HERE THAT I RECEIVED AN URGENT PHONE CALL FROM MY SISTER AND CO-DEFENDANT (VANESSA LAGUNAS), EXPLAINING HOW SHE WAS BEING HARASSED BY A LOVER, (MARK ENOCH), AND THAT HE WAS MAKING THREATS TO KILL HER. UPON ARRIVING AT THE APARTMENT SHE SHARED WITH HER BOYFRIEND, (DENETRIC ADAMS), IT WAS APPARENT THAT SHE WAS VISIBLY UPSET AND FEARFUL. BEING AS CLOSE AS VANESSA AND I ARE, I KNEW IMMEDIATELY THAT I WOULD NOT ALLOW THIS TO CONTINUE. HOWEVER, INSTEAD OF THE POLICE, I HAD VANESSA REACH OUT TO ENOCH FOR A RIDE IN ORDER THAT I MIGHT MEET HIM. BEING FROM MY NEIGHBORHOOD, IT WASN'T UNUSUAL THAT I CARRY A FIREARM TO THIS MEETING AS I WAS CERTAIN ENOCH WOULD. IN MY MIND'S EYE, I'D PLANNED ON GIVING HIM A "BEATING" THAT...

WOULD SERVE AS A REMINDER TO TREAT MY SISTER WITH A LITTLE MORE RESPECT.

AS ENOCH ARRIVED, SHOTS RANG OUT AND HE WAS KILLED SOMETIME AFTERWARD. VANESSA, ADAMS, AND I WERE SUBSEQUENTLY CHARGED WITH MURDER, LYING IN WAIT, AND ROBBERY; THE LATTER TWO BEING SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCE ALLEGATIONS... —

I, RICARDO LAGUNAS, AM FORMALLY REQUESTING THE COMMUTATION OF MY PRISON SENTENCE FROM LIFE, WITHOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF PAROLE TO LIFE, WITH THE POSSIBILITY FOR PAROLE. ALTHOUGH I NEVER FIRED MY GUN, I UNDERSTAND THAT I AM STILL JUST AS RESPONSIBLE FOR 'HIS' DEATH (MARK ENOCH). I DID NOT CALL THE POLICE TO REPORT THE THREAT ALLEGATIONS BUT, INSTEAD, CAUSED THE FATAL MEETING WITH HIM TO HAPPEN. I WANT TO CORRECT THIS WITH A LIFE OF SUCCESS AND SERVICE. I ALSO WISH TO ONE DAY HAVE THE CHANCE TO GO HOME TO MY FAMILY... —

SINCE ARRIVING AT LANCASTER'S PROGRESSIVE PROGRAMMING FACILITY, I'VE HAD THE GREAT PRIVILEGE OF PARTICIPATING IN AND COMPLETING ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS AND NARCOTICS ANONYMOUS PROGRAMS OF MULTIPLE SPONSORSHIP; BOTH SUBSTANCES CONTRIBUTING FACTORS IN MY CRIMES. DUE TO THEIR VIOLENT NATURE AND THE ELEMENT OF MY SISTER'S ABUSE, IT WAS NECESSARY TO ALSO COMPLETE A FEW ANGER MANAGEMENT COURSES ALONG WITH ONE FOR DOMESTIC VIOLENCE. I WENT ON TO LEARN ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE AND RECEIVE A FORMAL EDUCATION. I'VE SINCE GIVEN HUNDREDS OF HOURS TOWARDS EVERYTHING AVAILABLE, FROM PERSONAL GROWTH AND DEVELOPEMENT CLASSES TO FATHERHOOD WORKSHOPS FINDING CHRIST ALONG THE WAY. I HAVE, FURTHERMORE, SERVED THIS TIME HERE DISCIPLINARY FREE...

MOVING FORWARD, I CAN ONLY PRAY TO HAVE ONE CHANCE AT THE POSSIBILITY OF ONE DAY BEING REUNITED WITH MY FAMILY AND WORKING TO BUILD A MORE PRODUCTIVE COMMUNITY... —

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Ventrice Laster

On July 5, 1994, Ventrice Laster sought to retaliate against gang members who had assaulted Mr. Laster's family member earlier that day. Mr. Laster was driving a vehicle when he and his three crime partners spotted men resembling the gang members assembled in a schoolyard. One of Mr. Laster's crime partners opened fire, injuring Arturo Marques, Joseph Romero, Augustine Sanchez, and Anna Gonzalez. On May 5, 1995, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Laster to 28 years to life for four counts of attempted murder, 12 years for three hate crime enhancements, and eight years for four counts of aiding and abetting a principal with a firearm — a total term of 48 years to life.

Mr. Laster has now been incarcerated for more than 24 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Laster explained, "This crime happened because of my selfish unmet need for acceptance and my unmanaged emotions." He expressed remorse for his role in the crime, writing, "Words cannot express how sorry I am for the harm and trauma I caused my victims. These innocent people deserved to live a violent free life, and didn't deserve to be harmed." He continued, "I have come to terms with the impact that I brought on my victims, I know that their families, friends, community and all of the first responders were impacted as well."

Mr. Laster has been committed to his rehabilitation. He has been disciplined only twice for misconduct in over two decades of incarceration. He earned his GED and completed vocational training in office services, computer literacy, and healthcare facilities maintenance. Mr. Laster has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Guiding Rage Into Power, Alternatives to Violence, Criminals & Gangmembers Anonymous, Getting Out by Going In, and Victim Offender Education.

Mr. Laster receives excellent work ratings and commendations from correctional staff. In 2018, a teacher in the Education Department commended Mr. Laster on his "positive communication and interactions with inmate students, education and custody staff." In 2010, a Literary Council sponsor praised Mr. Laster for his work with the program, writing, "He is courteous and polite; working well with staff and inmates. He has committed himself by providing the time and effort necessary to assist in reducing illiteracy among the inmate population. Inmate Laster should be commended for his desire to help others in meeting their personal challenges with literacy." In 2008, an instructor wrote regarding Mr. Laster, "It was a pleasure to have him in class. He was always punctual, polite and considerate of staff and fellow students, dependable and willing to help with any classroom activities or needs." In 2007, a spiritual advisor commended Mr. Laster on volunteering his time and talent as a singer at memorial services.

Mr. Laster committed a very serious crime, but as soon as he entered prison, he turned his life around and worked to help others. Mr. Laster wrote in his application that his dedication to self-improvement is in honor of his victims and everyone impacted by his behavior. He wrote, "I have committed myself to a clean, rehabilitated life inside and outside prison." For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Laster has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Ventrice Laster to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.

2. Response:

I, Ventrice Laster, was twenty eight years old when I attempted to kill Ana Gonzales, Joseph Romero, Arturo Marquez and Augustine Sanchez on July 5, 1994. I had arrived home from spending the day at Perris Lake in Perris California, when my fiance, Cherie Mays, had informed me that her cousin, Nominick Hayes, was attacked by mexican gang members at an Arco gas station on the Eastside of Riverside.

Nominick was pumping gas for his cousin, Venus Blankenship with her two children in her car. Venus saw her car surrounded by mexican gang members. She tried to intervene but was ignored. She saw and heard the gangmembers cursing at Nominick and saw the gangmembers reach inside of her car and take food. Then Nominick was hit in the head with a forty ounce beer bottle and Nominick took off running in the streets. Venus drove to the police station and reported what happened. She called her mother, Francetta Mays, who tells her to get out of that neighborhood and come home.

Nominick finally contacts the police, telling them his location at a near by construction site. Venus goes to the site, but couldn't find him, so she returns home. After my fiance informed me about her cousin, Nominick's attack, I asked if I could borrow the car to go look for Nominick. I had prior knowledge that there was racial tension among the Hispanics and African Americans on the Eastside of Riverside and I was reluctant to drive there alone. I decided to make a stop before leaving to the Eastside of Riverside and picked up a young man named, "Skeet", who brought along another guy, who I didn't know. I explained to Skeet what had happened to my fiance's cousin and I invited him to ride along with me to look for Nominick. I began driving with my co-defendant, Mr. Hayes in the front passenger seat, the two young men in the back seat. I arrived at the neighborhood where Nominick had been attacked, and I began looking for him, but couldn't find him. I approached a school cross-walk and one of the young men in the back seat said, "There go some esses", and he asked me what did I want to do. I replied, "go ahead and shoot".

Attachments

2. Response: (continued)

The young man began firing from the back seat window, at a playground packed with Hispanics playing basketball. I drove away and fled the scene and I dropped the two young men off where I picked them up at.

Four people were left injured at the Longfellow school, two year old Ana Gonzales was hit in the head; Arturo Marquez was shot in the back and Augustine Sanchez was shot in the leg. The license plate number was taken and given to the police, which led to my arrest. My co-defendant, Frederick Hayes and myself were arrested and convicted of attempt murder on four counts, and sentenced to four consecutive life sentences, plus twenty years for arming and hate crime enhancements, with the possibility of parole.

3. Responses:

I am requesting a commutation of my sentence based upon my good behavior. In the years of 2000 and 2004, I had two infractions. One, I disobeyed a direct order when my teacher instructed me to go outside in the rain for my 15 min. break. Two, I broke a rule that stated that I was only allowed to have $50 worth of canteen ducats at a time, and I had $250 worth. For the exception of those two infractions, I have maintained a disciplinary free life in prison.

I have avoided hostile confrontations, and I've maintained civil relationships with correctional officers, supervisors and staff members alike. Over the years my heart has changed how I feel about the harm that I caused my victims. I feel a lot of shame and guilt now and I think about all of the ways that I could possibly make amends.

I seriously thought about how I would feel if someone tried to kill me or my family, like I attempted to kill Ana, Joseph, Arturo and Augustine. I know that I would be extremely hurt, angry and traumatized. Words cannot express how sorry I am for the harm and trauma I caused my victims. These innocent people deserved to live a violent free life, and didn't deserved to be harmed.

I have seriously come to terms with the impact that I brought on my victims, I know that their families, friends, community and all of the first responders were impacted as well.

It's in the honor of Ana, Joseph, Arturo and Augustine and everyone who was impacted by my criminal behavior, that I have committed myself to a clean rehabilitated life inside and outside of prison. Today it is safe to commute my sentence because I no longer pose a threat to our society.

3. Responses: (continued)

Other factors that I ask to be taken into consideration. After I was sentenced to four consecutive life sentences, plus twenty years, with the possibility of parole, my judge, Honorable Edward D. Webster, asked me if I had any questions. I asked how was it possible for me to parole with my long sentence. He responded with some encouraging and hopeful words saying, "Mr. Laster, since this is your first time going to prison, this is how it works. You take full advantage of all the programs and educational classes, and when you come up for parole, the parole board or I will be more than likely to parole you. I took the judges words very seriously and I began my journey of rehabilitation.

It was at the Protestant Chapel in Calipatria State Prison, 1996, when I experienced a spiritual awakening, which led me to surrendering my life to Christ Jesus. Today I am able to admit that I, Ventrice Laster, am completely guilty of attempting to kill Ana Gonzales, Joseph Romero, Arturo Marquez and Augustine Sanchez at Longfellow school. This crime happened because of my selfish unmet need for acceptance and my unmanaged emotions. These are not excuses for my crime, but some factors to help me understand how I arrived at my criminal thinking and violent behavior.

4. Responses:

I believe that I should be granted a commutation of my sentence because I am no longer that same twenty eight year old violent criminal that I was twenty years ago. I have taken full responsibility for attempting to kill Ana Gonzales, Joseph Romero, Arturo Marquez and Augustine Sanchez. The mere word, sorry, isn't enough to express how shameful and disgusted I feel when I think about my actions on July 5, 1994.

I took what the judge said very serious (see attached list of programs). One of the groups that I participated in called "G.R.I.P." (Guiding Rage Into Power), presented an exercise to me that dealt with and exposed my childhood trauma and my drug addiction. (My mother, me and siblings physically abused). Another tool that was pivotal in my insight on acceptance, IF-ID, Identity Failed - Identity Denied. I learned that when I wasn't accepted by my peers, my image failed and my identity was denied. To assure that my image / identity wouldn't fail or be denied, I resorted to violence to be accepted.

Today I have learned to value only the acceptance of those who really matter to me and that mean me well.

It is not only safe to grant me a commutation of my sentence, but it is also beneficial to our communities because I plan to give back what I have learned from groups like: A.F.L.A.S.H. (A Felons, Life, Awareness, Seeing and Hearing) Inmate Motivational Speaking Program. Youth Mentor group called, "S.Q.U.I.R.E.S." (San Quentin Utilizing, Inmate, Resources, Experiences and Studies). "Overcomer's, NA, AA, Twelve Step Spiritual journey and "Brothers Keepers", Crisis Counseling.

I am not requesting a commutation because I believe that I earned or deserve it, but I humbly and respectfully submit this petition at the mercy seat of your office, in the hopes of obtaining a second chance at freedom as a completely different and improved man.

Remorse

On July 5, 1994, 2yr. old Ana Gonzales, Joseph Romero, Arturo Marquez, and Augustine Sanchez were enjoying a nice evening of recreation with family and friends at the Longfellow Elementary school. I, Ventrice Laster, attempted to kill these innocent people, and traumatized them and their families. There are no words to begin to express my deepest apology for harming Ana, Joseph, Arturo, and Augustine. No one deserves to be treated the way I treated these precious human beings.

Over the years I have often thought about how I would feel if someone tried to kill me or my family. Since I have been incarcerated my younger brother, Qadafi, was murdered, and I was extremely hurt and devastated. I understand and empathize with the people in my crime. Because of my senseless and cowardly actions, I impacted their lives and their community in the worse way.

Today I live with a great deal of shame and guilt when I think about the tragic and cruel conditions I caused these law abiding citizens at the playground. I once had a 2yr. old daughter, who is now 21, and I love and think the world of her. It would have hurt me to the core of my heart to see her bleeding from a head wound. I am completely responsible for that baby witnessing and experiencing such a horrific crime.

This crime that I committed was probably the first time Ana ever witnessed and I deprived her of the privilege of spending that day having maybe a tea party, easy baking some cookies or beautifying some of her favorite dolls, in the safety of her home. For that I am truly and forever sorry.

I am also sorry for causing that terrifying, tragic scene for 9yr. old, Albert, Ana's older brother, who fearfully witnessed his little sister get shot. I know without doubt he feared for her life, and felt powerless. I am not proud of my criminal actions and the type of person I was.

I am also extremely sorry and responsible for all of the hurt, pain and sorrow that I inflicted upon Joseph, Arturo and Augustine. I don't for one minute believe that these men woke up on July 5, 1994, expecting to be gunned down while playing basketball. When I think about the selfish and dangerous person I was roaming through the Eastside of Riverside without any meaning or purpose in my life, I am greatly ashamed and disgusted with myself for all of the underserved harm and trauma that I caused these people.

I wished that I could go back and erase all of the pain, blood shed, loud screams and terrifying emotions Ana, Joseph, Arturo and Augustine suffered. I will live with that reality for the rest of my life. There are no excuses or justifications for why I attempted to kill those innocent people.

I am sincerely sorry for my criminal thinking and actions. Today I have committed myself to making amends and honoring Ana, Joseph, Arturo and Augustine and everyone who was impacted by my criminal behavior. I have vowed to spend a life time giving of myself, by serving my communities in and outside of prison.

Remorse continued....

It is my hope and prayer that these innocent people have healed over the years from the trauma that I caused them, and have accomplished their deepest desires and dreams. I am truly and forever sorry for the un-doable damage I impacted on everyone.

Sincerely, Ventrice Laster

Ventrice Laster!

Parole Plans

The following are my immediate and long-term plans to ensure my parole success.

Main Objectives:

To become a productive citizen in my community through hard work and maintaining the goals set in this document with the tools I have learned here at San Quentin.

Short-Term Goals:

Once released I will contact my wife, Cherie Laster, who will assist me in obtaining the following necessary items:

- * State-issued identification card
- * Application for driver's license
- * Transportation
- * Bus Schedule
- * Cell Phone
- * Hygiene items and clothing

I will contact my parole officer to understand the conditions of my parole. I will report to transitional housing in the local area to inform them that I have been paroled and would like to enroll in their program. The transitional home will also assist with my reintegration back into the community, recovery programs, housing, employment, and transportation. I will contact Jacques Verduin at (415) 602-4489 (jverduin @ Comcast) for long-term assistance in staying current with Guiding Rage Into Power (G.R.I.P.) curriculum. In addition, continuing my G.R.I.P. and Domestic Violence (D.V.) training certification.

Future Goals

My future goals are to start my own family business Laster's Sports and Entertainment Center. Not only will we provide the means for sports and entertainment, but also special family events and services such as: Youth mentoring, Marriage counseling, Spiritual guidance, Health fairs, Day care, Financial management, and family picnics.

I want to provide a safe haven for at-risk youth and their families who are dealing with childhood traumas, suicidal tendencies, drug/alcohol addictions, illiteracy, and homelessness. I also plan to teach them values for being responsible and to value themselves and the God-given talents and gifts they possess.

Educational Goals

Upon release, I would like to attend college and obtain my Associate of Arts degree in Social and Behavioral Science. My long-term goal is to attend a graduate program and become certified as a marriage and family therapist.

Our mission: Helping men, women and young adults successfully reenter the workforce, their families and our community.

Hope for Prisoners works to empower returning ex-offenders and their families to create a successful future built on strategic leadership and character development. By mentoring those fighting for second chances, we strive to serve, build and strengthen our community.

Our Reentry Program

Transforming individuals from wards of the state to thriving taxpayers:

- Over 74% of our 325 clients in 2013 found employment (National ex-offender employment rates are 25-40%)
- Only 4.3% of our 325 clients were re-incarcerated (Nevada's re-incarceration rate is around 30%)
- It is the only program of its kind in the state
- Our team of mentors stay engaged in our clients' lives for 18 months or longer
- Over 200 trained volunteer mentors from the Las Vegas community have been recruited from many organizations, including faith based groups and the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department
- Law enforcement teaches part of the curriculum
- Our program helps ex-offenders build skills through training, assessment and mentoring
- Our innovative program and collaborations have received local, state and national attention

Hope for Prisoners Reentry Program commits to journey alongside these individuals, assisting them in navigating the challenges they might face during their reintegration process.

Our services over 18 months include:

- Leadership Academy
- Mentoring/Coaching
- Prevocational Training
- Computer Lab
- Life Skills
- Employment Referral
- Case Management and action plan (Our action plans including referrals as necessary to our community partners for child support orders, mental health counseling, addiction recovery, transitional housing, and more)

WHAT WE OFFER

MENTORING

HOPE for Prisoners is highly vested in the evidence-based practice of using well trained volunteer mentors to provide the necessary emotional and social support for ex-offenders as they transition to community life.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING

In our continuing effort to provide the best possible training to those re-entering society, HOPE for Prisoners is partnering with the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department to introduce a formal leadership academy

JOB DEVELOPMENT

The HOPE for Prisoners staff works to cultivate relationships with business owners and entrepreneurs throughout the community and seeks out employers who are willing to partner with us to provide employment opportunities to our participants.

WHAT WE DO...

HOPE for Prisoners works to empower returning ex-offenders and their families to create a successful future built on strategic leadership and character development. By assisting those fighting for second chances, we strive to serve, build and strengthen our community.

HOPE for Prisoners offers each of our participants an 18-month commitment to come alongside them and help them navigate the many challenges that they will face during the reintegration process. We pride ourselves on providing comprehensive services to meet the diverse needs of our participants. At a minimum, each participant is required to complete a pre-vocational training workshop and is invited to participate in our mentoring program. Other key components to our success are our leadership training and job development services.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Through our 18 months program you will participate in an intensive one week leadership re-entry workshop.

In addition to the workshop, you will be required to attend our weekly huddles as well as other classes such as Personal Development, Emotions & Relationships, Leadership, Parenting, and more. In taking part of this program, it is expected that participants uphold themselves to a high standard of conduct. Failure to do so may lead to disciplinary action and removal from the program.

WHAT WE PROVIDE

JOB ASSISTANCE is provided as a large part of building a successful foundation for reintegration in helping returning citizens obtain and maintain stable employment. Each participant is required to work the program, so that we can then use our relationships with business owners throughout the community and employers who are willing to partner to provide employment opportunities to our participants.

Our partner employers have gotten to know our participants as hard working and faithful workers and gladly hire the next Hope For Prisoners Graduate.

CASE MANAGEMENT

Upon completion of our one-week re-entry leadership workshop, program participants will be placed with a case manager who will walk with them as they transition back to their families and community and work with them to gain full-time employment in the workforce.

After graduation of the workshop participants will be required to attend our weekly support group classes, check-in with your Case Manager weekly, and submit to random drug tests. Failure to do so may negatively impact your participation in this program.

MENTOR

Participants are assigned a team of mentors to help them set and reach goals and navigate the challenges faced during the reintegration process. Mentoring services are provided for a full year through one-on-one sessions, peer-to-peer contact, and ongoing support groups designed to provide support throughout the process of reintegration. Participants will be paired with a mentor based on their career and family goals and their interests. Participants will be required to contact their mentors weekly, have a face-to-face meeting with their mentor a week, and become a peer-to-peer mentor for 3-4 months. In addition to the week-long leadership course, participants will be required to attend our Tuesday Night Huddles.

After one year of mentoring, participants are invited to take part in a 6-month peer-to-peer program strategically designed to train them to give back and become mentors themselves.

“LASTER’S SPORTS & ENTERTAINMENT CENTER”

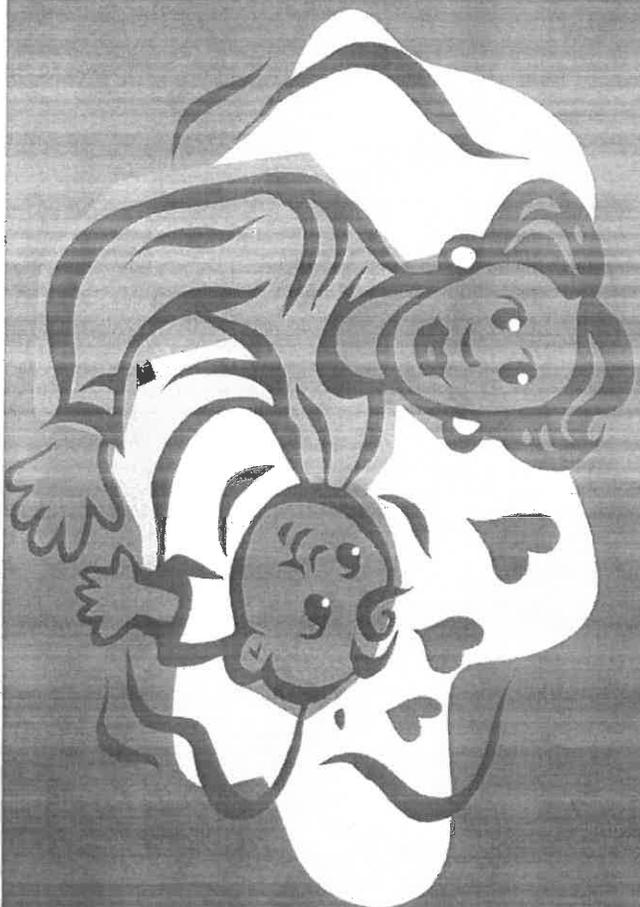

PRESENTATION NOTES:

- Intro. Good morning gentlemen, my name is, Ventrice, I am here this morning to hopefully persuade you to invest in my business. I would like to present to you.....
- [Slide #1]
- “Laster’s Sports and Entertainment Center”
- I was inspired to draw up the blue prints for this center because I observed the broken family structures in my community, and the high rate of obesity. It is my aim and intention to mend the family structures, by encouraging and promoting constructive interaction with sports & entertainment. All family & friends are welcome. I would be co-owner with you if you decide to invest in my business. Please allow me to present some “Sports & Entertainment” that would be available.
- [Slide #2]
- I believe that these activities would give families the opportunity to do some fun things with each other that they would not normally do. And not only that, I also believe that this would reduce the high rate of obesity with our families.
- You may be wondering, what is so special about my ideal because there are so many businesses similar to mine. That may be so, but the Laster’s sports & entertainment center is quite different. I present “Special Family Events & Services”
- [Slide #3]
- I included these special events & services because I know that realistically, sports and entertainment are not the only factors that are needed to mend our family structure. We also have these..... (Present events one at a time). Without these areas being addressed, it would be impossible to rebuild those family structures. Up next we have admission fees:
- [Slide #4]
- I have made these fees affordable for families that may not be that well off.
- These fees cover health insurance and our special events & services.
- [Slide #5]
- Location & Contact Info.
- It is my hope that you will come on board and invest in my business.
- Thank you for your time and consideration. Are there any questions?

Tyrell Lee

On April 26, 2008, Tyrell Lee and Donnell Hall, who were both gang members, confronted Tommy Belin regarding an ongoing feud. During the altercation, Mr. Lee handed Mr. Hall a handgun. Mr. Hall shot Mr. Belin four times at close range, but he survived. On December 10, 2008, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Lee to 5 years for attempted murder plus a 25 years to life firearm enhancement — a total term of 30 years to life.

Mr. Lee was 19 years old when he committed this crime and has been incarcerated for over a decade. In his application for clemency, Mr. Lee wrote, "I have gained a knowledge and understanding of the nature of my crime and why it was committed and for the last few years I've been helping at risk youth to sidestep the negative lifestyle that is so easy for children to fall victim to." He explained to an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings that he was entrenched in the gang lifestyle since he was a child but has since recognized how his lifestyle choices have affected his family and those he has harmed.

Mr. Lee he has shown a sincere desire to change his life. Mr. Lee was enrolled in Adult Basic Education from 2009-2012. In 2009, an instructor noted that Mr. Lee was "very enthusiastic" and an "excellent student." He later earned his GED in 2012. He has also completed vocational training in network cabling, electronics, and computer literacy. Mr. Lee has routinely received above average work ratings. In 2017, a culinary supervisor commended Mr. Lee for being a self-starter and working well with others. In addition, Mr. Lee has taken advantage of multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous, Celebrate Recovery, Anger Management, Victim Awareness, and Alternatives to Violence. In 2017, Mr. Lee served as a facilitator for Alternatives to Violence. Mr. Lee is currently involved in a youth diversion program, which helps at-risk youth avoid violence. He stated to the Board investigator that, upon his release, he intends to create and continue a similar program in the community.

Mr. Lee participated in a serious crime. However, he has turned away from gangs and violence and has been committed to bettering himself and others. I believe that he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Tyrell Lee to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Timothy Lobretto

In 2001, Timothy Lobretto and several other men went to a motorcycle club open house. They got into a fight and seriously injured several club members, threatened them, and took property from the clubhouse. On November 30, 2004, the Kings County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Lobretto to 23 years and 8 months for assault, robbery, false imprisonment, burglary, and gang and great bodily injury enhancements.

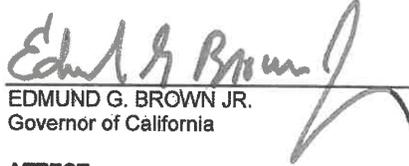

Mr. Lobretto is now 58 years old and has been incarcerated for 17 years. Before committing this crime, he had no criminal history and served honorably in the Navy for many years. He has only been disciplined once for misconduct during nearly two decades of incarceration, and has never been involved with violence, drugs, or gang activity in prison. Instead, Mr. Lobretto has shown a commitment to turning his life around. He has participated in multiple self-help classes including Anger Management, Victims Awareness, veterans groups, and Bible studies. He currently participates in a program that trains service dogs. In 2018, a correctional lieutenant praised Mr. Lobretto's work in the program and wrote, "His dedication to providing a service dog to a veteran or a first responder reflects his own dedication to a life of service." Mr. Lobretto routinely receives excellent work ratings from his supervisors, who regularly praise his skill and dedication to his work. In 2017, a Prison Industry Authority superintendent commended Mr. Lobretto's work ethic and wrote, "He assumes his responsibilities well and has a dedication and a desire to succeed. Inmate Lobretto has a positive attitude and works well with staff and the other employees." Mr. Lobretto has a strong plan in place for his release – he plans to return to Michigan where his family lives, work as a volunteer firefighter, and help raise his grandchildren.

Mr. Lobretto participated in a reckless crime almost 20 years ago. Since then, he has been a model inmate and has shown that he intends to return to society as a productive citizen. For the foregoing reasons, I believe that it is Mr. Lobretto should have an opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Timothy Lobretto to make him eligible for immediate parole consideration.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.

ATTEST:

ALEX PADILLA
Secretary of State

Dear Governor Brown

Please consider my case for executive clemency. As a first offence, I made a terrible mistake for which I have already served my time. I have an exemplary prison record and have paid in full the assigned retribution of $5000. The gang enhancement years that I am currently serving seem excessive, in light of the above, and are the cause of undue hardship for my family.

My character is not that of a career offender. I do not think, act or talk like many of the inmates around me and am more apt to side with the correctional officers on issues of law and discipline. As well as an exemplary prison record, I have had a distinguished naval career and no prior arrests or illegal activity in my entire life.

I made a single but terrible error in judgement when I wished to become a member of the Hells Angles. A fight started when I was attempting to change clubs and was over items that were to be moved as well as the sexual harassment of my then girlfriend. The damage done to Paul Goonan was wrong and I am deeply sorry for it. I am not that person anymore and have no intension of ever associating with any type of motorcycle club in the future.

Both my personal history and my prison record have proven that I shall be a productive member of the community. Should I be granted release, I intend to go home to Michigan as soon as the State of California allows. For personal support, I have a house in Michigan, a job awaiting me and my family is there including my only child and two grandsons, ages 2 and 4. I was 44 when I came to prison, I am now 57. I feel that it serves no purpose to keep me incarcerated, many years past my already served sentence, when I could be helping my daughter and her children.

Thank you for your consideration for executive clemency.

Sincerely,

Timothy LoBretto

Summary

- 1) No prior convictions: See attached Felony Abstract of Judgement and Legal Status Summary for current convictions.
- 2) Crime(s) committed in 2001: During the time frame in which I was attempting to transition from one motorcycle club to another. A fight broke out with the Sargent at Arms of my previous club over property belonging to me (and others) as well as sexual harassment of my house mate and girlfriend.
- 3) I am appealing for commutation because of the length of my 23 year 8 month sentence; 18 years and 4 months of which are for P.C. 186.22 Criminal Street Gang Enhancement(s)
- 4) As one of 16 defendants in this case, the person who has served the longest (other than me) is Mark Carver who served 4 years of an 8-year sentence. Judge Schultz, the trial and sentencing judge has said as far as he could see, I was not any more culpable than Mark Carver, however, the D.A.'s offer to me was 17 years minimum so I opted to go to trial.

The combination of my convictions amounts to 5 years and 4 months. I have already served two and a half times that. The remaining 18 years and 4 months of my sentence is entirely a combination of gang enhancements added to each conviction.

My prison record has been exemplary but this is an undue hardship for my family.

Marcella Lunsford

Chastity Lunsford was involved in a custody battle with Nathan Dannemiller. On August 6, 2002, Douglas Lunsford, Chastity's father, shot and killed Mr. Dannemiller as he left his apartment. Investigation revealed that Marcella Lunsford, Mr. Lunsford's wife, had conspired with Mr. Lunsford to kill Mr. Dannemiller. On August 22, 2006, the Humboldt County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Lunsford to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus one year for a firearm enhancement.

Ms. Lunsford is now 64 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 15 years. Faced with a sentence offering no possibility of parole, Ms. Lunsford has dedicated herself to her rehabilitation. She has never been disciplined for any misconduct. In 2016, she earned her high school diploma and completed vocational training in office services. Ms. Lunsford has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Comfort Care, Recovery from Codependency, Parenting from the Inside, and LifeScripting. Ms. Lunsford received above average work ratings and volunteered as a literacy tutor. She lives on the honor dorm at California Central Women's Facility.

Through her positive attitude and behavior, Ms. Lunsford has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who see her on a regular basis. In 2017 and 2015, four correctional officers commended Ms. Lunsford for her polite and respectful attitude and for her positive programming in the honor dorm. A correctional officer who has known Ms. Lunsford since 2012 wrote, "Inmate Lunsford freely gives of her time to the [honor dorm garden], and is to be commended for all her hard work. Lunsford is active in her rehabilitation; she participates in self-help groups and has successfully completed high school. Inmate Lunsford has been polite and respectful in her interactions with staff and assists with any task requested of her." In 2017, another correctional officer who has known Ms. Lunsford since 2012 wrote, "Throughout the 4.5 years I have known Ms. Lunsford I have observed that she is actively involved in her community. . . . I have observed her freely giving of her time to mentor and Facilitat[e] for Bridges to Life and Calm Classes."

I understand that this crime was devastating to Mr. Dannemiller's family members, who have opposed clemency in this case. I have read and considered the letter from his family expressing the pain caused by this heartbreaking loss. After serious consideration, I cannot discount the turnaround Ms. Lunsford has made during her incarceration. Because of this, I believe that Ms. Lunsford has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

Richard Manchego

In 2008, Richard Manchego and Jorge Pozos got into a fist fight. After the fight, Mr. Manchego went to his car, got a gun, and fired multiple shots, killing Mr. Pozos. Mr. Manchego maintains that he acted in self-defense, and that Mr. Pozos' brother had been threatening him and his girlfriend for months before this crime. On October 12, 2012, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Manchego to 15 years to life for murder, plus a 25 year to life firearm enhancement – a total term of 40 years to life.

Since coming to prison, Mr. Manchego has demonstrated a serious commitment to leaving violence behind and focusing on his rehabilitation. In his application for clemency, he expressed remorse for participating in this crime, writing, "I wish I could take it all back and not because I'm in prison but for Jorge." He continued, "I will do everything in my power to live a productive life and if possible make amends with the Pozos family." To that end, Mr. Manchego has maintained a spotless record in prison. He has never been disciplined for any misconduct during over a decade of incarceration. He has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Cage Your Rage, Life Without a Crutch, Success from the Inside Out, and Victim Awareness. Mr. Manchego routinely receives positive ratings from his supervisors, and currently works with other inmates as a literacy tutor. In 2018, two correctional officers commended Mr. Manchego for his good behavior and attitude and wrote, "Inmate Manchego has maintained a high level of integrity, in spite of the environment, by immersing himself in rehabilitation programs and college. Inmate Manchego is an example of CDCR's goal of rehabilitation." A professor at McGeorge School of Law supported Mr. Manchego's commutation and wrote, "Mr. Manchego's violent crime was atypical of the rest of his life. He has used his time in prison to improve himself....His continued incarceration is not needed for public safety."

Mr. Manchego committed a senseless crime, but has worked hard in the years since to show that he is no longer the same man he was at that time. For all of these reasons, I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Richard Manchego to a total of 13 years to life.

District Attorney: Please Return this Notice to the Governor's Office, Attn: Legal Affairs, State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814.

Background:

I was born in Azusa, California on [REDACTED] 1971, an only child. When I was a year old we moved to Colorado Springs, and eventually onto Denver and Various Suburbs where I was raised. Both my mother and father were from small towns about 4 hours west of Denver. As a family we moved a lot, at least once a year. My father was the primary source of income as a Civil Engineer Draftsman; however, he is an alcoholic and couldn't hold a job for very long. Other than moving and some occasional arguments between my parents, I was a happy kid. I have a strong work ethic that was instilled in me at an early age. I had a weekly allowance for completed chores as well as a paper route by the age of twelve. I still found time to get out on my B.M.X. bike to do some freestyle tricks with friends or just go to the local Italian restaurant to play video games.

My parents divorced when I was twelve, and because my father made more money I lived with him and visit my mother on weekends. After a couple more evictions my father and I moved to New Mexico. Almost a year later we were evicted again, this time with Police Officers present, we moved back to Colorado. My dad dropped me off at my mother's one bedroom apartment and he moved back into his mother's house in Rocky Ford, Colorado. I was seventeen and I just started my senior year in high school when my girlfriend and my mother got into an argument, my mother said, "If you don't like it you can go to", so I did and I've been on my own ever since.

I've always worked and made the best out of the jobs I've had, but deep down I've always had an entrepreneurial spirit. A couple of years after I left home I was offered a job in Phoenix, Arizona. It was in Phoenix I met a lady who was in a Medical Trade School and was from Indio, California. Two years later Marlina and I were married and shortly after our daughter Mia was born. Like my own infancy we moved a year later to Indio.

I had been working in the Electronic Security Business since Colorado, and I continued that work until I bought my first business. I purchased a Fast Frame Franchise in La Quinta, California for $135 thousand. After almost three successful years I was made an offer of just over $200 thousand to sell. After the sale of Fast Frame I purchased a Sports Bar in Palm Springs. I didn't want that bar but it had the type of Liquor license that I wanted. So the plan was to continue business until the lease was up and sell the bar minus the Liquor License, re-attach it to another facility in a nicer area and open an upscale Billiard Club. Sometimes in life you get advice that in hindsight you wish you took. I decided it would be easier to share the expense and brought in a partner, for me that advice was to never go into business with anyone unless you have to. Shortly after I sold the bar this incident took place.

Question 2:

The crime is 2nd degree murder with the use of a firearm, for a term of 40 years to life.

In June of 2007 two things were happening simultaneously, one was after 14 years of being together, twelve of which were married, my wife and I filed for a Divorce, second is I was in Escrow selling the Sports Bar I co-owned.

I started Dating Lidia Estrada. Lidia was also recently out of a relationship, however hers was an abusive one. On our second date, Lidia received a text message from her ex-boyfriend Mike Pozos stating, "I know your with someone and I'm gonna fuck him up". These threats would continue via text, e-mail, letters and voicemails, and increased in aggression over the course of a year. I didn't like these threats but I wasn't serious with Lidia so I didn't respond to them.

On May 7, 2008 Lidia had asked if I could pick her and her son up at her mothers work and take them home. On our way to Lidia's house we saw Mike Walking up the street. I pulled onto a side street and went to talk to Mike. I told Mike that whatever he has going on with Lidia I didn't care, just leave my name out of it. Mike didn't say anything he just shook his head in acknowledgement and continued trying to call someone on his cell phone. I got back on the road and within 2 blocks Lidia received a text from Mike that said "Fuck that Fool", I just continue on with no response. The next day May 8, 2008 at approximately 5:30pm I received a phone call from Lidia, she said Now Jorge is involved and he wants to talk to me. I met Jorge once before, while dropping Lidia's two children off at their apartment, Jorge came outside into the parking lot and introduced himself to me through my passenger window. This meeting was brief but cordial. Lidia came back and we left. I was at McDonalds about four blocks away from Jorge. I called and Jorge told me about calling his brother out with his daughter in my car. I told Jorge that wasn't what happened, I said if Mike knew anything about his kids he would have known that his daughter was in school at that time and his son was strapped into his car seat. Jorge thought for a second then said come over. I thought in finally going to talk to someone sensible to stop the lies and threats. Upon arrival I saw three individuals on the edge of the street, Jorge, Mike and Graciela their sister. I parked and by the time I exited my car Jorge was coming across the street, we met and Jorge swung and knocked me down. I got up dazed and confused and was hit again. I don't remember much of the fight or how long it lasted. What I do remember is being in a rear chokehold and feeling someone kicking or hitting my ribs and slamming me against my car. I started seeing spots and I told myself, "If I don't get out of this headlock I'm going to die". I made a last push with all I had and flew backwards. The next thing I remember is being shook or grabbed and someone said, bounce, bounce, the cops. It's at that time I heard the police sirens.

Question 3:

First and foremost I am in no way taking away or minimizing my actions on May 8, 2008. However, I do feel that after doing research on "Sudden Quarrel and Heat of Passion Manslaughter defenses" that, is where this conviction should have been.

I was not a felon and the gun was registered to me. I had a current California License to own and carry a firearm. In fact that gun was only test fired by the manufacturer; neither I nor anyone else ever fired that gun until that day.

I'm requesting a Commutation for the following reasons. First as stated above upon reading about "Sudden Quarrel and Heat of Passion Manslaughter defenses", I have always believed that is where my case would end with. Second if there were multiple things that were mishandled or not handled at all by my state appointed attorney.

When the Pathologist took the stand she stated that before she examined the body she was told that the victim (Jorge Pozos) was in an altercation and had been shot. She said, they don't tell her details so it won't influence her findings. She stated other than the bullet wound to the chest, she immediately noticed his hands and how bruised they were. She said "I thought to myself, what was this guy hitting "a block wall"? It was no wall, it was me. The doctor said she was curious to see how far into the hand the bruising went, pictures show it went into the palm on both hands. I don't remember much of the fight until I was placed in a rear chokehold, my nose and wrist were broken, I was seeing spots, and losing consciousness. I told myself "if I don't get out of this headlock I'm going to die". I made one final push and flew back. The next thing I remember is someone grabbing me and saying, "bounce, bounce the cops. That is when I heard the police sirens. I didn't sleep until the next day and when I finally took a shower I had fresh cuts on the top of my head. To this day I still have no clue as to how they got there.

So I believe that I did suffer from a concussion and was not in my right state of mind. However, my attorney Demetria Tolbert said repeatedly to me and my family, for me not to take the stand. I stated to her that if I don't take the stand then I want Dr. Roth to take the stand. Demetria said, I'll never put a psychiatrist on the stand, because all Juror's think their quacks".

I felt that I needed to take the stand even if just to clarify certain inaccuracies that the District Attorney was presenting. Everything I read on Manslaughter said the Jury wants to hear your side for state of mind consideration. Demetria said that it would do more harm than good and between character witnesses and the Pathologists testimony; the jury will see I wasn't in my right state of mind.

Richard Palmerico was a witness that called Palm Springs 911 twice from the scene, once to report the beating by saying "they're going to kill him" and second to state now the guy who was getting beat is shooting. This official 911 transcript was introduced during trial; however Mrs. Tolbert did not place this document into exhibits. After multiple days of deliberation the jury was deadlocked. Judge Erwood gave them more instructions and sent them back to deliberate. The following day the Jury asked a question. They wanted to see the 911 Transcript. Judge Erwood said; "well we've all seen it, however it was not placed into exhibits so I can't give it to them. His response to the question was that it was up to them to determine whether Mr. Palmerico's Testimony was True or False. I don't believe the jury was questioning the calls, I believe they were looking for the times between calls to discuss a cool-off period. I believe that document could have altered their decision.

Richard Mañchego
Commutation of Sentence Request

In conclusion I believe that I was denied effective representation by Demetria Tolbert's insistence to not put Dr. Roth on the stand. Please see Dr. Roth's Psychiatric summary attached.

Question 4:

I believe I should be granted a Commutation of Sentence for the following reasons:

After reading the Psychiatric Summary from Dr. Roth, two juror's letters, countless articles, and case law on "Sudden Quarrel" and "Imperfect Self-Defense cases", I truly believe my case is not a Murder Case.

I have also attached a background letter so that you can see what I did before this occurred, (Please see attached). I was not a Felon, I always worked and supported my family and I even managed to own and operate two businesses. My daughter Mia is now in College pursuing a degree as an Ultrasound Technician.

Since I have been in custody I have never been in any altercation and I have no 115's or and disciplinary infractions. I am a .V.E.P Tutor (Voluntary Education program) and I have been there for almost two years. (See attached Work Performance Evaluations). I teach an Art/History Class that students learn Art through History. I'm currently two classes away from obtaining Four Associate Degree's in American Studies, Business, Arts & Humanities, and Social & Behavioral Sciences. I have completed multiple classes in Self-Help such as Cage your Rage and Life without a Crutch, among other classes. Please see attached (Self Help Certificates). My relationship with my mother has improved dramatically over the years. Please see (support letters attached).

In closing I wasn't a bad guy out there and I'm not one in here. I made a very poor choice by thinking I could rationalize with someone who had violence in mind. I wish I could take it all back and not because I'm in prison but for Jorge. I was 36 years old when this happened and lived a good and productive life up until then. Jorge Pozos was 25 years old and although I don't know too much about Jorge's past, what I've heard was he was a good person and I'm sure had a bright future. But if I'm granted a Commutation from Murder to Manslaughter I will do everything in my power to live a productive life and if possible make amends with the Pozos Family.

Thank you so much for your time and consideration.

John Manning

On August 21, 1993, John Manning and two crime partners murdered Filiberto Mendoza over a $5,000 drug debt. Mr. Manning was one of two shooters and fired the fatal shots that killed Mr. Mendoza. On February 17, 1995, the Glenn County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Manning to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 5 years for a firearm enhancement.

Mr. Manning is now 56 years old and has been incarcerated for 25 years for this crime. In his application, he wrote, "Realizing the damage I have done to Mr. Mendoza, his family, and mine, I have been constantly educating myself on why I was able to commit such a crime." Mr. Manning described the positive gains he has made in prison, including participating in self-help classes and learning marketable skills. He wrote, "I know there is nothing that I can do to ever make up for the damage I have caused, but I believe that I have gained the tools needed to be a productive member of society and a good neighbor."

Mr. Manning has been dedicated to his rehabilitation over the course of two and a half decades in prison. Mr. Manning has received only two rule violations and has remained discipline-free for the past 18 years. He currently resides in the progressive programming facility at his prison, and has participated in various self-help programs, including Getting Out by Going In, Victim Impact, and Alcoholics Anonymous. Mr. Manning earned his GED in 2011 and is currently taking college courses. Mr. Manning also participates in the Paws for Life program, training and caring for rescue dogs. Mr. Manning has earned the support of correctional staff, who have commended him for his positive attitude and behavior. In 2018, a supervisor praised Mr. Manning for being a role model on the job and wrote that he "has been rehabilitated and deserves a second chance. If [Mr.] Manning is paroled I would enjoy him as my next door neighbor." In 2017, a correctional officer praised Mr. Manning's positive attitude and wrote, "It is clear that the decisions being made by Inmate Manning are positive, law abiding and free from disrespect or violence. . . . I expect [Mr.] Manning would be able to transition successfully if released from custody." In 2013, a program lieutenant who had known Mr. Manning for 17 years wrote that "if given the opportunity, [he] has the potential to become a productive member of society."

In addition, Mr. Manning's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Manning.

Faced with a sentence that gave him no hope of parole, Mr. Manning has nevertheless exhibited a commitment to his rehabilitation. I acknowledge that this crime was devastating to Mr. Mendoza's family members, who have opposed clemency in this case. However, after serious consideration, I cannot discount the transformation Mr. Manning has made during his incarceration. I believe that it is appropriate to reduce his sentence so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is ready to be paroled.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of John Manning to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

District Attorney: Please Return this Notice to the Governor's Office, Attn: Legal Affairs, State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814.

I have been a long term member of "Mens Support Group", which specifically deals with men's reasoning and social skills; how to recognize triggers that led to destructive behavior and methods for making and choosing correct decisions. I am a first time offender and I have remained disciplinary free. I have earned my G.E.D., and am certified to type 70 w.p.m., and have developed office skills which are highlighted in the attached documents to this petition. I have gained trade skills that I believe will help me become a productive member of society, as seen in attached documents. ("Paws For Life") I have completed over 60 weeks of formal training in the trade of "Dog Trainer" in the "Paws For Life" program at Lancaster, CSP-LAC, where I have been certified as a professional pet dog trainer since August 9th, 2014. (See certifications enclosed) I believe my in-prison conduct has been evidence of my rehabilitation and therefore I believe a commutation of sentence could be granted. I realize how great of a request I am asking and again believe that if given a second chance, I would be a productive member of society, and a good neighbor. For these reasons I am respectfully requesting for your "Executive Order for Clemency" To be granted in my case.

Thank you for your consideration in my case.

Joseph Marshall

On April 21, 2004, Joseph Marshall and a friend exchanged gang signs and words with Lorenzo Hernandez and Cristian Rodriguez, who were seated in a car. Mr. Marshall walked over to the passenger side of the vehicle and began shooting into the car. Both Mr. Hernandez and Mr. Rodriguez were shot and injured, but survived. On April 26, 2005, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Marshall to 9 years and 4 months for two counts of attempted murder, 50 years to life for 2 firearm enhancements, and 20 years for two gang enhancements – a total term of 79 years and 4 months to life. Mr. Marshall has a youth offender parole eligible date of April 2028.

Mr. Marshall was only 17 years old when he committed this crime and has now been incarcerated for over 14 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Marshall acknowledged that at the time, he did not value any life, including his own. He now realizes that "life is to be honored, valued, and appreciated not destroyed." Over the course of the past 14 years, Mr. Marshall has been dedicated to his rehabilitation. He has lived on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard that holds its residents to high standards of conduct and offers unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities, for several years. He has participated in Adult Basic Education classes and multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Alternatives to Violence, Victim Awareness, Getting Out by Going In, and Personal Awareness.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Marshall has earned the respect of prison staff and volunteers. A Men for Honor co-sponsor commended Mr. Marshall in 2016 for participating in the New Choices, Different Directions class. The sponsor wrote that "Marshall actively participated in class and group discussions. Marshall also has perfect attendance and should be commended for his effort to better himself and help others." Another self-help sponsor praised Mr. Marshall for his work in the class, writing, "During group discussion, he took full responsibility for his old life style and poor choices, as well as the harm he has caused others." The sponsor continued, "I commend Marshall for his growth and his efforts toward rehabilitation."

I commend Mr. Marshall for making efforts to better himself. Although he has more work to do, I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Joseph Marshall to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Christian Martinez

On October 10, 2004, Carlos Martinez and Peter Santisteven robbed Albert Castillo and Nacho Barbosa in their hotel room in Arcadia. During the course of the robbery, Carlos Martinez shot and killed Mr. Castillo. Christian Martinez was driving the car that Carlos Martinez and Mr. Santisteven fled in. On December 17, 2007, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Martinez to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 3 years and 4 months for robbery and a firearm enhancement.

Ms. Martinez, who was 18 years old at the time of this crime, has been incarcerated for almost 15 years. Although her sentence gave her no hope of parole, Ms. Martinez has dedicated herself to her rehabilitation. She has never been disciplined for any misconduct. She earned her GED and is currently taking college courses. Ms. Martinez has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Healthy Relationships, Anger Management, Self Esteem, Denial Management, the Juvenile Offenders Committee, and the Long Termers Organization.

Ms. Martinez's commitment to her rehabilitation has earned her above average work ratings and commendations from correctional staff. In 2016, a work supervisor wrote regarding Ms. Martinez's work on a pharmacy construction project, "Inmate Martinez strives to have perfection in her work, she will work on something until its done right." The supervisor wrote, "Inmate Martinez has a very good attitude towards all members of the crew, she can work well with anyone. She always takes direction very well, when given a task she gets the job done without any poor attitude." The supervisor concluded, "Inmate Martinez finishes a task with precision [and] when she works on a task, she makes sure it is done as efficient[ly] as the professionals." Additionally, Ms. Martinez served as a mentor in the Big Sister Mentor Program from 2012-2015. In 2014, a correctional officer commended Ms. Martinez for her work in the program, writing, "She is a role model in general population and takes on the responsibility of being a mentor and guiding new inmates in positive programming activities, including events, workshops, self-help classes and other positive activities." The officer continued, "Inmate Martinez is an active participant in the program and helps in the rehabilitation of herself and others."

Based on her conduct in prison, dedication to self-improvement, and commitment to helping others, I believe that Ms. Martinez has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Christian Martinez to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

her as a parent. At the time of this crime, I was 18 years of age. A few months before this crime I got out of a residential program at the Phoenix House. I was trying to get my life together by finding a job, buying a car and taking care of the responsibilities as a young single mother. On the day of this crime I did not expect for a robbery to occur. Earlier in the day I was driving around with Peter S., looking for Carlos Martinez and Miguel Barragan. Once I found them, I realized that Carlos and Kristina Jaime were in need of a place to stay for the night. I offered to get them a room at a motel until they can figure out where to stay. We then went to the Motel 6, once we arrived my intentions were to help out Carlos and Kristina with a place to stay. Something I've always done growing up with him. I did not know Alberta Castillo and Nacho Barboza who were victimized in this crime. At the time of the robbery and murder I was in my car. In the end I drove away with the others without any knowledge of what had just taken place. I was young with no sense of understanding the consequences of my actions, but I now realize the things I could have done differently. If I would have stayed focused on my responsibilities as a mother, I would have not been out there with the intentions of helping Carlos and Kristina find a place to stay. This crime possibly could have been prevented if I had not placed myself in that situation in the first place. I have deep regrets on the impact that this crime has had on the community, the victims, and their families.

a higher education through Feather River College to obtain my A.A. in Liberal Arts: Fine Arts and Humanity. I have taken the opportunities to improve myself to become a stronger, better compassionate woman and not stay stagnant with the sentence of L.W.O.P. The groups that I have taken that have brought about my change but are not limited to are Am.A.R.E, Victims Impact Awareness, and Beyond Violence. In these groups I realized that I was broken and I had to look within myself to find the answers of why I did the things I did. After reflecting on my past decisions, which became my biggest mistakes. I seen I was impulsive with no consideration of the consequences to which would happen in the end. Today I am aware of the results to all my actions, with seeing the end in mind. I have learned to set healthy boundaries and how to defuse or remove myself from bad situations that may occur. I know now that I am not perfect and can learn from my mistakes. I intend on being the best person I can be and by remaining disciplinary free shows that I can live a law abiding life. I gained skills at the jobs I have worked at, which are a porter; cleaning up the units, as a Stationary Engineer; working on H.V.A.C. throughout prison, and Inmate Day Laborer (IDL); which is construction work, to benefit me in becoming a working citizen of society. I also participate in all the prison fundraisers, whose proceeds go to help out non-profit organizations in the community. If I were granted a commutation it would give me the opportunity to re-write with my family and daughter, so that I may help and support them by showing and instilling in my daughter the morals of being a great person and citizen. I would like to thank you for considering me

Christina Martinez

On July 3, 2004, Christina Martinez, her boyfriend Robert Hammons, and two juveniles attempted to rob Clayton Skinner at his house. Ms. Martinez gained access to the home, while Mr. Hammons and one of the juveniles searched for valuables. Mr. Hammons then beat Mr. Skinner to death with a steering wheel club. On September 22, 2011, the Sacramento County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Martinez to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

An investigation conducted by the Board of Parole Hearings revealed significant evidence that Ms. Martinez was suffering from the effects of domestic violence perpetrated by Mr. Hammons at the time of the crime. Witnesses reported seeing Ms. Martinez with bruises and hearing Mr. Hammons verbally abuse Ms. Martinez, including threatening to kill her. One witness reported, "I personally watched him abuse her emotionally, financially, mentally, and a few times physically." Mr. Hammons was arrested in 2004 for domestic violence committed against Ms. Martinez, after an altercation during which Mr. Hammons assaulted and scratched her.

Ms. Martinez acknowledged the effect the abuse had on her actions at the time of the crime and described how she has worked to address her history while incarcerated. She wrote that she is "Working hard on myself to discover why I was part of such a heinous crime, taking several self-help classes while being incarcerated. I'm active in my rehabilitation. I am a survivor of domestic violence, which led up to the crime I committed. Suffering from trauma and abuse since childhood, as it continued with Robert. I'm grateful that prison saved my life."

Ms. Martinez has demonstrated her commitment to her rehabilitation. She has only been disciplined once for misconduct in prison. She has facilitated and participated in self-help programs, including Beyond Violence, Co-Dependency, Overcoming Addictive Behaviors, Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, Verbal Abuse in Relationships, and A Batterer's Perspective. In 2017, a retired chief deputy warden commended Ms. Martinez for her work with the Beyond Violence program, noting that Ms. Martinez was "very influential and had such a positive impact on the groups" that she was immediately hired as a facilitator. The retired chief deputy warden wrote, "Ms. Martinez has made such a positive impact on the Central California Women's Facility community as a role model and upstanding citizen. . . . Ms. Martinez is a mentor for the younger ladies who are new to the system. She is a powerful force and a wonderful asset to the Beyond Violence program. I am pleased to have her on my team. I have watched her work hard to turn her life around and become an active participant in her children and family member's lives."

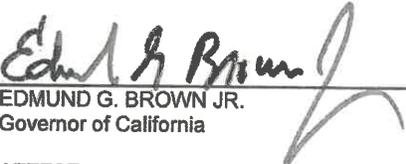

In 2018, a correctional counselor who has known Ms. Martinez for seven years commended her on her programming and attitude, noting that she is a role model to other prisoners. The counselor wrote, "Inmate Martinez interacts and communicates with staff positively and is respectful to both staff and her peers." The counselor continued, "Because of her positivity, it is evident that Inmate Martinez is well liked by staff and her peers and her optimistic behavior and attitude contributes [positively] to the prison population."

Mr. Skinner's family has expressed opposition to Ms. Martinez's release. While the profound impact of Ms. Martinez's crime cannot be erased, I have carefully weighed the evidence. Given Ms. Martinez's exemplary conduct in prison and her efforts to put the impacts of her prior abuse behind her, I believe she has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings in order to determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Christina Martinez to a total of 13 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

1. Conviction Summary:

List all prior convictions, including any in other states or countries.

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crimes for which you are requesting a Commutation.

This application for Commutation of Sentence arises from the 2004 murder. I, Christina Marie Martinez, age 19 at the time of the crime committed, was a severely battered woman since childhood. I was convicted of murder in the first degree, sentenced to (LWOP) Life Without the possibility of Parole, on September 22, 2011. I was in an abusive relationship with my boyfriend at the time Robert Lee Hammons, his two friends Taja Holliman and brother, Teran Holliman, and I were convicted of murdering Mr. Clayton Skinner. I lived in fear of Robert being abused and threatened daily. Robert is the "mastermind" who threatened to harm and kill anyone who "snitched" on him. Before the crime was committed in 2004 the police arrested Robert for domestic violence toward myself. After being arrested Robert threatened me into not pressing charges. During the trial leading up to the conviction, Robert continued to threaten me while incarcerated at Sacramento County Jail. Sending verbal messages through other inmates saying, "If I testify he will kill my family and our children." This type of abuse was part of Robert's ongoing pattern of terror, cruelty, and control over myself and our children.

Robert physically, verbally, sexually, psychologically abused me from 2003 at age eighteen until the day I was sentenced and transferred to state prison, the course of eight years. Robert's physical abuse against me included punching, shoving and choking. He also threatened to kill me and our children if I ever left him. Robert knew I suffered as a child by seeing my father physically abuse my mother, it brought back fear that psychologically terrified me. Being molested at the age of two by the neighbors, which is my very first memory. Police were called out to the home. I remember being asked, "Where at on my body was I touched?" I pointed to each part my body was touched, no one was arrested due to the ages of the two, a nine year old boy and a fourteen year old girl. Suffering from trauma and abuse sexually, physically, verbally, and psychologically. Robert often blamed me for his physical violence toward me claiming "you made me do it," after punching, shoving, or choking me. He would threaten to harm our children if I told anyone about the abuse. I was afraid constantly. I felt at times death upon myself would be the only way out. I had no way out of this deep darkness. Robert sought control over every aspect of my life. He subjected me to punishment if I did not obey him by not allowing me to visit my family, forcibly making me pick and choose our children over my family. Robert strove to break me down completely, and make me dependent upon him by telling me that I was "worthless, fat, lazy, and no one will ever love me except him." He would criticize my body and my weight because I was obese. I believed the cruel things he would tell me, because my father said mean things about my weight. I began using drugs to cope with the abuse at the age of nine. Smoking marijuana kept me numb to all the painful emotions I felt. In 2003, once the abuse began with Robert, my addiction to marijuana progressed. Keeping my mind and thoughts in a trance along with my emotions.

In the immediate days proceed Mr. Skinner's murder I tried to leave Robert. I was beaten and threatened by Robert that he will kill me and my family. On July 2, 2004, Robert asked me to drive him and his friends to the store. On the way there Robert changed his mind and said follow my directions to this house. As I would obey his command in fear of being belittled and harmed, I continued to drive. Stopping on an residential street, Taja got out. Moments later he came back saying "It's not cool." Robert began to become furious and yelled "little bitch." He then told me get out and go knock at this door. I was terrified. Sitting in the driver seat felt like forever. Robert then punched me and said, "get the fuck out and do as I say." Handing me a cell phone he sent Taja with me saying, "knock at the door, get it open, tell them you want to buy the stuff for sale." In terror I walked up to the house, knocked at the door, not knowing who lived there. Mr. Skinner answered by looking out the side window, he said, "What do you want?" In a daze not sure what to say I said as told, " I want to buy the stuff for sale." Mr. Skinner looked at Taja and I for a few moments then closed the curtain. Standing there horrified not knowing what will happen I heard the door unlock. As it opened Taja forced his way in. Robert along with Teran followed Taja into the house. I was petrified frozen in place. I then turned around and ran back to the vehicle. In a panic I was shaking trying to start the vehicle. Then all three entered the vehicle, Robert yells at me "Bitch fucken drive." I drove away not sure of what happened. While driving Robert said, "I'll kill you all if you ever speak on this day." The tone of his voice sent horror through my body.

At this time in my life I worked two jobs, Arco AM/PM gas station, also I was in training to become a bank teller for Wells Fargo Bank. Once I began working full time at Wells Fargo, Robert questioned me about my job duties. Demanding that I bring him the customers ATM cards. In fear while being beaten daily I stole the ATM cards for Robert. He then activated them and began withdrawing money. In 2005 I quit my job at Wells Fargo Bank due to an investigation. Detectives found evidence of Robert withdrawing money from the ATM machines. When questioned by the detectives I lied in fear of Robert and said my sister made me steal the access cards. I admitted that I did take them, I even wrote a letter of apology. I was threatened by Robert daily. I lived in fear of him. After working for Wells Fargo Bank I never applied for another job. In 2008 I plead guilty to all charges filed against me. Sentenced to two hundred and ten days. Pregnant at the time, the Judge ordered that I be placed on home detention. I have never been in Juvenile Hall, I have never committed any type of crimes, until I was forced, beaten and broken down by Robert. He abused me physically while I was pregnant with all three of our children. Hospital documents from Sutter Foundation will show proof that in 2005-2006, 2006-2007, and 2008-2009, I undergone several stress test while pregnant with all three of our children, suffering from toxic stress.

3. Explain why you are requesting a Commutation.

This request of Commutation is written with a remorseful heart. Mr. Clayton Skinner's life was stolen from him and his family in a brutal and selfish way. Words can never express the regret I feel every day. I am the driver who wasn't brave enough to ask for help. His life was ripped away from his parents, siblings, family, and friends. The effects of Mr. Skinner's murder effected many lives. The whole Skinner family, the Sacramento Community, the emergency response team, the police department, the detectives, the Judge, jury, District Attorney, my family, children, friends, myself, along with Taja and Teran Holliman's family. At nineteen, if I was only as strong minded as I am today, Mr. Skinner may still be alive. It is with deep empathy that I live with every single day. Working hard on myself to discover why I was a part of such a heinous crime, taking several self-help classes while being incarcerated. I'm active in my rehabilitation. I am a survivor of Domestic Violence, which lead up to the crime I committed. Suffering from trauma and abuse since childhood, as it continued with Robert. I'm grateful that prison saved my life. I had to lose everything. Mr. Skinner lost his life so that I can have this freedom within. Learning that I was severely co-dependent, which is a learned behavior. Being abused sexually at the age of two. Watching and enduring the physical, verbal, emotional abuse of my father placed on my mother, siblings, and myself. I was never given a chance at life. I live to break the cycle of abuse by teaching my children love and the value of self-worth. I am aware of the trauma and bad associates that brought me to prison. I choose to live my life crime-free. I am blessed to say, "I found healing and forgiveness in prison."

Teran was sentenced to voluntary manslaughter, a total of fifteen years in state prison. In December 2015, the Court of Appeal claimed by statute of limitation the burglary and robbery charges in this case should be reversed and dismissed. Due to the first degree felony murder Special Circumstance Rule, I am still sentenced to Life Without the Possibility of Parole. During trial I was tried and convicted by the same jury as Robert, sentenced to the same charges as him. I was given anti-depression and opiates to help cope with all the back and forth trial dates. The medication kept me in an altered conscious state of mind, unable to fully comprehend what was going on or being said.

Governor Brown it is with prayer that you will see the compassion that I have. I have been victimized all my life, never given a chance until the prison system saved me. I am a woman of change, worthy, and deserving. I am rehabilitated. Mr. Skinner's murder effected a generation of family members and community lives. His life was sadly stolen, my life was saved by his death which I am reminded by daily. Governor Brown I pray you will give me a second chance to live in society. I would like to personally say thank you to the prison system for rescuing me. My request is that I be granted this commutation.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a Commutation.

Governor Brown, I have worked hard to improve and rehabilitate myself while being incarcerated. Understand the effects of my bad choices and being aware of my deeply rooted issues. I feel deep sorrow for Mr. Skinner and his family. Lack of self-worth, and allowing anyone into my life caused Mr. Skinner to be murdered using substances to hide behind my emotions and feelings. I did not listen to my inner voice when I felt a person or situation was wrong. Searching for love and acceptance in anyone who said they loved or cared for me, without questioning why. I did not ask for help when I needed help.

I have three young children ages eight, ten, and eleven, whom love me tremendously. They wait patiently in hope that their mommy will come home soon. I love my children dearly, I teach them the value of self-worth. Although I am not physically in their lives I am still the best mother I can be. Showing them love and affection by communication through mail and phone conversations. Guiding and encouraging them to make healthy and positive choices for themselves. Listening to their needs and expressing my life experiences with them. Congratulating them when they have done well in all they do. Helping them to set goals for their future. When they make a mistake helping them take responsibility for their actions, so they understand they have a choice and there are consequences. Helping them with their homework by asking them questions and finding ways to improve. I do the same with all my nieces and nephews. My children inspire me to never give up as I do the same with them. My mother who is raising my children has several health problems. Diagnosed with dementia, she is losing her memory. I have family members and friends who have supported me emotionally, spiritually, and financially throughout the years incarcerated. They plan on continuing to be supportive upon my release to society.

I choose to live being an abiding citizen here in my community at CCWF Being a role model to the younger women. I have participated in numerous self-help classes to improve and better myself. Being a facilitator, I openly share my deeply rooted problems, issues, and experiences with others. Giving hope and knowledge to those whom feel there is no hope. I've found healing within, sharing this freely given freedom with everyone.

Here are a few out of many self-help groups that has impacted my recovery and rehabilitation.

- Beyond Violence – I am a certified mentor who participated first, now facilitates in this Pilot Program here at CCWF. Recently trained by Dr. Stephanie Covington who created this curriculum, and her most recent work called “Healing Trauma.” This program has helped me understand what trauma is and how my mind and body reacts to the situations in my life today. Beyond Violence taught me about my belief system and how to address my emotions assertively. I learned how to identify my feelings and ways to express any type of anger by communication techniques. I've discovered that my distorted thinking was a learned behavior. I have new coping skills that has taught me how to communicate.
- Narcotics and Alcoholics Anonymous – Narcotics Anonymous taught me about my addiction to drugs and why I used substances. Hiding from the pain and my feelings, I used drugs to numb myself. Working the 12 steps of recovery was a process and well worth all the tears shed. I fiercely searched while learning the 12 steps. This program broke me down while building me back strong. I had a sponsor through “Love lifted me Recovery: who helped me through the storm of tears and emotions. I'm grateful to have six years of sobriety, it's a beautiful blessing. I was on the panel of N.A. and A.A. for three years. I'm also a sponsor here at CCWF to all women in need of help with their recovery. I volunteer my recovery by walking others through the 12 steps.
- Co-dependency – While participating in this self-help class I was unaware of what co-dependency was. I realized I struggled all my life, searching for love and acceptance through other people and drugs. I had very low self-esteem, fear of being alone. I seeked approval from others. No self-worth, allowing anyone into my life, being in unhealthy relationships. I felt ashamed of who I was and I believed all the horrible things said to me. Co-dependency taught me how to love myself, while building my self-esteem, it gave me strength to look within and love who I am. I understand the difference between a healthy and an unhealthy relationship. Co-dependency is a deeply rooted disease, passed down by family generation.

- Victims Impact and Awareness - Has allowed me to become aware of the full impact that my actions and bad choices has effected Mr. Skinner, his family, and several innocent lives. The choices and the bad associates I chose has helped rob Mr. Skinner of his life. His family, my family, the Sacramento community were all impacted by the murder and crimes against Mr. Skinner. I can only imagine the pain and fear his parents and family feels. The neighbors, first response team, Judge, jury, detectives, my family, my children, the community, myself, along with the Holliman family, Robert's family, were all effected by the murder of Mr. Skinner. Wells Fargo Bank, the employees, and the customers were also affected by this crime. I have impacted many lives by the crimes that have been committed. I understand that I can never undo the hurt, pain, fear, that I've caused. I give back in honor of Mr. Skinner and his family by teaching others and helping them with their struggles.
- Vocation and Education – I have accomplished and completed this vocational class called "Computer Literacy." I learned about: Applying for a job, Computer hardware and software, how to operate a computer, applications for word processing, spread sheet features, and presentations of software. I graduated from this IC3 Computer Literacy Program successfully. Also I am currently involved with (V.E.P.) Voluntary Education Program to improve my education and to better myself for my future goals set for college.
- Domestic Violence (LOVE) – This is my most recent class that I have begun to facilitate. "LOVE" stand for Living Outside Violence Everyday, a program sponsored by the active Warden here at CCWF. This program allows me to share my domestic abuse with others who were and are currently victims of abuse. Giving them knowledge of a battered woman, and strength to find healing. Sharing my abuse experiences with those who feel all alone, giving them courage to survive from their struggles. We are survivors of domestic abuse, together we have a voice. This program brings awareness and allows many women to grow and heal.

I am not afraid to ask for help and when others are in need of guidance, I help them as well. These self-help classes has helped me to develop healthy changes and strength I needed to become rehabilitated. I'll continue to improve, learn, and grow each day, even upon my release. I have forgiveness toward myself and those who caused me harm. I pray one day Mr. Skinner's family will be able to forgive me as well.

Therefore I humbly request that my application for Commutation be granted. Governor Brown, I ask of you to please either commute the remainder of my prison sentence or to remove the LWOP designation so that I may have a second chance to prove my case by the Parole Board. Teran Holliman was sentenced to fifteen years with a chance to parole. It is with great prayer that I be given that chance as well. If given the chance I will continue to live with awareness and never commit any type of crime ever again. I look forward to being a positive asset in my community and in society. Thank you Governor Brown for your time and consideration.

5. If you paid any money or given any gift to any to assist in the preparation of this application, list their name, address and amount paid or given. (Required by Penal Code Sec 4807.2).

I, Christina Maria Martinez, has solely written and filed this application for commutation in prayer of a second chance.

Leugardo Martinez

In 2001, Leugardo Martinez found out that his wife was having an affair with Agustin Garcia. Mr. Martinez and one of his friends went to confront Mr. Garcia at his job where a fight ensued. Mr. Garcia was stabbed and taken to another location where he died. On September 12, 2003, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Martinez to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 1 year for a deadly weapon enhancement.

Mr. Martinez is now 63 years old and has been incarcerated for over 17 years. He seeks a commutation based on his rehabilitation. In his interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Martinez stated he is a better person and "would like a second chance . . . to help others and change their lives."

Indeed, Mr. Martinez has demonstrated a commitment to bettering himself. He has successfully participated in the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard that holds its residents to high standards of conduct and offers unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities, for several years. Notably, Mr. Martinez has never been disciplined for any misconduct. He earned a vocational certification in computer skills and is working towards a GED. He has also taken advantage of multiple self-help programs, including Criminal Thinking, Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, Getting Out By Going In, and Alternatives to Violence. Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Wilson has earned the respect of prison staff. A chapel volunteer wrote that Mr. Martinez "exhibited characteristics of a repentant and a changed man." The volunteer continued, "[Mr. Martinez] helped to prevent gang riots and murder . . . at considerable risk to his own life."

Mr. Martinez participated in a senseless crime. However, he has made considerable efforts to turn his life around and has demonstrated that he can become a contributing member to his community. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Martinez has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Leugardo Martinez to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Complete this application to request a commutation of sentence from the Governor. A commutation is a reduction or elimination of a sentence. If granted, this application will become a public record, however specific personal information will be redacted (hidden) before it is made available to the public.

APPLICANT INFORMATION

Name: Leugardo Martinez Date of Birth: [REDACTED]-55 Inmate ID: C DCR # V-10102

Address: P.O. BOX-4430, LANCASTER, CA 93539 Facility: LANCASTER STATE PRISON

1. Conviction Summary:

List all prior convictions, including any in other states or countries. Attach additional pages if necessary.
Offense(s):	Date of offense(s):	County of conviction(s):	Sentence(s):
187 (Murder)	09-31-2001	LOS ANGELES COUNTY	L-WOP
207 (Kidnapping)	09-31-2001	LOS ANGELES COUNTY	5 years.

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a commutation (attach additional pages as necessary):

The man who was having an affair with defendant Martinez's wife. Mr. Martinez never intended to kidnap the victim. Further, Martinez did not know that the victim would end up killed. It was a complete surprise to me when co-defendant Rafael Angiano pulled a knife out of his clothing and stabbed the victim.

3. Explain why you are requesting a commutation (attach additional pages as necessary):

I am requesting a pardon because I have 16 years in prison and I did not kill the person that the court accused me of killing.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation (attach additional pages if necessary):

Like I said previously I did not kill the person. The court accuse me of killing, and the person that actually did the crime wants and is willing to sign a declaration saying that he was the one that did the crime.

5. If you have paid any money or given any gift to anyone to assist in the preparation of this application, list their name, address, and amount paid or given (required by Penal Code section 4807.2):

21 request that the Court exercise its discretion and preclude 22 the amending of the information as it is untimely and will 23 substantially prejudice the rights of the defendant and 24 deny him due process. This Motion will be based on the

1 made clear throughout the pre-trial proceedings in this
2 case. In fact, all plea negotiations involved lesser charges
3 of second degree murder, and voluntary and involuntary
4 manslaughter. Not once were defense counsel ever advised
5 the prosecution might proceed solely on the felony-murder
6 theory. It was not until now, at the start of trial.

8 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

9 AMENDMENTS

10 The prosecution can amend without the court's permission
11 at any time before a plea is entered. After that, AMENDMENTS
12 ARE MADE AT THE COURT'S DISCRETION. Here, defendants already 13 months ago entered pleas of not guilty to the information;
14 any subsequent amendment can only be permitted by the 15 court and at the court's discretion. Penal Code Section 16 1009.

17 If an amendment is made shortly before trial and requires
18 further work by defense counsel, it is common for the court
19 to grant a continuance. (Penal Code section 1050).

20 Amendments are rarely permitted during trial. Here, the 21 first pool of 80 jurors has been sworn in and the court has 22 not yet rendered a decision on the amended information. By trial
23 time, the defense has already committed to a defense that it
24 would not have otherwise pursued had it known of the amended
25 information and the prosecution's newly announced felony-murder
26 theory. People v. Jones (1985) 164 CA3d 1173, 211 CR 167.

1 Furthermore, if the defendant has not yet pleaded to the 2 amended complaint, the trial shall not continue if the 3 substantial (due process) rights of the defendant would be
4 prejudiced, in which event a reasonable postponement, not longer
5 than the ends of justice require, may be granted. Penal Code
6 section 1009.

7 Here, the defense of Martinez was one whereby he never
8 intended to kidnap the victim. He did not know the co-defendant
9 of his own volition would stab the victim. He did not know
10 the co-defendant even had a knife. At this time defendant would 11 have to file a 995 since no evidence of a felony murder was 12 presented at the preliminary hearing pertaining to him.

13 An information may not be amended to add a charge that was 14 not proved at the preliminary hearing. Penal Code section 739.
15 People v. Pimental (1970) 6 CA3d 729, 734. No charge of 16 kidnapping was ever proved at the preliminary hearing against

19 THE COURT CAN INSTRUCT ON LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES IN THIS 20 TRIAL

21 By the prosecution's own admission in its moving papers, 22 "The trial court simply has no power to impinge on 23 charging function of the prosecution, except in 24 one narrow circumstance. The trial court has a sua
25 sponte duty to instruct on lesser included offenses
26 when the evidence raises a question as to whether 27 all of the elements of the charged offense were 28 present and there's evidence of a lesser offense."

of adequately preparing an adequate defense at this point with no time to file 995's, hire experts as to whether the victim was dead at the time of the kidnapping which would negate the felony murder, etc.

At most defense requests the amended information be rejected as untimely. At the least, the election is premature and the court should decide the issue once all the evidence has come in at trial.

Rosa Martinez

In 2012, 21-year-old Rosa Martinez and Alejandro Hernandez planned to rob Julieta Gonzalez's home. When Ms. Gonzalez answered the door, Ms. Martinez pulled a gun out, and Mr. Hernandez demanded a briefcase. Ms. Gonzalez started screaming, and Ms. Martinez and Mr. Hernandez fled. On October 16, 2013, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Martinez to 3 years for attempted robbery plus a 10-year firearm enhancement – a total term of 13 years in prison.

In her application for clemency, Ms. Martinez explained that she was severely addicted to methamphetamines when she committed this crime, and was desperate for money to buy more drugs. She reported that since then, she has made major changes in her life. Ms. Martinez wrote, "I have been clean and sober my entire incarceration. In my sobriety I now know I had so many other choices that day and that I needed to cry out for help. I thank God each and every day that no one was physical[ly] harmed because of my action. I know that I caused them harm and pain and for that I am truly sorry."

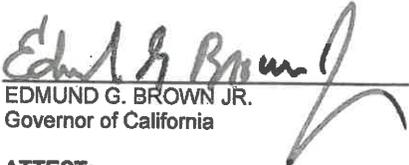

Ms. Martinez has maintained an excellent record during her incarceration. She has never been disciplined for misconduct, and has never been involved with drugs, violence, or gang activity in prison. Ms. Martinez earned her high school diploma, as well as a vocational certification in carpentry. She has participated in multiple self-help programs including Narcotics Anonymous, Codependents Anonymous, LifeScripting, and Victims Impact and Progress. Ms. Martinez lives in an honor dorm and has participated in several fundraisers for charity. Her family members have written in support of her commutation, and offered their support as she transitions back into the community.

Ms. Martinez committed a very reckless crime when she was in the grip of a serious addiction. In the years since, she has worked hard to achieve sobriety and turn her life around. I encourage Ms. Martinez to continue to participate in drug treatment and other programs. I believe it is appropriate to reduce Ms. Martinez's sentence so that she can make her case before the Board of Parole Hearings by July 3, 2020 so that it can determine whether she is ready to be released on parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Rosa Martinez so she is eligible for parole consideration by July 3, 2020.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

ANSWERS TO COMMUTATION

#2: Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a commutation.

July 23, 2012 I was 22 years old. When I committed my crime I was addicted to Methamphetamine and the day of my crime I was withdrawing and needed to find more. When I picked the house to rob, I clearly remember that my addiction kept telling me to do the robbery, but the whole time my heart kept telling me to stop. I had never been in trouble before or committed a crime.

My intent that day was to get money to feed my addiction, never was it my intention to use a firearm or hurt anyone. Looking back at that day now I feel modified that it was me that committed that crime.

#3: Explain why you are requesting a commutation.

The reason why I am filing a commutation now is because I am becoming the young woman I have always wanted to be. I know that change is a long journey, but I am so willing and excited for the changes in my life. I have been clean and sober my entire incarceration. In my sobriety I now know I had so many other choices that day and that I needed to cry out for help instead. I thank God each and every day that no one was physical harmed because of my action. I know that I caused them harm and pain and for that I am truly sorry. All I can do is to honor them by my actions.

#4: Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

I am not asking for my Robbery conviction to be commuted (the 3 years) That is a small price to pay for what I put everyone through, I am filing this commutation in hopes that I be granted a reduction of the gun enhancement to be lowered from 10 years to the standard 1 year.

I have worked very hard to become the person I am today to prove to my myself, my family and society that my freedom and future will be bright and productive. My plans when I am released are to join a local NA/AA group and find a sponsor, register for college and further my education. I very much would like the opportunity to speak my testimony to youth groups on the dangers of drugs and how it can lead to prison.

Governor Brown, every night when I lay down and say my prayers, I can see my future, married to the love of my life, and me and my husband raising our children. I see myself having that happy and wonderful life filled with love and joy.

I want to give back the support and love to my Mother that she has shown me all these years. I want to be a great role model to my nieces and nephews as well. I want to thank you for the opportunity to speak to you regarding my request to reduce my Enhancement and prove to you that I can succeed and be a productive member of society.

#5: If you have paid any money or gift to anyone to assist I the preparation of this application, list their name, address, and amount paid or given.

No, I did not pay money or gifts to anyone for any help, it was important to me to tell my story all by myself.

Demetrie Mayfield

On February 3, 1983, Demetrie Mayfield broke into the house of Ora Pope to confront her about turning him in for stealing her car. Mr. Mayfield spoke with Ms. Pope and her houseguest, Edward Moreno, for several minutes before shooting and killing them both. On September 30, 1983, Mr. Mayfield was sentenced to death. In 2001, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals determined that Mr. Mayfield received ineffective assistance of counsel at the penalty phase of his trial. Following a penalty phase retrial, on April 10, 2003, the San Bernardino County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Mayfield to life without the possibility of parole for two counts of murder.

Mr. Mayfield is now 57 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 36 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Mayfield expressed remorse for the killings and wrote, "I think about them and what I did just about every day. I have no excuse for killing them. I know that I was young and wild. I am sorry for what I did to them."

Mr. Mayfield has worked to transform himself in prison. He has only been disciplined once for misconduct in the last 24 years of his incarceration. He has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, and Alternatives to Violence. In 2010, Mr. Mayfield completed vocational training in office services. He currently resides on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard where inmates have access to unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities.

With better representation during Mr. Mayfield's trial, his attorney argues that Mr. Mayfield might have had a better outcome, preventing almost four decades of incarceration with no hope of parole. Mr. Mayfield's application for clemency details how his trial attorney's deep-seated and pervasive racial bias led him to consistently fail to provide minimally adequate representation to his clients, including Mr. Mayfield.

Mr. Mayfield committed a senseless crime as a young man and struggled when he initially came to prison. However, in the years since, he has shown a desire to transform himself and make amends for his past. I see enough progress on Mr. Mayfield's part to conclude that he should have an opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Demetrie Mayfield to a total of 36 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

INTRODUCTION

Demetrie Mayfield, C-74200, asks you, Governor Brown, to exercise your Executive Clemency powers to make him eligible for parole. Mr. Mayfield has served more than thirty-five years on a sentence of life without the possibility of parole for the killing of two neighbors in 1983.

On February 3, 1983, when Demetrie Mayfield was twenty-one years old,¹ he broke into Ora Pope's house in San Bernardino. Ms. Pope lived near to him, and was the mother of a close friend. Mr. Mayfield was angry at her because she had turned him in for joy riding in her car, and he had been convicted of car theft a few weeks earlier. Mr. Mayfield found Ms. Pope and her friend John Moreno talking. Mr. Mayfield spoke with them for several minutes while pointing a single shot sawed off shotgun at them. The gun went off and Ms. Pope died instantly. In shock at what had happened, Mr. Mayfield reloaded the shotgun and shot and killed Mr. Moreno.

Mr. Mayfield was convicted of murder with special circumstances, and sentenced to death in 1983. Eventually, in 2001, after an arduous journey through the California and federal courts, the death sentence was vacated by the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Mr. Mayfield is currently serving a sentence of life without the possibility of parole, at California State Prison – Los Angeles County, in Lancaster, California.

If that was all there was to the story, it might be appropriate for Demetrie Mayfield to spend his remaining days in prison. However, there is a lot more to be said about Demetrie, the murders and the aftermath. While none of what follows excuses the murders, it provides context and helps to explain why Mr. Mayfield should be made parole eligible now, thirty-five years after his crime.

Demetrie is now fifty-six years old and a changed man. He has matured greatly and made a life for himself in prison marked by seriousness and discipline.

Demetrie is and always was deeply remorseful for his crime. In recent years he has re-connected with increasing numbers of family and loved ones. He has solid parole plans and his family would support him getting back on his feet if you reduce his sentence to life with the possibility of parole, and he were ever to obtain parole from the Board of Parole Hearings.

For much of his time in prison, there was little programming available to him. This is because for the first twenty years he spent in the CDCR, he was on death row. Although death row prisoners can go to yard and have a few other programs available, for the most part there is no significant rehabilitative programming available to them. Nevertheless he worked to earn a 12.9 GED while on death row. After he was moved to a general population prison in 2003, Demetrie was initially housed in overcrowded Level IV prisons, including the California Correctional Institution in Tehachapi, Kern Valley State Prison in Delano, and ultimately California State Prison – Los Angeles County, where he is currently housed. For his first ten years in these prisons, as the Supreme Court overcrowding case recounts, there were frequent lockdowns and little programming available in Level IV high security prisons.

However, in recent years there has been a substantial general expansion in the amount of rehabilitative programs available in all CDCR prisons, and for the last fifteen months, Demetrie he has been housed on an “honor yard” at his prison, California State Prison – Los Angeles County, where he resides with other older prisoners serving Life-Without-Parole sentences whose behavior is good. Since he has been on the honor yard, he has taken and successfully completed anger management and other rehabilitative and educational programs that are available to him, as well as engaging in educational courses through the mail. He continues to take these programs.

I. Mr. Mayfield Is Remorseful for His Crime and He Has Changed and Grown During His 35-Years of Incarceration.

Mr. Mayfield has always been and remains deeply remorseful for his killing of Ora Pope and John Moreno. He confessed to the crime very soon after it took place, shortly after he was arrested. In 1983, after his conviction, he told the Probation Officer that “I feel bad about it now. It shouldn’t have happened in the first place. I can’t sleep. I cry every time I think about it.” (See Exhibit A (September 30, 1983 Probation Officer’s Report) at 3.) His cousin Teresa Mayfield remembers how he cried about the crimes in the days and months after the killings, when he spoke with her and her children by phone and how even now his remorse comes through when they speak. (See Exhibit A.)

These feelings continue today. As Mr. Mayfield explains in his letter accompanying this application, “I think about them and what I did just about every day. I have no excuse for killing them. I know that I was young and wild. I am deeply sorry for what I did to them.” (See Exhibit B hereto (Demetrie Mayfield Letter to Governor Brown).)

In her letter of support, Mr. Mayfield’s cousin Teresa also stresses how he has matured, how he “continues to show and share his remorse,” and how he “empathizes more visibly now.” (Exhibit C) The other letters of support submitted by Mr. Mayfield’s close extended family also focus on his remorse and on the personal growth that has taken place while Mr. Mayfield has been in prison. His brother Cicero describes him as “a changed man” who “has matured in prison” and “grown as a person.” (See Exhibit D hereto.) Demetrie’s sister Kim Byrd notes that Demetrie “speaks only of positive things,” and that “he is working hard to better himself, going to school and taking other programs in prison.” (See Exhibit E hereto.) She notes that “he has religion in his heart” and explains that “he misses his son and his grandchildren.” Id. She explains that if he were released, she “would love it if Demetrie could live with me and my husband.” Id. Demetrie’s son, Demetrie Jr., explains in a letter of support that he has recently reconnected with his father and that were he to be released “it will make me and my children very happy” and “we will surround him with love and care.” (See Exhibit F hereto.) Demetrie’s younger brother Ivan Johnson reports that Demetrie “tells me how sorry he is for what he did and wishes he could make it up to the Pope and Moreno families, and to our family.” (See Exhibit G hereto.) He promises that if Demetrie were released, he and his wife “would look out for him.” Id.

The letters of support also highlight Demetrie’s kindness and even heroism from before the crime. For example, in a letter from 2003 attached to his current letter of support, Demetrie’s brother Cicero tells the story of how Demetrie rescued him from drowning when he was twelve years old. (See Exhibit G) His cousin Teresa recalls how before his crime, Demetrie would frequently babysit her children, making them dinner and putting them to bed, and explains that this help was crucial in allowing her to go to school and become a teacher’s aide who works with troubled children. (See Exhibit C)

II. Because of His Racist Defense Attorney, Mr. Mayfield Was Never Given a Fair Trial Which Now Would Be Required Under the U.S. Supreme Court’s Latest Sixth Amendment Right to Counsel Decisions, and His Appeals Revealed Mitigating Information About His Life and Crime.

Demetrie’s mother was just fifteen when he was born, and he had four siblings. When Demetrie was about two or three, his parents separated, and his father was mostly absent after that. He was raised by a hard-working single mother in a multi-sibling, working poor family in San Bernardino’s black ghetto. He had no sources of work, no job skills and little meaningful formal education.

Demetrie had long suffered from Type-1 diabetes, which first presented when he was a ten-year old. In 1971, Demetrie was mentioned in a profile of Meals-on Wheels as someone receiving a diabetic diet from the organization. (See “Meals on Wheels Notes Anniversary of Hospital Route,” Redlands Daily Facts, October 5, 1971 (Exhibit J hereto.) Unfortunately, growing up, Demetrie did not take care of himself and did not learn to properly manage his diabetes. In 1983, when he murdered Ms. Pope and Mr. Moreno, his diabetes was out of control because he was not taking his insulin shots regularly, he was eating poorly; he was also drinking heavily, and smoking marijuana and PCP.

Mr. Mayfield's first victim, Ms. Ora Pope, lived near Demetrie. She was the mother of a close friend of his, and in many respects like a second mother to Demetrie. On the day of the murders, Demetrie was angry at Ms. Pope because she had turned him in for joy riding in her car. He was facing prison time for car theft and out of control. Although Demetrie takes full responsibility for his actions, his recklessness and lack of control on the day of the crime were exacerbated by both his uncontrolled diabetes and his substance abuse.

On the night of the crime, Demetrie broke into Ms. Pope's house, hoping to scare her into recanting her testimony or refusing to testify against him. He found her and Mr. Moreno, and spoke with Ms. Pope while pointing a loaded shotgun at them. According to Demetrie, he shot Ms. Pope by accident, but then reloaded and shot and killed Mr. Moreno. Mr. Mayfield confessed to his crimes shortly after he was arrested, but has always maintained that he only intended to scare the two victims, and that the shotgun went off by accident killing Ms. Pope. The chaotic aftermath of the crimes and Mr. Mayfield's quick confession support this account.

Demetrie was arrested several hours after the murders. He waived his right to counsel before being questioned. After he was interrogated by two San Bernardino detectives for many hours, still unrepresented, he submitted to a video-taped reenactment of the murders.

After he confessed, Demetrie was assigned a court-appointed defense attorney, Donald Ames. Unfortunately for Demetrie, Mr. Ames was a deeply racist man who hated black people, and, rather than acting as Mr. Mayfield's defense counsel, he essentially acted as an adjunct to the prosecutors. In retrospect, it is clear that Ames was not committed to fighting the premeditation claim in Demetrie's case. This was the lynchpin for the death penalty conviction that was initially obtained against Mr. Mayfield, and for his first-degree murder conviction, which also underlies his current life without parole sentence. Mr. Ames also gave little or no thought or preparation for the guilt or penalty phases of Mr. Mayfield's capital trial.

Unsurprisingly, Demetrie Mayfield was convicted of two counts of First Degree Murder, with Special Circumstances, and sentenced to death. His case has been highlighted law-reviews and other publications as an example of convictions in which racism was a major factor: (See Johnson, Blume & Wilson, "Racial Epithets in the Criminal Process," 2011 Mich. State. L. Rev. 755, 768 (2011) (Exhibit K hereto); M. Bookman, "5 Death Penalty Cases Tainted by Racism," Mother Jones, Mar. 25, 2015 (Exhibit L hereto); B. Babcock, In Defense of the Criminal Jury, in Postmortem: The OJ Simpson Case (Jeffrey Abramson ed. 1996) (Exhibit M hereto); H. Mintz, "Death Sentence Reversals Cast Doubt on System," San Jose Mercury News, Apr. 13, 2002 (Exhibit N hereto); H. Weinstein, "Court Voids Death Sentence," L.A. Times, Nov. 8, 2001 (Exhibit O hereto); Death Penalty Information Center, "Outlier Counties: San

Mr. Ames’ racism has also been profiled in articles and reports on the death penalty. (See, e.g., Fair Punishment Project, “Too Broke to Fix: An In-depth Look at America’s Outlier Death Penalty Counties,” Sept. 2016, 16-18 [highlighting Ames’ inadequate defense in four death penalty cases including Mayfield’s] (Exhibit Q hereto); Sara Catania, “A Killer Job,” L.A. Weekly, January 23, 2002 (Exhibit R hereto).)

In 2003, after nearly ten years of multiple post-conviction proceedings in the California and federal courts, and after spending twenty years on death row, Demetrie’s death sentence was vacated and he was sentenced to life without the possibility of parole. However, despite his attorney’s profound racism and lack of loyalty to his client, Mr. Mayfield was never given a new trial.

Many of the court decisions issued during Mr. Mayfield’s long appeal process highlight the fundamental structural unfairness of his trial, and the substantial mitigating circumstances related to Demetrie’s medical condition and mental state at the time of the offenses that were never presented to a jury because of the terrible representation Mr. Ames provided to him.

At the beginning of his long appeal process, I was appointed as Demetrie’s attorney for his automatic appeal to and habeas corpus proceedings in the California Supreme Court. The Supreme Court ordered an evidentiary hearing to develop the facts concerning trial counsel’s inadequate representation. After a lengthy evidentiary hearing, the referee found that Ames' representation of Demetrie was well below the standard for minimally adequate representation.

Despite Ames' extraordinarily inadequate representation, the California Supreme Court decided his appellate team had not demonstrated that there was a reasonable probability that Mr. Mayfield would not have been convicted of murder in the first degree with special circumstances and would not have been sentenced to death if Ames had provided adequate representation. (People v. Mayfield (1993) 5 Cal.4th 142.) A copy of the Supreme Court's decision, including the dissent, is attached hereto as Exhibit S. Nevertheless, the majority of the Court noted, among other deficiencies, trial attorney Ames' failure to present available expert evidence about Mr. Mayfield's diabetes, drug and alcohol use and psychiatric condition:

The referee found, among other things, that counsel failed to obtain various medical records, including records from the time of petitioner's arrest that would have revealed an elevated blood-sugar level of 387. Counsel did not consult an endocrinologist, a toxicologist, or a psychiatrist regarding the effect of diabetes or intoxicants on mental state.

As the referee found and the record reflects, an endocrinologist could have testified that when blood sugar exceeds 300, a diabetic may experience blurred vision, impaired reasoning, dehydration, headaches, and confused thinking, and might be clumsier than normal — a possible factor in a defense of accident. But the endocrinologist who testified at the reference hearing, Dr. Clinton Young, also testified that although an individual with petitioner's blood-sugar level might not feel well, he could still plan, premeditate, and form the intent to kill. Such a blood-sugar level would not have caused petitioner to do anything he would not otherwise have done.

A toxicologist could have testified that a chronic PCP user may store the substance in fatty tissue and it may later discharge, causing a psychotic reaction. Diabetes can enhance this effect.

A psychiatrist could have testified that petitioner suffered from mental disorders that might have affected the voluntariness of petitioner's Miranda waivers — indeed, the psychiatrist retained by petitioner's appellate counsel opined that petitioner's waiver was involuntary. (Id. at p. 200.)

The federal district court in Los Angeles then denied Demetrie's federal habeas corpus petition because it found that there was no a reasonable probability that he would have not have been convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death if he had been adequately represented. (See Mayfield v. Calderon (C.D. Cal. Oct. 27, 1997, No. 94-6011) 1997 WL 778685 at *11, *17-18.) The district court's decision is attached as Exhibit T A three judge panel of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit also initially agreed. (See Mayfield v. Calderon (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 895.) The panel's decision is attached as Exhibit U.

Fortunately, a Petition for Rehearing and Suggestion of Rehearing en banc was granted, and Mr. Mayfield's appeal was re-heard by eleven judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. The en banc panel, which included one judge from the three-judge panel, unanimously reversed the district court and directed that Mr. Mayfield's death sentence be vacated.

All eleven judges found that there was a reasonable probability that with adequate legal representation, Demetrie would not have been sentenced to death. The court thus set aside Demetrie's death sentence remanding for him to be retried as to whether he should be sentenced to death or to life without the possibility of parole.

Four of the eleven judges would have gone further. They would have vacated Demetrie's conviction of first-degree murder with special circumstances, remanding for him to be retried both as to guilt and then as to penalty, if he were convicted again of first-degree murder with special circumstances. (See Mayfield v. Woodford (9th Cir. 2001) 270 F.3d 915.) A copy of the decision and all the separate opinions are attached hereto as Exhibit V. Had Demetrie been given a new trial in the guilt phase, he might have been able to avoid a first degree murder conviction, given the substantial mitigation and mental state evidence developed for the first time in the appeal.

Judge Susan Graber's partial dissent summarized how the legal system had failed Demetrie Mayfield, highlighting Ames' extreme antipathy to black people and his extraordinary failure to represent Demetrie which constituted an outright denial of his Sixth Amendment right to counsel:

Petitioner, Demetrie Ladon Mayfield, is an African American. His lawyer, S. Donald Ames, harbors deep and utter contempt for African Americans. As one of Ames' daughters puts it:

His contempt for us [his family] was exceeded only by his contempt for people of other races and ethnic groups. He especially ridiculed black people, referring to them with racial invectives. He used such terms and phrases as "nigger," "schwartz," "jig," "jungle bunnies," "trigger the nigger," and "shoot the coon to the moon."

Ames' former secretary states that he "consistently" referred to his African American clients as "niggers"; called another secretary "a dumb nigger"; and called a fellow lawyer "a big black nigger trying to be a white man." Another former employee avers that Ames "said because his client [not Petitioner] was black he, Ames, did not trust him and did not care what happened to him." An employee of the superior court says, in her affidavit, that Ames described a former secretary as a "dumb little nigger" and that he said of a minority death penalty client (not Petitioner) that "he deserves to fry." An investigator states that Ames referred to yet another African American client as a "dumb nigger." (Id. at p. 939-940.)

In her partial dissent Judge Graber also identified some of the profound deficiencies in Ames' representation of Mr. Mayfield in addition to his failure to call expert witnesses:

Here, Ames made his sympathies to the prosecution's position manifest not only by what he failed to do, but also by what he did do. What he failed to do was prepare or investigate, having spent only 40 hours to get ready for the guilt and penalty phases of a capital trial. According to the district court, "Ames's trial notebook contained no handwritten notes, no legal research, and no handwritten indications of out-of-court preparation." Mayfield v. Calderon, No. CV 94-6011 ER, 1997 WL 778685, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 27, 1997). Ames failed to hire associate counsel, although he had the right to do so. He used only about $1,000 of the $7,500 budget for an investigator; much of that represented activities other than actual investigation. (Maj. op. at 927.) Ames did not interview Petitioner until the morning of trial, when they met at the courthouse. Although the trial judge "wanted to settle the case by having [P]etitioner plead guilty for a sentence of life without parole[,] Ames did not discuss possible defenses with [P]etitioner" and proceeded to trial. 1997 WL 778685, at *4.

If the record stopped there, I might agree with the majority that Ames' antipathy to African Americans could not necessarily be linked with his incompetent performance. (Maj. op. at 925.) But Ames did much more than serve his client indifferently; he actively served the interests of the prosecution. On this record, there is no other explanation than a racially motivated breach of the duty of loyalty to Petitioner and concomitant sympathy to the prosecution's position.

At the guilt phase of the trial, the prosecutor introduced Petitioner's videotaped confession and re-enactment of the crime, as well as an excerpt of his audiotaped confession. In both, Petitioner consistently maintained that he intended to confront and scare Ora Mae Pope but had killed her by accident when she lurched forward to get a cigarette. Had the jury held a reasonable doubt, based on that account, that the killing of Ms. Pope was first-degree murder, then Petitioner would not have been eligible for the death penalty.

Ames made no opening statement to point this out to the jury. The only evidence that he introduced affirmatively during the defense case was the full audiotape of the police interview with Petitioner. That evidence irreparably damaged Petitioner and significantly helped the state. In the tape that Ames played for the jury, Petitioner at first insistently denied any involvement in the crime. In other words, in a case that depended entirely on the jury's believing Petitioner when he said that the first killing was accidental, Petitioner's own lawyer introduced evidence proving that Petitioner had lied. Moreover, as the majority notes, p. 925, the tape needlessly revealed other damning admissions.... (Id. at p. 940-941.)

At the end of her partial dissent, Judge Graber identified the crux of how the criminal justice system failed in Mr. Mayfield's case, despite the apparent lack of prejudice in Ames' performance in the guilt phase of his trial.

I cannot fault the majority's analysis concerning lack of prejudice at the guilt phase. But this is one of the rare cases in which "defense" counsel's sympathies so obviously and cynically belonged to the prosecution that Petitioner received the equivalent of no counsel at all.

I have no hesitation in upholding a capital conviction. ... But in every case in which I have done so, the defendant had counsel who represented his interests. In conscience, I cannot uphold a conviction that results from a trial in which both the defendant's lawyer and the prosecutor represented the interests of the state. (Id. at p. 941-942.)

Judge Graber's opinion was joined by Chief Judge Mary Schroeder, Judge Michael Daly Hawkins and Judge Johnnie B. Rawlinson. In a separate opinion, Judges Hawkins and Schroeder added: "Ames's lack of preparation and bumbling presentation helped seal Mayfield's guilt, his woeful approach to sentencing assured Mayfield the gallows." (Id. at p. 942.)

In 2003 Demetrie was resentenced to life without the possibility of parole. This was certainly a welcome improvement, given that Mr. Mayfield had spent twenty years on death row. However, had it not been for Ames' racially motivated and grossly inadequate representation, Demetrie might well not have been convicted of first-degree murder with special circumstances and therefore would not have been subject to a sentence of death or of life without the possibility of parole.

Ames was a consistent anti-black bigot who abandoned his clients, and over the years, several other Ninth Circuit decisions have catalogued his consistent failure to provide even minimally adequate representation for his clients, including at least one client who was executed. (See Wade v. Calderon (9th Cir. 1994) 29 F.3d 1312 [vacating death sentence due to Ames' inadequate representation]; see also Anderson v. Calderon (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1053 and Anderson v. Calderon (9th Cir. 2001) 276 F.3d 483 [poorly represented client of Ames executed after Ninth Circuit declined to intervene over the objection of six members of the Ninth Circuit].)

The most recent Ninth Circuit case in which Ames' racism came under scrutiny is Ellis v. Harrison (9th Cir. 2018) 891 F.3d 1160. Ellis had asserted that his Sixth Amendment right to counsel had been denied due to Ames' deeply held racist beliefs about African Americans in general and Ellis in particular. Judges Jaqueline H. Nguyen, A. Wallace Tashima and Michael Daly Hawkins issued a Per Curiam decision that affirmed the district court's denial of Ellis' petition for writ of habeas corpus due to a lack of evidence of actual prejudice. This Ninth Circuit panel held that the Mayfield "precedent involving the same attorney and mostly the same evidence requires us to reject this contention... [because in Demetrie Mayfield's case, Ames did] not express his racist views to his client..." (Id. at p. 1162.)

The court's opinion identified additional evidence of Ames' unremitting racism against blacks and other minorities, including a case in which Ames disparaged an Hispanic client and the Japanese American judge who presided at his trial. (See id. at note 2, discussing People v. Gutierrez (Cal. 2002) 28 Cal.4th 1083.) Gutierrez died of natural causes on San Quentin's death row at age sixty-four in 2008.

The panel in the Ellis case did something extraordinary. Judge Nguyen wrote a concurring Opinion, in which both Judges Hawkins and Tashima joined, echoing Judge Graber's partial dissent in the Mayfield case:

If we were writing on a blank slate, I would vote to grant relief. Of the constitutional rights given to a criminal defendant, none is more important than the Sixth Amendment right to counsel. By allowing Ellis's conviction to stand, we make a mockery of that right.

Ellis's lawyer, Donald Ames, openly and repeatedly expressed contempt for people who look like Ellis based on the ugliest of racial stereotypes. This was not just the depressingly common assumption that criminal defendants of certain races are more likely to be guilty, but something far more sinister: a belief in the inferiority of all people of color—be they support staff, co-counsel, or judge. Most damning of all, Ames made it clear that he did not care what happened to his black clients. It would be impossible for anyone with such views to adequately represent a non-white defendant....

[W]hen an attorney expresses such utter contempt and indifference about the fate of his minority clients as Ames did here, he has ceased providing the reasonably competent representation that the Sixth Amendment demands. A defendant in such an untenable may be better off with no counsel at all....

When examining the reasonableness of counsel's performance, we extend considerable deference to strategic choices. This deference is predicated on the assumption that counsel is acting in the client's best interest. For an attorney as deeply racist as Ames, that assumption is unfounded. It makes no difference that Ellis was unaware of his counsel's beliefs. The deleterious effect of such racism on the outcome is usually impossible to prove and, under these circumstances, we should presume prejudice.

Because I cannot in good faith distinguish Ellis's case from Mayfield, I reluctantly concur in the opinion. Had we not been bound by

Mayfield, I would have granted Ellis’s petition. (891 F.3d at pp. 1166-1167.)

A Petition for Rehearing and Suggestion of Rehearing en banc is soon to be filed in the Ellis case.

Starting with Judge Graber and those who joined her dissent in the Mayfield case, many Ninth Circuit judges now have rightly understood that Ames’ pervasive racism meant that Demetrie in effect had no lawyer representing his interest, just like the capital defendant whose lawyers simply vanished. (See Maples v. Thomas (2012) 565 U.S. 266 [capital conviction and death penalty untimely federal habeas corpus petition must be considered where he had been abandoned without notice by his attorneys].)

Taken together, the evidence in these cases of Ames’ unrelenting racism shocks the conscience. Attached hereto as Exhibit W are two declarations from Ames’ youngest daughter Alison Beth Taylor that attest to his racist comments towards African Americans, Latinos and Asians. Attached as Exhibit X are two declarations from Ames’ older daughter Jill Laurel Helft (later remarried and going by the name Jill L. Granger) that also attest to his routine use of racist epithets, especially toward African-Americans but also toward other ethnic minorities, and describes his abuse, degradation and mistreatment of his own family. Other declarations from the cases establish that Ames routinely described his own African American secretary as “dumb” and a “nigger.” (See Exhibit Y hereto [including Declarations of Laurie Little, Regina Mucklin, and April Johnson].)

The United States Supreme Court’s most recent right to counsel in a capital case also suggests that were his appeals prosecuted today, Demetrie would likely have been granted an entirely new trial, rather than just remand for a resentencing trial, because of the pervasive effect of his attorney’s racist views: In McCoy v. Louisiana (2018) 138 S.Ct. 1500, the six Justice majority vacated a judgment of guilt and the death penalty due to a structural defect that constituted a direct essentially facial violation of McCoy’s Sixth Amendment right to counsel. As the Court held, defense counsel’s concession that defendant had murdered his family, over defendant’s objections, “ranks as error of the kind our decisions have called ‘structural’; when present, such an error is not subject to harmless-error review.... Structural error ‘affect[s] the framework within which the trial proceeds,’ as distinguished from a lapse or flaw that is ‘simply an error in the trial process itself.’ ” (Id. at p. 1511 [alteration in original; citation omitted]; see also, Pena-Rodriguez v. Colorado (2017) 137 S.Ct. 855, 869 [“All forms of improper bias pose challenges to the trial process. But there is a sound basis to treat racial bias with added precaution.”].) The Court observed that “An error might also count as structural when its effects are too hard to measure, as is true of the right to counsel of choice, or when the error will inevitably signal fundamental unfairness, as we have said of a judge’s failure to tell the jury that it may not convict unless it finds the defendant’s guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.” Id.

At Mr. Mayfield’s trial, Ames conceded that Mayfield’s murder of Mr. Moreno was first or second degree murder and that his murder of Ms. Pope was involuntary manslaughter “at the very least.” Mr. Mayfield did not order Ames not to make that concession. However, the litany of Ames' prejudicial actions and omissions, rooted in his racial hatred of Mayfield, inexorably and correctly led Judge Graber to conclude that Mayfield "received the equivalent of no counsel at all." (Exhibit V 270 F.3d at p. 941.)

Unfortunately, the ship may have sailed about thirty years too late for Demetrie to take advantage in a new habeas corpus proceeding of Supreme Court's McCoy decision or even to get the benefit of any en banc Ninth Circuit decision in the Ellis case adopting Judge Graber's position. (See 28 U.S.C. §§ 2255(f) and 2255(h) [strict AEDPA one-year statute of limitations for second or successive habeas petitions, unless new evidence is discovered supporting innocence, or unless the Supreme Court makes a new constitutional rule retroactive]. However, it is not too late for the Governor of California to right this wrong by making Demetrie parole eligible.

III. Mr. Mayfield Has Been Working to Improve Himself on the Honor Yard at His Prison, and Has Been Reconnecting with His Family, Forming Relationships That Will Help Him Should He Eventually Be Released.

Demetrie is now fifty-six years old. He has served thirty-five years of imprisonment, and is in bad health. He has been working hard to manage his serious diabetes and other health issues. He now lives on a programming yard at California State Prison – Los Angeles County, where he consistently programs and works to improve himself. Especially in the fifteen months since he has been on the Honor Yard, he has been successfully taking education, anger management and other self-help courses and programs, as well as a religious education correspondence course. (See Exhibit Z hereto [certificates of successful completion and progress].) Even before coming to the honor yard at LAC, he participated in work and programming when it was possible, given his overcrowded, high security housing placements. For example, at the California Correctional Institution in Tehachapi, where he was housed between 2003 and 2007, he worked on the yard crew. (Id.) Similarly, when he was at KVSP between approximately 2007 and 2010, he worked as a porter and took some computer classes. (Id.)

Throughout his imprisonment, Demetrie has been in constant contact with his extended family, who have been loving and supportive of him. His Brother Ivan Johnson, who is retired as a cook for the San Bernardino Probation Department, wants Demetrie to live with him in San Bernardino; his sister Kim Byrd also wants him to live with her in Sacramento. (See Exhibits G and E) Recently he connected with and has established a loving and supportive relationship with his son Demetrie Mayfield Jr., and his grandchildren whom he has never seen. They are trying to arrange visits. (See Exhibit F.)

Additional family support has come from Demetrie's brother Cicero Mayfield, his cousin Yatosha Mayfield, his cousin (like a sister) Teresa Mayfield who is a teacher's aide working with troubled children, and his high school girlfriend Sharon Howard. (See Exhibits D, H, C and I.)

Demetrie's cousin/sister Teresa Mayfield says that:

Demetrie is a changed and matured man now. He continues to show and share his remorse; he empathizes more visibly now; he has his diabetes under control as best he can in prison; he successfully takes education and other betterment courses. When we speak he listens more than he did as a young man; he draws people out; he is calm, much calmer than he was as a young person; he shares his knowledge and experience freely; he is kind and patient; and always helpful. In my experience, like so many angry young black men, as a mature person entering old age, Demetrie is not a threat to others or to himself. (Exhibit C.)

My firm and I also have remain supportive of Demetrie. We correspond, speak with him frequently and visit on occasion.

I have been representing imprisoned felons for over fifty years, and as a young law professor was on what essentially was the parole board of Maryland's Patuxent Institute, a prison and treatment facility. Based on my long experience in dealing with imprisoned felons, I am confident that at age fifty-six, Demetrie no longer poses a risk to others or to himself. (See also Exhibit C)

CONCLUSION

Demetrie Mayfield committed a terrible crime when he was a young man. He does not try to minimize his crime or defend his actions on the night in question. He has continuous remorse for what he did, and he has turned his life around, all while serving first for many years on Death Row and then a life without parole sentence with little chance of ever being released. He is programming well on an honor yard at CSP-LAC Lancaster, and he has shown himself to be changed man who is no longer a threat to society.

Mr. Mayfield was never given a chance to properly defend himself against the first degree murder charges he faced. His death penalty challenges showed that such a defense was likely available, had he been provided with a reasonably competent counsel wholly committed to his defense. He is not asking for immediate release or anything like that. He is asking for you to exercise executive clemency so that he can make his case to the parole board that he is a changed man and ready to safely return to society.

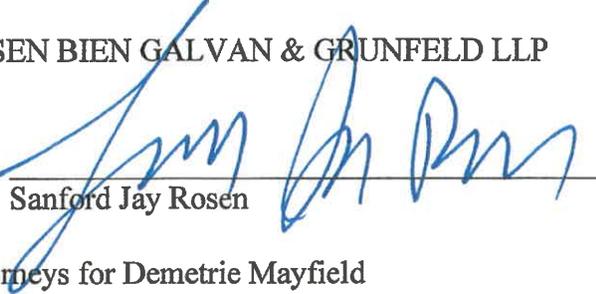

Like his family, I urge that you make Demetrie parole eligible so that he and his family can work with the parole and other authorities to have him properly released as he enters his old age.

Corey McNeil

In 1995, Corey McNeil and Lent King saw Ernesto Gamboa at a store and asked him about his gang affiliation. Mr. Gamboa ran out of the store, and Mr. McNeil and Mr. King followed and fired multiple shots at him, killing him. Two of Mr. Gamboa's friends tried to help him, and Mr. McNeil and Mr. King continued firing at them, but they were not injured. On September 18, 1996, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. McNeil to 53 years to life in prison for murder, attempted murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and firearm enhancements. Mr. McNeil has a youth offender parole eligible date of November 2019.

In his application for clemency, Mr. McNeil expressed sincere remorse for his criminal history, and explained that he has dedicated himself to becoming a better person. He wrote, "I have worked hard over the years to understand my criminality and its impact; and my character flaws. Every day I practice ways of how I can better myself. Never again do I want to be that self-centered person, who only puts himself over others. I enjoy being an individual who has let go of himself to be of service to others."

Indeed, Mr. McNeil has maintained an excellent record during his 23 years in prison. He has never been involved with gangs, violence, or drugs during his incarceration. He earned his GED and a diploma from a theological seminary, and is currently taking college classes from Patten University. Mr. McNeil completed a vocational certification in plumbing, and routinely receives positive ratings from his work supervisors, who have commended him for his diligence and teamwork. Mr. McNeil has also participated in several self-help programs, including Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, Victim Offender Education Group, Insight, and Nonviolent Communication.

Mr. McNeil has also been recognized by many San Quentin staff members for his positive attitude and behavior. The principal of education at the prison wrote, "I have had the opportunity to engage Mr. McNeil in meaningful dialogue about his incarceration and how he has chance since his incarceration. As an adult today, I believe Mr. McNeil has committed himself to the type of change and conduct that is required of a person to successfully reintegrate into society in order to be a lawful, contributing citizen." One correctional officer called Mr. McNeil a "model prisoner" and supported his commutation. Another officer wrote, "Inmate McNeil has truly been an asset, and he has proven himself to be trustworthy. He is an example of rehabilitation and I fully endorse his suitability to rejoin the community."

Mr. McNeil committed a senseless crime as a young man, but he has spent more than two decades since then turning his life around. I believe that he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Corey McNeil to make him eligible for immediate parole consideration.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Briefly describe the circumstances of the crimes for which you are requesting a commutation

On September 22, 1995, Mr. Lent King my co-participant and I pull up to Don's Liquor Store in Wilmington, California. I entered first with Mr. King close behind me. I then noticed Mr. Ernesto Gamboa talking to a woman. Mr. Gamboa and I made eye contact. I then said to Mr. Ernesto Gamboa, a gang slogan. Mr. Gamboa replied by saying, "What's up?" Guided by my distorted thinking I took Mr. Ernesto Gamboa reply as a challenge and because of the image I choose as a gang member I feared backing down from a challenge, would result in me losing validation from my peers. Consequently, I became angry and I then turned around while pulling out my gun. Mr. Ernesto Gamboa ran and I chased him out of the store and I murdered him. Then his brother Mr. Carlos Gamboa Mr. Rigoberto Alvarado came around from the side parking lot. I then shot at them before getting in the car with my co-participant and we drove away.

Explain why you are requesting a commutation

I am requesting a commutation of my sentence because of good conduct. I have matured into a person who has a different set of beliefs and values that are productive and in line with society rather than destructive to society. I have purposed within myself that I didn't want to be the same person with the same thinking that got me in prison. This endeavor was a challenge because although the will to change was there, not knowing how to change wasn't, when I became incarcerated at the age of 25 years old.

Since my incarceration these 23 years, I've had 5 verbal warnings, and 3 rules violation, none of which are violent. I've learned from these violations that it is not only sufficient to have the desire to change but also I need the tools to know how to change and the knowledge to apply these tools. Since I've been at San Quentin, I have acquired these tools. For example, I didn't realize that my cellphone infractions were a result of my distorted pattern of thinking I had before I came to prison. In the past I would minimize and rationalize my criminal behavior, so that I could give myself the permission to do illegal acts, and to place the blame for my actions on anybody and anything. Once this was brought to my attention, I began to challenge my thinking patterns with a view to deconstructing them, and replacing them with thoughts that are rooted in my new belief system, that it is never right to do wrong irregardless of the situation or my feelings toward an individual.

My good behavior and commitment to change is reflected in my positive interactions within the community. For me it starts with my faith in God. When I gave my life over to him, I also left the gang because I can't serve God and the gang. These two are contrary to each other. I'm an active member of the Christian community here at San Quentin. I've taken what I have learned since being a graduate from Golden Gate Seminary and gave that knowledge back to the community, by teaching Bible lessons for new believers and preaching to the congregation. I've also learned the Hebrew and Greek languages, that I would love to teach to others when given the chance. I went back to school and received my G.E.D. and now I am 5 classes from getting my Associate of Arts degree. I frequently volunteer in school as a tutor to help others succeed, like those who have helped me. I now am a clerk at Patten University, which is here on the grounds of San Quentin. I consider this opportunity as a way of being a liaison for students who dropped out of school like I did because they may be apprehensive of school and their ability to learn.

I've also contribute to the annual Homeless Kids Drive for them to receive hygiene products. I've participated in numerous group discussions with victim panels. They have given me a greater insight into the crimes that I have committed, and the tremendous impact that they have on the victims and their families and friends. These panels always leave me feeling heartbroken and inspired. That is why I am currently a facilitator in training for a self-help group called V.O.E.G. (Victims Offender Education Group) to assist others in understanding the impact of their crimes.

I really believe in the kind of work that V.O.E.G. is doing. It caused me to reflect back through my life to see how I became the person that could commit my life crime. I discovered that my anger came from feelings of abandonment, low self-worth, shame and resentment. These feelings were directly connected to my childhood experiences. I was born to a teenage mother, who was 12 when she gave birth to me. Consequently, I was raised by my grandparents in Jackson, MS. From my earliest childhood memories up until the age of 10, when my mother came to pick me up and took me to California with her, I was told and believed that my grandparents were my biological parents and my biological mom was my aunt, who I hardly knew. As a result I felt abandoned because I was torn apart from the only family that I knew. While in California my mother became frustrated because of the slow progression of our relationship (I couldn't bring myself to call her mom.) Eventually, after being punished she began to be physically abusive. She would hit me with extension cords and tree branches, which left me with bruises and whelps on my body. These marks on my body along with my southern accent were the cause of me getting teased and bullied at school. (The marks could be seen when I got dressed for P.E. by my classmates.) As a result, I began acting out and getting into fights. After a few fights the bullying stop and I did manage to make a few friends. With this I learned that by resolving conflicts with violence was a way to gain acceptance. Eventually I began to ask my mother who was my father. Despite her reluctance after months of asking, she finally told me that she was raped. This revelation shocked me to my core. The knowledge that I was the product of rape filled my with shame and hurt. Shame because I internalized that ugly act of rape to my identity and hurt because I know then that I would never have a father. Over time I could no longer identify with my family (every physical difference was magnified in my mind). I would look at pictures hanging on the walls and I couldn't see myself in the faces of my family. I also believe that having my mother reveal this part of her life re-traumatized her because we both started isolating ourselves from one another.

Not wanting to deal with the exposure surrounding my existence and my mother's abuse I chose to leave home at the age of 15. Since this age until I committed the life crime at the age of 25 years old, the gang served as a substitute for family connection. Foolishly, I believe that I had found a place to fit in, after not knowing the truth of who I belonged to most of my life. By gaining acceptance from a gang I was able to numb the feelings of abandonment, low self-worth, shame and resentment. Consequently, I developed a false image of myself that was dependent on others expectation, demands and standards of how I should show up in life in order to get validation. Along with this image came beliefs and values that I chose to accept without any challenge. And whenever this image I chose was in jeopardy, because of fear of rejection I would act out in anger to protect it. My dependence on anger was a defense for me to hide my feelings of abandonment, shame, low self-worth. As a result I was selfish, impulsive, and dangerous. At this point in my life nothing mattered more to me than the image I had created, because in the streets I could hide. Nobody knew that I was the son of a rapist, whose mother couldn't love him because every time she saw him she was reminded of being raped. This image was the only shelter that I felt I had of not being exposed, so I hung to it dearly. Losing it was unimaginable. As a result of my self-centeredness and trying to prove my self worth, I murdered Mr.. Ernesto Gamboa and attempted to murder his older brother Mr. Carlos Gamboa and his cousin Mr. Rigoberto Alvarado.

None of this is an excuse or an attempt to justify my cowardly actions. There is no excuse what so ever for me killing Mr. Ernesto Gamboa and attempting to kill Mr. Carlos Gamboa and Mr. Rigoberto Alvarado. I am truly and deeply sorry. I never again want to cause that kind of pain or any kind for that matter to anyone ever again. I am also sorry for damaging my community and for wrongly enforcing the idea that it is acceptable to commit violence. I realize that my actions have not only caused the Gamboas unmeasurable pain, but also those that knew them and for that I am sorry. I am also sorry for the trauma that the police and first responders, who had to process the devastating aftermath of my senseless actions. Also I am immensely sorry to society as a whole, who have had to foot the bill for my incarceration. Lastly, to my family, I apologize for bringing shame on them because of my actions and my mother who I resented because I didn't try to understand what she went through.

Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation:

It is safe to grant me a commutation because I have matured into a responsible person, who refuses to commit crimes and be a problem to society. Also I'm not that resentful, angry youth who at the age of 25 refused to take responsibility and be accountable for my actions. I am an individual who doesn't seek validation from outside negative influences. Instead my self-worth and esteem is rooted in my positive beliefs and values that motivate me to set goals that push my life in a positive manner and that is conducive to society. I realize how much I am in debt to society. This compels me to be a resourceful asset that wants to be used by society rather than being a liability that needs to be managed.

I have worked hard over the years to understand my criminality and its impact; and my character flaws. Everyday I practice ways of how I can better myself. Never again do I want to be that self centered person, who only puts himself over others. I enjoy being an individual who has let go of himself to be of service to others and live a crime free life.

A commutation would not be wasted on me because I understand how I became the ugly person that I was who committed crimes. And having this knowledge I can guard against any failings. My first line of defense is not to be around old gang associations. To ensure this I have no desire to go back to Los Angeles. Secondly, I have identified my warning signs for being triggered (isolation, lack of communication, people pleasing.) Along with my actual triggers, external and internal, (being challenged, rejection, low self-esteem.) Before I had knowledge of these signs and triggers, I would instantly react impulsively because I didn't know how to regulate my emotions. Now I am aware of my body signals that tell me that something is wrong. Like for example, my jaws tighten, my heart rate increase, my thoughts speed up when I am being trigger. And the emotions that come with these body signals (fear, anger, anxiety). My awareness of these physical and internal signals helps me to respond consciously, considering all the consequences and then making the right decision that is positive rather than reacting negatively.

These skills I have learned from the various groups that I have taken over the years. The tools that I have received I continue to practice and refine. While in prison there have been times, like there will undoubtedly be in society, that unfair things will happen. Like for example people often cut-in line (for dinner, shower, phone). In the past I would take it personal as an attack on my so-called "manhood", and would react negatively by confronting the person aggressively. However, now I don't take what people do personally, by telling myself that the person doesn't even know me and that a person's actions are a reflection of who he is rather than who I am. With positive self-talk I often tell myself that I am solely responsible for my thoughts and actions. And one thought is that there is enough time for me to shower and use the phone because I have consciously made the decision to make ample time (knowing that people will cut-in line). and regarding dinner there is enough food, they won't run out. This kind of attitude and preparation has aided me in keeping out of trouble. I will take this mentality where ever I go.

Also it is safe to grant me a commutation because I have a support network that wants to see me succeed. It consist mostly of family that is willing to aid me with a place to stay (Although I have been looking into transitional houses, like GEO, Seven Step, and Serving California). In addition to residential help, they're willing to provide transportation and financial help, until I find employment. Hopefully, finding a job won't be too difficult because I will pursue employment with the same zeal and work ethic that I have since I've been in prison, which has resulted in me holding a job 21 of the 23 years I've been incarcerated. Also I am a certified plumber, and I am trained in installing solar energy (a.k.a. green energy). Furthermore, I have experience in being a truck driver. In which I would like to renew my license so that I can have another option. I enjoy these three professions a lot and I could see myself being successful performing them.

Lastly, (but not least) if I should be fortunate to receive a commutation, I realize that it's an act of mercy because I murdered Mr. Ernesto Gamboa and attempted to murder Mr. Carlos Gamboa and Mr. Rigoberto Alvarado. My actions on September 22, 1995, were and still are inexcusable despite my change. I sentence dMr. Gamboa's family and all those who knew him to a lifetime of suffering. that is why I owe the rest of my life to make amends for my actions that night and also for all my selfish actions in the past. I am forever indebted to Mr. Gamboa and his family and society. I am immensely sorry for my actions. If given a chance a commutation would be the greatest gift that I never deserve.

Geraldine Meyers

In 2006, Geraldine Meyers shot and killed her ex-boyfriend, Demetrius Warren, while he was playing a video game. On April 2, 2008, the San Diego County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Meyers to 15 years to life for murder, plus a 25-to-life firearm enhancement – a total term of 40 years to life in prison.

In Ms. Meyers' application for clemency, she described her tumultuous relationship with the victim and acknowledged that at the time, she "didn't have healthy coping strategies and was unable to handle the conflict adequately." Ms. Meyers explained that she has devoted herself to understanding her choices and said, "I have remorse and insight into how my irreversible actions harmed and impacted Demetrius' family, my family, my community, and society." She continued, "[M]y whole life is geared towards making living amends. I do this daily by helping my peers and demonstrating true healing and recovery."

Ms. Meyers is now 57 years old and has been incarcerated for 12 years. In that time, she has demonstrated her serious commitment to her rehabilitation. She had no prior criminal history, and she has never been disciplined for misconduct during more than a decade in prison. She has participated in numerous self-help programs including Beyond Violence, Anger Management, Domestic Violence, and Victim Impact Awareness. Ms. Meyers completed a vocational certification and has lived on honor yards for years. She currently works as a peer mentor, and she has consistently received positive ratings from her supervisors. In 2018, a correctional lieutenant praised Ms. Meyers' personal and professional development and wrote, "Inmate Meyers has given back to the inmate community by training new clerks and serving as an example to the inmate population....I believe she is ready to successfully reintegrate herself as a productive member of society." A correctional officer recognized Ms. Meyers' "excellent" work performance and wrote, "I believe Ms. Meyers will be very successful on parole and continue her favorable and effective contributions throughout the rest of her life." Also in 2018, a self-help sponsor commended Ms. Meyers' "true rehabilitation" and wrote, "I know if given the chance for parole, Ms. Meyers will be an incredible and successful member of society, continuing her commitment to giving back to others and mak[ing] her community a better place." Ms. Meyers plans to live in a transitional housing program if released, and reports that she will receive additional support from her family as she re-enters the community.

There is no question that Ms. Meyers committed an extremely serious crime, and I acknowledge that Mr. Warren's family experiences ongoing pain as a result of his death. However, I cannot overlook the significant transformation that Ms. Meyers has made, and her commitment to serving others and making amends. For all of these reasons, I believe that she has earned an earlier opportunity to make her case before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Geraldine Meyers to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Esteban Nerey

In 1993, Esteban Nerey and two friends decided to rob Edward Ahumada over a failed drug transaction. They forced Mr. Ahumada to drive to a remote area, took his gun, and Mr. Nerey shot Mr. Ahumada twice, killing him. On May 14, 1996, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Nerey to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a 5-year firearm enhancement.

Despite coming to prison with a sentence that offered him no hope of ever being released, Mr. Nerey has dedicated himself to turning his life around. In his application for clemency, he wrote, "If given a second chance I would not waste it. I would live my life the same way I am now. Trying to be a better person and an example of how people can truly change through rehabilitation efforts – with God's grace."

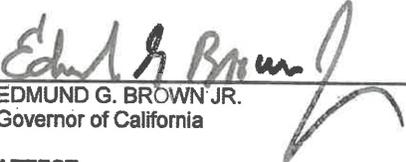

Indeed, while in prison, Mr. Nerey has demonstrated that he has transformed his life since he committed this crime. He is now 45 years old and has been incarcerated for over 25 years. In that time, he has never been involved with drugs or gang activity. Mr. Nerey has participated in numerous self-help groups including Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, Victim Offender Education, Getting Out by Going In, and Alternatives to Violence. Mr. Nerey also facilitated other groups for his peers. He completed a vocational certification program, maintained a solid work record, and received positive ratings from his work supervisors. A correctional lieutenant who supervised Mr. Nerey commended him for his excellent work ethic and wrote, "I have observed Nerey interact with custody staff and inmates during his regularly assigned work hours and while off duty, [and] he appears to treat people in a courteous and respectful manner." If he is released, Mr. Nerey plans to live in a transitional housing program, and reports that his family will provide him with support and resources as he re-enters the community.

Mr. Nerey committed a very serious crime, but he has made serious efforts to rehabilitate himself and to serve others during his many years of incarceration. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Nerey has earned an opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Esteban Nerey to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Dear Governor Brown,

Enclosed is an APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE for Esteban Nerey, K-07292.

As Mr. Nerey declares, I was not compensated for, nor did I assist him in preparing this application.

Even with the prospect of never getting out of prison, Mr. Nerey has led an exemplary life whilst incarcerated.

Having represented hundreds of life term inmates before the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) for the past 13 years, it is my opinion that Mr. Nerey should be afforded the opportunity to be evaluated by the BPH.

We appreciate your consideration of this commutation of sentence application, Governor Brown.

Respectfully Submitted,

SHAWN HALSTEAD CALLED ME AT 10:00 PM. HE SAID HE HAD THE GUY WHO SET HIM UP TO BE ROBBED A MONTH BEFORE. IT WAS A DRUG DEAL, AND IT WAS MY MONEY. I MET SHAWN AND THE GUY, WHO TURNED OUT TO BE SOMEONE I KNEW AS EDDIE AHUMADA. WE ENDED UP IN A SECLUDED AREA IN EDDIE'S CAR. EDDIE WAS BEHIND THE WHEEL. SHAWN WAS SITTING IN THE PASSENGER SEAT AND GOT OUT OF THE CAR. I WAS IN THE BACK SEAT WITH MY SHOTGUN. I SHOT EDDIE AHUMADA TWICE IN THE HEAD.

THIS IS A DIFFICULT QUESTION FOR ME TO ANSWER BECAUSE IN NO WAY DO I WANT TO SAY THAT I EARNED OR DESERVE A COMMUTATION. I AM TRULY SORRY FOR MY ACTIONS, FOR TAKING EDDIE AHUMADA'S LIFE. I WAS A DISGRACEFUL HUMAN BEING WHO LACKED MORAL FIBER AND CHARACTER; BASICALLY I WAS A WEAK YOUNG MAN, AND A COWARD. I HAD NO REGARD FOR EDDIE AHUMADA'S LIFE, HIS FAMILY, OR EVEN MY OWN FAMILY. I CAN NOT UNDO WHAT I HAVE DONE. THERE IS NO WAY I CAN MAKE UP FOR WHAT I DID. I CAN ONLY ACT IN THE HERE AND NOW AND PRAY THAT I MAY BE A POSITIVE INFLUENCE AS I GO FORWARD, HOPEFULLY MY LIFE WILL HAVE A POSITIVE IMPACT ON SOMEONE'S FUTURE.

RECENTLY, IN MY CRIMINAL AND GANG MEMBERS ANONYMOUS (CGA) CLASS, SOMEONE ASKED EVERYONE IN MY GROUP, "WHAT WAS THE TURNING POINT IN YOUR LIVES? WHAT CAUSED YOU TO MAKE POSITIVE CHANGES IN OUR LIVES?" MOST PEOPLE SAID FAMILY AND LOVED ONES. WHILE FAMILY AND LOVED ONES PLAYED A PART IN MY EXPERIENCE, FOR ME, PRIMARILY, IT WAS A GOD MOMENT. I HAVE TO ADMIT I WAS NOT A MODEL PRISONER. IN 2010 MY FATHER PASSED AWAY AND IT WAS DIFFICULT FOR ME TO NOT BE ABLE TO ATTEND HIS SERVICE, I FELT AS THOUGH I COULDN'T PROPERLY GRIEVE HIM. HE ALWAYS HELD ON TO THE HOPE THAT ONE DAY HE WOULD SEE ME RELEASED FROM PRISON. ABOUT A YEAR AFTER HIS PASSING I ASKED GOD WHY HE ALLOWED HIM TO PASS? WHY DID HE TAKE AWAY MY GREATEST SOURCE OF HOPE? I WAS GRIEVING FOR MY FATHER AS I SPOKE TO GOD. ABOUT 6 MONTH LATER I WAS IN MY CELL WHEN I FELT AS IF JESUS AND MY DAD WERE LOOKING DOWN AT ME WITH DISAPPOINTMENT; THEIR PRESENCE WAS SO STRONG I HAD TO LOOK AROUND TO SEE IF THEY WERE ACTUALLY VISIBLE. WHEN I FELT IT AGAIN IT LEFT A DEEP CONVICTION IN MY HEART: I FELT LIKE THEY DIDN'T LIKE HOW I WAS LIVING MY LIFE. I ASKED, "WHAT DO YOU WANT FROM ME?" I DIDN'T GET AN ANSWER, JUST A DEEPER CONVICTION THAT I HAD TO CHANGE MY LIFE AND STOP LIVING AS I WAS. I HAD TO FACE MY PAST, MY CRIME, AND ACCEPT FULL RESPONSIBILITY FOR MY ACTIONS. I KILLED EDDIE AHUMADA. I KILLED AN INNOCENT MAN BECAUSE I LET MY MISGUIDED PRIDE GET ME INTO A SITUATION THAT

I COULDN'T HANDLE. I KILLED EDDIE AND I CRUSHED HIS PARENT'S HEARTS. I CAUSED PAIN AND SORROW TO EVERYONE WHO LOVED EDDIE. I INFLICTED PAIN AND SORROW AND BROUGHT SHAME TO MY OWN FAMILY, AND TO MYSELF. I DISGRACED MYSELF AND DEVASTATED MANY LIVES. FACING ALL OF THIS BROKE ME, AND I TOLD GOD I NEEDED HIM IN MY LIFE. I COULDN'T MAKE CHANGES WITHOUT HIM. THAT WAS ALL IT TOOK, GOD BEGAN TO MOVE IN MY LIFE. IN 2012, AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE APPEARED IN MY LIFE AND BECAME MY GIRLFRIEND. DIANE WAS THE FIRST WOMAN I HAD EVER BEEN COMPLETELY HONEST WITH. MY OPENNESS HELPED HEAL WOUNDS I DIDN'T REALIZE NEEDED HEALING. SHE HELPED TO RESTORE THE HOPE I LOST WHEN MY FATHER PASSED. A DESIRE TO CHANGE WAS ALREADY IN MY HEART, AND GOD USED DIANE TO HELP ME BEGIN TAKING BABY STEPS AND MOVE FORWARD. THAT WAS THE SAME YEAR LWOP'S BECAME ELIGIBLE FOR LEVEL III FACILITIES. IN FEBRUARY OF 2013 I WAS TRANSFERRED TO THE LEVEL III FACILITY AT CENTINELA. I WAS SURPRISED BY ALL THE SELF-HELP GROUPS; WHICH WERE PREVIOUSLY UNAVAILABLE TO ME. THE CLASSES WERE ALL FULL, SO I REQUESTED TO BE PLACED ON THE WAITING LISTS. THIS BEGAN MY JOURNEY TO IMPROVE MYSELF, IN HOPE OF BECOMING A BETTER PERSON.

I REJOINED THE CHURCH. I UTILIZED MY PASSION FOR READING BY FOCUSING ON CHRISTIAN BOOKS. THE FIRST SELF-HELP CLASS I ATTENDED WAS A BUSINESS CLASS. NEXT WAS PROBLEM SOLVING & CRITICAL THINKING. I WENT TO A KAIROS WEEKEND RETREAT AND I LOVED IT. THE PRESENCE OF GOD WAS EVIDENT. I MET OTHER CHRISTIANS AND I LEARNED WHAT IT MEANT TO FELLOWSHIP WITH THEM. I ALSO COMPLETED THE JESUIT RESTORATIVE JUSTICE PROGRAM. THEY TAUGHT ME HOW TO MEDITATE ON SCRIPTURES, AND HOW TO USE MEDITATION FOR SELF EXAMINATION. IT WAS IN THAT PROGRAM I LEARNED WHAT TRUE REMORSE WAS ALL ABOUT. IN ONE OF THE SESSIONS OUR INSTRUCTOR ASKED WHAT WE WOULD SAY TO THE MOTHER OF OUR VICTIM, IF WE HAD THE CHANCE. THIS MADE ME THINK OF MY FIRST DAY IN COURT, WHERE I SAW THIS WOMAN CRYING. SHE WAS EDDIE AHUMADA'S MOTHER. SEEING HER DEEP SORROW BROKE MY HEART AND

MADE ME THINK OF MY OWN MOTHER. HOW SHE WOULD BE CRYING FOR ME THE SAME WAY IF I WOULD'VE DIED THAT NIGHT. ALTHOUGH MY ACTIONS PUT MY DEAR MOTHER THROUGH COUNTLESS TEARS OF HER OWN, EDDIE'S MOTHER WAS CRYING EVERY TIME I SAW HER. I WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR HER NEVER-ENDING FLOW OF TEARS. I WISH I COULD TELL HER HOW SORRY I AM, BUT I'M AFRAID THAT ANY WORDS FROM ME WOULD ONLY HURT HER EVEN MORE. I CAN'T BEGIN TO IMAGINE HER PAIN. WHAT MAN CAN GRASP THE DEPTH OF SORROW A MOTHER MUST FEEL WHEN LOSING HER CHILD TO A SENSELESS, VIOLENT DEATH. IF I COULD OFFER HER ANY COMFORT I WOULD LET IT POUR FROM THE HEART, WITH GRATITUDE FOR THE OPPORTUNITY. THAT EXERCISE IN RESTORATIVE JUSTICE WENT A LONG WAY TO INCREASING MY UNDERSTANDING, BUT SOMETHING WAS MISSING, SOMETHING THAT HAD BEEN EATING AT ME, AND I FINALLY FACED IT, TWO MONTHS LATER. USING THE METHOD I'D BEEN TAUGHT BY MEDITATING, I OPENED MY MIND AND BEGAN TO SEE MYSELF FROM EDDIE AHUMADA'S POINT OF VIEW. I FELT HIS ANGER, AND I FELT HIS SORROW. ANGER AT ME, AND SORROW FOR THE PAIN OF HIS LOVED ONES. HIS DEEPEST SORROW OF ALL WAS FOR HIS CHILD, WHO HAD TO GROW UP WITHOUT A FATHER. I FELT EDDIE'S ANGER TOWARD ME FOR ROBBING HIM AND HIS CHILD OF PRECIOUS MOMENTS THEY NEVER GOT A CHANCE TO SHARE. EMOTION FLOODED MY HEART AND OVERWHELMED ME. I UNDERSTOOD THAT THIS WAS WHAT WAS MISSING: EMPATHY FOR MY VICTIM AND HIS LOVED ONES. THE TOTALITY OF MY CRIME HIT ME FULL FORCE. I FELT SHAME LIKE I'D NEVER FELT BEFORE. I TRULY NEVER WANT TO HURT ANYONE EVER AGAIN.

BY THIS TIME MY NAME WAS COMING UP ON SEVERAL WAITING LISTS, AND I'VE BEEN TAKING CLASSES EVER SINCE. I COMPLETED CREATIVE CONFLICT RESOLUTION, PARENTING, ALTERNATIVE TO VIOLENCE PROGRAM (AVP) - BASIC, ADVANCED, FACILITATOR TRAINING, AND SERVED AS APPRENTICE FACILITATOR ON THREE OCCASIONS. I COMPLETED LIFE WITHOUT A CRUTCH, CELEBRATE RECOVERY - FOR WHICH I BECAME A FACILITATOR UPON COMPLETION, VICTIM'S AWARENESS, CAGE YOUR RAGE, AA/NA. CONTINUING ON MY SPIRITUAL PATH I TOOK FUNDAMENTALS OF FAITH. I MADE A FOUR YEAR COMMITMENT TO

T.U.M.I., WHICH IS THE ACRONYM FOR THE URBAN MINISTRY INSTITUTE. T.U.M.I. IS A COLLEGE LEVEL STUDY OF THEOLOGY. THEY TEACH YOU HOW TO BE A CHRISTIAN LEADER, IN ALL AREAS OF LEADERSHIP. SUCH AS PASTOR, EVANGELISTS, MISSIONARY, A LEADER OF YOUR HOUSEHOLD, ETC. I'VE STEPPED UP HERE AT PELICAN BAY STATE PRISON TO A LEADERSHIP ROLL IN WORSHIP; I LEARNED HOW TO PLAY THE GUITAR AND LEAD MUSIC AND SONG. I COMPLETED 11 OF THE 16 T.U.M.I. MODULES. I ALSO COMPLETED 3 OF THE 4 T.U.M.I. REENTRY COURSES. I WAS NOT ABLE TO FINISH THE REMAINING T.U.M.I. MODULES BECAUSE I WAS TRANSFERRED TO ANOTHER FACILITY. I WILL COMPLETE ALL THE COURSES AS SOON AS THEY'RE AVAILABLE HERE.

SERVING CALIFORNIA HAS ALSO SENT ME A LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE AS A T.U.M.I. PARTICIPANT IN THEIR REENTRY HOME ORGANIZATION PARTNERSHIPS; WHICH PROVIDES HOUSING, JOBS, AND PROGRAMMING FOR T.U.M.I. STUDENTS UPON RELEASE FROM PRISON. ALTHOUGH I HAVE MANY FAMILY AND FRIENDS THAT I COULD STAY WITH, WHO WOULD OFFER THEIR LOVE AND SUPPORT, I BELIEVE THAT LIVING IN A REENTRY HOME WOULD BE THE BEST OPTION FOR SUCCESS. I ALSO GRADUATED CHOICE THEORY CONNECTION-INTERNAL EMPOWERMENT COACHING. THIS PROGRAM WAS COMPRISED OF 420 HOURS WITH 24 UNIVERSITY CREDITS AVAILABLE TO ME THROUGH LOYOLA MARYMOUNT UNIVERSITY.

IN THE BIBLE, IN THE SECOND CHAPTER OF JAMES, IT SAYS, (IN A NUTSHELL) "FAITH WITHOUT WORKS IS DEAD." IN OTHER WORDS, IF ONE IS SINCERE ABOUT ONES FAITH, HIS ACTIONS WILL REFLECT HIS SINCERITY. BY THIS SAME PRINCIPLE, I PRAY MY SINCERITY IS REFLECTED IN MY ACTIONS. I'M CONTINUALLY WORKING ON MYSELF. I'VE HAD NO 115'S SINCE COMING DOWN TO A LEVEL III PRISON AND I AM NOW HOUSED AT A LEVEL II FACILITY. MY JOURNEY OF SELF-IMPROVEMENT BEGAN LONG BEFORE THERE WAS ANY HOPE OF RELEASE FOR LWOPs. MY EFFORTS WERE NOT TO IMPRESS SOME BOARD I WOULD NEVER SEE. SINCE I HAVE ARRIVED HERE AT PELICAN BAY STATE PRISON, I HAVE COMPLETED GOGI, CHOICES, AND AM CURRENTLY TAKING VICTIM/OFFENDER EDUCATION GROUP, CGA, AND I ALSO ATTEND WEEKLY AA/NA MEETINGS. IF GIVEN A SECOND CHANCE I WOULD NOT WASTE IT.

I WOULD LIVE MY LIFE THE SAME AS I AM DOING NOW. TRYING TO BE A BETTER PERSON AND AN EXAMPLE OF HOW PEOPLE CAN TRULY CHANGE THROUGH REHABILITATION EFFORTS - WITH GOD'S GRACE. I'M STILL AWAITING TO RECEIVE MY CHRONOS FOR TUMI: MODULE #15 THE EQUIPPING MINISTRY AND CHOICES.

THANK YOU, GOVERNOR BROWN, FOR YOUR TIME AND CONSIDERATION AND MOST OF ALL FOR GIVING LWOP'S HOPE.

SINCERELY,

Steve Nerey

I am submitting this laudatory chrono on behalf of inmate Nerey K07292

On December 13th 2017 @approx 0800, while performing my duties as the SHU canteen manager I fainted while securing the emergency secure keys, in the lock box located at the end of C and D corridors. Causing my head to hit the concert floor and rendering me unconscious and incapacitated . Two of my worker inmates Lewis P67269 and Nerey K07292 got the control booth officers attention in work change, to get me medical attention. Without their assistants and prompt actions, the head trauma I received could have potentially have been much greater.

I feel inmates Lewis and Nerey acted in an honorable and sincere manner. It is my personal belief that they are sincere with their efforts in rehabilitative programs, giving them the necessary tools to be a productive and functioning part of society.

Serving in the dual role of Principal of El Prado Adult School & College Programs and President of IECAST, Inc. (Internal Empowerment Coaching and Scripture Therapy[®]) Program, I certify that Mr. Nerey has successfully completed the Choice Theory[®] Connections-Internal Empowerment Coaching[®] Certificate Program, comprised of 420 hours of instruction.

The Program was facilitated at Centinela State Prison (CEN), in conjunction with William Glasser Inc., and Loyola Marymount University. This historic moment, in that Mr. Nerey is a part of the first graduating class of male incarcerated persons in the State of California.

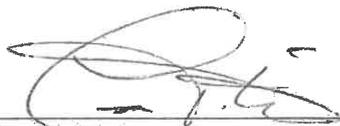

Choice Theory[®]-Internal Empowerment Coaching[®] is a non-controlling, behaviorally-based psychology. This program teaches individuals about behaviors, sustainable relationships, and about the choices they make that can lead to healthy, productive lives. The goal of the program is to have these students incorporate all they have learned into their own lives, then to share this information with the men of Centinela State Prison, their communities, and families. In doing so, they find their lives enriched, then reap rewards of helping another person improve their life.

This certification in the Internal Empowerment Coaching and Scripture Therapy[®] Program is at least one year of study and was completed on August 26, 2016. It consists of:

- Reality Therapy & Choice Theory[®] Overview (30 Hours)
- Basic Coaching in the Treatment of 9 Areas of Addictions (30 Hours)
- Effective and Responsible Role Play (30 Hours)
- Old Plight New Flight-Vision Building (30 Hours)
- Choice Theory[®] Re-Entry Studies Transition (CT-REST[®]) (120 Hours)
- Choice Theory[®] Relevant Issues and Ethics for Coaches (30 Hours)
- Supervised Practicum/Internship (120 Hours)
- Understanding Behavior, Human Relations & Performance (30 Hours)

This program is evidence-based, and researched by Loyola Marymount University revealed the program has a 2.9% recidivism rate in comparison to 67% recidivism rate in California prisons during the same period.

Mr. Nerey represented himself, Centinela State Prison, his family, the community, and IECAST, Inc. extremely well. Therefore, Mr. Nerey is to be commended on achieving this exemplary achievement. We encourage him to continue to practice what he has learned, and assist us in providing training to other incarcerated persons, their family members, caretakers, and communities.

GENERAL CHRONO

Serving in the dual roles as Principal of El Prado Adult School & College Programs and President of Choice Theory® Connections, Internal Empowerment Coaching, and Scripture Therapy (IECAST), I certify that Mr. Nerey has successfully completed the training in "Choice Theory® Relevant Issues and Ethics for Coaches," this class comprised of 30 hours with 3 university credits available to him through Loyola Marymount University.

This thirty hour, graded course resulted in Mr. Nerey receiving training in relevant issues to coaches using Choice Theory principles and practices. This course began in August 2015 through June 2016, and was completed in conjunction with the renowned William Glasser Institute and Loyola Marymount University. This program is evidence-based, and research revealed it has a 2.9% recidivism rate in comparison to 67% recidivism rate in California prisons during the same period.

This course explored legal standards utilized in coaching as well as ethical considerations, client rights, regulatory restrictions, affiliated discrimination laws, ethical issues around harm reduction, and code of conduct regarding suicide prevention and pertinent laws governing the issue. Mandated reporting guidelines and duty to warn were also reviewed in this course. Using what he learned from the Choice Theory® Connections, Internal Empowerment Coaching, and Scripture Therapy (IECAST) program as a foundation, Mr. Nerey also participated in the development and creation of programs to expand CT-IEC as a means of giving back to society.

In recognition of completion of this course, Mr. Nerey was awarded a certificate, in connection with the William Glasser Inc. and Loyola Marymount University, and encouraged to continue enhancing his skills, knowledge, abilities and character.

Serving in a dual role, as Principal of El Prado Adult School & College Programs and President of Choice Theory® Connections-Internal Empowerment Coaching and Scripture Therapy programs, I certify that Mr. Nerey has successfully completed "Reality Therapy & Choice Theory® Overview." This thirty-hour graded course provides an overview of self reformation from a Reality Therapy/Choice Theory® point of view, according to principles and practices, as written and taught by the late renowned Dr. William Glasser.

The course utilizes the theoretical application of Reality Therapy and Choice Theory® in the context of positive learning environments, externally controlled institutional environments, the workplace, and families. Furthermore, the course utilizes self evaluation, critical thinking skills, and an exploration of the individual's imagination through terminology interpretation, self-assessment exercises, as well as the development of short artistic, oral and written presentations.

CDC-128 rev 4/74

Serving in a dual role, as Principal of El Prado Adult School & College Programs and President of Choice Theory® Connections-Internal Empowerment Coaching and Scripture Therapy program, I certify that the above referenced student has successfully completed "Effective and Responsible Role Play" class comprised of 30 hours, with 3 university credits available to him through Loyola Marymount University

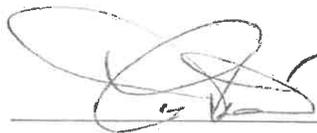

This course was completed in June of 2016, in conjunction with the renowned William Glasser Institute and Loyola Marymount University. This program is evidence-based, and research revealed it has a 2.9% recidivism rate in comparison to 67% recidivism rate in California prisons during the same period.

This thirty-hour, graded course involved extensive exercises in developing effective communication and relationship skills for Internal Empowerment Coaches. The major goals of communication, the communication process itself, and relationships were examined in depth.

Students were taught the importance of two-way communication in a coaching environment and were taught how to interact with clients, by asking clients questions with regard to their Quality World, Behavioral Systems, Perceived World, Comparing Place, and finally, Self-Evaluation. Students participated in role play exercises in communication and relationship coaching to hone in and implement the skills and tools taught through the Choice Theory® Connections-Internal Empowerment Coaching and Scripture Therapy program.

The above named student put forth an immense effort to participate and provide feedback while developing communication and relationship skills needed to become a coach.

In recognition of completion of this course, the above named student was awarded a certificate, in connection with William Glasser Inc. and Loyola Marymount University, and encouraged to continue enhancing his skills, knowledge, abilities and character.

Nerey, Steve K07292

CDC-128B rev. 4/74

Serving in the dual roles as Principal of El Prado Adult School & College Programs and President of Choice Theory® Connections, Internal Empowerment Coaching, and Scripture Therapy (IECAST), this writer certifies that Mr. Nerey has successfully completed the “Choice Theory Re-Entry Studies Transition® (CT-REST®)” class comprised of 120 hours with 12 university credits available to him through Loyola Marymount University.

CT-REST® is a form of psychotherapy, taught from an “educational perspective,” rather than as applied therapy, with the understanding that the “therapy” has been scientifically tested, and found to be effective in over three hundred clinical trials for many different disorders. In contrast to other forms of psychotherapy, CT-REST® focuses on the “here and now”; that is, the present day, is more time-focused, and is oriented toward problem-solving.

This course began in August 2015 through June 2016, and was completed in conjunction with the renowned William Glasser Institute and Loyola Marymount University. This program is evidence-based, and research revealed it has a 2.9% recidivism rate in comparison to 67% recidivism rate in California prisons during the same period.

Choice Theory® is a non-controlling, behaviorally-based psychology that teach individuals about trust, anger management, reformation, behaviors, sustainable relationships, and about the choices they make that can lead to healthy, productive lives. It encompasses: Substance Abuse Treatment, Barriers to Success, and more.

Students were taught through ten modules how to find answers to Relationships, Behavior, Choices and Trust issues, and to teach themselves and others how to synchronize their Thinking, Acting, Feeling & Physiology (Total Behavior) to their Five Basic Needs (Survival, Love & Belonging, Power, Freedom & Fun), to achieve effective and responsible self-rehabilitation results.

Mr. Nerey is to be commended on completing this exemplary achievement, and is encouraged to continue to practice what he has learned.

CDC-128B rev. 4/74

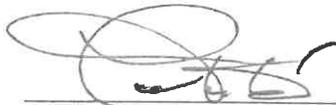

Serving in a dual role, as Principal and President of Choice Theory® Connections and Internal Empowerment Coaching program, I certify that Mr. Nerey has successfully completed Understanding Behavior, Human Relations and Performance class comprised of 30 hours with 3 university credits available to him through Loyola Marymount University.

This course was in May of 2016, and was completed in conjunction with the renowned William Glasser Institute and Loyola Marymount University. This program is evidence-based, and research revealed it has a 2.9% recidivism rate in comparison to 67% recidivism rate in California prisons during the same period.

This thirty-hour graded course provides an augmentation to previous training in Reality Therapy & Choice Theory®, by exploring "How and Why We Behave" through an inspection of a person's personality, perceptions, attitudes and self-esteem. Students examined these aspects of their selves and learned how they affect their own behavior and human relations as well as the behavior and human relations of others. Students also took inventory of their listening and communications skills and learned different conflict resolution styles to improve their own relations with others.

In addition, as part of this course, students created programs and logos to help others who are facing catastrophic life issues and decisions. These items will be presented and reviewed by the administration to determine their viability and implementation possibilities in the Choice Theory® Connections and Internal Empowerment Coaching program.

Mr. Nerey has gained a greater understanding of the physiological and psychological basis for human behavior, and has furthered his ability to apply Choice Theory to create positive relationships in all aspects of his life.

Kiera Newsome

Seventeen-year-old Kiera Newsome was convicted of participating in a gang-related shooting that killed Christian Henton and injured Shawtay Allen in 2001. On July 17, 2003, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Newsome to 25 years to life for murder, plus a 25-to-life firearm enhancement and a 10-year gang enhancement – a total term of 60 years to life in prison. Ms. Newsome is currently eligible for youth offender parole hearing in 2027.

Ms. Newsome maintains that she was not involved in this crime. She had no prior criminal history before this conviction, and has maintained a positive record during her 17 years of incarceration. She earned her high school diploma and an A.A. degree from Feather River College. Ms. Newsome has been very active in self-help programs, including Beyond Anger, Offender Responsibility, Assertive Communication, Freedom to Choose, and Criminal and Addictive Thinking. She has also facilitated several programs for her peers. Ms. Newsome has lived in an honor dorm for years, regularly participates in community and charity events, and serves on the Juvenile Offenders Committee, which promotes education and rehabilitation programs.

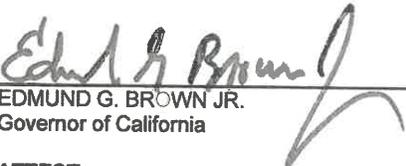

Ms. Newsome has also earned the respect of members of the correctional staff, who have praised her good behavior and leadership on the yard. One correctional officer reported that Ms. Newsome has maintained an "exemplary" record and wrote, "Inmate Newsome stays focused and committed to bettering herself and has completed several self-help groups and workshops....I commend her for having a good outlook on life and she should be commended for her behavior and the progress she has attained regarding her personal growth." Another correctional officer applauded Ms. Newsome for creating new a new self-help program that discourages profanity, and wrote, "Inmate Newsome should be commended for creating a curriculum that has the ability to make a drastic change in this environment and can also be very useful on the outside." Ms. Newsome's family has offered her housing, help finding a job, and other support in the event of her release to ensure that she makes a smooth transition back into the community.

For all of these reasons, I believe that Ms. Newsome has earned an earlier opportunity to make her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Kiera Newsome to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Dear Governor

My name is "Kiera" I was arrested at the age of 17 for a murder I did not commit here I am getting older in this place not understanding that the system is to seek justice for those that have done wrong but I have done no wrong and I'm stuck in here with no help for being poor and barely making it I do not have the legal fees to get the representation I need to help me legally get out of here so I work with the California Innocence project of San Diego and their process is slow sometimes I feel like there is no hope like the innocent is left to suffer and the guilty gets away with everything. I do not know anything about the legal system so I tried my hardest to do this petition on my own and to hope that you understand it please I need your help even if it just to look at my case that is all I ASK.

Sincerely
Kiera Newsome

I Desperately need you.

Thaisan Nguon

In 2001, 20-year-old Thaisan Nguon exchanged dirty looks with a group of men on the sidewalk. Mr. Nguon later followed their car onto the highway, and his crime partner fired multiple shots into the other car. Vutha Tea was shot and killed, and Sina Mao was shot, but survived his injuries. On April 29, 2003, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Nguon to life without the possibility of parole plus 50 years to life for murder, attempted murder, and a firearm enhancement.

Mr. Nguon is now 38 years old and has served almost 18 years in prison. In his application for clemency, Mr. Nguon expressed sincere remorse for his role in this crime and demonstrated a clear understanding of the pain that his actions caused for the victims. He wrote that he has worked hard to change himself for the better, and hoped to "earn the privilege to demonstrate to the parole board that I have redeemed myself through higher education, rehabilitative programs, and my faith in God." To that end, Mr. Nguon has spent many years dedicating himself to his rehabilitation. He earned his A.A. degree and an Entrepreneurial Planning certificate from Feather River College. Mr. Nguon has participated in numerous self-help classes, including Houses of Healing, Victim Sensitivity, Alternatives to Violence, and Gang Awareness and Recovery. He lives on an honor yard, contributes to fundraisers for charity, writes letters to at-risk youth, and currently works in a program that trains shelter dogs for families in the community.

Mr. Nguon has also earned commendations from staff members who interact with him on a regular basis. In 2018, a correctional officer praised Mr. Nguon's positive behavior and wrote, "Nguon has shown the positive characteristics, and behaved in a manner that is conducive to a successful reintegration into our society when released from custody." A program coordinator from Feather River College called him an "exemplary student" and wrote, "This is a person that has truly changed [his] thinking because of college." Another correctional officer noted Mr. Nguon's respectful attitude and wrote, "Nguon is to be commended for his work ethics and being a positive role model [and] a showcase for rehabilitative reform."

In an interview with an investigator for the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Nguon said, "I'm dedicated to making amends for the harm and the pain that I've inflicted on [my victims'] families and on the community, regardless of if I have to spend the rest of my life in prison." He continued, "I will never ever be able to atone myself, but I want to do my best to do so through helping our community." Mr. Nguon has shown through his words and actions that he understands the magnitude of his past errors and is dedicated to living differently in the future. He has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

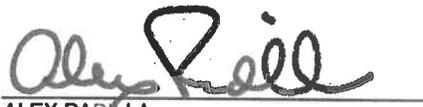

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Thaisan Nguon to a total of 18 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.
Governor of California

ALEX PADILLA
Secretary of State

July 7, 2018

Honorable Governor Brown:

My name is Thaisan Nguon and I am one of the many inmates who have a Life Without the Possibility of Parole (LWOP) sentence that submitted an Application for Commutation. When I was twenty years old I murdered Mr. Vutha Tea and attempted to murder Mr. Sina Mao and Mr. Sattia Nin in a drive-by shooting. For a long time after I committed these heinous crimes I relied on my warped belief system that was based on a callous gang sub-culture to avoid taking full responsibility of my actions. I am ashamed to say that I abandoned God to follow that warped belief system. However, through God's grace, glory, and light I was able to find my way back home to Him. My relationship with God has given me the strength to truly reflect upon myself and see through clearer eyes how I became a person who could murder Mr. Vutha Tea and attempt to murder Mr. Sina Mao and Mr. Sattia Nin. I see how my life is truly guided by His hands and how He entrusts me to make the right decisions now. Since my re-commitment to God, I have become more aware of how deeply impactful my crimes continue to be. God was able to show me this by placing certain opportunities in my path that was contingent on me making good decisions. It started with entering a pilot program for Feather River College at Substance Abuse Treatment Facility state prison. As soon as I received my AA in Liberal Arts and the Humanities I was afforded the opportunity to transfer to the Progressive Program Facility (PPF) here at Cal. State Prison Los Angeles County in Lancaster. Upon my arrival here I immediately submitted an application to join the PAWS For Life dog program. I knew the process of getting into the program would take some time so in the meantime I participated in the many rehabilitative classes that this facility had to offer and also applied for the Cal State Los Angeles Bachelor program. In 2017, I was accepted into the Cal State Los Angeles Bachelor program and in April of 2018 I was blessed to be interviewed and accepted into the PAWS For Life dog program. With my Bachelor degree I plan to efficiently be a productive field representative for my sister Julie Daniels's business C-NOW (Cambodians Networking Our World). C-NOW helps bring together Cambodians from diverse professions in ways that might innovate their field of expertise. C-NOW also conducts benefits and donation drives for the community it serves. Also, with the experience and knowledge I am receiving about dogs through the PAWS For Life program I can start my own business of assisting new pet owners of housetraining their pets and show them ways of socializing their pets with people and other pets. The rehabilitative classes, Cal State Los Angeles Bachelor program, and the PAWS For Life dog program here at the PPF yard here at Lancaster continues to shape and mold me into better person. A person who is far removed from the twenty year old gang member who senselessly murdered Mr. Vutha Tea and attempted to murder Mr. Sina Mao and Mr. Sattia Nin. Please consider commuting my Life Without the Possibility of Parole sentence so that I may one day have an opportunity to present to the parole board my transformation and rehabilitation. Thank you so much for hearing me out and especially for serving our great state of California Governor. May God Bless You and Your Family.

Sincerely,
Thaisan Nguon

APPEAL from judgments of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County and petition for a writ of habeas corpus, Arthur H. Jean, Jr., Judge. Judgments affirmed with directions; petition denied.

Charlotte E. Costan, under appointment by the Court of Appeal, for Defendant and Appellant Choeun Mean.

Peter Gold, under appointment by the Court of Appeal, for Defendant and Appellant Thailiee Nguon.

Richard A. Levy, under appointment by the Court of Appeal, for Defendant and Appellant Thaisan Nguon.

Bill Lockyer, Attorney General, Robert R. Anderson, Chief Assistant Attorney General, Pamela C. Hamanaka, Senior Assistant Attorney General, Steven D. Matthews, Supervising Deputy Attorney General, and Kyle S. Brodie, Deputy Attorney General, for Plaintiff and Respondent.

Thaisan Nguon, Thaillee Nguon, and Choeun Mean were convicted of one count of premeditated murder, one count of premeditated attempted murder, and one count of shooting at an occupied vehicle, with true findings on various allegations involving great bodily injury, the use of a firearm, and criminal street gangs. In bifurcated proceedings, the trial court found that Mean and Thaisan had suffered prior strike convictions, and that Mean had served a prior prison term. Thaisan was sentenced to state prison for life without the possibility of parole, plus two consecutive terms of 25 years to life, plus 10 consecutive years. Mean was sentenced to state prison for life without the possibility of parole, plus two consecutive terms of 25 years to life. Thaillee was sentenced to state prison for life without the possibility of parole, plus a consecutive term of 15 years to life, plus a consecutive term of 25 years to life.

Thaisan, Mean, and Thaillee appeal, contending there were evidentiary, instructional, and sentencing errors, and Thaillee (joined by Mean) has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to address another evidentiary issue. We reject most of the claims of error, affirm the judgment against Thaillee, modify the judgments against Thaisan and Mean and, as modified, affirm those judgments. We deny the petition.

FACTS

Thaisan, Thaillee, and Mean (all members of the Crazy Brother Clan, otherwise known as the CBC gang) went to the Department of Motor Vehicles in Long Beach in a Toyota Camry driven by Thaisan. Dara Yin, another CBC member, was in the front passenger seat, and Thaillee and Mean were in the back.¹ At about the same time, Yutha Tea (the murder victim) and Sattia Nin arrived at the DMV to pick up Sina Mao (the attempted murder victim).

Tea dropped Nin in front of the building and drove into the parking lot. Before he entered the building, Nin noticed Thaisan (whom he had seen before and knew to be a CBC member) and saw the occupants of Thaisan's car "mad dogging" him (looking at him in a way that suggested they "wanted problems"). Nin returned the "mad dog" stare and gestured to Thaisan in a way that meant, "What's up?"² Nin went into the DMV building, where he (along with Tea and Mao) stayed for about half an hour, during which time Mao (looking through the window) saw Thaisan's car circling the building while Thaisan stared inside. When it appeared that the Toyota had driven off, Nin, Tea, and Mao left the DMV in Tea's Honda.

Just after Tea drove out of the DMV parking lot, the Toyota (still driven by Thaisan with Thaillee, Mean, and Yin as passengers) came up behind and followed the Honda for several blocks and ultimately onto Pacific Coast Highway. As the Toyota pursued the Honda, Thaisan put on a beanie and Yin reached under the seat for something. On the highway, Thaisan pulled the Toyota alongside the passenger side of the Honda, and Thaillee fired at least three shots at the Honda. One bullet hit Tea in the head and the Honda jerked to a stop. Thaisan stopped the Toyota, and Thaillee got out and fired more shots into the Honda. Tea died five days after the shooting. Mao survived a gunshot wound to his head but has permanent brain damage. Nin was not hit.

² At trial, a gang expert explained that Nin's actions would have been viewed by the CBC members as a sign of disrespect, and that there would have been "pressure for [them] to do something" so they would not "lose respect" on the street.

Thaisan, Mean, and Thailee were charged with Tea's murder, and with the attempted murders of Mao and Nin. At trial, the People presented evidence of the facts summarized above, plus additional evidence discussed below. None of the defendants presented any evidence. As noted above, the jury convicted them of Tea's murder (Pen. Code, § 187),³ and the attempted murder of Mao (§§ 664, 187). The defendants were acquitted of the attempted murder of Nin but convicted of shooting at an occupied motor vehicle (§ 246), and the jury found that all three crimes had been committed for the benefit of a criminal street gang (§ 186.22, subd. (b)(1)) and that, in committing the murder and attempted murder, a principal had used a firearm for the benefit of a gang (§ 12022.53, subds. (b)-(e)). The jury found true the special circumstance allegations that the murder was committed for the benefit of a criminal street gang (§ 190.2, subd. (a)(22)) and by discharging a firearm from a motor vehicle (§ 190.2, subd. (a)(21).) Finally, the jury found that Thailee had personally discharged a firearm (§ 12022.53, subds. (b)-(d)), and personally inflicted great bodily injury upon Mao while shooting at a motor vehicle (§ 12022.7).

The court then found that Mean had suffered a prior serious felony conviction (§ 667, subds. (a), (b)-(i)) and served a prior prison term (§ 667.5, subd. (b)), and that Thaisan had suffered two prior serious or violent juvenile adjudications (§ 667, subds. (b)-(i)). The defendants were sentenced as noted at the outset.

I am currently serving a Life Without the Possibility of Parole (L.W.O.P) sentence for the murder of Mr. Vutha Tea and 50 years to life for the attempted murder of Mr. Sina Mao. I was 20 years old at the time of the crimes and this is the first time I have ever been to prison. I am humbly requesting a commutation of my L.W.O.P sentence in hopes that I might earn the privilege to demonstrate to the parole board that I have redeemed myself through higher education, rehabilitative programs, and my faith in God. Also, that I am a positive force in the prison community and that I will be a positive force in society should the parole board bless me with the opportunity of re-entry.

Question 4

Should I be so blessed to be granted a commutation I know that I will be an agent for positive change in my community and in society overall. Through higher education, rehabilitative programs (self-help classes/peer group sessions), and prayer I have been able to reflect upon myself in an honest and meaningful manner. Through these activities I have identified the defects of my character, addressed the causative factors that I used to justify my bad decision making, and learn life changing skills that has produced positive decision making skills with positive outcomes.

Pursuing a higher education through Feather River College (F.R.C) has afforded me the opportunity for growth on so many fronts. Upon becoming a student at F.R.C I was almost immediately tapped to be a tutor. I was recognized for my ability to understand algebra a little better than my other classmates so primarily I helped them with math. Nevertheless, that did not prevent us from having study sessions on other subjects. I felt a sense of gratification knowing that I was helping others and contributing to their pursuit of a higher education. Being a tutor gave me a better sense of what service really meant and I do so now with the thought of impacting the lives of others in a positive manner.

Which is why I will be heavily involved with my sister, Julie Daniel's business, C-NOW (Cambodians Networking Our World). In C-NOW, I would be a field representative with responsibilities such as coordinating volunteers for events and helping with donation drives for the community. I would also be given the freedom to coordinate and organize my own projects. The first project that I would like to work on would be geared towards tutoring those who are struggling with math. It is my hope to branch that out to help young kids who are struggling in school. As part of my living amends I have dedicated myself to do as much as I can for charitable cause ranging from donating money to benefit the children of survivors of crimes to volunteering my time to crochet articles of clothing for the Women's Clinic of Antelope Valley. Being part of C-NOW will give me the opportunity to give back and rebuild the community I destroyed. It will also allow me to continue my lifelong commitment to make amends for the endless pain, suffering, and trauma I caused upon countless amounts of people when I murdered Mr. Vutha Tea and attempted to murder Mr. Sina Mao.

Programs such as Victim Sensitivity Awareness, Alternative to Violence Project, Gang Awareness and Recovery, PREP/Insight, and Narcotics Anonymous have helped me to see how vast the ripple effects are for murdering Mr. Vutha Tea and attempting to murder Mr. Sina Mao. I caused irreparable pain, suffering, and trauma to Mr. Vutha Tea, Mr. Sina Mao, their family, their friends, my family, my friends, first responders, business owners, consumers, taxpayers, school children, and the list goes on and on. Mr. Vutha Tea will never have the experience of meeting the love of his life, sharing their lives together, and raising children together. I took away all the good Mr. Vutha Tea and his future descendants could have contributed upon this world. Mr. Tea's family and friends will never experience again the immediate joy his presence brings to them. Fond old memories of Mr. Tea will be the only things his sisters Ongtin and Savon can share with their children about their uncle. Mr. Sina Mao will never smell and taste things the same. The bullet that fractured his skull permanently altered those two senses and caused countless other injuries. Injuries that I might not be privy to but undoubtedly Mr. Mao's family and friends are fully aware of. Day in and day out they witness the ongoing effects of him being shot in the head and the toll it takes on him. I cannot imagine how helpless Mr. Mao's family and friends must feel to see his pain and see him struggle and not be able to provide him some relief. And I am certain the injuries of being shot in the head limits Mr. Mao in how he is able to raise his children. My own family and friends were in disbelief that I was charged with such heinous crimes. The conflict that I created for them internally must have caused them great stress and grief. It cannot be easy to reconcile the feelings of loving someone who has murdered a human being and attempted to murder another one. My own Mother once said to me, "What have you done to the mothers of those men?" In that moment I understood how my loved ones also mourned the loss of Mr. Tea's life and the damage I inflicted upon Mr. Mao's life. First responders such as police officers, firefighters, and paramedics are trained to professionally respond to horrific scenes but that does not mean they are not deeply affected by it on a human level. It cannot be easy to mentally process a bloody crime scene the way they do as professionals. I have added so much more distress and loss of faith in humanity to these brave first responders. Stores and business had to suspend their operations because the whole block had to be shut down for the murder investigation to take place. Employees of those stores and businesses who depend on their hourly wages got their paychecks cut short because of the stop in operations. Customers and consumers who had plans of quickly purchasing choice items were held back and inconvenienced to recount the harrowing and traumatizing ordeal of witnessing the murder and attempted murder I committed. To this very day taxpayers are still paying the price for my crimes. I believe I read that it costs taxpayers almost $200,000 annually to house a prisoner. Had I been able to make better decisions in life and not decide to murder Mr. Vutha Tea and attempt to murder Mr. Sina Mao, all that taxpayer money used to house me in prison since 2001 could have been allocated to programs that would benefit children. It could have went to their education or their healthcare. For all the people that were mentioned and the countless others that were not, but were equally effected, I know I shattered their sense of safety and security.

On top of understanding the reverberating impact of murdering Mr. Vutha Tea and attempting to murder Mr. Sina Mao, the aforementioned programs challenged me to retrace my life through various exercises that focused on personal trauma. We wrote about our trauma, re-enacted our trauma, and discussed our trauma in a safe group setting. Participating in exercises like that allowed me to discover things about myself that clarified to me as to why I decided to join a gang and why I continued to make bad decisions that eventually led to the murder of Mr. Vutha Tea and the attempted murder of Mr. Sina Mao. Coupled with other programs that I was involved in such as G.O.G.I (Getting Out by Getting In), CLN (Corrections Learning Network) Transition: Life Skills/Stress Management, PREP/Anger Management, New Choices Different Directions, and Personal Development, I was able to see what my character defects were. Among other things, I was violent, distant, narcissistic, and selfish. These character defects were actually masks that I used to cover up my insecurities.

Every college class that I have taken, rehabilitative program that I have participated in, and church service that I have attended has provided me with the tools to help me develop the necessary skills to overcome my insecurities, rectify my character defects, and handle my causative factors in a constructive manner. With that said, I continue to pursue a higher education, currently I am enrolled in CSULA in pursuit of my B.A in communications, I continue to participate in rehabilitative programs, currently I am in Pave the Way and House of Healing program, and I continue to attend church to keep myself centered and grounded with God and the path of living amends and service to others. I am also blessed with the most encouraging, most resourceful, and most loving support system of people I could ever ask for. I am confident that the knowledge I have gained and the skills that I have developed through higher learning and rehabilitative programs coupled with my strong support system of family and friends will prevent any chance of a set back or relapse. Moreover, my certificate of Specialization Entrepreneurial Planning (received from F.R.C), CLN/ The Five Secrets to Finding a Job, CLN/Get the Buzz on Bizz, and Pave the Way has prepared me to know how to search for employment, interview for employment, gain employment, and maintain employment.

Please consider commuting my Life Without the Possibility of Parole sentence so that I may one day have the opportunity and privilege to present to the parole board committee who I am now. Thank You.

Hung Nguyen

On August 24, 1998, 19-year-old Hung Nguyen's friends pressured him to help them scare Ivie Tran. Later that night, Mr. Nguyen shot and killed Ms. Tran while they were both driving on the highway. On December 3, 1999, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Nguyen to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Nguyen has now spent more than 20 years in prison and is 40 years old. In an interview with an investigator for the Board of Parole Hearings, he said that when he came to prison, he was terrified and realized that he needed to make a serious change in his life. Mr. Nguyen explained that since then, he has worked hard to transform himself into a better person, and cautions young people against making the same mistakes that he did.

During his two decades of incarceration, Mr. Nguyen has shown a remarkable commitment to turning his life around. He has only been disciplined for misconduct four times, and avoided gang activity and drugs while in prison. Mr. Nguyen has participated in multiple self-help programs including Alternatives to Violence, Gang Awareness and Recovery, and Creating a Healing Society. Mr. Nguyen routinely receives exceptional work ratings from his supervisors, and is currently enrolled in college classes. He has lived on an honor yard since 2010, and served on the Men's Advisory Council.

Notably, Mr. Nguyen has also earned accolades from staff members who know him well. In 2018, a correctional officer who supervised Mr. Nguyen for four years commended him for his respectful attitude and wrote, "I encourage him to keep up the good work and continue to strive towards his rehabilitation and his future possible release." A correctional sergeant who had known Mr. Nguyen for 12 years praised his work ethic and wrote, "It should be noted that Nguyen has demonstrated, in many situations, his trustworthiness, and a mature attitude that has impressed all staff members.... Nguyen has remained a stellar example of what it means to be a model inmate. He leads by example and has consistently mentored other prisoners who wish to participate in positive programs."

Mr. Nguyen committed a truly senseless crime when he was a teenager. Although he is serving a sentence that gave him no hope of future release, he chose to turn away from violence and instead dedicate himself to rehabilitation and setting a positive example for others. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Nguyen has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Hung Nguyen to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

PERSONAL TESTIMONY

My name is Hung Nguyen CDC#P63837, I am a citizen of Viet Nam, born in Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon) on September 5, 1978. My father was a drug addict who abused my mother. My mother May Tran tried repeatedly to escape Vietnam with me but without success. It was too dangerous. When I was 8, she at last was able to escape alone to United State where she hoped to make a better life for my brother and me. She settle at first in San Jose where she worked as a waitress, saving money to bring us to America. During this time, we were raised in Vietnam by my great aunt.

I was brought to U.S by my mother at the age of 14. At that time we lived in Alameda, but then in 1994 moved to O.C. I graduated from Rancho Alamitos High School in Garden Grove in 1997. I didn't speak very good English because I came to this county as a teen. I had no American Friends to help me improve English until I came to prison.

As part of my extracurricular life, I belonged to a Church call "Vietnamese Catholic Youth". As a group we did many things, such as feeding the local homeless every weekend, visiting nursing home and also visiting Juveniles in jail. Many of those in this program knew me, has stood by me all this years and remain ready to absorb me back into civilian life when I'm free.

Since I came to California State Prison at Lancaster over 17 years ago, I have had a number of different jobs which I have performed well. I was Education Clerks, Law Library clerk, Program Clerk working for Captains and Lieutenant, Central Operation clerk working for Watch Commander and Food Service Manager clerk. (see attachment 1). In 2008 While housed at Facility "A" Honor Yard Program and now Progressive Programming Facility (PPF) I have actively participate in numerous self help class and completed many of them such as Anger Management, Alcoholics Narcotics Anonymous, Alternatives to Violence Basic and advanced classees, The Catalyst Foundation, etc. (See Attachment 2). I also have studied, improved my English and taught myself Law.

I fully realize that asking for a commutation is serious and carries with tremendous amount of responsibility. All I'm hoping for is to have an opportunity to go before the Parole Board and show them that I'm not the same person I was over 19 years, when I 19 years old. I want to show the board all my positive achievement and personal development I have obtained while in Prison and more personally I want to have a chance to come home and spend time with my brother and sister, they all I have left (my mother was killed by a 19 years old drunk driver in 2004). I want to see my niece and nephew grow up and make sure they don't make the same mistake that I made.

Si Nguyen

In August 2002, 15-year-old Si Nguyen fired multiple shots at a park, hitting Leon Tran in the shoulder. Mr. Tran survived. On February 25, 2005, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Nguyen to 7 years to life for attempted murder, 3 years for assault with a deadly weapon, 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement, 10 years for a gang enhancement, and 3 years for a great bodily injury enhancement – a total term of 48 years to life.

Mr. Nguyen applied for a commutation of sentence based on his age at the time of these crimes, as well as his subsequent rehabilitation. In his application, he wrote, "Although I believe my sentence was justified I have taken the steps towards positive change and rehabilitation. . . . I can't undo the harm I caused but I believe my transformation is evidence of my willingness to make living amends."

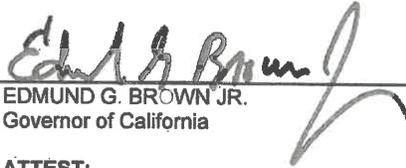

Mr. Nguyen is now 32 years old and has been incarcerated for 16 years. In that time, he has only been disciplined three times for misconduct, and has never been involved in gang activity or drugs in prison. Instead, it is clear that Mr. Nguyen has dedicated himself to turning his life around. The retired warden of Lancaster State Prison recommended Mr. Nguyen for a commutation. He earned a vocational certification and routinely receives positive ratings from his work supervisors. He has participated in multiple self-help courses including Getting Out by Going In, Alternatives to Violence, Victim Sensitivity, and Anger Management. Mr. Nguyen has lived on an honor yard for many years, and currently participates in a program that trains shelter dogs to prepare them for adoption. In 2018, an associate warden commended Mr. Nguyen for his "exceptional commitment and leadership skills" in the program and wrote, "Nguyen's rehabilitative efforts, demonstrated through years of compassion-based effort, are consistent with the goals of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation." A correctional officer also recognized Mr. Nguyen for his excellent behavior and wrote, "Every inmate incarcerated at CDCR has decisions to make on a daily basis. It is clear the decisions being made by Nguyen are of good nature and are geared toward his own self-rehabilitation." Mr. Nguyen has a solid plan in place in the event of his release – he will initially live in a transitional housing program, and his wife and parents have pledged to help support him as he re-enters the community.

When he was just 15 years old, Mr. Nguyen was entrenched in the gang lifestyle and committed these reckless crimes as a result. But he has made significant changes to his life and demonstrated that he is now a mature, responsible man who can contribute to his community. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Nguyen should have an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Si Nguyen to a total of 16 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

2. On July 12, 2002 my gang associates and I assaulted Kevin Nguyen and his friends in a gang melee. I initiated the fight by throwing the first punch and chaos ensued. There was a break in the fighting where I was able to escape and run into my friends car and retrieve a crowbar. I ran back into the melee and assaulted Kevin until he was unconscious and lying unresponsive. My friends had to pull me away because witnesses from the apartment building threatened to call the police. From court proceedings I found out Keven Nguyen suffered multiple head and body injuries that required stitches. I pled Guilty to Assault and Battery resulting in Great Bodily injury.

I was 15 years old on August 23, 2002 when I attempted to murder Phuc Da Tran and his friends at mile sq. park in Fountain Valley. Using a 9mm semiautomatic handgun I fired multiple shots into the crowd of gang rivals. I ran after them and fired more shots as they attempted to flee for safety. When I couldn't get a clear shot anymore I fled the scene. Without a place to hide I tried looking inconspicuous as I walked down the street. I was pulled over and arrested and later identified as the suspect. I found out later in court that Phuc Da Tran was shot in the shoulder. I was charged and convicted on two premeditated attempted murders in the commission and benefit of a gang. I was sentenced to a Double Life sentence plus 56 years.

3. I am requesting a commutation because I believe who I am today, will be an asset to my community. I would be grateful for the opportunity to demonstrate to the parole board what I have learned and show how I have changed since my incarceration at the age of 15. Although I believe my sentence was justified I have taken the steps towards positive change and rehabilitation. By taking responsibility for all the wrongs I have done and the results of my actions I have come to understand the suffering I caused Mr. Tran, Kevin Nguyen, their respective families, and many others. When I put myself in their shoes, empathy opened my heart to feel the shame, guilt and remorse for what I put them through. I can't undo the harm I caused but I believe my transformation is evidence of my willingness to make living amends.

4. Upon coming to the Progressive Programming Facility in Lancaster I immediately sought help through all the available rehabilitative classes and I have come to understand my history that led me to living a criminal lifestyle. Through reflection of my past I face the ugliness of who I was.

I was an angry kid who normalized violence to solve my problems, who sought approval from my peers, finding value in myself when I pleased them. I copied my peers and stole to have what they had. I felt happy and the good feelings I felt from doing wrong was further reinforced when my peers encouraged my criminal acts. Instead of seeking proper help for my feelings of insecurity and helplessness, I took matters into my own hands and joined a gang to empower myself. I was addicted to my gangs acceptance. Praise and to maintain their approval, I committed more crimes and violence to show I'm worthy of their attention and what I thought was love. I chose to harm people because it not only meant I would earn a fearsome reputation, but my status within the gang would grow. The ultimate opportunity came on August 23rd, 2002, when I attempted to murder Mr. Tran and his friends.

It took me twelve years in prison before I took responsibility for my crimes against my fellow man. My life was unmanagable and I admitted I needed help. From all the lessons and voicing my experiences out loud I was able to heal. Through understanding myself I finally understood the lasting impact I had on those I harmed by choices I made, I felt ashamed and in feeling remorseful I vow to not only be a better version of myself but to use what I learn today to help end the vicious cycle of violence.

In the Alternative to Violence Project I learned about building a community based on honesty and respect and trust. Through AA/NA I apply the 12 steps to guide my life. In helping youth I learn events, feelings, and reaction that created a pattern for my destructive thinking and feelings. By learning the root causes of these negative patterns I am able to find the best coping tools that will help me succeed in my community, in prison or in the free world. Please see my file for additional chrono's and 128's. When I joined the Paws For Life I began giving back to my community through the dogs we train and rescue. We help rehabilitate them so they can find a forever home. When I joined the Service Dog program I felt honored to be tasked with training dogs for our military vets who suffer from PTSD. Everyday I live with humility because prison gave me pause from my destructive life. For the past 16 years I have had the time to reflect and grow and be the person my family and community can embrace again.

I know that if I am granted commutation I would be an asset to my community and I vow to commit my life to helping our youth and be of service to my community to stop the cycle of drugs, gangs and violence
Thank you.

2. When the red Honda reached the apartment complex, Tin Nguyen and Tien Tran got out and ran to where Vuckovic was standing by his gray BMW. Tien Tran grabbed at the door handle of the driver's side and was grabbed by Vuckovic. Tin Nguyen then pointed the gun at Vuckovic, and Vuckovic grabbed Nguyen's hand with the gun. As the three men struggled, the gun went off. Vuckovic fell to the ground. Tin Nguyen ran off. Tien Tran got into the victim's car and drove it around the corner where he met up with Pham and Tin Nguyen..."

3. However, there is also a part of myself wants to beg and plea for mercy; thus, this commutation. Another reason is for my mom, who is now in her 80's. She understands the gravity of my commitment, but like every mom, she hopes that God will have mercy upon her and me. She has waited and supported me for nearly two decades, so it my obligation as a son to request for a commutation, and beg Governor Brown and Californians for forgiving and mercy.

4., I continue to persist. I have been on CSP-LAC, Facility 'A' Progressive Program Facility since 2004. I have been a member of the Executive Body MAC during most of my stay on Facility 'A,' doing my best to keep the yard function as a programing yard and have helped to maintain the positive atmosphere on the PPF. The following are my accomplishments and education:

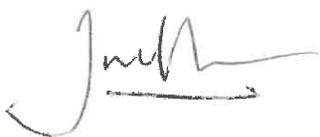

Education.

1. Currently earning a Bachelor of Art Degree in Communication Study at California State University – Los Angeles, a pilot Prison Bachelor Program that is now extended to the first Prison Bachelor Degree Completion Program.
2. Currently enroll at Adams State University earning a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.
3. Associates of Arts Degree at Coastline Community College.
4. Business Certification at Coastline Community College.

Accomplishments.

1. In progress – Certified Paws for Life Dog Trainer, Sponsored by CDCR and Karma Rescue.Org. I am currently training service dogs for Military Veteran diagnosed with PTSD.
2. Participating in self-help classes.
3. I had been a member of Convict Reaching Out to People (CROP) helping youths at risk to turn their life around. I am a member of Progress Art Program donated paintings for charity. I am also a member of HEART, an ILTAG that helps inmates to attain their Associate Degree, and we conduct fundraiser drive to donate money to charity.
4. Participating in AA and NA since 2012.

Through the years, I had thought that this was my lots in life, that I was hopeless. However, at I persist to rehabilitate myself and these classes and events unfolded in my life, I realized my circumstances do not dictate my life, for the choices of doing the right things are mine. I know now that I can be a good man if I choose to be; thus, my choices now will continue to be doing the right thing and be a good man, despite the circumstances or situations.

Tin Nguyen

In 1996, Mr. Nguyen participated in an armed robbery of jewelry dealer Stanko Vukovic. He and his crime partners attacked Mr. Vukovic in a parking lot. During the struggle, Mr. Nguyen shot Mr. Vukovic in the chest, killing him. On January 8, 1999, the Santa Clara County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Nguyen to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 4 years for a firearm enhancement.

Faced with a sentence that gave no hope of parole, Mr. Nguyen has nevertheless focused on his rehabilitation and worked to transform himself. In his application for clemency, he wrote, "Through the years, I had thought that this was my lot in life; that I was hopeless. However, a[s] I persist to rehabilitate myself and these classes and events unfolded in my life, I realized my circumstances do not dictate my life, for the choices of doing the right things are mine. I know now that I can be a good man if I choose to be; thus, my choices now will continue to be doing the right thing and be a good man, despite the circumstances or situations."

Mr. Nguyen is now 46 years old and has been incarcerated for over 20 years. He has been disciplined only two times in over two decades in prison. He currently resides on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard that holds its residents to high standards of conduct and offers unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities. He has participated in self-help programs, including Alternatives to Violence, Creative Conflict Resolution, and Victim Sensitivity. He earned his GED and A.A. degree, and is currently enrolled in the California State University, Los Angeles bachelor's degree program. Mr. Nguyen works to train service dogs for military veterans diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder.

Most importantly, the former warden of the prison where Mr. Nguyen is housed has personally recommended him for commutation. She wrote, "Please note upon review o[f] your file, my observations of your dedication to personal growth and positive programming, the positive impact you have made in the programming of the men incarcerated on Facility A and noting your minimal disciplinary history, I encourage you to seek sentence commutation from the Governor." Mr. Nguyen has also been commended by multiple correctional staff members and educators for his positive attitude and behavior, including a correctional lieutenant who has directly supervised Mr. Nguyen for several years. The lieutenant wrote, "As someone with long and direct knowledge of Nguyen, I am confident he has achieved the level of insight into the causative factors of the negative behavior of his youth, resulting in his confinement for the past twenty years, and developed the skills and inner resources necessary to prevent such behavior." Mr. Nguyen's family has written in support of his release and his sister has offered financial assistance in order for him to complete his education.

In addition, Mr. Nguyen's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Nguyen. Mr. Nguyen has exhibited a commitment to his rehabilitation over the past two decades and worked to turn his life around. I believe that it is appropriate to reduce his sentence so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Tin Nguyen to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Walter Oatis

On April 26, 1999, Walter Oatis committed a robbery of a liquor store, an attempted robbery of another liquor store, and robbery of a fast food restaurant. On October 4, 2002, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Oatis to 25 years to life for robbery, three years for attempted robbery, plus a 5-year prior felony enhancement – a total term of 33 years to life.

Mr. Oatis is now 46 years old and has been incarcerated for nearly 20 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Oatis explained that his actions were not justified and his criminal behavior was due to his selfish, irresponsible, and impulsive behavior. He wrote, "I believe I have demonstrated exemplary behavior by rehabilitating myself, being disciplinary free, being productive, and living a law abiding life following conviction." He added, "I came in prison a drug addict and today I'm a Drug and Alcohol counselor."

Mr. Oatis has maintained a positive record during his incarceration and has never been disciplined for serious misconduct. He earned his GED and a Certificate of Achievement in General Business. He has participated in self-help classes including Alcoholics Anonymous, A Change in Perception, Victim Awareness, and Alternatives to Violence. In 2016, a correctional supervisor commended Mr. Oatis for setting an example for his peers. He has also received positive ratings from supervisors for his work performance. A teacher noted that Mr. Oatis "conducts himself with dignity and always demonstrates the utmost respect and sensitivity for student and staff alike. He has been a positive influence on the Inmate Peer Tutor Program, to all around him, and is a welcome asset to the program."

Additionally, his application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Oatis.

I believe that Mr. Oatis has taken the necessary steps toward self-improvement and has worked for many years to rehabilitate himself. For these reasons, I believe that it is appropriate to reduce his sentence to allow him to make his case before the Board of Parole Hearings so that it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Walter Oatis to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

2a. Circumstances of the crimes requesting a commutation:

I was a 26 year old drug addict. Desperate to get money to feed my out of control cocaine and marijuana habit, I foolishly and selfishly entered John's Liquor Store with my hand in a gym bag, pretending to have a weapon but I did not. I demanded money from Mr. Kyong Gum Ho at the counter. He gave me some cash, I ran out, got in my vehicle, and left.

Later the same day, I attempted to rob Furman's Liquor. I displayed the same behavior by pretending to have a weapon with my hand in a gym bag but I did not. I demanded money from Mr. George Youseff at the counter. Mr. George Youseff would not open the register. I ran out, got in my vehicle, and left.

2nd Degree Robbery	April 26, 1999	Los Angeles County	= 25 years to life
2nd Degree Robbery	April 26, 1999	Los Angeles County	= 5 years
Plus 1 Prison Enhancement			<hr/>
No Weapons and No Injuries in these crimes.			30 years to life by Trial

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

- 3a. Under this Three Strikes Law I am required to serve 30 years before I can be considered whether I am suitable or not. Unlike other lifers under the older laws they go to BPH alot earlier than anyone under the Three Strikes Law. There has been a few Initiatives that have passed to provide some relief for some strikers. However, none of them helped me because of my crime alone. My record of rehabilitation was never considered.

I was under the impression that as long as I didn't have any murders, Sex crimes, and no Rapes, a person could submitt a petition to the sentencing court for relief as long as a person has shown that he/she has rehabilitated themselves. I have found the opposite. It didn't matter whether a person was rehabilitated or not but moreso the type of crime they committed.

I was denied Proposition 36 with prejudice based on my crime alone. If not for the Three Strike Law my case carries from low to high(2,3,and 5 years). I haven't hurt anyone nor have I used any weapons. I have no crimes against women, children, police, nor fire fighters. I pray this opportunity will allow me to get home soon and be the father and grandpa God created me to be in this world. This is my only chance I believe I have to express my change and rehabilitation.

4. Today I'm not the young person I was when I comitted these selfish and inconsiderate acts against Mr. Kyong Gum Ho at John's Liquor and Mr. George Youseff at Furman's Liquor.

I was a 26 year old drug addict that didn't care about anyone but myself. My focus was on staying high. I was immature, selfish, irresponsible, impulsive, inconsiderate, distorted in my beliefs and values, and just out of control. I didn't know who I was nor my obligation to my family and the community.

After studying and successfully achieving a General Business Certificate through Coastline Community College, I discovered the businesses I robbed and attempted to rob were actually pillars in the community. I will never rob anyone again. I believe today, to rob or steal from anyone is robbing and stealing from God.

Today I'm 44 years old. With help from family, Christian Beliefs, College Education, Self-Help Groups, and various Volunteer Work, I have become a mature person with the passion and courage to succeed as a productive citizen of society. I understand the factors the caused my life to take this drastic turn. I understand today how my criminal behavior hurt a lot of people. Today I think about others and how my actions may impact their lives before I do them. I understand the importance of Public Safety and my civil obligations in its improved state. (Cont. Attached Page)

I take full responsibility for my past horrible acts against society, my present reality, and my future that is full of promise and achievements. I came in prison a drug addict and today I'm a Drug and Alcohol Counselor.

Today, my thoughts are not the same thoughts therefore my actions are not the same actions. If given the opportunity to go home I will continue to attend AA/NA meetings. I will continue to find ways to counsel young men and women to live lives sober and worthy of honor. I will keep my obligation to God and the church. I will offer to speak to youth about crime, drugs, and gangs through the local authorities. When I am personally feeling stressed, lonely, depressed, and run into some rough times, I have support that I can call. Such as family, church leaders, AA/NA sponsors, hotlines, and local authorities. Committing crimes of any sort is never the answer to any problem or hardship. Neither is drugs or alcohol. This only creates a greater problem and makes it hard for everyone else that depends on me to be the man God created me to be. Today, I know to simply ask someone for guidance or direction is a righteous act of due diligence.

PRAYER

I pray that you grant me the opportunity to go home and put into practice what I have been learning during this 18 years of incarceration. I do not feel entitled to anything. I see this as a humble blessing to express my rehabilitation and positive growth. I pray for your consideration in granting me this commutation.

Please see the continued answer to
Question 4.

Thank you for this opportunity.
Sincerely Submitted,

Walter Deleon Oatis Sr.

Armen Oganyan

In 2005, Armen Oganyan got into a fight with his brother-in-law, Michael Navasardian. When Mr. Navasardian tried to drive away, Mr. Oganyan followed him outside with a gun and fired multiple shots, hitting him once. Mr. Navasardian survived his injuries. On August 30, 2006, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Oganyan to 7 years to life for attempted murder plus a 25-years-to-life firearm enhancement – a total term of 32 years to life in prison.

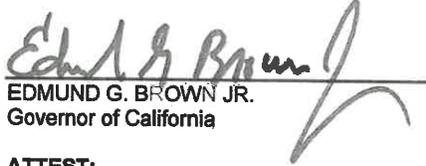

Mr. Oganyan has now been incarcerated for 13 years. During that time, he has been a model inmate. He has never been disciplined for serious misconduct, and has never been involved with gangs, violence, or drugs in prison. Mr. Oganyan has participated in multiple self-help groups, including Celebrate Recovery, Relationships, Insight, and Pathways to Freedom. He regularly receives excellent ratings from his work supervisors, and participates in a program that trains service dogs for veterans. Mr. Oganyan has been praised by members of the prison staff, who have remarked on his positive behavior and attitude. An office technician praised Mr. Oganyan's work performance and wrote, "I believe Inmate Oganyan would have an easy transition back to society and family outside of prison and would become an upstanding member to any community." A correctional officer also recognized Mr. Oganyan's good behavior and wrote, "I believe that Inmate Oganyan is a positive role-model for other inmates and is an example to all others who wish to maintain themselves in a positive program." Mr. Oganyan has developed a solid plan for returning to the community – if released, members of his family have offered him housing, financial support, and help finding a job.

In an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Oganyan showed genuine remorse for his actions and said, "I've been working on myself and trying to understand who I was, and who I am, and who I'd like to be. I will not ever make this mistake again." Mr. Oganyan has refrained from violence for many years and has shown serious dedication to his rehabilitation. For all of these reasons, I believe he should have an earlier opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Armen Oganyan to a total of 13 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

about GOD in here more than I could have on the streets. And I have learned all things good and evil starts in the heart, then mind and then we act on it. It is written "be transformed by the renewing of your mind" and that's what I'm working on. This is my first and last time for prison for me. I hate it in here. But I can honestly say that prison has not made me a bitter person but better. I have now realized the severity of my crime. Not only I have hurt an undeserving human being, but I have taken away a father from his wife and son. Plus I have taken a son from his mother and I also made myself a victim of my circumstance by giving up my freedom. I have taken this very hard and still do. Every morning I wake up in here I'm reminded my foolish actions. But I still keep hope alive because every day is a gift. That's why I'm doing and will continue to go to self-help groups and learn and change my thinking. I have learned a lot by going to groups, listening to people's stories, their hurts and experiences. I've also learned some home improvement on a show that airs on PBS called, "Ask This Old House". I've also learned to train dogs by watching the one and only true trainer, Caesar Millan, "The Dog Whisperer". I have considered a career in either cooking, dog trainer or dental technician. My cousin is a dentist and she has few locations in the Valley. Through the positive things that I have learned in my 11 years of incarceration, I plan to continue in my healing and growth process by going to more groups and applying myself every day, because my goal and desire it to become a productive member in society. I know I am capable of being a better and productive person who can contribute something positive to society. I have been disciplinary free for 11 years thus far, and will continue to program in this manner no matter what the outcome. Thank you Honorable Governor Brown, for your time and consideration regarding my application.

Kitiona Paepule

In 1987, 20-year-old Kitiona Paepule and John Young were hired to kill Thomas Wilson, a drug dealer. They broke into Mr. Wilson's house and Mr. Paepule shot him, killing him. Mr. Young also beat up Susan Lee, and one of the men shot her. Ms. Lee survived her injuries. On March 8, 1991, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Paepule to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Paepule is now 51 years old and has been incarcerated for 30 years. In his application for clemency, he described how much he has changed in the three decades since he committed this crime. He wrote, "I am no longer that naïve and idiotic kid I once was. I thank my Lord and savior for prison! It made me a better person, someone who is willing to positively share the truth of my experiences with anyone willing to hear, learn, or share." It is clear from his record that Mr. Paepule has made a significant transformation since coming to prison. He has devoted himself to his education, earning three A.A. degrees and an A.S. degree from Coastline Community College. He has lived on honor yards for years and took college classes through a California State University – Los Angeles bachelor's program. Mr. Paepule has participated in several Arts in Corrections programs, and currently works as the lead painter on a crew that paints murals in the prison. In 2018, one work supervisor called Mr. Paepule a "model citizen" and wrote, "Mr. Paepule has worked closely with many other inmates and staff and has exhibited everything that CDCR aspires to in terms of rehabilitation. I can only give him my best regards in whatever he sets his hand to and I have great confidence in what the future holds for him." Mr. Paepule has a strong plan in place if he is granted parole – his wife, children, and many other family members have offered him housing and support to help him transition back into the community.

Despite serving a sentence that gave him no hope of being released from prison, Mr. Paepule has worked hard to become a positive and contributing member of society. He has demonstrated that he is no longer the same young man who committed this senseless crime. For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. Paepule has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Kitiona Paepule to a total of 30 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Robert Pepe

On April 6, 1997, on orders of the gang he associated with, Robert Pepe went to Edward Berber's work and ordered him to step outside. When Mr. Berber walked outside, Mr. Pepe shot him several times in the abdomen. Thankfully, Mr. Berber survived. On October 27, 2008, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Pepe to 15 years to life for attempted murder and 10 years for a firearm enhancement — a total term of 25 years to life.

Mr. Pepe has now been incarcerated for almost 11 years. In his interview with a Board of Parole Hearings investigator, Mr. Pepe explained how pressure from the gang led him to commit this crime and said that he immediately disassociated from the gang afterwards. In his application for clemency, Mr. Pepe explained described the changes he has made since coming to prison. He wrote, "I have used this time to become a better citizen." He continued, "I have engaged in schooling and have been certified as a Drug and Alcohol Counselor. I have dedicated myself to helping others reach healing and rehabilitation. The Offender Mentor Certification Program has empowered me with the opportunity to give back to the community, starting in prison and [continuing] upon release."

During over a decade in prison, Mr. Pepe has turned away from gangs, drugs, and violence and dedicated himself to his rehabilitation. He has never been disciplined for any misconduct. As he noted in his application, Mr. Pepe earned his certification as a Drug and Alcohol Treatment Specialist, engaging in a lengthy and rigorous training process to receive his certification. He participated in multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, Positive Parenting, Criminals & Gang Members Anonymous, Substance Abuse and Relapse Prevention, and Alternatives to Violence. In addition, Mr. Pepe served as a facilitator for Anger Management and the Breaking Free Drug/Alcohol Treatment Program.

Mr. Pepe's hard work and dedication has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with him regularly. A counselor in the Offender Mentor Certification Program wrote in 2018 that Mr. Pepe is "conscientious, [has] integrity, professionalism, flexibility, and competency" as a mentor and co-facilitator in the program. The counselor continued, "Mr. Pepe, you are a good influence to your peers by giving them positive input and constructive criticism in applying what they have learned to their life." In 2014, a group sponsor for the Anger Management program commended Mr. Pepe for his work as a facilitator in the group, noting, "In his presentations, he utilized the programs' principles and tools to provide new coping skills, tools, and materials to effect self-awareness and positive change for his peers to utilize in their rehabilitation process." A trainer in the Inmate Peer Education program praised Mr. Pepe in 2014 for providing group education classes. The trainer wrote, "Inmate Pepe's efforts in providing awareness and prevention techniques for infectious diseases have fulfilled a valuable service to this institution, and he is commended for his dedication."

Since committing this crime, Mr. Pepe has demonstrated his commitment to rehabilitation and education. He has been a role model for other inmates and helped them achieve positive goals in an extremely challenging environment. Because of this, I believe Mr. Pepe has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Robert Pepe to a total of 11 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Michael Petty

In September 2006, armed with a stun gun, Michael Petty and several of his friends committed a home invasion robbery. Mr. Petty stole personal property and a vehicle. In October 2006, Mr. Petty and his friends burglarized a fitness gym. Mr. Petty stole office equipment and furnishings. On January 15, 2008, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Petty to four years for burglary, one year for robbery, eight months for vehicle theft, three years and four months for a gang enhancement, plus 10 years for a firearm enhancement—a total term of 19 years. Mr. Petty has a youth offender parole eligible date of February 2021.

During an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Petty reported that his crimes were fueled by his drug and gambling addictions. He explained that he was 19 years old when he committed these burglaries, and had been seriously addicted to prescription pills since his senior year of high school. Mr. Petty reported that he had accepted that he was "a screw up" and after graduation, he ingested pills daily. Mr. Petty told the investigator that he hopes that his work and programming speak for themselves.

Mr. Petty has now been incarcerated for more than 11 years and is 31 years old. He has worked to overcome his addictions, accomplish goals, and prepare himself for release from prison. Mr. Petty has never been disciplined for violence or gang activity. He has completed several college courses. Mr. Petty has also completed vocational training in office services and in electronics. He has participated in Narcotics Anonymous, Criminal and Addictive Thinking, Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, Beat the Street, and Getting Out by Going In, among other self-help programs. Mr. Petty has also completed multiple employment-readiness courses and established himself as a reliable worker. He recently completed firehouse training and works at the firehouse at Calipatria State Prison. Upon his release, Mr. Petty's family has offered to provide housing and assistance securing employment to help him transition into society. More than 300 friends and family members documented their support for his application for clemency.

I do not discount the very real losses suffered by the victims of Mr. Petty's crimes, but based on his dedication to educational and vocational self-improvement, I believe that Mr. Petty has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Michael Petty to make him eligible for immediate parole consideration.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Lynda Pichel

Lynda Pichel and Steven Shane were friends. In August 2002, Ms. Pichel referred Reginald Perkins to Mr. Shane for an auto repair. While taking the car for a test drive, the car stalled. Mr. Shane left the car on the side of a road and allowed it to be impounded. Ms. Pichel made multiple attempts to contact Mr. Shane, to no avail. Ms. Pichel and Mr. Perkins kidnapped Mr. Shane and demanded to know where the car was located. After taking Ms. Pichel home, Mr. Perkins bound Mr. Shane's wrists and ankles with packing tape, stabbed and shot him. Mr. Shane died from his injuries. On January 7, 2005, the San Bernardino County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Pichel to 25 years to life for murder and 8 years for kidnapping – a total of 33 years to life.

In her commutation application, Ms. Pichel wrote, "Being in a place like this has given me time to go in to my own self and straighten things out and get to know who I really am. I am not the person that left Victorville 10 years ago. I have been sober this whole time. I pay attention to what's right and what's wrong. I've spent 10 years getting to know and fix myself. I wasn't a bad person before; I just made a lot of bad choices, now I know I don't have to or need to make those choices. I avoid those situations, and have sense enough to say no when it is necessary. . . . It hurts me in my soul knowing that I hurt so many people in such an extreme way. I can't change the past; I can only change myself and try to make a difference in the future."

Ms. Pichel's dedication to self-improvement and rehabilitation is seen by her exemplary conduct in prison. She has maintained a spotless disciplinary record during her 16 years of incarceration. Ms. Pichel has earned two A.A. degrees, and is in the process of obtaining a B.A. degree. She has participated in self-help classes, including Narcotics Anonymous, Alcoholic Anonymous, Anger Management, Houses of Healing, and Victim Impact. In addition to her commitment to education, Ms. Pichel has maintained steady employment, routinely receiving above average work ratings.

While Mr. Shane's death was tragic and senseless, I believe that based on Ms. Pichel's limited role in the crime, her rehabilitation, and exemplary record, Ms. Pichel has earned an earlier opportunity to make her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Lynda Pichel to a total of 16 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

ATTEST:

ALEX PADILLA
Secretary of State

Dear Governor Brown,

My name is Lynda Pichel; I have been incarcerated at CCWF & VSPW for the past 10 years. I was arrested in 2002 and convicted in 2005 of kidnapping & murder (187E/207). I am currently 47 years of age. The reason I'm writing this letter is because I am requesting a commutation of sentence. All that I'm asking for is to remove the life off of my sentence and I do/finish 50% of the 8yrs plus 25yrs. I know how many people that I have hurt in this crime, especially Mr. Shane and his family, my children and grandchildren, my family and many more. I never meant to hurt anybody. I've spent the past 10yrs trying to make myself a better person. I have spent this time getting to know who I am and working on and improving areas that need it. I been using this time to complete a lot of self-help groups to help me understand my self and make better choices, understanding why we do some of the things we do, and how to control ourselves. I wish I would have taken the time or knew how to find these programs 15-20 years ago. They would have changed my life then. I know a lot of people are not happy to have come to prison or thankful for anything with discipline, but I am forever grateful that I was sent to prison. I truly feel that this experience saved my life. Being in a place like this gives a person time to reflect, time to miss, and a lot of time to think about what I've done with my life, mostly what I've done to others' lives. I am a better person. I truly feel that I have been rehabilitated.

I'm begging for commutating of sentence so that I may go home to my family. I feel a hunger in me to get out and try to help inform this new generation. I know how everybody invplved in my case was emotionally divested, and I know I can't give back what was taken from them, and I'm so deeply sorry from the whole of my soul for ever being part of this situation. I wish I could express my apologies to Mr. Shane's family, and let them know that if I could help that willing and that I am truly sorry from my whole soul and never knew or expected this to happen. I don't expect forgiveness but I just want them to know how sorry I am and if there's anything I can help with I'm here and willing. I know for a fact that once I parole I won't ever come back to prison. I know I would be good for society. Thank you for taking the time to read this folder.

I was a different person back when this happened, I was drinking and feeling alone, thought I needed somebody and because I didn't want to be alone. I felt like I was losing everything and drink helped the last couple of weeks, but it left me focusing, and hanging around with the wrong type of people it seems the ones worse off than myself & troublesome. When this all started I truly believed I was helping everyone involved. Mr. Shane needed some extra money and my co-defendant needed his car fixed. Yes my co-defendant was just paroled from prison, but I believe it was because he kept going back for lack of a secure place of residence. I didn't know of his violent history. I believe his original crime was drugs. I also knew he said he wanted to change. I was always raised to help people if you can; well truly that's what I thought I was doing in the beginning when asking for the car to be fixed. Still after the car went missing and we went looking for Mr. Shane it still was only to get the car back or I thought. By the time Mr. Shane was found and there was no car things got heated with my co-defendant and Mr. Shane, but Mr. Shane still said he'd help find the car. I should have known then that if we didn't find the car things would go bad, but I just kept thinking or hoping on the positive side. When we didn't find the car, we dropped Mr. Shane and my co-defendant of at my co-defendants house. While Mr. Shane told me they'd find it, I should have known better then to leave him. I should have called the police then. My intoxicated mind was thinking that I was no longer responsible for the car; the two guys were together and would work it out. I've learned that your mind always needs to stay clear, I lost my friend because I didn't pay attention to what I was doing and gave him over to someone who was violent. I feel I put things in motion and left my friend there to die.

You know these days I know I left my friend in a dangerous situation without even realizing it, when we did find Mr. Shane that night I yelled at him for taking the car and not bringing it back. I told him to just go and get it for my co-defendant, so I feel I'm one of the reasons he went to, and I left him, because I was drunk and didn't want to bother with it I guess. I wasn't thinking and just left him. So even though I may not have pulled that trigger, or even been there, or even knew it was happening, I'm just as responsible because I asked him to fix my co-defendants car without realizing how unstable this person was, for helping look for Mr. Shane when the car went missing. I should have just called the police then, even better never asked for the car to be fixed. I am responsible for leaving him with my co-defendant; with the anger there I should never have left. My sister wouldn't have given them a ride later to take Mr. Shane home, and have the crime happen in the back of her truck. That's another person hurt because of the trauma she went through with these people she just met.

Any crime is a big deal because it's the little parts you don't realize that leads to big ones. I've hurt so many people, not only Mr. Shane, but his children and family, my children and grandchildren, my family, both of our friends, my co-defendant's family, have all been hurt.

What would I have handled differently today?

I wouldn't be around those types of people. I sure wouldn't drink especially to block out things. I'd have people get their own car fixed at a shop. Call authorities if a crime is committed. Also, don't get involved with other peoples stuff unless someone is being hurt or a crime is being committed, and then call the proper authorities.

Would I have handled it differently today?

Absolutely!! I wouldn't even associate with a person like my co-defendant. I always question things when I feel something is foul or feel a crime is being committed; I will call the authorities and let them handle it. When something needs fixing I'll get it done by experts not friends as things can happen. My actions affected so many more lives than I ever realized. I wish I could personally apologize to everyone. I lost a lot of common friends of Mr. Shane's and mine due to leaving him in that situation and I understand why. Mr. Shane, who isn't with us anymore, had his life taken from him by my co-defendant. I can only imagine how traumatized his family was and how it affected the rest of their lives; not being there to raise his children, not being at family functions. I wish I could apologize to the judge, jury, and attorneys for disrupting their lives. I do apologize to my family every chance I get. It hurts me in my soul knowing that I hurt so many people in such an extreme way. I can't change the past; I can only change myself and try to make a difference in the future.

It was about 6 weeks after I was arrested I was talking to my granddaughter who was 3 years old at this time and didn't understand or know that her grandma was in jail, so she said, " grandma I need you to come home now because I can't sleep anymore" that's when I realized what was happening. Life as I knew it wasn't the same, it's hard to explain, but something inside me broke and I felt what Mr. Shane children must have felt, my granddaughter had just shown me. At that time I felt a spiritual awakening from that day on I felt like a very different person. I started attending the church session every week in the county jail (West Valley Det. Ctr. and Glen Helan Reb.) and spoke often with Chaplin. After leaving the county jail and moving on to CCWF I still continued to correspond with my Chaplin from the county jail. I also have completed many bible study groups and attended many self-help program also, I have decided to further my education and I'm in college right now working on my AA degree and also taking this life scripting course that I'm told is one of the best courses on understanding ourselves. Being in a place like this it has given me time to go in to my own self and straighten things out and get to know who I really am. I am not the person that left Victorville 10yrs ago. I have been sober this whole time. I pay attention to what's right and what's wrong. I've spent 10 years getting to know and fix myself. I wasn't a bad person before; I just made a lot of bad choices, now I know i don't have to or need to make those choices. I avoid those situations, and have sense enough to say no when it is necessary.

What I'm doing now as a result of my changes in my life is attending and participating in various self-help programs. I realize and accept the fact I do need help from others to maintain my life on the right track. I have also accepted god in my life. I am not a hard person anymore. I have been baptized in here, I attended Kairos and was a server to give back, I continued to meet with the Kairos Ladies once a month, I experienced the "Passion of Christ" I have taken Anger Management, also self-esteem classes, participated in a 12 step program (White Bison), (AVP) Alternative to Violence, Coda (co-dependency), and Boundaries, 7-Habits, Life scripting, waiting on the aware class now.

In the future to prevent myself from ever committing another crime or repeat the mistake I made in the past, I've learned to second guess, or rather think ahead of both roads, directions. I know I don't have to settle for the first choice, and that we have the right to say "No". I know that I can't and won't associate with anybody that would jeopardize my freedom in anyway. Life is too valuable to throw away. I've also spent the past 10 years thinking about the life I could have had if I hadn't ask Mr. Shane to fix that car or even help look for him that night before he was killed, or even if I had just called the police when the car wasn't there in my driveway. I think about the life my children could have had and my grandchildren, some of which I've never seen in person, and I even think about the life Mr. Shane's children could have had. I don't want to ever hurt anybody ever again. I plan on attending recovery programs, church, attaining a job and keeping it, I plan on keeping my life at a constant busy. I also want to volunteer to help the community, churches, and food banks, whatever I can. I want to do whatever I can to "give back". I can't take back what happened but maybe I can give back, or even educate others (the next generation) on how easy it is to throw everything in your life away. I feel so sick about how many different people were affected by my crime, and how their lives are forever changed. I know Mr. Shane's family was traumatized and forever emotionally damaged by this vicious act brought upon their family. I could only imagine what his family went through. I never wish that kind of hurt and pain on anybody. I wish I could express to all how truly and deeply sorry I am. I do hope his family is able to recover from this tragedy, to rebuild and go on with life as normal as possible. I am also just sorry for the family I have. They've lost also, the four beautiful children I have, one daughter and three sons and two grandchildren at the time of the crime. The ages were 22, 21, 20, & 16 also 3 and 1 years old. My daughter who was the oldest stepped up and took in her youngest 16 year old brother and supported herself and him while trying to continue college to, unfortunately he tried to stay in school but felt that he needed to help out more, so my 16 year old quit school after 6 months, got a job and moved out less than a year later. It stopped his dreams of playing football, going to college, or even finishing school, but he knew or felt that he lost his chance at playing pro-football and he let that go. I again took that from him, he got off track with no guidance at first in the beginning of his adult life and messed up a little, but I am so thankful that he was blessed and was given a second chance at doing what's right in life and my son had his sister and brothers to help remind him of what could and would happen and about choices in life, my son turned his life around and decided he wanted better, he moved away from wrong friends he found a good job, is back in school working on a GED, and met a young lady that fills his life with happiness. He says every day is a struggle without his mom but he knows why I've always taught them right jail is not a place for them. My daughter has also helped her 20 year old brother out at times with his children as he worked but was used to mom still helping him out/ he was a young parent that still lived at home, still had his problems. As he was on probation and need help getting places, he was now trying to make it on his own with his girlfriend and kids. My Michael was having a little anger issues it seemed to me back then and I could only assume it was because he was feeling as if he was losing people he loved. His best friend he grew up with was stabbed to death less than a year before and left for dead; another was in the service and died in Iraq than I was gone. I also believe at this time my son started doing drugs. My daughter said she couldn't control all his actions but only be there to pick him up and for the babies. Then there was my 21 year old son Eddy, he was in the service himself, serving in Iraq, Kuwait, and Afghanistan for a little over 8 years, but he continued to help his brothers and sister out, when he came home on a visit and found out what happened. After his time was over and he decided he didn't want that life anymore and finally came home he wasn't the same, he was like 2 people and my children learned to understand their brother again. He was in & out of the V.A Hospital by himself and now lives on medication to help him sleep and for some of the pain he is always in. as for the different personalities he goes through. My children understand now as my brother has helped them all know what my son has seen and gone through. My children are very lost without me and cling even tighter to each other, since not having a father or any grandparents left, all they have was the Lord, their mom, and each other. Well God is still with them and they still have each other and their new families and I pray every day that I'll be home one day to. They have always been close as that's how I've raised them, but this has shown them how quickly someone can be ripped away. I now have 11 grandchildren and God has shown me how blessed I really am and how humble I need to be and stay. My grandchildren ask about me all the time and one day they'll meet me, others aren't as lucky and truly sorry for that, these and this is some of the pain I've caused. I'm sorry again.

I really wish I could tell Mr. Shane's family how sorry I am not only for my actions, but also for everything that occurred from my co-defendants. I know that alcohol abuse, co-dependency, ignorance, and wrongful trust aren't an excuse, but in my life it was a factor in why this crime occurred. I had been drinking a lot to cover some of the other problems in my life. I now realize I did this to numb my feelings about everything or make me feel stronger. I was in an emotional pit. I never paid close attention to what was really happening around me, just listened to what was said to me and the alcohol made it believable.

The first few weeks or so I really thought I had nothing to worry about because I wasn't there when Mr. Shane was murdered, but then it hit me my friend was dead and they were saying he was kidnapped the night before, that's when we picked him up and dropped him off with my co-defendant, it hit me that it was my fault to. I had helped find him whether I knew or not I helped find him it didn't matter if I thought it was innocent, all good intentions I still helped find him. I realized I was partly to blame to.

I hardly knew my co-defendant; I only dated him for 30 days (1 month). I knew he had just gotten out of prison, but again my naive self-believed it was for not having a place to live when being released on parole. Before he said he wanted to change and I believed it. When we were locked up my sister informed me of some of the bad things he had done in and out of prison. He asked me to help him change and I thought I could, he needed his car fixed cheap and I thought my friend could do it; I didn't think or know all these ugly vicious acts would have occurred and changed so many lives.

Today I don't do favors without asking questions first, by the time I'm done with questions or telling what I think needs to be done, the people usually just ends up doing it themselves. I pray to god every day to help me be aware and know the difference in good and bad. I am positive I will never make a mistake like that again. First step would be not being around or associate with anybody that would have bad intentions. Second is if I do find myself around the wrong people, get up and run as far away and as fast as I can. I just want to go home and be with only my family. Living in this place for 10 years has calmed my soul. It's kind of hard to explain. I feel old, not old but aged; I've grown beyond the need for attention.

I have written to multiple self-help, recovery and half-way living programs, transitional living. I also wrote to many employer that hire ex-offenders. I do realize that I will need help is and when I am released. I lived a long life under the influence that brought me here, I will need some reprogramming. I have so far received a few of the letters back. Some I qualify for, others I don't, but more information was sent for other places that can possibly help me to. I have also written to them. I know I no longer drink to feel or cover feelings, but I am going to stay active in making sure that I won't ever slip or trip. I am so very seriously set on maintaining my clean and sober life for the rest of my life. I have worked every day since being here and have all outstanding reports from all of my supervisors. Upon my release into a program, I will learn to obtain and maintain lengthy employment. I will give my all back to my community. I will volunteer at shelters, food banks, churches, and any place that I can give back. I will attend AA and alcohol programs and other groups for self-esteem and co-dependency. I'm begging for the chance to prove that I'm very serious about everything that I have written. Especially how sorry I am for everyone I have hurt, and for the changes I've mad and still plan to change for the better. I did everything that was said I did that night before when we picked up Mr. Shane, but not the next day as we dropped them off less than 20 minutes after picking him up at the co-defendants apt. I was not there had no knowledge, intention or contributed to the murder of Mr. Shane. Even in the mental state that I was in at the time with the other things I was going through, I would never contemplate taking of another life, not even through someone else hands. I truly pray that Mr. Shane's family has been able to get the emotional help needed and able to move forward and live a normal life.

Upon my release, I will be going to a transitional living house to help with establishing myself into society. Then to N. Las Vegas to my daughters house in Nevada if allowed.

Thank you so much for taking the time to listen to my plea.

Respectfully

Lynda Pichel

Abraham Preciado

On June 1, 1997, 18-year-old Abraham Preciado and Jose Luis Garcia kidnapped Javier Rodriguez as he returned to his home with his family. Mr. Preciado believed Mr. Rodriguez had recently burglarized his home and had previously kidnapped and raped his fiancée's 14-year-old sister. Mr. Preciado and Mr. Garcia drove Mr. Rodriguez to a rural area in Riverside County, and Mr. Preciado shot Mr. Rodriguez multiple times, killing him. On November 19, 1999, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Preciado to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a four-year firearm enhancement.

Mr. Preciado has now been incarcerated for more than 20 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Preciado wrote, "Since my incarceration, I finally have been able to grasp and realize the impact my crime has had not only on the victim's family but on the community as well." He continued, "The only way to show my sincere remorse is by my continuous actions of good behavior, rehabilitation and acts of penance to anyone that is in need."

During more than two decades in prison with no possibility of parole, Mr. Preciado has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has been disciplined for misconduct only once. He earned his GED and three A.A. degrees. Mr. Preciado completed vocational training in Information Technology Literacy and Office Services and Related Technologies. Mr. Preciado has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Healing Dialogue & Action, Victim Awareness, Alternatives to Violence, Anger Management, Narcotics Anonymous, Dealing with Anger, and Stress Management.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Preciado has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with him on a regular basis. Mr. Preciado is Executive Body-Member-Chairperson of the Alternatives to Violence Program at Ironwood. In 2018, a group sponsor wrote that Mr. Preciado "has enhanced the program through participation, advice, and guidance. Inmate Preciado displays many good leadership traits—for example, he is passionate about the classes he teaches, and donates endless hours putting together and creating new curriculums." The sponsor continued, "He encourages [other inmates] to challenge new ways of thinking when dealing with anger, showing empathy, and facing their past life choices and actions. . . . Inmate Preciado is respectful to staff and inmates alike, he displays great communication skills and is sincere with his efforts when trying to help fellow inmates better themselves, and becoming productive members of society."

Mr. Preciado served as a mentor in the Youth Offender Program and as an Inmate Peer Educator. In 2018, a teacher in the Youthful Offender college program commended Mr. Preciado on his efforts tutoring other inmates, writing that he "has been instrumental in assisting with the Inmate Education Network," including mentoring youth and assisting other inmates with their computer skills. In 2018, a correctional lieutenant who has known Mr. Preciado since 1999 wrote, "During this period, I have come to know him as a person of integrity who has demonstrated selfless sacrifice and dedicated himself to service to his community as a role-model and mentor." In 2018, a correctional officer who has known Mr. Preciado since 2013 commended him on his work as a tutor with the Youthful Offender Program, writing, "[Mr.] Preciado has the attitude that you wish upon every neighbor, respectful, patience, and always there to lend a hand if needed. I believe that when Preciado is released he will be a good addition to society." In 2012, a correctional lieutenant commended Mr. Preciado on his demeanor and attitude; writing, "Based on my observations as Inmate Preciado's supervisor, it is my opinion that he has shown that he possesses the temperament and character to become a productive and contributing member of society should he be given the opportunity to parole." In 2012, a correctional officer wrote regarding Mr. Preciado, "The character he demonstrates and the desire to change is difficult within this environment; however, Preciado is daily accomplishing it. Based on my direct observation, I believe he could be an asset to any community and or prospective supervisor should he have the opportunity to be released."

Over the past 20 years of incarceration, Mr. Preciado shown through his conduct in prison and dedication to self-improvement that he is committed to serving as a role model to others and becoming a productive member of society. For the foregoing reasons, I believe Mr. Preciado has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Abraham Preciado to a total of 25 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of December, 2018.

If other, briefly explain:

I am respectfully requesting Clemency and/or a commutation of my current sentence based on everything I have accomplished during the 15 years I have been incarcerated. I have completed all the Self Help classes that are offered, my education, have not had any serious disciplinary violations, my productive work history before my incarceration, the various Reference Letters and Laudatory Chrono's that Custody Staff and non-custody staff have written to support my claim of being fully rehabilitated. Additionally, my acceptance and sincere remorse for my crime and for all the harm and damage I did to the victim's family and the community.

Dear Mr. Governor G. Brown Jr.

I pray you consider this application before you which includes, but it's not limited to the 26 Reference Letters from various Custody Staff, support letters from friends and family, a job offer, and various Self-help program certificates to support my humble request. The following information that is presented before you is everything that I accomplished during my 13½ year stay at Calipatria State Prison, a level #4 Facility. From May 31, 1997 to December 03, 1999, I spent two and half (2½) years in County Jail, for a total of 16 years as of May 31, 2013.

My name is Abraham Preciado (P-61875) and have been incarcerated since I was 18, I am now 35 years old. In 1999, I was convicted of 1st Degree Murder and Kidnapping in Riverside County. In 1997, in the City of Hemet, my 13 year old sister-in-law, [REDACTED] was returning home from dropping off her little brother at school, when she was kidnapped by a 24 year old known drug dealer and two other men, and continuously raped.

I had been with Yvonne Moreno, [REDACTED] older sister, for three and half (3½) years when this occurred, Yvonne and I had two daughters, [REDACTED] two years old, and [REDACTED] seven months old. We also lived in the same apartment complex that her whole family did, as did the 24 year old man that raped and kidnapped [REDACTED]

I now have come to realize that there is no justification for my actions. I do pray you consider my application for clemency and/or a commutation of my current sentence and take a moment of your time, please, and review all the facts and information in this packet. I have now been blessed to drop to a level #3 Facility. I have also mentioned how I can save Tax Payers $743,064,00, all this combined supports this most humble respectful request.

Thank you for your time and Lord bless you.

Sincerely,

Abraham Preciado

Dianna Preston

In 2002, Dianna Preston started to believe that her granddaughter was being sexually abused by her father, Kevin La Porta. Despite circumstantial evidence to the contrary, Ms. Preston still believed Mr. La Porta was a danger to her granddaughter. In July 2002, Ms. Preston shot and killed Mr. La Porta. On July 14, 2003, the Humboldt County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Preston to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

In her application, Ms. Preston wrote, "I have spent 15 years in prison and at 73 I am no longer the same person I was all those years ago. I know what I did was wrong, and nothing can truly compensate for the life I took. But I continue to try to make amends in the only way possible, which is living everyday as a better person than I was then."

Ms. Preston entered prison with no criminal history other than her commitment offense. During her incarceration, Ms. Preston has dedicated her time to self-improvement. She has had no disciplinary conduct. Ms. Preston has participated in multiple self-help programs, such as Victim Impact, Women's Empowerment, Healing Trauma, and Pathways to Wholeness.

Ms. Preston's exemplary behavior has been noticed by correctional staff. Indeed, six correctional officers commended Ms. Preston for her outstanding behavior – one characterized her as being a "model inmate." A chaplain commended Ms. Preston for being a woman of "deep integrity" and being an excellent student and participant. Ms. Preston has lived in the Honor Unit since 2015. In 2016, Ms. Preston earned certificates for her outstanding professionalism and good citizenship.

Although she is serving a sentence that gave her no hope of release from prison, Ms. Preston has dedicated herself to rehabilitation and has dug deep to address the issues that led her to commit such a senseless crime. For these reasons, I believe Ms. Preston has earned the opportunity to make her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so that it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Dianna Preston to a total of 16 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Re: Application for Commutation of Sentence for Dianna Mae Preston

Dear Governor Brown:

We respectfully request a Commutation of Sentence for Dianna Mae Preston, an elderly and ailing grandmother. Dianna is serving Life Without the Possibility of Parole for the murder of a man she believed to be molesting her 18 month old granddaughter. You will see as you read about Dianna's life and time in prison, how her commitment to rehabilitation has made her a model inmate and a testament to the possibility of change. However, despite Dianna's rehabilitation, her only hope of a second chance rests in a commutation of her sentence. In light of her age and health, we ask that you commute her sentence to credit for time served. Failing that, we request that you commute her sentence to 15 years to Life with an opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings. While we would be grateful for a reduction in her sentence even to 25-to-life, given her current age, such a sentence would be unlikely to provide her a meaningful chance at release at all (she would be 83 years old at her first hearing).

Dianna's case is analogous to that of Christopher Ochoa, whose sentence was commuted on April 15, 2017. Christopher and a friend planned and attempted to kill his stepfather, whom he believed was molesting his 13 year old sister. When speaking with investigators, he said: "It felt like I was losing control of the situation, and I just felt desperate ... I didn't think there was any help beyond a certain point. Because every time the police came, he'd get away."¹ Mr. Ochoa also said that he "didn't feel like the law was going to help us - I just didn't know what to do."²

Similarly, Dianna committed her crime convinced that Kevin LaPorta was molesting his daughter, Kara Pearce, her 18 month old granddaughter. That belief was reinforced by a medical examination, which found "swelling around the clitoral hood, and some questionable redness inferiorly at the introitus."³ This "swelling and questionable redness" was discovered just a few months before the murder. The family made efforts to address their concerns with Child Welfare Services, and still the court ultimately permitted unsupervised visits between Kara and Kevin. The family addressed their concerns with Child Welfare Services, and the court nevertheless was permitting unsupervised visits between Kara and Kevin. And the shooting happened the day detectives cleared LaPorta. Much like Christopher Ochoa, Dianna felt that "he'd get away" and hurt her beloved granddaughter again. She made a fateful decision to take Mr. Laporta's life, but she has spent every moment since becoming the woman she is today. During the entirety of her incarceration, Dianna has remained discipline free - not one write-up for a rules violation. This is a positive indicator that, like over 99% of ex-lifers, she will not go on to commit a new crime, particularly one of a violent nature. The Statistics⁴:

Recidivism Base Rate Comparisons at Three Years Post-Release
	Determinately Sentenced Inmates Released Without Discretion in California and Other States (Observed Ranges)	Long-term Inmates Eligible for Parole Consideration (Estimated Ranges)	Long-term Inmates Granted Parole and Discretionarily Released in California (Observed Ranges)
Arrests and Convictions for Violent Crimes	20 - 25%	3 - 15%	Less than 1%

⁴ Long Term Inmates and Recidivism Rates – A Presentation to the Board of Parole Hearings, 2016, Cliff Kusaj, Psy.D. Chief Psychologist (p. 26).

If given the opportunity, Dianna is certain to be a motivated and productive member of any community she joins. You will learn from the letters and commendations shared in these pages, of her kindness, gentility and civic minded approach to life. For your consideration, we have addressed each of the 'Circumstances Favoring Suitability' that the Board of Parole Hearings reviews in granting parole. Based on these factors, you can be assured that Dianna is an ideal candidate for commutation, and will be an exemplary story of rehabilitation and redemption.

The Factors the Board of Parole Consider When Determining Suitability

Pursuant to California Code of Regulations Title 15 §2402(d)

If Ms. Preston was eligible for parole, the following criteria would be relied upon to determine her suitability⁵:

(1) No Juvenile Record

Ms. Preston has no juvenile criminal record of any kind. Instead, as a young adult, she was a participant in the civil rights movement. As a pro-social member of her community, she spoke up for those who were oppressed, and never acted impulsively or violently.

(2) Stable Social History

Ms. Preston never struggled with substance abuse, nor was violence a part of her upbringing. After graduating from high school, she attended university. She grew up in a stable home environment and church community, eventually starting a family of her own. She and her husband had two daughters, and ultimately divorced but have remained friendly co-parents. He supports her still (See Support Letter from Lionel Rolfe). Ms. Preston's two daughters and her grandchildren were an integral part of her life before the crime. They have remained a steadfast source of support, and visit her regularly since her incarceration. Ms. Preston maintains her spiritual beliefs, regularly participating in services at her facility.

(3) Signs of Remorse

Ms. Preston has shared her deep sense of remorse for her crime with fellow inmates in self-help groups, with her family, her friends, and her clergy. She also expresses it in a brief essay about the impact self-help programming has had on her since her incarceration. In relating back to her prior civil rights activism, she says “In taking someone’s life, I betrayed my own most fundamental values.” Ms. Preston recognizes the “ripple effect of a murder on a community, and I realized more fully how sorry I am to have been the cause of such a thing. Innocent people became more fearful and insecure and I am especially sorry to have done that to children.”

(4) Motivation for Crime

The motivation for Ms. Preston’s crime was not her own financial or personal gain. She was driven by a desperate, primal need to protect her grandbaby. For months, Ms. Preston and her daughter Heather Pearce sought the aid of law enforcement. The family implored them to stop Kevin Laporta from molesting his 18 month old daughter Kara. Medical examinations confirmed that Kara had swelling and redness in her genital area following a visit with Mr. Laporta. On another occasion, semen was found on Kara. Detectives were finally compelled to heed the family’s concerns, but the investigation stalled. After authorities concluded that the semen found on Kara was not Mr. Laporta’s, Ms. Preston was despondent and in utter disbelief. She was convinced that Mr. Laporta had accomplished the impossible, and gotten away again.

The ongoing custody battle was culminating in the return of Mr. Laporta’s unsupervised visitation with the baby. Ms. Preston was singular in her purpose to prevent Kara from continuing to be victimized. The day of the murder was the day Ms. Preston learned that nothing more would be done to keep Kara from the man the family believed was hurting her. In sheer desperation, Ms. Preston made the uncharacteristic decision to take the law into her own hands, killing Mr. Laporta.

Following the shooting, Ms. Preston made no attempt to flee or avoid capture. She put the weapon away, surrendered to patrons of the restaurant where the shooting occurred, and waited for the police to arrive. She was arrested without further incident, and immediately took responsibility for her actions.

This factor favors suitability because it shows that her motivation, while not rising to the level of a legal defense, explains her conduct in a way that others can empathize with. It also shows that, since such an extreme circumstance is highly unlikely to recur, her behavior was also an isolated event.

(6) Lack of Criminal History

Ms. Preston had no criminal history prior to her conviction in this case. The lack of criminal history at almost 60 years old when the crime occurred, only serves to highlight the fact that Ms. Preston is not characteristically an impulsive, vengeful, or violent person, and that her conduct was brought on only by the extraordinary circumstances of this case.

(7) Age

Ms. Preston is now 73 years old. It is well settled that the older an offender is upon release, the less likely she is to recidivate. Moreover, long-termers and Lifers reoffend less than 1% of the time once granted parole. The statistics for violent re-offenses are even lower, and for women, lower still. What those statistics truly represent is the fact that Ms. Preston is among the group of offenders most likely to succeed on parole.

Characteristic of her advanced age, Ms. Preston suffers from various ailments and medical issues including a rare birth defect (achalasia). She has had multiple esophageal surgeries to treat her unusual throat condition, which makes eating tedious and difficult. Since her incarceration, she suffered a broken knee that now necessitates a walker to aid her mobility. Though her spirit is not aging, her body most certainly is.

Given her age and condition, Ms. Preston falls in line with the Governor's recent efforts to codify the early release of elderly inmates by signing Bill 1448. Currently administered by the Board of Parole Hearings pursuant to the order of the Federal Court, the Elderly Parole Program has seen the release of numerous inmates who clearly no longer pose an unreasonable risk of safety to the public. Ms. Preston is just such an inmate. Should she be granted the opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings, she would be given consideration as an elderly inmate.

(8) Understanding and Plans for Future

Ms. Preston has very realistic plans for the future. She has the unwavering support of her family, including the option to live with either of her two daughters. A number of her family and friends have committed to support her financially, emotionally and spiritually. Given her age and limited mobility, she recognizes that she will not likely rejoin the workforce, but she has proactively inquired about what benefits she might be eligible for through Social Security, in her desire to contribute to whatever household she makes her home. As an active member of the faith community prior to and during her incarceration, Ms. Preston intends to maintain her spiritual life by attending church. In keeping with the sense of community she fosters in prison, Ms. Preston looks forward to volunteering at faith-based organizations.

(9) Institutional Behavior

Ms. Preston originally had a placement score of 52. Currently, her score is 19, which is the lowest possible score given her commitment offense. Ms. Preston has achieved this significant reduction of her score through educational upgrades, consistent programming, and exceptional conduct. Presently, Ms. Preston resides in the Honor Dorm, a privilege reserved for trustworthy inmates who have demonstrated a commitment to abiding by the rules. Dianna has been in the Honor Dorm since shortly after her transfer to CIW. Despite the challenges and conflicts characteristic of prison life, Ms. Preston has never committed a serious rule violation (115), nor has she received even the less serious counseling write-up (128(a)). By all accounts, her institutional behavior has been exemplary. She continues on this path with a new program starting later this month called Prisoners of Peace. The program is an initiative to maintain order on campus, and Ms. Preston aspires to be one of the facilitators.

The Governor Has the Power to Give Ms. Preston a New Life

The phrase ‘model inmate’ strikes most of us as an oxymoron. How can one be an inmate, and be a ‘model’ of anything beyond the poor choice that landed them in prison? However, Dianna Preston is just such a model. The peers she shares her living accommodations with recognize it, the clergy she relies on for spiritual guidance recognizes it, and the corrections staff and officers who have dominion over her daily life, recognize it. We are now humbly imploring you to recognize it as well. The R in CDCR stands for rehabilitation, but perhaps it should also stand for redemption because redemption only comes when an offender can put the prison walls in her rearview mirror. Dianna only has a chance at true redemption if she is granted this commutation.

Article five, section eight of the California Constitution provides that the “Governor, on conditions that the Governor deems proper, may grant a reprieve, pardon, and commutation after sentence, except in case of impeachment.” This power to grant clemency is “properly left to the conscience of the executive entitled to consider pleas” and is not governed by the rigidity of the judicial process.⁶ Simply put, only the Governor can help Dianna.

While her debt to society can never completely be paid, she has several years ahead of her in which she can contribute to it, if she is allowed the opportunity. As such, we ask for the same compassion and understanding that was extended to Christopher Ochoa and many others, to commute Dianna Preston's sentence to time served, and failing that, to 15 years to life, allowing her the opportunity to demonstrate her rehabilitation and find redemption.

Respectfully Submitted,

Sarah Garrick, Esq.

Dianna Preston – Application for Commutation Responses

1. I have no prior convictions. I am currently serving Life Without the Possibility of Parole for Murder, with personal use of a firearm, and the special circumstances of lying in wait.
2. My victim was my granddaughter Kara's father Kevin Laporta, who at the time we were certain was molesting her. The morning of the murder, we found out that what we had believed to be conclusive proof of what he was doing to Kara, was just the opposite. A detective told us that the semen that had been found on Kara, following a visit with her father, did not match his DNA. I was in utter disbelief, and convinced that there was a mistake. I was despondent, and felt that any chance of saving Kara from further harm was gone. In an extremity of despair and hopelessness, I took matters into my own hands. I went to his office and killed him. After the shooting, I put the gun away and waited for the police to come. The gravity of what I had done was immense, and will weigh on me for the rest of my life.
3. I have spent 15 years in prison, and at 73 I am no longer the same person I was all those years ago. I know what I did was wrong, and nothing can truly compensate for the life I took. But I continue to try to make amends in the only way possible, which is living everyday as a better person than I was then. I am grateful that my family comes to visit. I feel that they need me, and I especially want to be there for my grandchildren. I am humbly hoping and praying for another chance at life, and that is why I am requesting this commutation.
4. The intention of CDCR to rehabilitate inmates has been successful in my case. I've come to realize how wrong it was for me to take someone's life. As I wrote in my parole plan; if I am ever free again, never committing another crime will be only the foundation of my new life. I intend to join so many of my former lifer sisters in becoming an exemplary citizen.

These are dark days; freedom, equality, justice, the environment, even democracy itself are in grave danger. I believe with all my heart that I can be of great service to the community in ways that are impossible from behind bars. And I sincerely hope for the opportunity to do so, if granted this commutation.

Cynthia Purcell

On October 24, 1990, 20-year-old Cynthia Purcell and Michael Combs murdered Jeanine Lee, a former co-worker of Mr. Combs. They then stole her car and tried to cash a forged check of Ms. Lee's. On March 6, 1992, the San Bernardino County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Purcell to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Ms. Purcell has now been incarcerated for 28 years. In her application for clemency, Ms. Purcell wrote, "On Wednesday October 24, 1990, I thoughtlessly and willingly participated in the murder of Jeanine Ann Lee. . . . There are no words, actions, or any amount of atonement that can make up for [Jeanine's] death." She continued, "Who I was then was a selfish, impulsive person that made a decision based on making someone like me." Ms. Purcell wrote, "I am no longer that selfish coward I was, I have learned through groups like Victim Awareness [and] self-esteem building classes, how to grow and change. I am now able to look at things and situations differently, remove behaviors that are destructive, and work hard to adopt behaviors that promote positive change and outcomes."

During almost three decades in prison with no possibility of parole, Ms. Purcell has worked hard to address the behaviors that led to Ms. Lee's death. She has never been disciplined for any misconduct. She earned her GED. Ms. Purcell has participated in myriad self-help programs, including Commitment to Change, Offender Responsibility, Understanding Self-Esteem, Personal Boundaries and Healthy Relationships, Assertive Communication, Decision Making, Dealing with Emotions, and Victim Impact and Self Awareness. Ms. Purcell has lived in an honor dorm for many years, where she participated in charitable events.

Through her positive attitude and behavior, Ms. Purcell has earned the respect of staff members. In 2015, a correctional lieutenant who has known Ms. Purcell since 1997 wrote, "Within this period, I have witnessed Inmate Purcell evolve into a confident and balanced individual who has successfully used the resources available to her at the Central California Women's Facility to improve herself." The lieutenant continued, "I have noted that Inmate Purcell is more involved within the prison community and motivated to participate in positive behavior. She is constantly working towards bettering herself through various self-help programs and is to be commended for her growth, positive attitude and appropriate conduct." The lieutenant concluded, "Inmate Purcell should be applauded for her excellent work ethic and behavior." Also in 2015, a correctional officer who has known Ms. Purcell since 2004 "found her to exhibit a positive attitude and a willingness to help others. Inmate Purcell works well with others, is active in the groups offered by the Honor Dorm, and in my opinion is a model inmate. She facilitates groups and goes above and beyond in her performance and rehabilitation." A correctional officer praised Ms. Purcell in 2015 "for her dedication and hard work in making a positive change in the 15 years I have known her." The officer wrote, "Inmate Purcell is courteous, respectful, and dedicated to improve the quality of her life. . . . Inmate Purcell demonstrates the ability to effectively promote a positive environment with her peers, as well as the staff." The officer praised Ms. Purcell for her hard work and attitude, noting that she "is dependable and completes any tasks assigned to her. Her conduct and hard work are appreciated and worthy of recognition."

Ms. Purcell committed a very serious crime, but it is clear that she has distinguished herself through her exemplary conduct and dedication to her rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Ms. Purcell has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Cynthia Purcell to a total of 28 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

CYNTHIA ANNE PURCELL
BCR 2436 / W#42526
PO BOX 1508
CHOWCHILLA, CA. 93610-1508

MY NAME IS CYNTHIA PURCELL, I AM NOW 47 YEARS OLD AND AS OF MARCH, 2019 I HAVE SERVED 25 YEARS STATE TIME, WITH 738 DAYS CREDIT FROM SANBERNARDINO COUNTY JAIL. I AM SERVING LIFE WITHOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF PAROLE, UNDER THE FELONY MURDER LAW.

ON WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1990, I THOUGHTLESSLY AND WILLINGLY PARTICIPATED IN THE MURDER OF JEANINE ANN LEE, WHO WAS BRUTALLY, AND UNNECESSARILY STRANGLED AND BEATEN TO DEATH, AND THEN LEFT TO BE FOUND IN THE ODESSA CANYON, NORTHWEST OF CALICO GHOST TOWN. I ALLOWED MYSELF TO BE INVOLVED IN THIS MURDER/ROBBERY, AND DID NOTHING TO DISTANCE MYSELF FROM MY CO-DEFENDANT, MICHAEL COMBS, IN ORDER TO NOT BE INVOLVED IN THE MURDER OF JEANINE LEE. I WAS QUICK TO BLAME MY PROBLEMS ON MY CHILDHOOD, MY PARENTS DIVORCE, MY PROBLEM WITH RUNNING AWAY, AND THE FACT THAT MY MENTAL ISSUES LED ME TO TWO MENTAL HOSPITALS IN MY YOUTH. MY OWN MOTHER EVEN INFORMED PEOPLE THAT I WOULD LIE TO GET MY WAY, BY TELLING PEOPLE WHAT I BELIEVED THEY WANTED TO HEAR. MY MOTHER DID STRESS THAT SHE DID NOT BELIEVE THAT I WAS CAPABLE OF KILLING ANYONE, AND WAS SURE THAT I HAD NOT, BUT THAT I WAS VERY EASILY DRAWN IN BY OTHERS EVEN THOSE WHO WERE NOT GOOD FOR ME TO BE AROUND.

ON MARCH 6, 1992, I WAS SENTENCED TO LIFE WITHOUT PAROLE FOR MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE, WITH SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES OF ROBBERY. AT THIS TIME, THE COURT SAW THAT IT WAS IN SOCIETIES FAVOR TO LOCK ME UP TO PREVENT ME FROM HURTING ANYONE ELSE, AND SAVE SOME OTHER PERSON FROM THE SAME FATE AS JEANINE LEE. AT THAT TIME I CAN HONESTLY SAY THAT I DID NOT FEEL THE THE AFFECT OF JEANINE'S DEATH, NOR DID I SEE THE IMPACT IT HAD ON THE LIVES OF OTHERS. MY ONLY SELFISH INTEREST AT THE TIME WAS HAVING MY OWN NEEDS MET AT ANYONES EXPENCES.

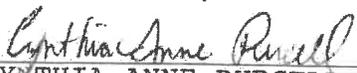

THERE ARE NO WORDS, ACTIONS, OR ANY AMOUNT OF ATONEMENT THAT CAN MAKE UP FOR THE REMOVAL OF JEANINE'S FREE WILL, OR HER DEATH. MY SELFISH ACTIONS TOOK JEANINE AWAY FROM HER ELDERLY PARENTS, WHO DEPENDED ON HER TO ASSIST THEM IN THE RUNNING OF THEIR BAR, AS WELL AS THE GENERAL SUPPORT OF HER DISABLED FATHER. I ALSO CAUSED HER SISTER, LINDA LEE, AND THE REST OF THE FAMILY TO SUFFER FOR THE REMAINDER OF THEIR LIVES, EVERY HOLIDAY, A SONG ON THE RADIO, OR A MEMORY THAT FLASHES THROUGH THEIR MINDS, AND EVERY OCTOBER 24TH, FOREVER.

WHO I WAS THEN WAS A SELFISH, IMPULSIVE PERSON THAT MADE A DECISION BASED ON MAKING SOMEONE LIKE ME. I WOULD FOLLOW THE LEAD, AND MAKE A CHOICE WITH NO THOUGHT OF THE CONSEQUENCES, AND DID NOT EVEN REALLY CARE. THERE WERE TIMES THAT I KNEW WHAT WAS HAPPENING WAS WRONG, BUT MY FEAR AND COWARDLY ACTIONS WOULD KEEP ME FROM SPEAKING UP. I DID NOTHING TO HELP JEANINE ON THE DAY SHE WAS MURDERED, INSTEAD I ASSISTED IN THE TAKING OF ANOTHER HUMAN BEINGS LIFE.

I AM NO LONGER THAT SELFISH COWARD I WAS, I HAVE LEARNED THROUGH GROUPS LIKE AWARE, (ACCOUNTABILITY WORKSHOP AND RESTORATIVE EDUCATION), VICTIM AWARENESS, SELF-ESTEEM BUILDING CLASSES, HOW TO GROW AND CHANGE. I AM NOW ABLE TO LOOK AT THINGS AND SITUATIONS DIFFERENTLY, REMOVE BEHAVIORS THAT ARE DESTRUCTIVE, AND WORK HARD TO ADOPT BEHAVIORS THAT PROMOTE POSITIVE CHANGE AND OUTCOMES.

A DAY WILL NEVER COME THAT I WILL BELIEVE THAT MY DEBT WILL BE PAID FOR THE MURDER OF JEANINE, BUT I WILL WORK HARD TO GROW AND CONTINUE TO BECOME A BETTER PERSON. MY INTENTION IS TO SHARE MY GROWTH AND KNOWLEDGE WITH MY COMMUNITY HERE, AND WHEN GIVEN THE CHANCE, BE A VERY PRODUCTIVE MEMBER OF SOCIETY.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME AND CONSIDERATION IN THIS MATTER, AND WHATEVER YOUR DECISION MAY BE.

CYNTHIA ANNE PURCELL W42526

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On October 29, 1990, arrest warrants were issued for Appellant Cynthia A. Purcell and Michael Combs, charging them with violation of P.C. 187, Murder. Acting on a tip from a witness, both Ms. Purcell and Mr. Combs were arrested in Kingman, Arizona on November 2, 1990.

On November 8, 1990, the Appellant was formally arrested and held in custody by the San Bernardino Sheriff's Department until trial.

On January 24, 1992, the Appellant and co-defendant, Mr. Combs, was convicted of first degree murder by a jury. The jury also found true the special circumstance of Felony Murder during a robbery.

On March, 6, 1992, the Appellant was sentenced to Life Without the Possibility of Parole. Mr. Combs was sentenced to death.

ARGUMENTS

I. The goals and objectives of the sentence have been accomplished.

According to California sentencing rule 4.410, there are seven objectives of sentencing. They are 1) protecting society, 2) punishing the defendant, 3) encouraging the defendant to lead a law-abiding life in the future and deterring him or her from future offenses, 4) deterring others from criminal conduct by demonstrating its consequences, 5) preventing the defendant from committing new crimes by isolating him or her for the period of incarceration, 6) securing restitution for the victims of crime, and 7) achieving uniformity in sentencing.

1 1) Protecting society

2 Ms. Purcell does not pose a danger to society. For the past 26 years, Ms.
3 Purcell has lived in a volatile and hostile community without violating the 4 governing rules. In 26 year, Ms. Purcell has never received any disciplinary 5 action.

6 Ms. Purcell has been recognized for her positive contribution to her
7 community for her positive contribution to her community. She has facilitated 8 groups and classes encouraging others along their rehabilitation path.

9 Ms. Purcell's goal of working with At-Risk youth will be protecting 10 society. Ms. Purcell will use her life experiences plus knowledge and skills gained 11 over the last 26 years to help youth avoid criminal behavior.

13 2) Punish the defendant

14 The law recognizes 15 years as the base term for unintentional death and 25
15 years for intentional death. This recognition is found in the consistent application 16 of those years determining eligibility for parole.

17 Ms. Purcell has served 26 years. The felon-murder rule allowed a life
18 without parole sentence. This rule does not require intent to take a life. Ms.
19 Purcell, while present at the robbery did not take a life or intend to take a life. Her
20 punishment arguably was fulfilled after 15 years. If the court believes her actions 21 merit for culpability, her punishment was fulfilled after 25 years.

23 3) Encouraging the defendant to lead a law-abiding life in the future and deterring 24 him or her from future offenses.

25 Ms. Purcell has a 26 year track record of law-abiding living in the most at-26 risk community. Living among a population of 100% convicted criminals, Ms.
27 Purcell avoided unlawful behavior. Her ability to focus on self-rehabilitation and 28 to refrain from the criminal behavior proves that she will not commit any future
29 offenses upon her release.

1 Ms. Purcell's first 5 years post release will be in residence at the Harvest
2 Bible University in Wasco, CA. Her environment and focus on her goal of 3 working with At-Risk youth will insure she will maintain her positive law-abiding 4 living.

6 4) Deterring others from criminal conduct by demonstrating its consequences.

7 This objective was accomplished while the outside world knew of Ms.
8 Purcell's case. Twenty-six years later, her continued incarceration does not deter
9 anyone. Upon release Ms. Purcell's ambition is to work with At-Risk youth. By 10 her willingness to open up and share her story, she will deter others. Ms. Purcell 11 has spent 26 years learning why she made the choices she did, how to rehabilitate, 12 the impact her choices had on others and how to move beyond the past. These 13 lessons can be and should be shared with At-Risk youth by someone who has lived 14 the consequences. Ms. Purcell's release will help deter others, not her continual

17 5) Preventing the defendant from committing new crimes by isolating him or her 18 for the period of incarceration.

19 The 26 years of disciplinary-free living proves Ms. Purcell has no
20 intentions of committing new crimes. Her focus is on helping prevent At-Risk 21 youth from committing crimes.

23 6) Securing restitution for the victims of crime.

24 After 26 years, Ms. Purcell has still not been able to pay off all her 25 restitution. Prison wages do not offer any realistic expectation to restitution being 26 paid in a prisoner's life-time. Ms. Purcell's release would fulfill the objective of 27 paying off restitution. Even a part-time job on campus would allow Ms. Purcell to 28 pay $80 - $100 per week versus $15 per month working full-time in prison.
29 Releasing Ms. Purcell will secure the restitution owed the victims.

1 7) Achieving uniformity in sentencing.

2 The courts are acknowledging that decisions made by young people should 3 be viewed in light of their development stage. SB 261 set the age for 4 consideration at 23. This brief will later address the unconstitutional exclusion of 5 youth sentenced to Life Without the Possibility of Parole. For the purpose of 6 uniformity the cases of a young 20 year-old abetting in a crime should be 7 considered for release after their 20th year of custody (SB 261).

8 There are also cases such as Cody v. Gower (March 2016) where the court
9 found in favor of the Appellant. The Appellant had repeatedly struck the victim in 10 the face with the butt of a rifle, but did not participate in the strangulation and 11 death. The court found despite the physical damage, there was no intent to kill on 12 the part of the Appellant. The jury should have been instructed on CALCRIM 730
13 and 703.

14 Ms. Purcell's case can be directly compared. She struck the victim, but did 15 not intend or participate in the victim's death.

16 Ms. Purcell's release will be consistent uniformity for youth offenders and 17 aid and abettors being less culpable than the actual killer.

19 II. SB 261's special hearings for youthful offenders should include youth with Life
20 Without Parole.

22 The United States Constitution's 14th Amendment ensures "Equal 23 Protection." According to SB 261 extends SB 260's special youthful offender's
24 hearing to prisoners who committed their crime before the age of 23. The bill
25 recognizes the findings of scientist such as Dr. Ruben C. Gur, Ph.D., and Dr.
26 Thomas Grisso, Ph.D., who found that the human brain does not reach maturity 27 until their mid 20's.

SELF HELP AND JOB SKILLS

Substance Abuse Programming:

I have come to learn through my time that addiction and steps are not only for those that have an addiction to drugs or alcohol, they play an integral part in preventive actions. One of the groups I took of this nature was, "Overcoming Addictive Behavior", This group focused on self-awareness of addictive behavior, and helped me to learn how to recognize any characteristic I may have that could lead to unhealthy behaviors. I also took a "12 Step Study" that had me actually work through the steps with any issues that I have in my life, such as low self-esteem, negative self-talk, impulsive behavior, and passivity. I also learned what the triggers are for me that led to my feeling any of the above mentioned. The last I have in this section is "A Place Called Self", This group taught me new ways to set goals, have internal competence in my recovery so that I can accept and deal with the emotions that arise while working through any of my issues. As a whole, these groups have helped me to appreciate everything that I have worked through, and to be able to assertively use them as tools in my future.

Anger Management Programming:

Anger is one of the things I struggled with more than anything else in the past, I was not the type to lash out and yell, rather, I held it in and suppressed it to the point that I was very unhappy most of the time. I believe that most of my passivity, negative self-talk, and low self-esteem came from this behavior. By taking classes on anger, as well as general life skills, I have learned to process my anger and other feelings, rather than stuffing them and having new problems from them. One of the classes of this nature was, "Dealing With Emotions", this class taught me how to pinpoint my feelings, and how to control and cope with my emotions. "Life Skills" enabled me to deal with life's challenges and develop skills to resolve personal issues that may arise in the future. Some of the skills that I learned in this class were; Effective ways to deal with criticism, Healthy relationships, Developing a higher self-esteem, setting boundaries, assertive communication, and setting goals. "Anger management", which was taught by our J.O.C. Social Worker was full of easily usable information, it explained what anger is, sources of anger, emotional development, how shame and guilt can lead to future problems, and the solutions and tools that will help.

"Life Scripting"

Virginia Dunstone is the author of the book, "Why Do I Do What I Do?" ON February 24, 2013, I completed an 80 hour course that was conducted by Virginia Dunstone, that was focused on breaking the cycle of recidivism by teaching incarcerated women to recognize the patterns that lead to their life choices. This course educated me in four key areas, self, family, relationships, and society, by teaching me psychological strategies that I need to make healthy personal choices, and alter negative behavioral patterns. I learned tools that taught me how to reframe my experiences into learning opportunities.

At present, a ten-year study of released women who have graduated from the LifeScripting program indicated a less than 4% recidivism/return rate. The unprecedented success of this program speaks not only of its value to each participant, but also to the general value for children, families, and society.

My Self Awareness:

I believe that my biggest eye opener to self was when I participated in AWARE, which is Accountability Workshop and Restorative Education program. This was a 13 week program that helped me to gain insight into my crime, to take responsibility for the impact of my actions, and to have meaningful accountability for the harms that I have caused. This class gave me an in-depth view into the fact that there are no victimless crimes, and there is a huge ripple-effect that takes place with every crime. In this class we were asked to create a time line of our lives, this helped me to see how the actions throughout my life led up to the day I participated in the murder of Jeanine Lee. Because of the breakthroughs in this area I am more willing and able to take responsibility for my actions and am willing to work on my self, make amends as possible, stay connected to the community, and continue on a path of healing and change. I have taken other victim awareness classes as well, and plan to continue to educate myself in this area.

Education:

I received my GED here at CCWF, and intend to find a Bible College when one becomes available, or upon release.

Job Skills:

I am a quick learner, and have had quite a bit of experience here as well, I worked in Computer Refurbishing, was a Watch Office clerk for seven years, working all three different shifts through that time. I am currently a Porter in my housing unit, I worked in silk screen, Yard crew, Library, Chapel clerk, Education clerk, and Grounds Keeping.

Giving Back

I am an American with Disabilities, due to a bad surgery here in prison, I have permanent nerve damage, I still choose to program here in my unit as a porter. I do not feel that I need to sit around and do nothing just because I have medical issues, so I help my peers by cleaning what I can. I spend time in the day-room, and make myself available to those who may need my assistance throughout the day. I help with education, making crafts, or just to give them a place that is safe to talk. I am part of the crochet project, and make blankets, baby booties, and hats for those in need. I am also a unit facilitator where I am able to apply the things that I have learned through my growth, and experience by teaching groups that are intended to help make a difference. I also just completed an advanced facilitator training that was taught by some staff here in the institution. I plan to continue to use my time in a positive form of giving back, this is something I can do for the rest of my life.

Disciplinary:

I have remained disciplinary free throughout my entire term. I do not pretend not to have had confrontations that could have led to problems I have just used the tools I have learned, by communication, I actually talked things out, rather than get into a situation. I know how to walk away from a situation that has potential to turn ugly, then deal with it at a later time. I know that life is going to have problems, but I intend to continue learning and dealing with every situation as it comes along.

Parole Plans

I have made plans for housing with a Time For Change Foundation, in San Bernardino, California. Po Box 25040, San Bernardino, Cal. 92406. My contact person there is Eula Charles, the housing director. Telephone# is (909)886-2994, Facsimile: (909)886-0218, also see www.Timeforchangefoundation.org. I am including a copy of the letter they sent to me for the Board of Prison Terms, this letter tells a bit more about the program, and I copied the pamphlet that they sent me as well. This program has a six (6) month actual program, with a one (1) year follow up program with housing. I intend at this time to offer my time and support to the Time for Change Foundation, to show my appreciation for their help and support. During this time I will be seeking out long term housing, which the program assists in doing.

Due to the fact that I will be collection SSI for my disability, I will seek part-time employment and do volunteer work as a way of helping out my community. I will be looking into churches in the area, and finding any self-help classes that are available as well. I do not need a lot to get by, and fully intend to live off of the help of second hand items as much as possible, so that I will be able to save money, and not leave myself in any desperate situations.

I know that if I run into any difficulties, I have contact information for California Coalition for Women Prisoners, and they will help me in any way that they can. I will also be including letters from this organization to show the support I have available. This will be the only outside support that I have available, I no longer have any living family members to seek support from, I will be building a new circle of support from the day I am released from here, and have to rely on the tools and the knowledge that I have attained during my incarceration.

Thomas Purscelley

In January 2006, Thomas Purscelley owed Mario Quiroz money for drugs and Mr. Purscelley was avoiding him. On January 25, Mr. Quiroz and his girlfriend were driving and saw Mr. Purscelley riding his bicycle. Mr. Quiroz got out of the car and approached Mr. Purscelley who, upon seeing Mr. Quiroz, pulled out a gun and shot Mr. Quiroz once in the chest, killing him. On July 24, 2009, the San Bernardino County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Purscelley to 15 years to life for murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement – a total term of 40 years to life.

Mr. Purscelley is now 39 and has been incarcerated for almost 13 years. When Mr. Purscelley applied for a commutation, he asked "for mercy based on conduct and positive accomplishments." He also wrote, "I will forever live my life helping people from the addictions that I suffered from for so long." Mr. Purscelley reported that for many years he was addicted to drugs and criminal behavior, but since coming to prison, has changed his lifestyle and no longer feels the need to use drugs or alcohol.

In prison, Mr. Purscelley has shown that he has turned his life around and decided to dedicate his time and energy to self-improvement. He has only been disciplined once for misconduct in prison. Mr. Purscelley earned his GED and graduated valedictorian. He continued his education, later earning his A.A. degree. Mr. Purscelley has also participated in multiple self-help programs, including Criminal and Gang Members Anonymous, Cage Your Rage, and Alternatives to Violence. He also programmed through Kairos Ministry and was active in the Inmate Peer Education Program where he obtained a master facilitator certificate. He also participated on the Inmate Advisory Committee, ultimately becoming the Chairperson. Mr. Purscelley is currently involved with the Youth Offender Program and the Anti-Recidivism Coalition.

Mr. Purscelley has demonstrated deep remorse for his actions and distinguished himself by his consistent efforts to change his life. For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. Purscelley has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Thomas Purscelley to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

(This is from the California Court of Appeal, Fourth District, Division One):
Statement of Facts

At about 9:30 p.m. on January 25, 2006, Purscelley shot and killed Mario Quiroz on the street corner. Purscelley and Quiroz had been friends, but before the shooting a dispute had arisen between them concerning money that Quiroz claimed Purscelley owed him. The prosecution's theory was that Purscelley committed premeditated first degree murder, whereas Purscelley claimed he acted in self-defense.

Quiroz's girlfriend (██████████) witnessed the shooting. She testified on behalf of the prosecution regarding the interactions between Purscelley and Quiroz in the days leading to the shooting, and about her observations of the shooting. Avila testified that Quiroz and Purscelley met a few months before the shooting. They used drugs together, and also committed thefts together. During the thefts, Quiroz provided security for Purscelley; i.e., Quiroz "watched Purscelley's back" while Purscelley was stealing the material.

Avila stated that in the days before the shooting, Quiroz was upset with Purscelley because Quiroz believed Purscelley owed him $50. Quiroz, accompanied by Avila, repeatedly went looking for Purscelley at the home of Purscelley's girlfriend (██████████) and at Purscelley's parent's home. Purscelley was avoiding Quiroz, which upset and angered Quiroz even more. On the night of the shooting, Avila was driving from an "NA" meeting, accompanied by Quiroz. When she was stopped at an intersection, she saw Purscelley about 15 to 20 feet away. Purscelley was on a bicycle, leaning against the pole at the crosswalk signal.

Avila testified that Quiroz got out of the car and walked up to Purscelley. They were about three to four feet apart. Quiroz's hands were open and showing, and he was moving his hands indicating that he was talking to Purscelley. Purscelley's hands were in his sweatshirt pockets. Avila observed Purscelley pull a gun from his pocket, point it at Quiroz's chest, and immediately shoot Quiroz.

After the shooting, Purscelley rode his bike to a nearby house, where he asked the occupant (whom he did not know) if he could use the phone to call his mother to pick him up. Purscelley told the occupant (██████████) that some men in a car were after him and wanted to beat him up. While Purscelley was at his residence, Cueva heard sirens and found a gun in Purscelley's jacket, which was laying outside. Cueva unloaded the gun and gave it to Purscelley's mother when she arrived to pick him up. Thinking about these circumstance later, Cueva contacted the police the next day.

Quiroz died of a gunshot wound to the chest. No weapons were found in Quiroz's clothing or in the vicinity of his body.

██████████, the mother of Purscelley's child, also testified on behalf of the prosecution. At the time of the shooting she was living with Purscelley and their daughter at Purscelley's parents' home. The night of the shooting Purscelley returned to his parents' home and told Grisham about the shooting. He told her that he might have hurt someone; the bullet in the gun was a "hallow point" that shatters into pieces upon impact and is usually lethal; and the woman who was driving the victim witnessed the shooting. When Grisham asked if the woman might come forward about the shooting, Purscelley responded, "What goes on in the hood stays in the hood, and if she knew any better, then she wouldn't say anything."

A few hours after the shooting, Purscelley told Grisham about the dispute between him and Quiroz. Quiroz claimed that Purscelley owed him $50, but Purscelley did not feel he owed him anything. Purscelley told Grisham that he had purchased the gun from a friend the day before the shooting.

The next afternoon, Grisham and Purscelley agreed that Grisham would provide an alibi for Purscelley. Purscelley took the gun to a friend to have it melted down. Purscelley turned himself in to the police, and denied involvement in the shooting. When interviewed by the police, Grisham initially adhered to the alibi, but eventually disclosed the alibi was "made up."

Defense

By the time of trial, Purscelley admitted that he shot Quiroz, but raised a claim of self-defense. Testifying on his own behalf, Purscelley stated he had a methamphetamine habit, and he met Quiroz when he purchased methamphetamine from him about six months before the shooting. Thereafter, Quiroz was Purscelley's drug supplier, and they also used the drug together. Quiroz told Purscelley that he collected money for other drug dealers.

When Quiroz accompanied Purscelley on the theft jobs, Quiroz carried a gun to protect them. Purscelley had seen Quiroz use violence on various occasions. He saw Quiroz jump out of a car and beat up a man who owed Quiroz's uncle money. Quiroz also threatened a group of men who were in front of a residence where Quiroz was looking for a man who owed him money. Purscelley described Quiroz as a "really aggressive" and "very intimidating" type of person.

Purscelley testified that after the development of the dispute over the $50, Quiroz became more aggressive every time he asked for the money. Purscelley cut off communication with Quiroz and avoided him as best he could. On two occasions, Quiroz left notes that frightened Purscelley. On one occasion after Purscelley told Quiroz he did not owe the money, Quiroz responded, "Well, come to my uncle's house at 7:30 and we'll talk about it."

Purscelley did not show up at the uncle's home. About three and one-half days before the shooting, Quiroz left a note on Gonzalez's door that Purscelley interpreted as a threat. According to Purscelley, the note indicated that Purscelley "messed up" and "disrespected" Quiroz for not showing up at his uncle's home to pay the money.

A couple days later, Quiroz arrived at Gonzalez's home. Purscelley refused to come outside and talk to him and they spoke through the security screen door. Quiroz was very angry, and he kept repeating "come outside." Quiroz told Purscelley that he disrespected him and that if he did not come outside right then Quiroz would "catch him on the street at a later time." Purscelley responded, "you need to stop tripping' over this stupid $50"; "If it's so important to you, I'll just pay you the money."

On this occasion at Gonzalez's home, Quiroz appeared to be under the influence of methamphetamine. He was "very agitated and his eyes were real big." Quiroz said, "Motherfucker, you should have paid me my money. Now you went too far and ... there's no paying me now. You can't pay me. It's no longer about the money. Don't let me catch you on the streets. If I catch you on the streets, your ass is mine." Quiroz then left.

The day of the shooting, Purscelley had purchased a gun to protect himself from Quiroz. About five hours later, he was standing with his bicycle and pushing a crosswalk signal button. Quiroz jumped out of a car, approached him at a fast pace, and said, "I knew I'd catch you, son of a bitch. I knew it"; "I knew I would catch you slippin" Quiroz's hands were "all wild."

Purscelley immediately felt afraid and did not know what to do. When Quiroz was about 10 feet away, Purscelley pulled out the gun and pointed it at Quiroz. Quiroz slowed down, but continued to walk towards Purscelley. Quiroz, put his behind his back, and said "If that's a gun, motherfucker, you better shoot me." On previous occasions when Purscelley had seen Quiroz with a gun, Quiroz kept it behind his back. Purscelley thought Quiroz was reaching for a gun. Quiroz continued to come towards Purscelley. When Quiroz was about three feet away, he lunged at Purscelley. Purscelley fired the gun to protect himself because he thought he was going to be shot.

Purscelley testified that he was very afraid and had no way of escaping. He stated that when he was about 16 or 17 years old, he had been shot and he was not going to let somebody shoot him again.

Purscelley's girlfriend (Gonzalez) testified to corroborate Purscelley's claim that Quiroz threatened him. Gonzalez stated that Quiroz was a methamphetamine dealer and user who used violence to collect narcotics debts. She saw Quiroz beat up a man on the street because of a problem between the man and another individual. Quiroz came to her house on three occasions looking for Purscelley and left two notes for him. During the third visit, Purscelley was at home. Quiroz stated to Purscelley through the screen door, "What the fuck, Purscelley?" Quiroz was agitated and asking Purscelley to come outside. Purscelley said "Calm down. Calm down"; "What's wrong?" Quiroz responded, "No. Fuck that." Gonzalez told Quiroz to lower his voice because her mother and son were in the house, but Quiroz stated, "Fuck that, Gonzalez. He needs to come out." Quiroz then said to Purscelley, "I'm just telling you one thing, you know. You better watch your shit. You better watch your back," and walked away.

Recalled by the defense to testify, Quiroz's girlfriend, Avila, acknowledged that Quiroz was a drug addict and that he and she had engaged in an argument which resulted in Quiroz being arrested. Further, she acknowledged that based on her conversations with Quiroz about his dispute with Purscelley, she thought Quiroz "would probably hit Purscelley when he saw him next." However, Avila denied that Quiroz was a violent man.

I Thomas Purscelley conclude that these are true and accurate statements of the case.

3.) Explain why you are requesting a commutation:

I respectfully present to you the Governor of the State of California, Mr. Edmund G. Brown Jr, my application for commutation, and ask if you will please evaluate my conduct since being incarcerated, and allow this office to decide my level of rehabilitation and suitability. I have exhausted all other remedies, i.e. appeals process, and I am no longer seeking relief from the courts. I presented arguments to the courts to be judged on legal parameters, however, I now seek to be judged on my rehabilitation and achievement's that have made me the responsible man that I am today. I am seeking relief from my gun enhancement. Since the passing of SB 620 I am hoping to find relief from this enhancement. After accepting responsibility for my actions, I realize I should have taken the deal the D.A. offered me of 19 years to life. When I was offered this deal, no life term inmates ever got out. Now we have a chance to earn our freedom by our conduct and achievements during our rehabilitation. I am seeking any relief available from this office based on my conduct and accomplishments since being incarcerated. I am asking for my achievements to be viewed, and if reasonable allowed the opportunity to present this to the BPH for a parole date.

4.) Provide a brief statement why you should be granted a commutation:

When I committed this horrible atrocity I was 26 years old, however I was only 17 or 18 years old mentally. I never went to high school, and dropped out of Jr high in the 8th grade. I was using drugs on a daily basis, and never had to face the consequences for my bad choices in life leading up to this day of January 25, 2006.

I, in no way, deserve any relief. However, I am asking for mercy based on my conduct and positive accomplishments. I was an impulsive adult-child who was selfish and materialistic in my youth. I am now conscious of the devastation I caused the Quiroz family, and my entire community. Since being incarcerated I have grown tremendously as a human being. I have come to understand how precious life is to the people we love, and to our succeeding generation. I understand that the decision I made on the night of January 25, 2006 can never be fixed, repaired, or undone. I only ask that my conduct since incarceration, and my education be recognized as the person I have become. I am no longer the impulsive selfish person I once was. I have been, and want to continue giving back to my community. Especially the one I took so much from for so long.

I am currently a full time college student who will graduate with an Associates in Arts degree, with an emphasis in Social and Behavioral Sciences, during the 2018 college semester, I am also currently working on obtaining an Alcohol and Drug Studies Specialists I and II. I want to help the people that are living the same lifestyle that ruined my life, and help them understand that change is possible. That's why I've been volunteering as a Youth Offender Program (YOP) Mentor. I do this by helping the YOPs with their academic goals, and self-help rehabilitation efforts. I am also currently enrolled in, and facilitate 6 self-help classes. Such as: Narcotics Anonymous (N.A.), Criminals and Gang Members Anonymous (CGA), Lifer's Activity Group (LAG), Alternatives to Violence Project (AVP), The Inmate Peer Education Program (IPEP), and I For Sight (I-4-Sight). Being involved with these programs allows me the opportunity to help facilitate the curriculum to the class, and share my personal testimony with them about the road to recovery. Being a positive example in a prison setting has been a huge part of my amends process. After causing so much devastation with my lifestyle choices I've made, I feel a moral obligation to give back in every way I can. One of my most positive attributes as a Master Peer Educator is my sobriety of 12 years. Without sobriety nothing will change! For many years of my life I was addicted to drugs and criminal behavior. Since my sobriety I am a productive, and responsible member of my community. I only ask for the chance to continue these lifestyle choices in the communities that I adversely affected.

I have made many grave decisions in my life, and as a 26 year old man I made the most devastating one of all. I understand how much pain and sorrow I've caused the Quiroz family by murdering Mario Quiroz that night. My choices that night has devastated many families, and countless lives. I am truly shameful and disgusted with the person I once was. It is because of this realization that I have studied so hard, and learned so much to better myself, and ensure that I never make the same choices again. I will forever live my life helping people from the addictions that I suffered from for so long. I want to thank this office and you Governor Brown for your time and consideration. I hope that through this process I might gain some relief from my sentence and be able to continue contributing to the communities I live in for the foreseeable future.

I have many different forms of support available for me upon reentry into society. I plan on being a part of the ARC program, and will try to live in one of their transitional housing units. I will also continue my college education to earn my four year college degree. Being a part of this positive movement is such a blessing. I have included Several support letter's, which include job offers, a car that is fully insured for my use, and can provide any and all information needed to clarify any questions you might have. Please understand that I know I don't deserve any leniency for my actions, I am seeking mercy from my enhancement. Thank you once again for your consideration.

5.) If you have paid any money or given any gift to anyone to assist in the preparation of this application, list the name, address, and amount paid or given (required by penal code section 4807.2): None.

Dennis Reese

On May 8, 1998, Dennis Reese and Thomas Warren lured John Fitusi to the side of the highway in Los Angeles County. Mr. Reese approached Mr. Fitusi's vehicle and fired multiple shots at him, killing him. Authorities later concluded Mr. Reese killed Mr. Fitusi over a financial dispute. On June 25, 1999, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Reese to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement.

Mr. Reese is now 59 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 20 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Reese wrote, "I feel that after serving almost 20 years and my current age, I could prove to be invaluable to the community, my family, and to those who are committed to changing their lives." Mr. Reese wrote, "This is my first time incarcerated and last time if given the opportunity to regain my freedom." Mr. Reese told a Board of Parole Hearings investigator that he is seeking a commutation in order to be given the chance to return to his family and become a productive member of society. He stated that if given the opportunity to parole, it would not be in vain and that he would prove his worthiness for a second chance.

During more than two decades in prison with no possibility of parole, Mr. Reese has worked diligently on his rehabilitation. He has been disciplined only once for misconduct and never for any violence. Mr. Reese has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Anger Management, Conflict Resolution, Constructive Communication, and Alternatives to Violence. Mr. Reese also served as a facilitator for Alternatives to Violence, an Inmate Peer Educator and an instructor in American Sign Language. In addition, Mr. Reese resided on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard, from 2010 until 2018.

Mr. Reese receives excellent work ratings and commendations from correctional staff. In 2017, a supervising cook commended Mr. Reese on his work as a kitchen worker. The cook wrote, "As his supervisor, I have observed his willingness to perform those tasks assigned to him, as well as volunteering to other jobs not assigned to him. [In addition], his character and conduct have demonstrated a high level of work ethic." The supervisor wrote, "Reese has shown excellent qualities under my supervision with efficient knowledge and respectable attitude." In 2013, a culinary supervisor praised Mr. Reese for his work in the kitchen, noting that Mr. Reese "excelled in meeting all job expectations." The supervisor wrote, "Reese has demonstrated an eagerness to accomplish the assigned tasks expeditiously, and helped to create a positive working environment with a positive impact upon the facility." The supervisor continued, "He performs all duties with diligence and without delay. Reese's continued assistance to staff and his co-workers elevates the standard of the culinary atmosphere, and he should be commended." In 2011, a correctional officer commended Mr. Reese on his "behavior, demeanor, and attitude," noting that he is a "model inmate displaying exemplary, overall demeanor, including a respectful attitude." The officer wrote, "Mr. Reese always stays out of trouble, which is a daily challenge in a hostile prison environment. Mr. Reese treats all inmates with great respect and is patient, courteous, and respectful. . . . Mr. Reese completes all tasks without complaint and is diligent; [he also] pays close attention to detail."

Mr. Reese committed a very serious crime, but it is clear that he has distinguished himself by his exemplary conduct and rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Reese has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Dennis Reese to a total of 23 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Richard Alexander Richardson

In December 1997, Richard Richardson and some gang members broke into Leslie Hodge's home with intent to commit a robbery. Mr. Hodge and several others were held at gunpoint. Mr. Richardson and the group ransacked Mr. Hodge's home and stole cash, food stamps, and jewelry. On November 24, 1998, the Stanislaus County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Richardson to 26 years for three counts of robbery, 4 years for two counts of attempted robbery, 10 years, 8 months for firearm enhancements, 5 years for a prior felony enhancement, and 1 year, 4 months for a gang enhancement – a total of 47 years. Mr. Richardson is a second-striker and is currently serving a sentence that has been doubled.

Mr. Richardson has now been incarcerated for 21 years for this crime. In his application for clemency, Mr. Richardson described his commitment to rehabilitation and wrote, "Since my incarceration I have found my authentic self. I've been working on becoming a better person by completing many self-help groups. I've learned that it is alright to be afraid and ask for help when I need it." He told an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings that he wants to change society's mind about people who commit crimes and let them know that they are worth a second chance.

During more than two decades in prison, Mr. Richardson has been dedicated to transforming his life. He earned an A.A. degree and has participated in self-help programs including Criminals and Gang Members Anonymous, Alliance for Change, and Anger Management. Mr. Richardson is currently the editor in chief for the San Quentin News, an inmate run newspaper. In 2017, a correctional officer wrote in support of a reduction of sentence for Mr. Richardson, noting that he "has proven to be highly efficient and professional in the performance of his duties as editor in chief of the San Quentin newspaper." He continued, "Inmate Richardson has taken advantage of the move [CDCR] has made toward rehabilitation and has develop[ed] the skills needed to be a productive, beneficial and responsible citizen when released." Another correctional officer wrote in support of a commutation, stating that Mr. Richardson "should be commended for his efforts to transform his life and change his behavior. [He] has proven himself to be a model of rehabilitation and I know he will be a great asset to his community." Mr. Richardson plans to live in transitional housing, and his family is ready to help him upon his release from prison.

Additionally, his application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Richardson.

Despite his lengthy sentence, Mr. Richardson came to prison and turned his life around. He stopped associating with gang members and has dedicated himself to rehabilitation. As a result, he has earned an opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so that it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Richard Alexander Richardson to make him eligible for immediate parole consideration.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This section to be completed by the District Attorney only.

I, BIRGIT FLADAEK, District Attorney of the County of STANISLAUS do hereby acknowledge receipt of notice from RICHARD RICHARDSON, that he/she intends to apply to the Governor of the State of California for a commutation of sentence.

Signed

8-13-17

Note - Defendant was convicted of 9 separate counts to include Robbery, Attempted robbery, Burglary, gang crime, conspiracy & Felon in possession.

District Attorney: Please return this notice to the Governor's Office, Attn: Legal Affairs, State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814

I am requesting a commutation of my sentence because I am not the same person who committed my crime at the age of 24. My criminal behavior, when I was younger lead me to disregard societal laws and jeopardize the safety of people in my community. I terrorized the community that I lived in and I regret the damages I caused to all the people who were harmed by my actions. I lacked social values and job skills, and I did not have any plans for my future. I grew up under the authority of an abusive, alcoholic father until I was placed in a foster home. I later moved with my mother to various women shelters, hiding from my father. I began stealing other people's belonging and ending up in juvenile halls. I started selling drugs and then I joined a gang when I turned 11-years-old. I ended up stealing a car and got caught and sent to a group home when I was 12-years-old. I use the term caught because I committed more crimes that I was not arrested for, like stealing more cars and bicycles.

I learned violence from my father, so I masked my true feelings behind violence. I was suffering with an identity crisis and I was too afraid or know how to express my feelings. When I went to prison as a teenager for assaulting Officer David Robinson, I did not accept the responsibility for the role I played in this crime. I refuse to address the problems I was dealing with and I paroled in 1995 with no rehabilitative experiences. I found a job at Jack-in-the-Box but my problems continued to escalate. While trying to keep up with my bills, rent, child support and other payments, my financial obligations became unstable and I began to question my self-worth. I reverted to selling drugs and shortly afterwards I robbed Ms. Hodges, Gray, Townsend, and Mr. Hodges and McElwaine. I regret all the pain and harm that I cause and I wish I never committed this crime.

Since my incarceration I have found my authentic self. I've been working on becoming a better person by completing many self-help groups. I've learned that it is alright to be afraid and ask for help when I need it. I know that I am responsible for my actions and accountable for my behavior. I've earned my college degree and a vocational trade to support my family. Although I am proud of the groups and education that I have acquired, my greatest achievement was reaching out to my victims and apologizing to them for the pain and harm I caused. I also reached out to the former Stanislaus County district attorney, Mr. Douglas Maner, and apologized for lying to him and not accepting responsibility for my actions.

When I was 24-years-old, I was afraid to ask people for help. Now at 44-years-old, I've had the privilege and opportunity to work along side correctional officers, sergeants, lieutenants, CCR officials and several district attorneys. I am not afraid to ask for help anymore, but most importantly, offer my services as a volunteer to the community.

I'm now married to a wonderful lady who I've know since the 3rd grade. We have 7 children and 4 grandchildren. I will purchase and start a truck driving company with two of my brothers who now drive trucks. I will also invest in real-estate, create a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization and open a transitional house for elderly women and men returning to society. I will use my leadership skills I learned as editor-in-chief of the San Quentin News to organize the support I need to accomplish these goals.

I am rehabilitated and I'm ready to be a law abiding productive tax-paying citizen in our society. Thank You for you time and patience.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard Richardson

Date: August 15, 2017

I should be granted a commutation because I am the role model for what rehabilitation looks like. I believe in change and growth and I will prove that by my continued service with the community when I am released. I would like to be that bridge to fill the gap between law enforcement officers and our community. The value that I bring to the community will benefit greatly with the value I will produce in society.

As a second strike offender, I know that I will not be given another chance or opportunity. I should be granted a commutation because I am a productive citizen, to our society. I am responsible, accountable and a model citizen that California will be proud of. I pray that I'm given the opportunity to prove that I have been rehabilitated. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to submit my commutation form.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard Richardson

Genaro Rios

In February 1981, Genaro Rios arranged to have David Benavides killed due to a debt he owed Mr. Benavides. Humberto Perez drove Mr. Benavides to a pre-arranged location, where Mr. Rios had promised Mr. Benavides he would be paid. When Mr. Benavides and Mr. Perez arrived at the location, Jose Bueno and another man approached. Mr. Bueno removed a gun from his jacket and fired multiple times, killing Mr. Perez and injuring Mr. Benavides. On November 18, 1982, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Rios to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Rios is now 81 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 37 years. He told an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings that he is seeking a commutation because of his age, his lack of disciplinary history in prison, and his desire to return to his family. During almost four decades in prison with no possibility of parole, Mr. Rios has been a model inmate. He has never been disciplined for any misconduct. Mr. Rios has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, Houses of Healing, Men for Honor, Second Chance Group, and Catholic Chapel.

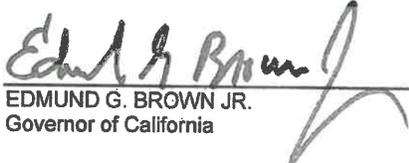

Mr. Rios receives above average work ratings and commendations from correctional staff. Mr. Rios resided on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard where inmates have access to unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities, for many years. In 2014, a correctional counselor commended Mr. Rios on successfully programming on the Progressive Programming Facility and staying free from serious rules violations for the entirety of his incarceration. In 2017, a Catholic chaplain commended Mr. Rios on being a "faithful participant" at Catholic mass and wrote, "He is someone that is quiet, respectful, attentive, willing to learn more about his faith and open to direction. He is someone that I consider to be a positive role model for our Catholic population, and most especially to our Spanish speaking population." In 2012, a superintendent with the California Prison Industry Authority (Cal-PIA) Laundry commended Mr. Rios on his work ethic, writing that he "demonstrates a good attitude and work habits." Also in 2012, a superintendent with Cal-PIA Laundry commended Mr. Rios on completing 1500 hours of training. In 2007, a Narcotics Anonymous sponsor wrote that Mr. Rios "has always displayed a positive attitude towards his peers, staff and guest sponsors during our group meetings. Inmate Rios shows a commitment towards his recovery from his addiction to drugs."

Due to Mr. Rios's age and physical condition, his conduct in prison, and his dedication to self-improvement, I believe that Mr. Rios has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Genaro Rios to a total of 37 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of December, 2018.

Rick Rivera

On October 16, 2005, Rick Rivera and Luis Avalos fired into a laundromat where they believed a rival gang member was hiding. Later, Mr. Rivera and Mr. Avalos mistakenly believed Lonnie Hunter was a rival gang member and fired three shots, injuring Mr. Hunter. On August 20, 2007, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Rivera to 7 years to life for attempted murder, 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement, 8 years for assault with a machine gun, 1 year and 8 months for shooting at an inhabited dwelling, plus 8 months for firing at an unoccupied vehicle – a total sentence of 42 years and 4 months to life.

Mr. Rivera is now 47 years old and has been incarcerated for over 13 years. He is seeking a commutation based on his rehabilitation. When Mr. Rivera applied for a commutation he expressed deep remorse for committing his crime, and wrote, "I have realized and accepted my faults of my criminality, my way of living, and my disobedience to the law and my fellow man." In a letter to make amends, Mr. Rivera added, "I want to apologize for the hurt and pain I have caused to the community, as I had been contributing to the crime and violence that was occurring before my incarceration."

Mr. Rivera has participated in self-help programs including Narcotics Anonymous, Alternatives to Violence, Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, and Inside OUT Writers. He completed his GED and has earned an A.A. degree in business technology and an A.S. degree in business management, graduating cum laude in each. He also completed vocational training in office services and related technology. In 2015, Mr. Rivera was an Inmate Peer Educator and, in 2018, he took a course in computer coding through Code 7370.

Additionally, his application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Rivera.

During 13 years in prison, Mr. Rivera has made a serious commitment to his rehabilitation and has matured and accepted responsibility for his actions. I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Rick Rivera to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

2. On October 16, 2005, at approximately 5:30 p.m. Ronald Early was sitting in his parked car in an alley parallel Budlong Avenue between 105th street and 106th streets. He heard three gunshots and saw a young black man jump over a fence, pursued by a man later identified as Avalos. Avalos was holding an AK-47. Less than a minute later, Early heard more loud shots. When the firing stopped, Early ran around the corner and saw that a Laundromat had got shot up. Deputies Roman Foss, Jorge Juarez, Tony Leonard, Christopher Lio arrived at the Laundromat and saw shattered glass inside and out. Deputy Lio found 12 expended shell casings and 1 live round. On the same day, at approximately 5:40 p.m. Deputy Daniel Martin answered a call to the area of 94th street and Budlong Avenue. He found two bullet holes in a church sign and recovered two expended rounds that were embedded in the sign. Shortly after the shooting, at approximately 6:00 p.m. Lonnie Hunter was shot in the area of Raymond Avenue and 111th street. He testified that a black man came toward him and shot him. As Hunter attempted to run away the black man shot him in the shoulder, hand, and lower back. The deputies who responded to the Laundromat, heard gunshots ringing from the Southwest. Deputies Foss and Juarez drove toward 111th street and Budlong Avenue and passed Avalos and Rivera, who were traveling eastbound on in a green Ford. We were apprehended after a short pursuit.

I was convicted for attempted murder on Mr. Hunter along with other charges of assault with a deadly weapon, shooting at inhabited dwelling, discharging firearm unoccupied vehicle. I was sentenced to life for the attempted murder and given a 25 to life for a gun enhancement, with 10 years and 4 months for the other charges. For a total of 42 to life.

3. I am requesting a commutation, because I exhausted all remedies through the appeal system. A Representative of the Governor came to Ironwood State Prison and asked for inmates to file Commutation of Sentences.

4. Where I am at in my life I feel I do not deserve anything for the actions I have took in my past. If I am granted Commutation of Sentence I will be a productive member of society. I believe I can be more beneficial to society out there than in prison, as I have realized and accepted my faults of my criminality, my way of living, and all in all, my disobedience to the law and my fellow man. I have learned through way of self-help classes how from a young age my mind was conditioned to live by certain ways, beliefs, and misbeliefs, and how the suicidal death of my father at my age of 15 affected my life-in my emotions, feelings, and behavior. These self-help classes consisted of Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous, Alternatives to violence, Criminal and Gang Anonymous, and Getting Out by Going In. Step one of A.A. "We admitted we were powerless over my addiction and that my life had become unmanageable" gave me the understanding and eye opener of how my addiction to drugs and alcohol destroyed my life and not only my life, but the ones of my loved ones and others. My addictions had played a role in my bad decision making and it has been over six years that my admittance and sobriety has given me the ability and strength to acknowledge my faults, errors, and beyond, thereby giving me the awareness that I needed to change, that I could change, and that there was more to life than addiction and criminal lifestyles. I am no longer the ignorant, selfish, confused negative minded, alcohol-drug addicted person I was 13 years ago. I will be 47 years old on July 16, 2018. I no longer have the immature beliefs of the gang and criminal mentality. I have earned two college degrees, an A.S. and an A.A. in business. I am currently taking courses in Alcohol and Drug Studies and have been involved in self-help classes for the past five years. I am no longer the closed-ill-minded uneducated individual who thought that gang and drug lifestyle was a norm. I was wrong and directionless. I have changed my whole life around, I am optimistic and open-minded and would like to pay back to society by being a productive and law abiding citizen. One of my goals is to help the youth and adults that are struggling with gangs, drugs and alcohol. And to those who are not struggling, help them avoid such issues. I would like to go to the schools and speak to the kids about the criminal and gang lifestyle and not only speak to them, but follow up on them. This was something I never experienced as I was growing up and I strongly believe that this type of communication would be beneficial to the kids, their families, and their communities. I would like to be a big brother or even a father figure to youngsters who may be in need of one, as I never had a brother and my father had passed away when I was 15. I would like to get involved with organizations such Anti-Recidivism Coalition (ARC) and Homeboy Industries (to name a couple) to reach this goal, as I look forward to making amends with society. Lastly, but for sure not least, I have found my higher power, which is GOD, in which I now find peace, comfort, love, direction, and happiness.

Curtis Roberts

On January 12, 1995, Curtis Roberts burglarized the home of Brenda Zink. Three days later, Mr. Roberts robbed Holly Cox and Nathan Beiley who were cashiers at a fast-food restaurant. Later the same night, Mr. Roberts robbed David Harlev, the cashier at a liquor store. On August 11, 1995, the San Bernardino County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Roberts to 25 years to life for robbery and 25 years to life for burglary – a total of 50 years to life.

Mr. Roberts has now been incarcerated for close to 24 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Roberts wrote about the life choices he made that precipitated his crime. He expressed remorse for committing these crimes, writing, "I have learned over the years that while I don't have a victim in the sense of a murder case, yet I do have victims. Time after time I [chose] drugs (rock cocaine) over my wife and daughter. Today, I live with such regret and shame for my actions, however, this story I pray does not end with me dying in prison... I believe the main purpose for me to be here in prison is to grow up, and I have."

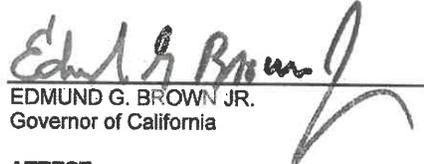

Mr. Roberts has maintained an excellent record in prison. He has never been involved with violence or drugs during his incarceration. He has had no disciplinary violations for over 15 years. He has dedicated himself to self-improvement, participating in self-help programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous, The Work, and Long-Term Offender Pilot Program. Mr. Roberts is an editor for the San Quentin News. Over the years, various prison staff members have commended Mr. Roberts for his enthusiasm, positive attitude, diligence, and excellent service. In 2012, an associate warden commended Mr. Roberts for consistently volunteering to perform additional duties, for his enthusiasm and willingness to assist inmates, and for his exemplary behavior for over a decade. Additionally, Mr. Roberts' application has been reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Roberts had a serious drug addiction and sustained his habit by committing senseless crimes. It is clear to me, however, that his commitment to sober living, his exemplary in-prison conduct, and his rehabilitation show that he is ready to be released on parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Curtis Roberts to release him on parole.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

December 20, 2011

To: The Chambers of
The Superior Court
Barstow, California 92311

Subject: RE-SENTENCING CONSIDERATION, FOR CURTIS HOWARD ROBERTS
E-25212. SAN QUENTIN STATE PRISON.

In 1995, I was sentenced to Fifty years to life as a result of a Three Strikes case by Honorable Judge Rufus L. Yent, Case Number: FBA-01774. While sitting in my Tehachapi prison cell I wrote back to Judge Rufus L. Yent (see enclosed). At that time, and again today I say justice is not being served by locking me up for the rest of my life.

Today, seventeen years later I humbly ask for a sentence modification in this case. Here is why I ask: I stole $40.00 dollars from a Big Bear Lake, liquor store, high on drugs and I was going in and out of my then (In-laws) cabin which was up for sale at that time, I had permission and the key to be within the cabin. I plead guilty in 1995 to Robbery & Burglary because the truth be told I gave up. I have never used a gun, never even used a weapon.

At the 1995 Sentencing, Judge Yent ordered me to serve 85% on the first 25-to-life, and 80% on the second 25-to-life. However, for whatever reason the prison notified me that Judge Yent's order was invalid, that I am to serve 100% of the fifty years which will place me here until the year 2044. I am still paying today 55% of restitution, any money I earn or that is sent to me is taken away due to the $10,000.00 dollar restitution Judge Yent placed upon me.

I have learned over the years (via support groups) that while I don't have a victim in the sense of a murder case, yet I do have victims. Namely, the guy who was working the counter at the store, what in him gets triggered each time he sees someone like me. Or, how about my own daughter, she has had to live without a father all these years because of my own actions. Time after time I choose drugs (rock cocaine) over loving my wife and daughter. Today, I live with such regret and shame for my actions however, this story I pray does not end with me dying in prison, even in the midst of all that I have faced here in prison I am accomplishing much in the way of self-help groups, half-way to receiving my Associates of Arts degree. I have spoken to many at risk youth, as shown on t.v. (see A.& E. cable t.v. Beyond Scared Straight) section four of the show is aired from San Quentin. Lastly, I believe the main purpose for me to be here in prison is to grow up, and I am and I have.

I apologize for my actions, if possible I welcome the opportunity to correct them and promise to never again steal, use drugs or hurt another human being.

This, my second time in prison - first time was for a crime I did not do (had a hung jury, yet denied by trial judge) I got out an angry man that thought the world owed me. Now, with seventeen years clean and sober I eagerly hope for a chance to live life outside of these walls. Here at San Quentin, each week I speak with the tours that come through the prison, sharing openly of my failures, shame, and regret and my accomplishments. Its my hope that somehow, justice will prevail. Please consider my case for re-sentencing.

Alfred Rodriguez

On May 14, 2009, Alfred Rodriguez and Israel Lopez drove by a group of rival gang members and flashed gang signs. Mr. Rodriguez and Mr. Lopez drove by again and fired multiple shots from their cars into the group, killing Victor Moreno. On August 29, 2011, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Rodriguez to 25 years to life for murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement – a total term of 50 years to life.

Mr. Rodriguez was 19 years old when he committed this crime and has been incarcerated for over eight years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Rodriguez explained how participation in self-help programs in prison, particularly Narcotics Anonymous and Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, helped him "truly understand the pain, loss, and harm" that he caused. He wrote, "...I became truly sorry and the desire to change, from the person that I was, was created within me. My desire for change pushed me harder than my desire for freedom." When asked by an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings why he was seeking a commutation, he explained, "I have these goals now that I want to accomplish...I want to try to make amends for all of the wrongs that I've done and for everything that I've done. I see myself helping people as a way of making amends. I want to get out and prevent other children and other people from doing the type of things that I did that led me to prison."

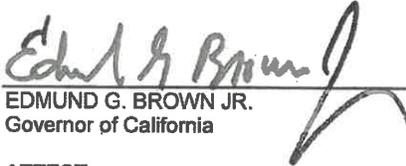

Mr. Rodriguez has turned his life around by leaving his violence and gang lifestyle behind. Upon coming to prison, he renounced all ties to his gang and has never been disciplined for any misconduct. He earned his GED and completed a vocation in the computer literacy program. Additionally, Mr. Rodriguez has completed an advanced Alternatives to Violence program where he currently is a facilitator. Mr. Rodriguez has a parole plan that includes transitional housing in the event of his release. He reported that his daughter's family currently provides him with support and has offered him employment opportunities.

Since committing this very serious crime, Mr. Rodriguez turned away from violence and gangs and shifted his focus to his own rehabilitation and education. For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. Rodriguez has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Alfred Rodriguez to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.
Governor of California

LETTER TO GOVERNOR BROWN

Dear Governor Brown

My name is Alfred Rodriguez, and I'm currently serving a 50 years to life sentence for murder and enhancements. Once I was sentenced to life in prison, I slowly started to give up, but in 2015 I heard how laws were changing, and I started to believe that maybe I had a chance on getting out. For the sake of parole I enrolled myself into self-help groups. Two of the self-help groups that I enrolled myself into are called NA and CGA. These two groups have 12 step programs that are similar to each other, and I have been able to change from the person that I was, by working the steps that these two groups provided. Working these steps helped me become aware of my character defects, flaws, and the underlying issues that played a part in me becoming the person that I was. Most importantly, these steps helped me truly understand the pain, loss, and harm that I caused to Victor Moreno and so many others. After I understood the full impact of my actions, I became truly sorry and the desire to change, from the person that I was, was created within me. My desire for change pushed me harder than my desire for freedom. With my desire for change pushing me, and through working the steps, I have been able to address the underlying issues that played a part in me becoming the person that I was, and I have also been able to address my character defects, and flaws. It hasn't been easy, old habits and manners are hard to change, but with the steps, daily prayer, and discipline I have slowly but surely been able to change. My desire to change has also pushed me to better myself through education. The college courses that I have taken so far have taught me about morals and ethics, emotional intelligence, networking, setting goals, and how to make plans so that I can accomplish those goals. I'm no longer attending self-help groups for the sake of parole: I'm now attending self-help groups because they have helped me change so much and I love the feeling of accomplishing things, gaining knowledge and understanding, doing the right thing in all aspects of my life, and just becoming a better person. I have dreams and goals to become a successful person, and I now know that true hard work is what it will take in order for me to succeed. I want to get out so that I can accomplish my goals and dreams, but most importantly I want to get out so that I can help and be there for my family. I want to teach them all that I've learned, and help raise the next generation the way that I should have been raised. I want to give back and try to help and save people, but I can't do it from behind these walls. Governor Brown please grant my commutation so that I can get an earlier opportunity to parole, because I would really like to put my plans into action. I thank you for your time and consideration. May God bless you.

Sincerely,

Alfred Rodriguez 5.30.18

FACTS OF OFFENSE

ALFRED RODRIGUEZ #AI8657

On May 14, 2009 I received a phone call from an individual by the name Alfredo Hernandez. On that phone call A.Hernandez said that he wanted to go murder a thirty-eight st. gangmember, using my grandparents vehicle. I took my G.P. vehicle to his house. When I got there I seen A.Hernandez and his little brother Ceasar Hernandez. A.Hernandez was on the phone trying to borrow a gun. Once A.Hernandez got off the phone he stated that we had to go pick up the gun. All three of us proceeded to get into my G.P. vehicle, and as I got near the driver door, A.Hernandez stated that he wanted to drive, I then told him no because he didn't have a license and I did. A.Hernandez eventually convinced me to let him drive. C.Hernandez and I got into the back seat of my G.P. vehicle, and we then drove two blocks up the street. We stopped in front of a house with a group of florence gangmembers standing out front. As we got out of the vehicle, A.Hernandez headed to the back of the house, I had assumed to get the gun; later on I found out it was because he had asked someone to follow behind my G.P. vehicle, so that in case the police got behind us that person would do something to pull the attention away from my G.P. vehicle, in other words to be a "decoy car". I started introducing myself to the group of gangmembers standing out front, as I was not familiar with them, because I did not frequent that area of the neighborhood. After a short while the brothers and I got back into my G.P. vehicle. Once inside I asked A.Hernandez if he got the gun, and he said that we're about to. We drove around the block and stopped in front of a house. Then A.Hernandez told his brother to go get the gun. Once C.Hernandez got back into the vehicle I seen and held the gun. We then drove over to thirty-eight st. gangs neighborhood, during the drive over, I noticed the a white car following behind us and I seen two people inside. (the passenger I know as Baby Kapps, however, the drivers name and moniker is unknown to me) At this point I asked A.Hernandez why were they following us, and he basically said that they were a decoy car. As we got to the area that thirty-eight st. gangmembers be around, we drove around that area for what I think was about five minutes. We eventually seen Victor Moreno standing on the corner of Long Beach and Vernon. Because of the thirty-eight st. tattoo on the back of his head we knew he was a gangmember. As we neared the corner where Victor Moreno was standing, I asked C.Hernandez if he wanted to do the shooting because if not I wanted to do it. He said that he did, so I allowed him to do it. As we got to the corner, C.Hernandez rolled down the window and with Victor Morenos back towards us, C.Hernandez proceeded to shoot Victor Moreno. After 14-18 shots, and making sure the clip was empty, we drove off. Back in the neighborhood A.Hernandez pulled over and instructed his little brother to go with the individuals in the white car and to take the gun back to the place we had got it from. A.Hernandez then continued to drive, a few streets from his house he pulled over and said that he'd walk home and for me to go home as well. Once I got home, to get rid of any evidence, I washed and cleaned my G.P. vehicle.

What I Should Have Done

When I first received that phone call from A.Hernandez I should have told him no and I should have called the police or told someone. I should never have never taken my grandparents vehicle, especially to do a murder. When I got to A.Hernandez house I should have told them how wrong it was to murder someone. I should have tried to stop this murder from even happening. I should never even had wanted to kill someone. After the murder I should have went to the police and turned myself in. I should not have participated and gone along with these people. After I got arrested I should have told the truth. There is a lot of things I should have done, even before 5-14-09. The fact of the matter is that had I not taken my grandparents vehicle and choose to participate in this murder, it may had never happened. Therefore, because of my actions Victor Moreno is dead, and I am responsible for his murder.

My Goals
Alfred Rodriguez #AI8657

The deeper reason on why I am asking for a commutation of my sentence is because of my goals. What I want to do is try to help the next generation of children, in my community, succeed and that includes my daughter. With the knowledge I've gained, on why I did the things I did and how I became the type of person that I was, I now believe that I know how I can help the next generation of children succeed. I've also learned what it will take for someone to become successful and I plan to use this knowledge to help children become successful. Another one of my goals is to become a successful person myself, and with all the knowledge I've gained, not only do I believe I can become successful, I believe I will become a successful person. I've been RVR 115 disciplinary free during my entire prison term. I've gained my GED, and am now attending Coastline Community College where I've completed five courses. I'm on the executive body and help run two of the three self-help groups that I am enrolled in, and I'm also an AVP facilitator in training.

Why should I be granted a commutation? I wouldn't say that I should be granted a commutation, but I am hoping that you yourself would deem me worthy enough to grant me a commutation.

Risala Rose-Aminifu

In 1992, 18-year-old Risala Rose-Aminifu and Webster Watson planned to rob some marijuana dealers. They arranged a drug deal so they could go to the dealers' apartment. When Mr. Rose-Aminifu and Mr. Watson arrived, Mr. Rose-Aminifu held one man at gunpoint and hit another with a shotgun. Someone else started firing, hitting and killing Miguel Paez. On June 14, 1993, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Rose-Aminifu to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a four-year firearm enhancement.

Mr. Rose-Aminifu applied for a commutation of sentence on the basis of his rehabilitation and record in prison. He is now 45 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 27 years. Mr. Rose-Aminifu has lived on the Lancaster Progressive Programming Facility since 2012, an honor yard that holds its residents to high standards of conduct and offers unique rehabilitative opportunities. He is currently taking college classes from Coastline Community College, and plans to earn his A.A. degree. He has maintained a positive work record, and regularly receives excellent ratings from his supervisors. Mr. Rose-Aminifu has participated in several self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Victim Sensitivity, Paving the Way, and Cage Your Rage. In 2018, a professor and a director from California State University – Los Angeles supported Mr. Rose-Aminifu's commutation, praising his dedication to the program and offering to help support him in the event of his release.

Mr. Rose-Aminifu participated in a senseless crime when he was a young man. During nearly three decades of incarceration since then, he has demonstrated that he is committed to turning his life around and striving to become a better person. For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. Rose-Aminifu should have an opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

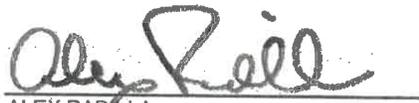

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Risala Rose-Aminifu to a total of 27 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE CRIME(S)

On April 15, 1992, I took part in a marijuana sale which turned into a robbery, which resulted in the shooting death of (Miguel Paez). I was a member of the group who committed the robbery. I was arrested on April 21, 1992, and charged with one count of murder (PC 187) on Miguel Paez; two counts of robbery (PC 211), (one residential robbery of Miguel Paez, one second degree robbery of Daniel Rodriguez); and one count of assault with a firearm (PC 245) on Richard Mickschl. I was arraigned in superior court and ordered to stand trial. I entered a plea of not guilty, however, I was found guilty on May 18, 1993, of first degree felony-murder as a perpetrator of/ and aider and abettor of the robbery, counts one, two, and four. The jury also found true the special circumstances allegations and the firearm allegation. The jury was unable to return a verdict on count three (PC 211) the second degree robbery of Daniel Rodriguez, and that count was subsequently dismissed on the District Attorney's motion. (CT 393-395; RT 1858-1864).

On June 14, 1993, I was sentenced to state prison for a total of life without possibility of parole on count one plus the middle term of 4 years on the personal use of a firearm enhancement. (CT 400; RT 1894-1895).

I had no prior criminal record, and had just graduated from High School.

The District Attorney acknowledged during trial proceedings the fact that, "I was not the shooter, and did not intend for the victim to be killed."

My prison term started in October of 1993. I have remained incarcerated since April 21, 1992. I declare under penalty of perjury in accordance with the laws of the state of California, that the aforementioned information is true and correct. Conclusion.

DATE: APRIL 6TH 2017

WHY I AM REQUESTING A COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

The prison term of life without the possibility of parole is constitutionally disproportionate in relation to the abundant mitigating factors of my case. I was 18 years of age at the time of the incident (Youth Offender). I had no prior criminal record. I was not the actual shooter or killer of Miguel Paez. I believe that my punishment should be proportionate to my individual culpability. The factors of my age, none prior criminality, personal characteristics, state of mind, attitude of remorse, cooperation with authorities involved with my case, and acceptance of my personal responsibility for my actions in the tragedy, were specifically noted by the trial court and District Attorney at my sentencing date. (See Exhibit "D", Court Transcripts attached).

The District Attorney presented to the jury my involvement in the case on a Theory of Aiding and Abetting, thus recognizing and diminishing my involvement in the case as subordinate to that of others, especially that of (Webster Watson) who ultimately was acquitted of the charges at a re-trial of the case.

The California Supreme Court has noted the importance of youth and emotional immaturity as mitigating factors in determining the appropriateness of a sentence, People v. Marsh, (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 134:

".... [Y]outh is more than a chronological fact. It is a time and condition of life when a person may be most susceptible to influence and to psychological damage. Our history is replete with laws and judicial recognition that minors, especially in their earlier years, generally are less mature and responsible than adults. Particularly "during the formative years of childhood and adolescence, minors often lack the experience, perspective and judgment" expected of adults.... [T]he background and mental and emotional development of a youthful defendant [must] be duly considered in sentencing." (Id., at p. 145, fn. 8, quoting Eddings v. Oklahoma (1982) 455 v.s. 104, 115-116.

I am a first term commitment. My post-conviction behavioral and rehabilitative record demonstrates my consistent developmental progress, and is replete with secondary education, Self-Help programs, and laudatory chrono documentation.

The California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) through its validated California Static Risk Assessment (CSRA) system has identified me as a prisoner who poses a LOW RISK to public safety and are LESS LIKELY to reoffend once released.

SEE EXHIBIT "D"
ASSESSMENT)

For the aforementioned reasons, I respectfully request the Governor of the state of California, Mr. Edmund G. Brown Jr., to please grant Commutation of my sentence from its current state of, life without possibility of parole, to the lesser sentence of, "life with the possibility of parole." Conclusion.

Thank you.

WHY I SHOULD BE GRANTED A COMMUTATION OF MY CURRENT SENTENCE

The Supreme Court of the United States has established relevant law affirming that ADOLESCENT/TEENAGE OFFENDERS EXHIBIT DEFICIENCIES THIS COURT HAS IDENTIFIED AS WARRANTING EXCLUSION FROM IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE WITHOUT POSSIBILITY OF PAROLE AS PUNISHMENT FOR THE ADOLESCENT'S/TEENAGER'S COMMISSION OF A HOMICIDE OFFENSE. (refer to People v. Dillon, (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 441; Roper v. Simmons, (2005) 543 U.S.; Graham v. Florida, (2010) 560 U.S.; Miller v. Alabama, (2012) 567 U.S.).

The Eighth Amendment requires that these defendants be held to a different standard of culpability from that which applies to adults. Older Adolescents Behave Differently Than Adults Because Their Brains Are Anatomically Immature.

"Anyone who remembers being a teenager, who has been the parent or caretaker of a teenager, or who has observed adolescent behavior, knows intuitively that adolescents do not think or behave like adults. These behavioral differences are pervasive and scientifically documented. Teens (including, again, the oldest of minors) are different. Their judgments, thought patterns, and emotions are different from adults, and their brains are physiologically under-developed in the areas that control impulses, foresee consequences, and temper emotions. They handle information processing and the management of emotions differently from adults." (Roper v. Simmons, (2005) 543 U.S.)

As a result, Youth Offenders must be given a meaningful opportunity to earn parole, considering the prisoner's age at the time of the offense along with the distinguishing features of youth, such as the fact that the human brain is still developing until the mid-twenties.

I SHOULD BE GRANTED A COMMUTATION OF MY SENTENCE BECAUSE I WAS (18) YEARS OF AGE AT THE TIME OF MY COMMITMENT OFFENSE. CURRENTLY I AM (44) YEARS OF AGE.

2) I am a First Term commitment. 3) My post-conviction behavioral and rehabilitative record demonstrates consistent developmental progress, and is replete with secondary education; vocational trades, self-help programs; and laudatory chrono documentation. 4) The California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR), through its "STATIC RISK ASSESSMENT (CSRA)" system have identified me as a prisoner who poses a LOW RISK to public safety, and are LESS LIKELY to reoffend once I am released.

For the aforementioned reasons, I respectfully request the Governor of the state of California, MR. EDMUND G. BROWN JR., to please grant "Commutation of my current sentence of, life without possibility of parole, to the lesser sentence of, life with the possibility of parole, all counts to run concurrently, in the interests of judicial and Humanitarian Justice. COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Carl Saldano

In the summer of 1997, Carl Saldano committed a string of robberies at several electronics and video stores, directing employees at each to open safes and give him money. On August 28, 1998, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Saldano to 56 years to life for eight counts of kidnapping for robbery.

Mr. Saldano has now been incarcerated for more than 20 years and has worked to turn his life around. In his application for clemency, Mr. Saldano wrote, "I have transformed who I am as a person, with a changed outlook on life. Criminality is no longer a part of my character, and I look forward to being a benefit and a productive citizen." He explained, "I better understand and realize life choices, I have achieved life skills (employable job skills) and a support system(s) that I can reach out to for support." He continued, "Additionally, I finally have the tools to support my family emotionally, spiritually, and financially, [and] now I know this is required of me as a father, husband, brother, friend and a citizen in society."

Mr. Saldano has been dedicated to his rehabilitation. He has been disciplined for misconduct only once in over two decades in prison. Mr. Saldano completed vocational training in plumbing and construction. He has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Victim Offender Education Group, Criminals & Gangmembers Anonymous, Addiction, Alternatives to Violence, Restorative Justice, Nonviolent Communication, and Balanced Reentry Group.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Saldano has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers, many of whom recommended him for clemency. In 2018, a group facilitator wrote in support of clemency, stating, "Since the very first meeting of the group, Mr. Saldano has been actively and genuinely engaged in the work demanded by Victim Offender Education Group." The facilitator continued, "Today, Mr. Saldano is a very different person from when he first entered the prison system. I feel confident that Mr. Saldano is ready to appear before the Board of Parole to demonstrate that he is ready to be a positive and peaceful presence in the world." A vocational plumbing instructor who has known Mr. Saldano for 7 years wrote in support of clemency, commending Mr. Saldano for his work as a lead teacher's assistant in the vocational program. He noted that Mr. Saldano helped him open the vocational plumbing program at San Quentin and wrote, "I have met many inmates in my 17 year career with the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, and Mr. Saldano is one of the finest individuals thus far. He has a great personality, works well with other inmates and staff and has a positive attitude on any project he has been faced with." A journeyman plumber who has worked with Mr. Saldano wrote in 2017, "I believe change requires self-understanding, hard work as well as a spiritual understanding. I honestly believe that Mr. Saldano has made these commitments and should be commended for undergoing this challenging process of rehabilitation." He concluded, "I believe he possesses the skills and human qualities to be able to re-enter society and become a productive citizen." A correctional plant manager wrote in 2017 regarding Mr. Saldano, "Inmate Saldano has dealt with the circumstances that brought him to San Quentin and all tasks presented to him with determination and motivation to better himself and success. With this in mind, I feel if given a second chance at being a part of our society, he will prove to be a positive contributor."

Since committing these crimes, Mr. Saldano has turned away from violence and instead dedicated himself to rehabilitation and education. He has been a role model for other inmates and earned the highest praise and respect from staff. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Saldano has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Carl Saldano to a total of 22 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Carlos Sanchez

On December 21, 1999, Carlos Sanchez, his brother Daniel Perez, and another gang member had an altercation with several members of a rival gang at an apartment complex. Later that night, the men returned, armed with guns. Mr. Sanchez began shooting at an apartment occupied by the rival gang members, who returned fire and hit Mr. Sanchez's crime partners. Both men survived. On September 27, 2002, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Sanchez to 45 years to life – 25 years to life for conspiracy to commit murder and 20 years for a firearm enhancement. Mr. Sanchez is eligible for parole in 2023.

Mr. Sanchez has now been incarcerated 19 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Sanchez wrote that he "came to realize my gang lifestyle was destructive, senseless, and an unrealistic mentality. I renounced my gang identity and with the help of correctional officers, therapists, pastors, friends, and family, I have been able to identify my unreasonable beliefs, unresolved hurts, defects of character and build myself up to be a responsible, mature empathic man. I have educated myself and continue to do so while dedicating my time to a life of service for the past sixteen years." He wrote that he is requesting a commutation "because after 18 years of being incarcerated, I know I can be of benefit to the community that I once terrorized." He told a Board of Parole Hearings investigator that he would like to put into practice what he has learned.

During almost two decades in prison, Mr. Sanchez has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has been disciplined for misconduct only once, over 13 years ago. He is currently enrolled in college courses. Mr. Sanchez has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Conflict Resolution, Cage Your Rage, Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous, and Alternatives to Violence. He has served as a facilitator for Advanced Gang Prevention, Celebrate Recovery, and Anger Management. Mr. Sanchez worked as a Spanish facilitator and Advisory Council Member for Criminals and Gangmembers Anonymous.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Sanchez has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with him on a regular basis. In 2018, a correctional officer commended Mr. Sanchez on his good attitude towards inmate and staff. The officer wrote, "Sanchez has proven to be a positive influence on the atmosphere of his housing unit and does not require constant direction." The officer noted that Sanchez volunteers to clean the housing unit during his spare time and noted that "Sanchez should be commended for his helpfulness, dependability, and social attitude." In 2018, a supervising cook commended Mr. Sanchez on his attitude and work ethic, noting that Mr. Sanchez "demonstrates a positive attitude with all staff and his fellow peers."

In 2013, a coordinator with the Volunteer Education Program praised Mr. Sanchez for his work in the program. The coordinator wrote, "He has been an example to the students of professionalism, appropriate academic attitudes and work ethic," noting that the program would not have been successful without Mr. Sanchez's "initiative and diligent assistance." In a letter supporting clemency, the coordinator wrote, "Mr. Sanchez was always looking for things that needed to be done, or ways to improve my program. He even took work back to his cell in the evenings and on weekends." She commended Mr. Sanchez for recruiting students into the program and noted, "I would have no reservations in hiring Mr. Sanchez outside of prison." In 2013, an engineer in plant operations commended Mr. Sanchez on his work as a maintenance electrician and painter and noted that "Sanchez has also enthusiastically assisted various staff members in other plant operations," and proven to be efficient at his job duties. The engineer wrote, "He is quick to learn, is an efficient and reliable worker, and he would be an asset to any work crew in or out of prison."

While Mr. Sanchez committed a very serious crime, it is clear that he has distinguished himself by his exemplary conduct and rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Sanchez has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Carlos Sanchez to a total of 19 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Question 2. Date of Crime: December 21, 1999

My brother, who was 18 years old at the time of the crime and co-defendant and I who was 15 years old at the time were at an apartment with two females, inhaling methamphetamine when I called my older friend and co-defendant Gerardo Luna, who was 33 years old at that time and asked him to buy some methamphetamine and bring it over to the location I was at with my brother.

When Gerardo came with the methamphetamine one of the females and I went to the front of the apartment to wait for a customer who wanted to buy the methamphetamine. As we waited, rival gang members drove up in a car and had their weapons drawn. They wanted to know where I was from. The female with me seemed to know them and spoke up for me and the men listened to her and drove away.

The female and I then returned to her apartment and I described to my brother and older friend what had happened concerning the rival gang members and how I felt disrespected. My brother, friend and I decided to go to Gerardo's home and as we were leaving the female's apartment we were confronted by a member of the same rival gang who pulled out a gun and pointed it at us but did not shoot. This action increased the anger of my older friend.

At my older friend's home, we smoked more methamphetamine as we picked up some firearms and returned to the female's apartment where I had the encounter to confront the rival gang.

The rival gang members had a surveillance camera and saw us coming. They had high caliber weapons and a better vantage point so when we exited the truck and saw the rival gang I began to discharge my firearm both my brother and my friend were immediately wounded. We got back into the truck and sped away, during our escape we ran a red light and a sheriff began to pursue us; once caught my older friend and older brother were taken to the hospital and I was interrogated. As a gang member who did not speak to the police, I lied about everything.

No crime scene was found until two days later. There were no named victims or injured persons in my case, however I now know the potential outcome could have been much worse and major injuries and trauma to innocent people in the apartment could have occurred because of my reckless actions.

Question 3. I am requesting a commutation because after 18 years of being incarcerated I know I can be of benefit to the community that I once terrorized. By becoming part of the solution and working with those youngsters, who like me at their age thought that drugs and violence were the only choices they have. I also desire to return to my mother, my sister, step-dad and give to them the respect and help that I was too selfish to give them during my youth.

Question 4. In 2002 as a juvenile being tried as an adult I came to realize that my gang lifestyle was destructive, senseless, and an unrealistic mentality. I renounced my gang identity and with the help of correctional officers, therapists, pastors, friends and family I have been able to identify my unreasonable beliefs, unresolved hurts, defects of character and build myself up to be a responsible, mature, empathic man. COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

Michele Scott

Sam Twigg and Michele Scott dated for approximately three years before Ms. Scott ended the relationship. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Twigg began dating Elizabeth Yunck. Ms. Scott became jealous of Mr. Twigg and Ms. Yunck's relationship and engaged in various confrontations with them. On March 14, 1991, Ms. Scott drove to Mr. Twigg's condominium, entered through an unlocked door, and shot and killed both Mr. Twigg and Ms. Yunck. On September 30, 1991, the Santa Barbara County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Scott to two terms of life without the possibility of parole for first degree murder, plus a five-year firearm enhancement.

Ms. Scott suffered a tumultuous and abusive childhood. She reported to a Board of Parole Hearings investigator that she was exposed to alcohol and drugs at a young age, sexually abused by her mother and father's friends, and eventually lived with a multitude of foster families. A friend who has known Ms. Scott since birth wrote that he "watched in horror at the sick and dysfunctional atmosphere she was raised in," and "lost contact with her as she was shuttled through foster homes." The friend noted that Ms. Scott was "starved for acceptance and love."

In her application for clemency, Ms. Scott acknowledged the effect that her abusive childhood had on her actions at the time of the crime and how she has worked to address her history of abuse and neglect while incarcerated. In her application, Ms. Scott wrote that she has continually challenged herself to try and make amends for her crime and is trying to do something significant with her life for the victims.

Although serving a sentence with no possibility of parole, Ms. Scott remained focused and dedicated to her rehabilitation. Ms. Scott has participated in numerous self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Long Termers Organization, Offender Responsibility, Victim Offender Education, Women of Wisdom, Celebrate Recovery, Dealing with Emotions, Criminal and Addictive Thinking, Emotions Anonymous, and Co-Dependency. She has earned a vocational certificate in landscaping and worked extensively in the Skilled Nursing Facility at the Central California Women's Facility. Ms. Scott has been assigned as a Peer Health Educator and is a facilitator for many self-help programs and workshops. She has only been disciplined twice for misconduct in almost three decades in prison and lives in an honor dorm.

Ms. Scott's dedication to self-improvement has earned her the respect of staff members and prison volunteers. Most importantly, Ms. Scott was recommended by her warden for clemency. In 2018, a correctional counselor wrote, "Because of her positivity, it is evident that Inmate Scott is well liked by staff and her peers and her optimistic behavior and attitude contributes to the prison population." The correctional counselor continued, "I commend inmate Scott for her desire and commitment towards achieving rehabilitation, self-improvement, giving back to her community, and serving as a positive role model in her community." In 2018, a correctional officer wrote that Ms. Scott "remained consistently respectful, accommodating, and always displays a good attitude." The correctional officer noted that Ms. Scott is "responsible and dependable" and "displays a positive outlook on life." In 2017, a correctional lieutenant commended Ms. Scott on her "positive and appropriate manner in her job assignments" and noted that she "has grown through the self-help groups she attends." A correctional officer wrote in 2017 regarding Ms. Scott, "I have observed her desire for growth and [she] has become a better person not only for herself but also for others." The officer noted that Ms. Scott "exhibits a positive attitude towards staff and her peers and never hesitates when it comes to helping staff or inmates when she sees the need."

I do not discount the seriousness of Ms. Scott's crime; I have considered the views of Mr. Twigg's family members, who have expressed their ongoing pain. However, after carefully weighing this matter, I believe that Ms. Scott has demonstrated a serious, long-term commitment to rehabilitation. For all of the foregoing reasons, I conclude that she has earned an opportunity to make her case before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is ready to be released from prison.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Michele Scott to a total of 30 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

THE HONORABLE EDMUND G. BROWN, JR.

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

I. Introduction

After my arrival in prison in 1991, I was angry, guilt ridden and I lashed out at others as a reaction to the overwhelming emotions I carried. I did not understand my emotions and found myself getting 115's and experiencing unconstructive interactions with staff. Actually, I picked on the staff quite a bit and as a result on my 'smart mouth' found myself in handcuffs more than once. I wish I could say that early on in my time I started to 'get it', but it took time, it has been a process. I slowly developed a dedication to my inner rehabilitation through consistent immersion in self-help therapy. I would take one class here, a workshop over there. I would find myself back in a heated situation, pointing my finger at others, not willing to accept my end of causing the situation. In my mind, it was all the other persons fault. I took no ownership of the fact that my life was unmanageable as a direct result of the actions, decisions, and verbal interactions I initiated. I bumped my head against the wall far more times than I would like to admit. At some point, I had to look in the mirror of truth and take responsibility for what I had done, for who I was and for being in prison.

This introspection was not easy to attain, and yet I truly wanted to understand the path my life had taken. This resulted in a sincere and open base that formed and became the foundation that has supported the personal and spiritual evolution into the person I am today. Underlying my formal efforts is the true importance and accrued impact that self-help therapy produced and what it means to me personally. It represents my understanding of the 'why' of what I did. It is my comprehension of my past and how it was showing up in all my daily decisions and actions. This knowledge has forged the links that lead to a way of being for me. The manner of how I now live in this world is surpassed by the few lines of script reflected on certificates and chronos. My truth is that I have come to a place in my life where the paths of my past and my present have merged into knowing who I am, why I did what I did, and what my life can be now. This knowledge has emerged as a direct result of my search and dedication to understand and hold myself accountable for what I took from Sam and Elizabeth.

An outcome of taking all of these classes is that I stepped out of my comfort zone. I realized that what I have gained can help others and that this was another means of amends. Eventually I undertook specialized facilitator training. I began facilitating what I had learned from my self help therapy to others, in a way a living amends to Sam and Elizabeth. I discovered a nurturing side that has resulted in an enthusiasm to make a difference to my community's inner health. That enthusiasm has evolved to include positions in both executive, representative and leadership designations throughout the many groups and committees that can be found in Central California Women's Facility.

Over time I was more receptive to my personal reformation, finally developing a positive disposition toward my personal transformation, no matter the emotional cost. That conversion in my attitude, my maturation, and my behavior have been set forth for your consideration as justification for evaluating my request to reduce my current sentence to that of two life with the possibility of parole sentences, run concurrently.

At this point in time, I have volunteered for nearly all of my 25 years in the landscaping maintenance and upkeep of my facility yard. Gardening has been a healthy avenue I have walked in the course of my personal journey of healing, acceptance and insight. In the quiet moments of kneeling upon the bumpy swaths of earth in front of my housing unit is where I discovered who I really was. Each garden project has manifested as a means to work on my emotions and my understanding how I got to prison and my accepting the responsibility for where my life is to go from here.

Without the opportunity to go outside and be caretaker for the many plants and animals, my personal healing and development would not be where it is today. I am grateful that I have this in my life, as well as the opportunity to develop pride of industry and sense of community for myself and for the other volunteers that I mentor. I founded the Facility "C" Leisure Time Gardeners Activity Group in 1994, and The Honor Dorm Garden Committee in 2010, both of which are still active. (See Leisure Time Pursuits Exhibit K 1-23.) I discovered that within the act and process of landscaping, an acceptance of my circumstances grew in pace with each passing season. I was experiencing an awareness of self and found healing. I was giving myself permission to grow and heal along with the plants I tended.

Certificates and laudatory chronos outwardly mark my journey. Inwardly, that journey is marked by the existence of a network founded on the strong support from all of those with whom I have interacted. I have learned the value and strength of connecting with others by application of the many skills and concepts that self help therapy has afforded me. My motto is if you don't intend to apply it, why take the class to learn it?

I have support by family and friends as indicated with supporting documents (see Support Letter/Laudatory chronos Exhibit L 1-42). A review will show that many of them have offered me a place in their homes, aid with alternate housing, assistance finding a job and financial assistance, as it may be needed. My support network is a testimony to the quality of character of my family and friends and I am grateful for their presence in my life, I consider them a blessing.

I respectfully request that the Governor commute my sentence from two consecutive life without the possibility of parole to a sentence to two concurrent life with the possibility of parole so that my efforts may result in an opportunity to sit before the Board of Parole Hearings and eventually an opportunity to rejoin my family.

II. Personal Accountability to Samuel Twigg and Elizabeth Yunck/Who I am Today

I have put myself in the place of Sam and Elizabeth and their immediate family in continuous effort to fully understand what they experienced as a direct result of my actions. This has been an agonizing process to which I have earnestly applied myself. I owe the people I have hurt the consideration of the pain I have caused them. I put myself in their place and it is a terrible place to be especially knowing that I cannot undo what I have done. To honor Sam and Elizabeth, by whatever means I can, is my only option. My first step in this direction was to prepare a letter of apology that I mailed to the Office of Victim and Survivor Rights and Services to forward to the victim's family. (See Exhibit A 1.)

The Office of Victim and Survivor Rights and Services responded in acknowledgement of my letter. (See Exhibit A 2). At the time I mailed this letter off, it had been 20 years and I found that sitting and doing nothing proactive about how I felt was not an option for who I was now. I had to do something, anything. The apology letter was the start of a proactive living amends journey.

The 'Remember Me' Workshop (see Exhibit A 3), held group discussions and through these discussions I knew the regret and shame I carried inside was shared by others in the group. We talked about our crime in frank and honest detail. Part of the workshop involved our walking around the Facility 'C' yard as we wore our sign stating who we were walking for (see Exhibit A 5). This walk was done in silence. I had KLOVE Christian station on my radio and many times songs came on that seemed exactly how my heart felt as I ached inside for what I forced Sam and Elizabeth to experience.

Another aspect of this workshop was a collage art project. I used magazine pictures of flowers and plants because they represent the plants I tend outside while having private moments when I think about Sam and Elizabeth. (See Exhibit A 4).

The Victim Offender Education Group (VOEG) included an assignment called Victim Impact Cards. We were asked to make a card listing all how our victim(s) life was impacted by our actions. The Impact Cards I did for Sam & Elizabeth were very difficult to do. I started the list, then would put it down, then would try again a few days later. As I thought about each and every thing that I robbed them of I felt remorse, guilt, shame and such a sense of how senseless their deaths were. What I took from them is inexcusable. I attempted to honor a few of the many things that they were not able to experience due to my taking their life. These cards only scratch the surface of what I took from Sam & Elizabeth and their families, friends. (See Exhibit A 7).

I believe in the value of honest emotional inventory when triggered and now I pause and will think about what is really going on and I have found that this works. I even applied that concept to produce two inventories one on beliefs and on behaviors (See Exhibit A 9-10.)

A friend of 18 years issued me a challenge, she asked me to consider what I would say to Sam and Elizabeth today. I wrote that on a post-it note and did not follow through responding to that challenge for two years. This year I followed through and the result is the "Four Things I Would Say To Sam and Elizabeth" (See Exhibit A 12.) An acknowledgement of who I was and who I am today is offered for your consideration in the "Then and Now" (See Exhibit A 11.)

Another workshop was the "Walk to Remember" which was as motivational as it was emotional. I wrote my rawest emotions onto the poster that was displayed for everyone to see how we felt about what we did and took from our victims. I experienced shame that I had two names to write onto that poster, knowing that everyone would know I had taken two lives. That they would see how horrible I was and at the same time I knew I was honoring Sam & Elizabeth by this public acknowledgement. I knew that when I walked, I was walking with the intention of honoring them both. It is an exceptionally intense feeling to be public with my crime, I have to claim it because I did it. There is no hiding it from God, Sam, Elizabeth or myself. (See Exhibit A 13-14).

I participated in a 8 week Offender Responsibility workshop where we held group discussions, emotional writing, journal writing homework assignments and meditation. We shared our homework with each other and there were times I wanted to hear more of a depth of understanding from my fellow participants. To hear them say they understood the devastation that our crimes wrought and that this awareness should resonate in their lives. I am currently co-facilitating this curriculum. My intention is to help guide others in a deeper recognition of why we did what we did, how we impacted others and how to use this understanding as a tool for our growth and healing. This topic is very important to me, I value the message of it. I never forget. (See Exhibit A 15).

The finality of Sam and Elizabeth's murder haunts me and in the same breath impels me to do something with the time I have on this earth. I am passionate about this topic and look for opportunities to educate others on the significance of the impact of our actions on others and ultimately upon ourselves. Continuing to explore and learn about anything related to victim awareness and accountability is a priority for me and over the course of many years I have participated in programs and classes on this topic. Please reference the following exhibits. (Exhibit A 1-15.)

My Living Amends to Sam and Elizabeth

The below listed writing came about as I was sitting in Ms. Heron's group with other women as they responded to the question of why they were in prison:

“Today I saw women fighting to stay ignorant of their “why’s”. I observed a stubbornness, a digging in of heels against going any further or deeper underneath their initial surface, to answer the questions of why they were in prison. As I watched each woman struggle to answer I found myself answering each question in my head and I recognized my own struggle to be honest with the ugliness of my why’s.

I answered inside my head, shame laced the words I spoke silently to myself, I am here because I shot Sam & Elizabeth in a jealous, obsessive rage. In a desperate need and childish selfishness to finally be in control, to get my security blanket (Sam) back. I know in shooting Sam was ultimately my self-serving choice to put me first. Fear negated all my professed love. The love I had convinced myself that I needed him, could only be happy with him. I had narrowed down my world to only him, I had made up my mind that only Sam could fill my emptiness. And in the instant that I allowed my fear of my safety to emerge, all those ideals of Sam crumbled into a dust that filtered to only one thought- me or him.

All that love of my life stuff? It wasn’t about that at all. My truth in that moment was that I chose myself, had only ever chosen myself really. It was no longer that I would die if I could not have Sam back, remember, I had concocted this belief that my world was desolate without him. No, in an instant I made the decision that he was mad at me for shooting Elizabeth and I made sure to disable him from putting his hands on me. See, it was all about me wasn’t it?

The absolute terrifying truth I have admitted to myself is that his hand that I thought was fisted in a manner towards me, was in fact the residue of kindness that he showed while, unable to look at me, as I sat there childishly pouting and arguing with Elizabeth, he had his hands covering his face, looking down. At the time I wondered why he had his face in his hands, not looking at me, not interfering with my argument with Elizabeth, and I remember feeling hurt and not understanding why was he allowing Elizabeth to speak to me like that? Why wasn’t he defending me?

Those hands were not raised to strike out at me, his hands were raised to cover his face as he politely, with kindness, not wanting to hurt me, said, "Michele, please leave." What he would have been justified saying was, "Hey, you crazy, cheating bitch, leave!" But that is not the kind of man Sam was.

My truth is that my guilt at realizing that I had just shot Elizabeth was what planted that seed of fear towards Sam, what he was going to do to me. I looked into her eyes, a sensation of snapping back into myself and coming out of a murkiness. Had I not been looking into Elizabeth's eyes and see her look towards Sam I would not have turned and caught movement. I registered his hands, a fist. Now I realize he had merely dropped his hands from his face to look up after he heard the gun fire. But in that moment I was only thinking of myself. I felt fear at the same moment my finger pulled the trigger, thought and motion instantaneous. I fired the gun, Sam shouted, "Shit!" as the bullet struck him. In that moment it was no longer my need to be in control or have my needs met. The second bullet I fired at Sam was all about me because I was making sure I walked out of that condo. The second bullet is what killed Sam and had I just kept walking out of the condo and not fired again, Sam would have lived.

So I ask myself, now, years later, the truth beyond my protestations of love and needs and despair. That it wasn't about getting Sam back, it was about me. It was all about me. The supremacy of my selfishness is what has come to the surface after 25 years. Now I look back, at what motive rested under each of my actions that night, pin prick moments crystallized in my soul and present with me so often during my waking hours, it was all about me that night.

My jealousy of Elizabeth was the manifestation of my sense of lack, my belief that I was less than others, that I was not enough. Again, all about my inadequacies, but hey, I just pointed my finger on the trigger, pulled. It was a moment of grand self-hate as I looked at Elizabeth and thought I am not her, she is more, she is better, I am lesser. I was tired of being lesser, I was tired of not being in control.

Sam, the grand love of my life so I told myself. The truth is it was a teenagers idealization, an immature frenzy to call something familiar love. I did not know how to love myself, how to love family or friends. I did not love Sam for himself, I loved how his love and adoration, attention made me feel about myself. I grasped onto to Sam because he had been a constant in my life for 10 years. He was my comfort zone. His attentions were able to fill my internal emptiness for a time. But it was always temporary, not enough to sustain me. I needed others confirmations I was desirable, wanted, valued, enough.

The truth is Sam was too good for me and I made him suffer for loving me. Even at the end, he was not able to look up at me, as I was standing in the condo, a freak using a loaded gun to get what she wanted. It is all so senseless. Sam and Elizabeth did not deserve my rage and my self-hate. I was a coward unable to face myself and I made my issues about them. I took Sam and Elizabeth's life because I did not know how to manage my own life, because it was all about me.

I submit this writing as a representation of how I have grown to understand my motives and actions that night in the condo with Sam and Elizabeth. I own up to my ugly truth, not an easy thing to do, but it honors Sam and Elizabeth to do it. I owe them so much more.”

III. Biography

What defines a 'normal' life? Normal is what you grow up around, what was common to your experience. My normal changed every few years, see Timeline exercise Exhibit B 1. First was my birth in 1964 to hippie parents living an alternate hippie lifestyle filled with sex, using and selling drugs and no sense of responsibility. My parents divorced when I was about 3 years old.

Bouncing back and forth between them I was living part of a year with my dad on a houseboat in Sausalito, Gate 5, see Exhibit B 2. Dad's lifestyle was marijuana, wine, drugs and carousing with other long haired hippies wearing leather pants and bead and being an "artist". First thing my dad would do was let my hair grow long. By the early 1970's my dad fled out of the country due to a cocaine deal gone bad, family legend has it that there was a contract hit out on his life. The last time I saw him was for 2 weeks when I was 12 and he was living in Paris, France with Gitana and my half-sister Gazelle, see Exhibit B 6. He currently lives in Australia with my half-sister Soma and his wife Teresa. He has never been back to the United States. We have no contact as his wife has forbidden it. (See Exhibit B 5).

With my father I experienced abandonment and sexual abuse. His pursuit to be a super hippie, artist, drug lord was more important than me. He shared me with his friends and chose his other women and daughters over me. The beliefs I developed from this were I had no right to my body, all I had was my body, that someone would only want me for my body. I traded physical intimacy just so I could be held. His choice of everything else over me left me believing I was less than everyone else. I believed I had no value and was somehow flawed inside. Since he always chose my half-sisters over me, I believed that is why they had better lives than me, because they got to have time with him, what should have been my time with him.

The next handoff and I was in San Francisco on Market Street with my mother. First thing upon my arrival she would cut off my hair and make it short. Her lifestyle had become one of the hardcore hippie heroin addict with a side of prostitution. We were crashing in dope dens, I called the army cot she lugged around my bed. Usually the cot would be in the kitchen or at the back corner of a room. We scavenged and ate the food dumped in the trash dumpsters of grocery stores. I remember eating Hamburger Helper mix, the boxes thrown out since it was expired. Normal then was living in a car, or in a back room of the apartment of her newest boyfriend, or was that her newest pimp? Those lines were blurred as often as her speech and bloodshot eyes.

Mother's trips to jail resulted in my placement in and out of the Foster Care System starting at the age of 6 years old with the Rhines, see Exhibit B 4. I experienced many Foster Care placements from shelter care to group homes. The in-between years were filled with bouncing from foster family to my birth mother and back to another foster family. (See Exhibit B 3, 4, 7).

With my mother I experienced abandonment, extreme physical abuse, emotional abuse and sexual abuse at the hands of the men in her life. My mother chose her heroin, her men and her rage rather than to choose to love or nurture me. I came to believe that her drugs, men and lifestyle were more important to her than me because I was not worth loving. I was useful in her getting government housing, food stamps and other money from the State. The message I received was she was in control and I existed at her whim. She would often tell me, "I brought you into this life and I'll take you out." It was normal for her to slap me in the face as she screamed at me that I looked just like my father, 'Garner'. I had no control over my appearance but I knew I looked wrong. I learned that how I looked was important to being accepted, loved and to belong to someone. This led to anorexia, perfectionism and a focus to look good on the outside even as I felt empty and worthless on the inside. I believed I was less than everybody else. I yearned to live somebody else's life, anybody's life but my own.

I believed I was unlovable, that I had no control over my life, that it did not matter what I wanted, she would always do with me whatever she wanted. Eventually I turned this sadness and hopelessness at my life into rage. Rage and anger sustained me where nothing else could. Anger became my survival tool and it may have helped me survive my early childhood trauma with my mother but it ultimately led to Sam & Elizabeth's death.

My final foster family I met in 1980, the Colvin's, a reserved Mormon family where neither coffee nor caffeinated soda were allowed. I wish I could say I appreciated the constancy, the focus on responsibility, and the unconditional love that Lavar and Alta Colvin represented. It was not enough, I was too damaged and I was in full teenager mode with all the hormones and peer pressure to deal with. I could not handle living in two worlds so I chose to leave the Colvin's and spend my Senior year of high school with my mother and half sister Kaysie.(See Exhibit B 9).

With the Colvin's I experienced unconditional love, consistency and support. I came to them from an abusive foster family, the Valdovino's, and it was a bit of a small church scandal within the Ward. I learned the value of hard work, integrity and what enforced boundaries looked like. I found acceptance and the normal life I had always yearned for. But I was a 14 year old poised at puberty and I made a ton of mistakes as I pursued being popular and accepted at school over my families expectations. The Colvin family continues to be in my life and they remain an anchor to my humanity. I have built this new way of being the changed person I am, in large part, to their continued example. They are the best family I did not deserve and I am eternally grateful for. Thank you God.

My childhood can be viewed as tragic, and it is a tragic story. I was a Battered Child and I experienced constant physical, sexual and emotional abuse at the hands of my mother, the men in her life, my father shared me with his friends and I experienced abuse while in Foster Homes. I carried an additional burden of constantly being the new kid in school and I was socially inept and fearful of people. I was the new kid in school every year of my life and let me tell you, it sucks always being the new kid. The only exception was when living with the Colvin's I attended Santa Ynez High School two years in a row. It almost felt like what normal people must live like. I was still trying desperately to belong and be accepted.

Feeling unwanted and abandoned became my normal. Living with strangers who were paid to take care of me by the State of California was my normal. My mother thwarted every opportunity I had to be adopted and raised by Foster Parents or by my paternal grandmother. My last chance for a real home, was my foster mother Ruthie Harley, a woman my mother had abandoned me with at the age of 9 for an overnight stay that unfolded into several years. (See Exhibit B 4, I'm wearing a red & white stripe nightgown at Ruthie's house in Montecito). I was 12 years old on the night when Ruthie announced her plans for my adoption to my mother. My mother forbade it, said I was hers to do with as she decided.

I felt powerless, that I lived at the whim of my mother and that I still had no control over my life or happiness. I fled to my bathroom and locked the door. Huddled on the floor next to the bathtub I sobbed and gave up hope. That night was the epicenter for the uncontrolled spiral that became my life. A life lived with self-destructive behaviors, thoughtless decisions and no thought for others. It was the moment I gave into and embraced the repressed anger and resentment that life had shoved down my throat. That night was another path that lead to Sam and Elizabeth's deaths on March 14, 1991.

There is more to my story, more to share, but this is a small glimpse into what my beginnings were, what my 'normal' was. I have shared this because it is my truth. I had a sad life and thought I have shared a glimpse of it with you, it does not justify my actions nor is it an excuse for what I have done. I know that a hundred little girls experienced lives filled with similar pain, trauma, abuse and abandonment and they did not grow into adults and take somebody's life. My truth is I am a little girl who did.

IV. Criminal Conviction

On September 30, 1991, I was sentenced on two counts of Murder in the First Degree within the meaning of Penal Code § 187(a); personal use of a firearm within the meaning of Penal Code § 1203.06(a) (1), 12022.5; and a special circumstance, within the meaning of Penal Code § 190.2(a) (3), for multiple two murders. I received two consecutive life without the possibility of parole sentences consecutive. For reference, a copy of the Probation Report prepared during the pendency of my criminal case is attached as Exhibit C 1.

V. In-Custody Behavior Programming Summary

Self-help Therapy Programs That Changed My Life

The stark changes in my inner circumstances since my incarceration began 25 years ago offer a testimonial to the effectiveness of the programs in one who embraces them. Considering the multitude of self-help programs I have taken over the course of the years, it was not easy to winnow it down. The below listed programs have brought about distinct changes influencing the track of my healing, growth and ultimately, the direction my life has taken:

- LifeScripting Exhibit D 15
- Victim Offender Education Group Exhibit D 16-21, E 2, 10, 32
- Bridges to Life Exhibit D 19-20, E 3, 4-5
- Ms. Heron's Trauma Therapy Group (on-going)

Life Scripting- This is an 80 hour course and the instructor framed the contents of this life-altering course as, "Life Scripting is an intensive 80-hour course dedicated to breaking the cycle of recidivism by teaching incarcerated women to recognizing the patterns that lead to their life choices. Tools are provided which allow the women to reframe their experiences into learning opportunities. Life Scripting also addresses addiction and recovery." (See Self Help Therapy Exhibit D 15.) Life Scripting provided me a deeper understanding of my place within my family and in my personal relationships. A long-standing stance of resentment and anger towards my birth mother's abuse and abandonment dissolved in the connections I made when I viewed her as an eighteen year old girl, struggling with motherhood as she experienced abandonment and betrayal from her 25 year old husband. This connection resulted in a profound release of my old hurts and allowed me to understand and forgive my mother. This reflective moment, decades in the making, has become a benchmark in the continuous evolution of my personal, emotional and spiritual health. I have actively chosen to see her as person, not in the persona as the villainess of my childhood.

Victim Offender Education Group (VOEG)- This is a program offered through the Insight Prison Project. VOEG is a 19-month group whose focus includes holding oneself accountable for ones crimes. After hearing the stories and understanding the impact in the lives of a panel of survivors of crime, and completing the program, I went on to become a facilitator for the VOEG program. My inner efforts have focused on gaining insight into the impact of my actions upon Sam and Elizabeth, their families and the community, as well as healing from my own trauma and abuse. I embraced the complex balance required of an awareness that brings me increased understanding of the devastation my actions had on the lives of so many people. I have learned to balance that impact within my daily actions, thoughts and choice of how I navigate through each day. Sam and Elizabeth are my motivation. I owe them so much. (See Self Help Therapy Exhibit D 16, 21 and Specialized Facilitator Training Exhibit E 1, 10, 32.)

Bridges to Life (BTL)-This is a faith based restorative justice based program. It helps offenders find peace within themselves by understanding why we did what we did and the connection to understanding the impact upon our victims and their family and friends. We focused on why we choose to do what we did, why we committed our crime. Not as an excuse but as means to understand our actions, our whys. A favorite phrase of mine is "Once you know, you cannot unknow." Upon completing the program as a participant, I went on to become a facilitator of the BTL program. (See Self Help Therapy Exhibit D 19-20 and Specialized Facilitator Training Exhibit E 1, 4-5.)

Ms. Heron's Trauma Therapy Group-

My decision to participate in this group came after four years of immersion in restorative justice programs such as those referenced above. I recognized that the healing I had experienced regarding my crime and my actions upon Sam and Elizabeth had left other areas unattended. After several emotional inventories, I decided to put into practice my relapse prevention plan. I chose to commit to this intensive therapy setting where I challenge myself to step outside the box of my comfort zone and do what I need to do to be healed and whole. This group continues to strengthen my understanding of my early childhood trauma, sexual and physical abuse, abandonment and trust issues and my experiences in Foster Care. Keeping pace with this understanding is healing and release from accumulated past hurts. In group I walk along paths of past unhealthy parenting, unhealthy relationships that developed into my codependent traits. Traveling upon this road to personal recovery I gained the knowledge that I have survived the worst in my life and I now know that I am capable of changing, growing and living free from my past.

I have spent much of my prison time focusing on rehabilitation – specifically, on changes to my inner perspective – but in a far more focused manner in the last several years. Though I have received a variety of certificates and chronos, all of which together chronicle the years of self-analysis and self-repair, it is who I am today that speaks to my true character. The certificates and chronos reflect my immersion into self-help therapy and rehabilitation and are submitted for your consideration. (See Self Help Therapy Exhibit D 1-55.)

Training/Facilitation/Classes Facilitated and Curriculum Created

I have been diligent in taking as many classes and training opportunities first for my own growth and then to pay it forward. I have learned that the worst aspects of my life have become the most effective way to help others. So I have as become a facilitator for various programs, groups and workshops and have even generated curriculum.

Presented in the following categories:

- Specialized facilitator training Exhibit E 1-10
- Centerforce/Peer Health Education Training Exhibit E 11-15
- Honor Dorm/'The Cornerstone' Training Exhibit E 16-17
- San Joaquin County Worknet Training Exhibit E 18-22
- Alternatives to Violence Project (AVP) Exhibit E 23-25
- Classes Facilitated Exhibit E 26-39
- Honor Dorm/'The Cornerstone' classes facilitated Exhibit E 40-42
- Battered Women's Forum presentations Exhibit E 43-47
- Curriculum Created Exhibit E 48-51

Community Leadership/Service

Community leadership and service is something I take seriously and I spend the majority of what little leisure time I have pursuing a pursuing a personal stewardship to make this place a little bit better than I have found it.

Presented in the following categories:

- LWOP Support Group Exhibit F 1-14
- Beyond Incarceration Program Exhibit F 15-33, Exhibit E 17-22
- University of Santa Monica, Freedom To Choose Workshops Exhibit F 34-42
- Big Sister Mentor Program Exhibit F 43-45
- Long Termers' Organization Exhibit F 46-50
- Women's Advisory Council Exhibit F 42-53
- Honor Dorm/The Cornerstone Exhibit F 47-48, 42-53, 57-58

LWOP Support Group-I am a co-founder and co-facilitate our LWOP Support Group. This group addresses issues that the LWOP community deals with such as aging prison, loss of family and support, being overlooked by the Board of Prison Hearings, disallowance of job assignments due to our status as LWOP. I am diligent in creating a therapeutic atmosphere in which we can encourage, support and advocate with each other. Part of the LWOP Support Groups Mission Statement is, "We can speak a language together that no one else will understand." (See Exhibit F 1-14)

Beyond Incarceration Program- I was recognized for my Beyond Incarceration participation and attendance in video feeds with at-risk youth in the Stockton area. (See Exhibit F 15-33.) During those video feeds, I spoke to at-risk youth in the hope of sharing my current perspective, which was created by punishment for poor choices based on poorer justifications. My goal is to share my experiences in the hope that others could then avoid similar errors in reasoning and avoid harms like the ones I was responsible for.

Through BIP I have received training as a facilitator for the re-entry workshop Get Out and Stay Out program (GOSO) received training as a facilitator for the re-entry workshop Get Out and Stay Out program (GOSO) (Exhibit E 17-22.). This curriculum provides female offenders with practical skills, resources and knowledge to assist them with re-entry and lower the recidivism rate. Having a job makes all the difference in someone's life.

University of Santa Monica, Freedom To Choose Workshops- This is an outside organization that brings in students from the university to sit in trios and guide the participants in many aspects of healthy communication skills. I have learned about emotional writing which teaches that 5 minutes of letting everything on my mind out on a piece of paper, then tearing it up and throwing it away can release me from the tension or stress I may be feeling. There are concepts for setting an intention; how to be authentically honest about my truths in front of another person; how to ask clarifying questions to make sure I am hearing someone correctly and not missing out on the important information that they are trying to give me.

I have applied the trio formation when discussing hot topics at work with my co-workers, noticing when I am the sharer or the neutral observer assists with appropriate feedback and interaction when things get emotional. Using this particular technique allows for me to be heard and to let it go if something is not going my way. What someone else is going through is not my event. Lastly, Freedom To Choose has vastly improved my ability to truly listen to others instead of waiting for them to pause in their sentence so I can jump in. I learned that I am not listening to them if I am waiting my turn. In prison the most common form of people talking is people waiting until it is their turn to talk, this means no one is being heard.

Elected Positions -In addition to the work done with the outer community, I have served my community inside the prison. I have held elected positions within the Long Termers' Organization (LTO), (See Exhibit F 46-50), Women's Advisory Council (WAC) (See Exhibit F 52, 53), Beyond Incarceration Panel (BIP). I have served through membership in organizations like the Big Sister Mentor Program (See exhibit F 43-45) and on committees within my housing unit the Honor Dorm. (See Community Recognition Exhibit F 47, 48, 52, 53, 57, 58.) Through these activities such as participating in and creating community events within my housing unit, the Honor Dorm. I have continued my personal growth opportunities alongside purpose to my community, which benefits of years of experience and assistance.

The examples I have shared of the recognition I've been shown are meant to illustrate the effort I expend constantly which is my commitment to the ideals I believe in today. (See Exhibit G 1-58 and Exhibit F 1-55 for the complete list.)

Community Recognition

In addition to my rehabilitative efforts and extensive self-help work, I have also earned recognition for service inside Central California Women's Facility. Being an active part of my community is now a way of life. I could not imagine just sitting around and doing nothing, regardless of where I am at, this is who I am today.

Presented in the following categories:

- Community Endeavors Exhibit G 1-14
- Beyond Incarceration Program Exhibit G 15-19
- Facility 'C' Yard Events Exhibit G 32-39
- Honor Dorm 'The Cornerstone' Exhibit G 40-58
- San Diego State University Criminology Class Tour Exhibit G 20-31

San Diego State University Tour- I have taken part in the "Prison Tour" that San Diego State University conducts at Central California Women's Facility. The coordinator of the tour, L. Paul Sutton, PhD, Professor Criminal Justice Program, having worked with me for years (2003-2015) said in part that I am 'courageous, "generous and candid", and refers to "the powerful perspective that she so patiently and capably manages to impart." (See support letter Exhibit L 14).

Arts-In-Corrections

In a combination of "calling" and "community", I had the privilege to hold the position of Lead Studio Artist for the Arts-In-Corrections Department and worked diligently to raise funds through the sale of artwork for the Madera County Child Abuse Prevention Council, (Exhibit H 1-6.) I earned awards, certificates and letters of commendation for my art submissions to the William James Association California Arts review competition. (See Exhibit H 7-9.) In 2008, Institution Artist Facilitator A. Hwang wrote and thanked me "for the beautiful ceramic bowls" I created for the 8th Annual "Soup Bowls for Super Kids" charity event, the proceeds of which benefited "Camp Teddy Bear," a camp for child victims of domestic violence. As a survivor of childhood abuse and trauma, I experienced a profound moment of purpose and fulfillment in that I had a part in providing child victims a chance to experience a place of safety and enjoyment.

Writings

The act of observing others leads to my own self observation. I often watch how people are acting (or acting out) and see reflections of my old self. I look at things differently now and the awareness of how I used to be is not easy and yet I can see how I am on the other side of the line of those old behaviors. When I write it is a sharing of my private self, the vulnerable moments I put onto paper are a peak at my heart or that piece of self that I have been protecting since I was eight years old.

I am a published author not only on-line on The Marshall Project.com, but in the Best Non-required Reading of 2016 Houghton-Mifflin Harcourt press. Can I share with you that I had a totally nerd moment when I saw my name listed in the index of the book, so cool! I am not ashamed to say that I am a geek and knowing that other people have read what I have written is an unbelievable feeling. (See Exhibit I 1.)

My editor Rachel Kushner sent me a note and shared with me that reviews of the book have shown that my essay has been one of the most popular submissions. (See Exhibit I 3-4.)

Job Assignment Index and Reports

I have included an index the job assignments I have held from 1991 to present. (See Exhibit J 1.) The listing of work supervisor reports reflects the dates and job title, a review of my E-file will show the evaluation ratings and any additional comments submitted by my supervisors. (See Exhibit J 2-37.) My most recent evaluation and recommendation work supervisors report is included as Exhibit J 38-39.

Leisure Time Pursuits

It was in the quiet moments outside, watching the birds swoop from tree to tree, observing the wriggling of a worm that I had uncovered as I pulled crabgrass from my rose bushes, in those moments I began to realize who I was and what I had done with my life and what my life could still be. The garden has saved me, given me hope, given me purpose, gifted me with healing and sense of purpose. I plant mint in every nook I can think of, to entice the bees to land on my zinnias and marigolds when they are done plundering the brachia of the mint flowers. I plant mint in an act of nurturing for my bees, to give them substance, I think of what they need. This caring aspect does not stop at bees. It has traveled the path to my heart to nurture and care about others. I found how to love and care for people within the act of meeting the needs of my little birds and tumbling bees. Without the garden, who would I be today? (See Exhibit K 1-23.)

Support Letters/Laudatory Chronos

My support network is comprised of individuals that have known me from 10 to 52 years. This support network offers support in areas from emotional to housing, employment and financial.

Connie Segreto, a friend of 22 years wrote, "I did not know Michele prior to her crime, however, I can say, unequivocally, that today Michele would be no threat to society. On the contrary, she would be an upstanding citizen looking for ways to positively impact her community. I have seen Michele grow and mature, face her crime from the victims' and the victim's families' perspectives, and consistently demonstrate profound remorse that she cannot change that awful day." (See Exhibit L 6.)

Many, ranging from correctional staff to instructors to work supervisors, have commended my effort, attitude, and progress with laudatory chronos. This documentation indicates that I have done more than merely earn certificates: I have learned to take an active role in my life and my community. This behavior is demonstrated via my consistent enrollment and active role in rehabilitative courses, the encouragement I give to other participants, and my service as a role model. (See Exhibit L 14-36.)

My willingness to continue traveling the path of rehabilitation is internally driven, not externally motivated. My efforts have been observed by many and have made favorable impressions on a multitude of people along the way. "Who are we when no one is looking" is an empowering saying and one I believe in. These chronos reflect what others saw in me when I did not know they were looking.

Community and Family Support

After many years of my participation in the San Diego State University Criminal Justice Program prison tour of the California prison system, Professor L. Paul Sutton, PhD, wrote, "I met Ms. Scott more than ten years ago. I have watched her grow, incredibly, in ways that belie her life and circumstances. In that regard, she ranks among the highest of only a handful of the scores of inmates I have come to know well in my four decades of work in and around corrections, and for the last 30 years, with the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation." (See Exhibit L 13.)

Gary Later has known me since I was a teenager and wrote, "She now seems to be in control of herself; has faced and continues to deal with her crime; and has become a leader in her less-than-ideal circumstances." (See Exhibit L 9.)

My foster mother Alta Colvin wrote, "I have observed her go through many ups and downs, times of discouragement and accomplishment over the 23 years she has been in prison. She has handled these situations with acceptance, grace, and maturity." (See Exhibit L 12.)

My support network is a testimony to the quality of character of my family and friends. The support by family and friends is indicated with supporting documents (see Exhibit L 1-13). A review will show that many of them have offered their wholehearted support, a place in their homes, aid with alternate housing, assistance finding a job and financial assistance, as it may be needed.

Life Planning

I have lived the last 25 years under the most challenging and adverse circumstances that composes a prison environment. I have utilized the skills that immersion in self-help programs has gifted me to assist in managing the adversity that the prison culture presents. A part of that management is the development of a current and on-going Relapse Prevention Plan. (See Exhibit M 1-2.)

This plan addresses my areas of concern and includes a comprehensive list of my triggers, high-risk situations and coping strategies. The list demonstrates the deep thought I have given to maintaining healthy relationships, resolving conflict, and continuing my recovery from narcotic use. My perpetual relapse prevention plan includes active and frequent participation in both Narcotics Anonymous and positive community based daily life activities. I have developed a realistic 3 Year Parole Plan with an emphasis on realistic. I know that there will be unforeseen challenges and stressors that I cannot predict. However, I do have significant coping and resolution skills in my 'tool kit' and I have learned the importance of connecting with a network of friends for support. I may not have the answers to the problems that will inevitably occur upon my parole but what I do have is a plan of action. (See Exhibit M 3.)

I have received training in how to interview and enter the work force. I studied and trained through the San Joaquin County Work Net, and earned certificates for Interactive Interview, Is Your Resume Working For You, and Applications: Filling in the Blanks. I have prepared a job resume format that covers three possible areas of employment. This is based on my experience, abilities and extensive training received while incarcerated. (Exhibit M 4-6.)

VI Conclusion

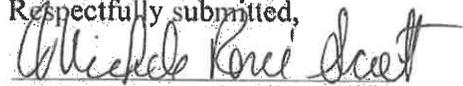

Granting my request for sentence commutation will not endanger public safety, but it will allow a rehabilitated and mature individual to reintegrate into society. My direct impact will be to continue the arc of mindfulness and community involvement that has evolved into my way of life.

As “The ultimate remedy rests in an appeal to the Governor...” (In re Horowitz, (1949) 33 Cal. 2d. 534, 546), I hereby appeal to the Governor to commute my current sentence to one with parole eligibility. Just as miscarriages of justice exist in the courts, miscarriages of justice can exist in other areas such as the rehabilitative process not being acknowledged. To not acknowledge 26 years, a lengthy period, of rehabilitation would be such a miscarriage of justice. (Id.)

I respectfully request that the Governor commute my sentence to two concurrent life with the possibility of parole so that my efforts may result in an opportunity to sit before the Board of Parole Hearings and eventually an opportunity to rejoin my family.

Tejinder Singh

On November 5, 1999, 18-year-old Tejinder Singh got into an argument with Jorge Arteaga, a security guard at a motel, over guests in Mr. Singh's room at the motel. Mr. Singh drove out of the motel parking lot, then circled back and gestured toward Mr. Arteaga to come closer. Mr. Singh then fired several shots at Mr. Arteaga, hitting him in the hip and back. Mr. Arteaga survived his injuries. On August 16, 2000, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Singh to 7 years to life for attempted murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement — a total term of 32 years to life.

Mr. Singh has now been incarcerated for 19 years and has expressed regret for his violent and thoughtless actions. In his application for clemency, Mr. Singh wrote, "Today, I am disgusted by my actions and my total lack of responsibility. . . . I have addressed the unresolved issues of my past that got me to that point where I lost sight of how precious life is. I am deeply remorseful and understand fully that I am solely responsible for the pain [Mr. Arteaga] has endured."

During almost two decades in prison, Mr. Singh has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has not been disciplined for any misconduct in over 13 years. He earned his GED and completed vocational training in masonry and digital literacy. Mr. Singh has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Victim Awareness, Anger Management, and Alternatives to Violence. In addition, Mr. Singh has earned the respect of correctional staff who interact with him regularly. In 2018, a work supervisor commended Mr. Singh's work ethic and wrote that he "has conducted himself in a very positive and respectable manner when dealing with staff as well as with fellow inmate workers." In 2018, a chaplain wrote that Mr. Singh "has addressed many issues from his childhood and life that contributed to his criminal history" and commended Mr. Singh "for his strong determination to improve himself through this rehabilitative process," noting that "he exhibits a level of maturity and integrity not usually seen in inmates." Also in 2018, a supervisor praised Mr. Singh's efforts as an ADA worker assisting in facilitating mental health groups for inmates. The supervisor noted, "Mr. Singh's character and patience enable him to work well with his fellow inmates, and [he] is very open to positive criticism and direction." The supervisor concluded, "From observing Mr. Singh, his consideration of others, and leadership during groups each week, Mr. Singh appears to illuminate positive core human values."

Since his incarceration for this senseless crime, Mr. Singh has demonstrated through his conduct in prison that he is committed to becoming a productive member of society. Therefore, I believe Mr. Singh has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Tejinder Singh to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

The Honorable Edmund G. Brown
Governor of California
c/o State Capitol, Suite 1173
Sacramento, CA 95814

Dear Governor Brown:

I have been assisting Tejinder Singh (P-91172) and his family with putting together his packet for commutation. I have been doing so voluntarily and at no charge because I believe Mr. Singh is worthy of a reduced sentence enabling him to appear before the parole board earlier than his current sentence allows.

Mr. Singh was convicted of premeditated attempted murder in 2000. Because Mr. Singh used a gun which resulted in an injury, he was sentenced to a life term for the attempted murder, plus a mandatory consecutive term of 25 years to life for the gun use (Penal Code section 11022.53(d)). Mr. Singh and his family hired me in 2002 to prepare and file a federal habeas petition for Mr. Singh. Although that petition was denied, Mr. Singh's case stood out for me because I believed then (and now) that his sentence was excessive under the circumstances.

Mr. Singh committed his crime in November 1999, four months after he turned 18 years old. It was his first offense. Without question, Mr. Singh acted inappropriately when, following a verbal altercation with an unarmed motel security guard, Jorge Arteaga, he left the scene and returned with a gun which he used to fire several shots at Mr. Arteaga. Mr. Arteaga and Mr. Singh had argued about whether Mr. Singh's friends could visit him in the motel room which Mr. Singh had rented. Although certainly no excuse, prior to the shooting, Mr. Arteaga challenged Mr. Singh to a confrontation and taunted him to shoot him and kill him. Mr. Arteaga suffered a gunshot wound to the buttocks and was able to walk across the street to a hospital for medical treatment.

I believe that Mr. Singh's sentence of life (with a minimum parole term of 7 years) plus 25 years to life is excessive for three reasons. First, Mr. Singh's sentence is excessively long as a result of the then-mandatory 25 years to life sentence for the gun enhancement. Because Mr. Singh used a gun, his sentence for that enhancement was over three times the length of his sentence for the attempted murder. Both the California Legislature and yourself recently recognized the sometimes draconian nature of that mandatory gun enhancement when the Legislature passed and you signed into law Senate Bill 620 which now allows the sentencing court to exercise its discretion to strike or dismiss a gun enhancement under Penal Code section 12022.53 at the time of sentencing. Given Mr. Singh's youth, his lack of prior record, and the circumstances of the shooting, I believe it reasonably probable that had

Mr. Singh's sentencing judge had discretion back then to strike the gun enhancement, he would have done so.

Second, in the years since Mr. Singh's trial, both the United States Supreme Court and the California Legislature have recognized that juvenile brains are not fully developed until well into one's 20s. Thus, assessing factors such as culpability and future dangerousness is different when dealing with juveniles than with adults. You recently signed into law several bills establishing a youth offender parole hearing for most youthful offenders whose crimes were committed from before age 18 up until before age 25. Indeed, Mr. Singh's current parole eligibility date of November 2023 is for a youth offender parole hearing and is earlier than it would have been without these legislative changes. Nevertheless, the impaired executive functioning often found in the brains of teens likely explains, at least in part, Mr. Singh's immature reaction to the argument between Mr. Arteaga and himself. Likewise, the subsequent maturing of Mr. Singh's brain is evidenced in his writings in his commutation packet which show his efforts to understand what led to his crime and his dedication to making himself a better person, as reflected in his numerous achievements and commendations detailed in his commutation packet.

Finally, the confluence of Mr. Singh's background, including moving from India where he was repeatedly physically abused by his mother's brother to the United States at age 13 knowing no English, his significant strides in examining the reasons for his criminal behavior and his insights into preventing any reoccurrence, and his achievements in prison all support an earlier date for parole eligibility. Mr. Singh's commutation packet details these three factors and include:

- a) Mr. Singh's application;
- b) Letters of support from Mr. Singh's parents and sister;
- c) Prison chronos, certifications, and notices of achievement;
- d) A letter Mr. Singh wrote (but did not send) to Mr. Arteaga;
- e) A book report Mr. Singh wrote about the effects of gun violence; and
- f) Mr. Singh's probation report which includes various statements about his mandatory but excessive sentence.

Reducing Mr. Singh's sentence to make him eligible for parole sooner than November 2023 would not undermine the seriousness of Mr. Singh's actions nor leave Mr. Singh unpunished. Mr. Singh has been in custody since he was 18 years old. Next month he will be 37 years old. For all of the reasons set forth in this letter, as well as everything contained in Mr. Singh's commutation packet, I respectfully urge you to commute Mr. Singh's sentence to allow for parole eligibility earlier than 2023 and to provide Mr. Singh an opportunity to show the parole board that he does not pose a current risk to society.

Thank you for your consideration.

Very truly yours,

Tracy J. Dressner

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a commutation.

On November 6, 1999, I was involved in an argument with Hotel Security Guard Mr. Jorge Arteaga. I perceived that situation as Mr. Arteaga putting me down. I felt my pride was hurt. I felt humiliated and that triggered my pent-up, unresolved anger. My blood pressure began to rise and I started to sweat. As I drove off, I told myself I needed to get even. I told myself that I was not going to let another man walk all over me, especially in front of my friends. I made a U-turn and pulled over to get my gun out of the trunk of my car. I then went back to the hotel. I saw Mr. Arteaga standing in the middle of the driveway. I told him to come over to my car. I did this in order to put him in a position for me to get a clear shot at him. We exchanged some words. It was at that very moment that I decided to kill Mr. Arteaga. I fired shot after shot, not once reflecting on the consequences of my actions. I was 18 years old with no regard for the life of Mr. Arteaga or anyone else's including my own. It was by the Grace of God that Mr. Arteaga did not lose his life that night; a fact that I am thankful for and thoughtful of every single day since.

From the time I pulled over to the moment I shot Mr. Arteaga, a lot of time has elapsed; enough time for me to think better of the action I chose to take that night. Not once did I consider what I was about to do to another human being. After I shot Mr. Arteaga, I sped away, leaving him to die. A decent human being does not do that. In my culture, human life is sacred and for me to not only shoot an innocent man, but to leave him there to die, is unspeakable.

Today I am disgusted by my actions and my total lack of responsibility. Mr. Arteaga did nothing whatsoever to warrant or justify my careless reaction. I could have robbed Mr. Arteaga's children of their father, his wife of her husband, and his family of their loved one. There are a lot of things I wish I could have changed that day. I have addressed the unresolved issues of my past that got me to that point where I lost sight of how precious life is. I am deeply remorseful and understand fully that I am solely responsible for the pain he has endured. I truly regret all my choices, decisions, and actions. As a mature adult, I now know and believe no circumstance necessitates the use of violence.

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

3. Explain why you are requesting a commutation.

Sir, the reason why I humbly ask for a commutation is that when I arrived in the United States in 1994, after being raised in India, the culture shock was overwhelming. Additionally, unlike Hindu and Muslim Indian nationals, I was raised a Sikh. This presented my life with a particular set of problems. Sikhs have suffered hundreds of years of persecution under Hindu and Muslim prejudices. Guru Nanak Dev, the founder of the Sikh religion in the 16th century, insisted on complete equality between men and women. In this he was far ahead of his time. Since then, throughout the centuries Sikhs have suffered acts of genocide and cruel persecution, giving rise to strict edicts in our fight for cultural identity. Guru Gobind Singh gave each Sikh the surname of Singh, or Lion, to instill in each Sikh a dogged will to fight for self respect and that Sikh identity.

I wanted to express some cultural history to help you, sir, understand the deep-rooted anger I arrived with in the United States, in addition to the historical facts I also suffered growing up in India.

I dealt with a lot of physical and emotional abuse daily in my house and in school. My father was in America, so my sister and I were raised by my mother who lived with her parents and her younger brother in India. I always thought physical and emotional abuse was normal in our culture because we all grew up dealing with physical abuse in our school.

But things were not normal in my house. My uncle beat me almost daily. It wasn't something like a slap on the wrist or face. It was a physical beat down with his hands and feet or whatever he could get his hands on; like a stick, broom, belt, etc., you name it. Whenever he felt like I wasn't living up to his expectations, like working in his farm, or doing his house work, he would beat me for failing to do the work adequately. Even playing with my friends would disturb him. Sometimes he would beat me for no reason, and when I would ask: "What was that for?" he would say: "Because you are a bad kid." I thought if my own family thinks I am not good, how can anyone else think differently? These beatings weren't taking place behind closed doors. Anywhere you can think of; in front of my grandparents, my sister, my mother, our neighbors, and my friends. I felt humiliated and very angry. I felt like I was their slave. I would cry and run to my mother only to hear her say: "Why don't you listen?" I remember one time she told me that "This was not our home. You have to be patient and pray that your father returns soon and takes us with him." That didn't help my situation. Instead, it only made me feel helpless and worthless. I felt that no one seemed to care about me. I hated myself and everybody around me. As time went by, I started to accept the abuse as a normal part of my life. After a while, the only beatings that really hurt were my mother's. I felt betrayed because she was my vent to all the built-up stress and anger. I witnessed violent anger in that house. I thought all arguments or expression of anger resulted in violence.

When I first met my father, I was 12 years old. It was the happiest time of my young life. Tears of joy were on my face and I knew then that my suffering was over. I felt relief. When I told my father a couple of days later how these people had been treating me, he said: "Don't worry, son. I am going to take you to America and you never have to worry about someone hitting you again." That was good enough for me as long as I knew I'd be out of that hell.

When I came to America, I was 13 years old and things did get much better because I didn't have to deal with physical abuse in my house. When I started school, for not knowing how to speak English, I started to get bullied by other kids. I was ashamed to tell my father about the abuse. Instead I told him I'd rather get a job than go to school. That led to me dropping out of school.

Sir, I had a very violent childhood with no direction in resolving conflicts normally. I now know violence is never the answer. Violence only destroys lives. As a young man, I had not identified the root causes of my anger. At that time, I felt inadequate as a person and inferior to Mr. Arteaga, and that I had only one avenue to resolve my conflicts: violence.

I know today my senseless act and crime shook and destroyed so many lives. I am sorry for the stupid, immature and violent choices I made on November 6, 1999, in my attempt to kill Mr. Arteaga. I cannot change the past, but I have learned from this tragedy and I can sincerely apologize now when I pray.

I am not the same person I was that night. I have changed and matured with all the education and self-help programs I was able to internalize. This will allow me the opportunity, when I go back to India, to provide youth an inspirational speaker and give them the knowledge that I've acquired through my experience. By hearing someone they can relate to, since I was their age when I began to rebel, it can change their lives for the better. I would tell them how much I lost, more so, the pain and hurt I caused so many people by my senseless, heinous actions. I promise you that for the rest of my life I will live honestly, and kindly, with integrity and worthiness and never harm another human being ever again.

APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

My words at trial (in 1999) were untrue. I justified my behavior by blaming others, when my unresolved, displaced anger led to my commitment offense. That insight into my responsibility and remorse did not come over night. Sadly, it took more than ten years of deep introspection to honestly understand the impact and magnitude of my actions upon Mr. Arteaga, his friends and family, and the surrounding community.

Today, I have empathy. I have true regret as well as remorse. I am emotionally and spiritually pained daily with the knowledge that Mr. Arteaga will forever be physically as well as emotionally and mentally traumatized by my violence, and I live every day with the truth that he and his loved ones endure this trauma because I was too immature to handle an adult argument. I relive that night over and over in my head daily, as I am convinced Mr. Arteaga does also,

My acts that night began the ripple effect that has enveloped Mr. Arteaga's family, his friends and associates, his employer and fellow employees, and the community at large. I caused not only Mr. Arteaga's environment continuous and irreparable harm, I also harmed my own Sikh community as well. What shame and humiliation my actions must have caused them. I will commit my life to making amends to both communities upon my release.

Now, I can take an objective look at my life prior to my commitment offense and recognize the causative factors involved. I was selfish and prideful. My decisions were motivated by those defects in my character. In my attempts at making amends for my murderous act against Mr. Arteaga and society on the whole, I have made substantial changes in my life. I believe that I have recognized and confronted the ugliness that ruled my mind and spirit, and have successfully vanquished it. I am now the type of person who is capable of making responsible decisions and mature choices. I will be a contributing member of society who makes myself available to guide and enlighten others with my experience and compassion.

I have made it a priority to continue to expand my mind and perception by applying the knowledge acquired from the jobs, educational programs and self-help programs that I have internalized. I have achieved a G.E.D. and a Masonry Vocational trade. I have attended and completed Job Quest, Prisoners Against Child Abuse (PACA), Alternatives to Violence Project (AVP), Victim Impact and Life Awareness Programs: Criminal Thinking/Lifestyle, Anger Management, Relapse Prevention, Family Relationships, and Depression and Suicide workshops, respectively.

Even though I do not use alcohol or drugs, I attend Narcotics Anonymous (NA) because I believe the 12-step method is imperative to me maintaining a spirit of service and submission to a higher power for my past failures. A life of addiction correlates to a criminalistic lifestyle. They both involve a sense of low self-worth, selfishness, obsessive-compulsive-progressive behavior, self-centeredness, and blame shifting. I've come to the realization that submission is the first step in any type of recovery. With these tools at my disposal I can and will be able to identify my triggers so that I can recognize when I stray in my thinking. I understand that every action must begin with a thought, and I have conditioned myself to get between the thought and the action, thereby eliminating the compulsion to commit destructive acts. This is how I have been making amends. I am now an Assistant Care Giver here at CMC-West. I get to assist those who are unable to help themselves, thus allowing me to make a positive contribution. It has taught me more about empathy and living altruistically. I also volunteer with Recreation Therapists, providing assistance to those in the Mental Health Services Delivery System. I give of my free time to the collection of recyclable items around the prison grounds for the New Life K9s Program.

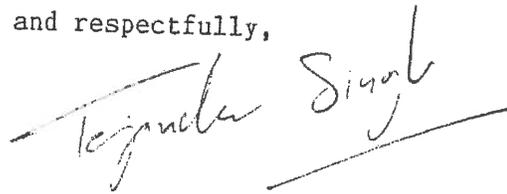

These activities are helping me enhance the 6 Dimensions of Health: Physical, Psychological, spiritual, Social, Emotional, and Environmental, which will help me become and remain a contributing member of society and an asset to my community. I am grateful to CDCR for providing me the many opportunities to rehabilitate myself. I am a better person because of these opportunities. I have progressed from a violent boy to a productive, well-balanced man; one prepared to lend a helping hand to others in need.

P-91172

My family is supportive of me and ready to accept me into their lives. I will be a law abiding, productive, prosocial member of society and the world at large. This is a great country, one of second chances, and I beg of you, sir, for a chance to redeem myself in the eyes of society.

Sincerely and respectfully,

Clyde Slaughter

In May 1998, Clyde Slaughter and his crime partner planned to rob James Stinson. Pretending have rock cocaine, Mr. Slaughter approached Mr. Stinson with the fake drugs. When Mr. Stinson realized the drugs were fake and that he was being robbed, he dropped his money and fled to his car. Mr. Slaughter chased Mr. Stinson. Before Mr. Stinson could drive away, Mr. Slaughter shot him with a shotgun, killing him. On July 9, 1999, the Contra Costa County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Slaughter to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

In his application for clemency, Mr. Slaughter takes full responsibility for his crime. He wrote, "Knowing that I took another man's life and feeling deeply the pain of that wrong almost from the moment it happened, a desire has formed in my heart, and grown through the years, to atone for my crime."

Mr. Slaughter was 19 years old when he committed this crime and has been incarcerated for 20 years – over half of his life. During more than two decades in prison and with no possibility of parole, Mr. Slaughter has only had six rules violations. He has dedicated himself to self-improvement, participating in self-help courses such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Celebrate Recovery—Spanish, Criminals and Gang Members Anonymous, and Anger Management. Mr. Slaughter also participated in a therapy group called Life with the Opportunity for Peace, which deals with in-depth behavioral modification and cognitive therapy. Mr. Slaughter earned a vocation in electronics and has maintained a steady work history.

Mr. Slaughter committed a senseless crime. When he entered prison he lacked the skills necessary to be a contributing member of society. It is clear, however, that Mr. Slaughter has distinguished himself by his concerted efforts toward rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Slaughter has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Clyde Slaughter to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

2 Answer to Question #2, Continued:

3 of the shotgun was unintentional. I do not include this last
4 detail to mitigate my crime. I am 100% guilty as charged.
5 The man died because I tried to rob him. The gun went off
6 while I was screaming at him, and repeatedly jabbing him with 7 the gun barrel.

8 Answer to question #3:

9 Knowing that I took another man's life and feeling deeply the 10 pain of that wrong almost from the moment it happened, a desire
11 has formed in my heart, and grown through the years, to atone 12 for my crime. If released to the community, I would work to 13 become a counselor for at-risk youth. I believe that they 14 could relate to and learn from someone of my background and 15 temperament. To explain why, I offer the following, a short 16 description of my life and times.

17 I am now 38 years old. My father was a field and track star
18 in Arizona, but became a heroin addict. He died on March 1, 19 1989 of AIDS, when I was just ten years old. I loved my Dad, 20 but what I remember most about him is the beatings he gave 21 me.

22 My Mother continued to raise me for the next year, but then 23 she got strung out on crystal methamphetamine and alcohol and 24 I was given to my Grandmother. I loved my Grandma, 8 cousins, 25 and my younger brothers for a few years. She was a strict 26 Christian and tried to raise us properly, but for some reason
27 I just could not hear her.

28 As a teenager, I basically dropped out of school. Tired of being poor, and having no regular job, nor shoes on my feet, I decided to sell dope as an independent, on the street. The shotgun I used to kill James Preston Stanton, was one that several of us had access to. I was not in a gang and I have no gang tattoos.

After the murder that I committed, I fell into a deep depression. It continued throughout my trial and went on for at least 4 years. I thought about suicide every day. I attempted suicide once, but couldn't go completely through with it.

A year after my conviction, in 1999, I assaulted a Correctional Officer during a yard riot, punching him in the face. In 1999,

1 and again during 2003 and 2004, I was cited for refusing to 2 follow orders. In 2006 and 2011, I was cited for assault on 3 another prisoner. My last rules violation was in 2011 for possession of a joint of marijuana.

4 While in the "Hole" in 2011, I just got sick and tired of being 5 me -- of being who I was. I started going to a program. At 6 first, it was just to get out of the cell. I met a man at 7 the program in question (Criminals and Gangsters Anonymous)
8 named Willie Redman. He had been in prison for 43 years.
Gradually, Mr. Redman got to me. I could relate to him, because 9 in many ways I was him and he was me. Naturally, I began to 10 look up to him. Eventually, the plan to become a counselor
11 -- like him, formed in my heart and will. I want to give back, 12 even as he has, to the community that I helped tear apart.

13 Since 2013, I have participated in Narcotics and Alcoholics
14 Anonymous, Criminals and Gangsters Anonymous, Victim Impact
15 (where I was a facilitator), The lifer Group, Anger Management, 16 and Celebrate Recovery -- all programs hosted by the CDCR.
17 I continue to attend programs and spiritual services.

18 I have a daughter, Maryann Slaughter, who is now 19. She was 19 conceived two weeks before my arrest. I would like to be a 20 proper father to my daughter, so as to mitigate the wrong I
21 have done her through my criminal legacy and resulting absence.

22 Answer to Question #4.

23 As I admitted above, I am completely and 100% guilty. I am
24 not saying that the approximately 20 years that I have served
25 is adequate punishment. I do not know that it is. I believe 26 that is a judgment that only society has the right to make.
27 I am asking the Governor to allow me to go and sit in front 28 of a parole board so that if I am worthy at some point in the future to be paroled, that it will happen. The most basic reason that I am requesting commutation is that I do not want to die in prison having left nothing behind but wreckage.
I pray that God allows me to leave behind some legacy of good.
I want my life to stand for something. I pray, like Willie Redman, to be able to keep others from perpetuating the cycle of drugs and violence that I was born into. Nothing could be worse to me than that my life ends up being meaningless:
just another story of a man that did nothing but inflict pain and sadness, and then only to be a financial burden on society to the end of his days. I hope there is some path in this life where my last acts are beautiful, kind, and respectable.
I live every day now to manifest in that spirit.

Richard Snyder

In 2009, while under the influence of drugs, Richard Snyder entered an unoccupied home and stole several items. On July 22, 2009, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Snyder to 25 years to life for burglary plus 10 years for prior felony enhancements, a total of 35 years to life.

Mr. Snyder seeks a commutation based on his rehabilitation. In his application for clemency, Mr. Snyder wrote, "I humbly seek to be judged on my rehabilitation which has changed my life and has helped me to be a better and responsible person for my family, community and myself." Mr. Snyder also reported that he has maintained his sobriety. He said, "I haven't forgotten the pain I have caused living in the moment of my addiction. . . . I have a lot to give back and I'm looking forward to helping others. Staying on the right path to recovery and to do right in society."

Since his incarceration, Mr. Snyder has demonstrated a commitment to transforming his life. Mr. Snyder has never been disciplined for any misconduct during almost a decade in prison. He earned a GED, an A.A. degree, several vocational certifications, and is a certified Braille transcriber. Mr. Snyder has also taken advantage of numerous self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Addiction Counseling Program, Crime Impact, and Anger Management. In 2018, a director for the Anti-Recidivism Coalition wrote, "Inmate Snyder has demonstrated a commitment to work diligently in his rehabilitation efforts, and applying the insight and principles learned in [the program]. He is to be commended for his positive attitude and contribution." Mr. Snyder has a solid plan in place in the event of his release; he plans to live in transitional housing, finish his drug and alcohol counseling certification, and help those who have experienced similar challenges.

Since committing this crime, Mr. Snyder turned away from drugs and alcohol and has dedicated himself to his rehabilitation, education, and sobriety. Additionally, his application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. Snyder.

For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Snyder has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Richard Snyder to a total of 10 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Brief Statement explaining why I should be granted commutation.

I am a non-violent 3striker (no violence) and I respectfully present to you, The Governor of the State of California, Mr. Edmund G. Brown, my application for Commutation.

Asking if you would please evaluate my conduct and achievements since being incarcerated. Deciding my level of progress and rehabilitation and suitability from your office for Commutation.

I have exhausted all other remedies, i.e.; appeal process and any relief from the courts. I humbly seek to be judged on my rehabilitation which has changed my life and has helped me to be a better and responsible person for my family, community and myself.

Through the programs offered here; Education, Vocation, Self Help and my amazing job training in Ironwoods Braille Transcriber Program, learning an excellent trade and actually giving back to the blind and handicapped, which means a great deal to me and is very rewarding.

I've been clean and sober and have no disciplinary issues for about 10 years now on my incarceration. I have been in the Palo Verde College Program and attend Self-Help groups when possible; and am ready to start Facilitating groups, with what I've learned, and am helping with Youth VOP inmates in those groups. Lately I have focused more on my A.D.S. Alcohol + Drug Counseling Certification Classes. Here is a list of my Education, Work and Self Help achievements since starting my commitment here at Ironwood. I have added copies of all Certifications, Degrees with supporting transcripts and also copies of my Job training. Transcribing Braille for the Blind Certification through the Library of Congress with my override request and actual possible job employment with ATPC the company we now Braille for, with the California Community Colleges.

I'm also finishing A.R.C Anti Recidivism Coalition Certification to start helping others succeed.

Gabriella Solano

On September 29, 1998, Gabriella Solano acted as a driver when Armando Perez, Dennis Barroso, and Brian Scott carjacked Czarina Wu. After forcing Ms. Wu from her car, they stole her keys and personal belongings. Early the next morning, Ms. Solano was again acting as the driver when Mr. Perez and Mr. Barroso pointed their shotguns out of the car window at Gilbert Rivas, Edward Rivas, Sharon Molina, and Joseph Molina, who were walking by. After an altercation, Mr. Barroso shot Gilbert Rivas, killing him. On September 10, 2009, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Solano to life without the possibility of parole for murder, plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement, 5 years for carjacking, 1 year for robbery, 16 months for 2 counts of attempted robbery, and 10 years for 3 firearm enhancements.

Ms. Solano has now been incarcerated for 20 years. She seeks a commutation based on her rehabilitation. Ms. Solano told a Board of Parole Hearings investigator that she was young, reckless, irresponsible, and on drugs when she committed the life crime. In her application, she wrote, "I believe people can change. I am one of those people. I've worked really hard for the past 19 years to not be the person I was when I walked in this prison." In her application and her interview with a Board of Parole Hearings investigator, Ms. Solano described how her abusive relationship with her ex-boyfriend Armando Perez led her to become involved in this crime. She wrote, "The night of my crime, I was in a bad place. I had just gotten out of a very abusive relationship; I was drinking, doing drugs, and being reckless. I was selfish, and thinking only of myself. I never thought that driving around being stupid would result in the death of an innocent person." In describing the work she has done in prison, she wrote, "Since my incarceration I've worked really hard on myself, to change that insecure, co-dependent, low self esteem, broken person I was. I've been sober now for the whole of my incarceration. . . 19 years. I've programmed since my arrival at the prison." She also noted, "I know now what a healthy relationship is and know how to obtain them."

Ms. Solano's record in prison is a testament to her transformation. She was last disciplined for misconduct over 16 years ago and has never been disciplined for any violence. Ms. Solano earned her GED in prison and is working towards an A.A. degree. She has completed vocational training in office services. Ms. Solano has participated in various self-help programs, including Anger Management, Personal Empowerment, Finding Insight through the Victim's Eyes, Narcotics Anonymous, Relationships, and Alternatives to Violence.

Through her positive attitude and behavior, Ms. Solano has earned commendations from staff members. In 2017, a correctional officer commended Ms. Solano on her programming and attitude, writing, "Inmate Solano has been involved and facilitated in numerous self-help groups and has gained self-esteem and respect for herself and others, integrity and honest. Ms. Solano is currently employed as a[n] Institutional Clerk and displays a positive attitude. Her conduct, dedication and hard work are appreciated and worthy of commendation." Ms. Solano also donated to charitable causes and participated in volunteer events.

While Ms. Solano participated in a series of senseless crimes, she has focused on her rehabilitation and worked to address the factors that led her to commit these crimes. For these reasons, I believe that Ms. Solano has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Gabriella Solano to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

RE: Gabriella Solano W-82038

Dear Governor Brown,

I'd like to introduce myself...my name is Gabriella Solano and I've been incarcerated now for almost 19 years. I was barely 26 when I got arrested and I'm now going on 45. I've been working on this Commutation for quite some time now. I know a lot of the girls here have gotten real fancy and creative with their Commutations. I understand that there is no right or wrong way to do this, but you have to understand that for a lot of us, like myself this is our last opportunity at a second chance, so I'm just going to speak from the heart.

The night of my crime, I was in a bad place. I had just gotten out of a very abusive relationship; I was drinking, doing drugs, and being reckless. I was selfish, and thinking only of myself. I never thought that driving around being stupid would result in the death of an innocent person. I didn't stop to think of the ramifications of my actions. Yes, I was scared, but I still had the opportunity to make the right choice and I didn't. Although I never got out of my car, or had no hands on involvement in the crime, I know that I am as guilty, as the actual perpetrator.

Since my incarceration I've worked really hard on myself, to change that insecure, co-dependant, low self-esteem, broken person I was. I've been sober now for the whole of my incarceration...19 years. I've programmed since my arrival at the prison. I've had the worst of the jobs because of my LWOP sentence. There aren't really many opportunities for LWOP'S. We are basically like the condemned but in general population. Although I've had struggles in here, I've never given up. I've been a model inmate. I stay busy doing productive things. I obtained my GED while I was closed custody, which in itself is not an easy task. After my GED, I went on to complete my Vocation, and have had steady jobs since. I'm still not able to get any of the good jobs, because they will not hire LWOP'S, but I've still managed to do good. I am currently in college striving for my A.A. and also working as a clerk at the college program location.

When I first started my sentence I wasn't really doing any of the groups that were offered here for us, simply because I didn't see the point. Slowly as the years passed by, I started getting more and more interested and I've now completed a number of groups that have helped change and mold me into the self-assured, productive, secure, independent person I am today. I really have been rehabilitated, and am in a good place. I have a positive outlook in life, despite my circumstances.

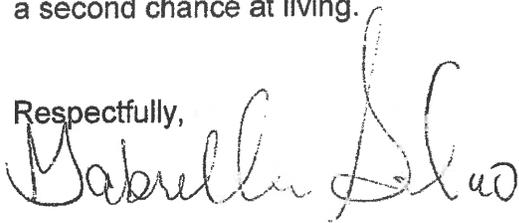

I have a strong family support system at home. I'm sure you noticed that I did not include any support letters in my packet. They are on there way, and I will be sending them at a late date. Unfortunately my family has been hit really hard with sickness. My father was diagnosed with colon cancer about two years ago. Almost a year to the date my older sister was also diagnosed with colon cancer, she is unfortunately stage 4 as we speak. Her oldest son (my nephew) was diagnosed with testicular cancer. So as you can see a lot of sickness at home. Despite all this going on, I have a very close relationship with them all, and speak to them a few times a week. They do all they can for me financially, but especially moral support. I turn to them for everything.

If I am blessed with a date, I am almost certain that I will be deported back to Mexico, for I am not an American citizen. If I'm not deported, I plan to go to a program then to my parent's house. My family has offered me housing, clothing, transportation, shelter, and employment. I do have a plan. Should I get deported, same thing goes. I have a lot of family in Mexico willing to take me in and help me in any way they can, and that includes housing and employment. A lot of my family out there have their own businesses, or have professional careers, and can get me employment easily, especially because I am bilingual.

In closing, I am hoping and praying that you will consider reviewing my case, and give me a second chance at living.

Respectfully,

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a pardon or commutation:

On the night of September 30, 1998, my ex-boyfriend (Armando Perez), my friend (Brenda Moreno), Brian Scott (a friend of Armando and Oso) and another young man (Jorge Barroso who was called "Oso") were involved in a crime that ended in the murder of Gilbert Rives and the assault of Sharon Molina. My relation with Armando was toxic and both emotionally and physically abusive. He called and asked me for a ride to a friend's house. I agreed and brought along Brenda whose house I was at when he had called me. The ride was not the simple ride he had described on the phone call. This led to hours of us driving around arguing, fighting, drinking and doing drugs. This all fueled our amped up state. I asked where Armando wanted me to drive, to which he replied to follow a car he pointed out. I later learned the owner was Czarina Wu. We were following the car which stopped at a dead end. Jorge "Oso" jumped out of my car and approached Ms. Wu's car. Armando joined Jorge "Oso" and they made Ms. Wu get out and sit on the curb. Armando got into her car and drove off. Jorge "Oso" got back into my car and I followed Armando. Brenda and I were in shock and stayed quiet. Brian and Oso argued and Brian demanded to be taken back to where he had been picked up. I drove back and dropped him off. Armando was already there.

I argued with Armando telling him I wanted to go home and he could keep my car but to take Brenda and I back to her place. He would not agree to this and insisted that I drive to a place where he would deposit the stolen car. I followed him to a hotel in another town and we left the stolen car. I got a page from my friend Patricia and I called her from a pay phone. Patricia was stranded in the town we were at and asked for a ride. I drove to pick her up with Brenda, Armando, Jorge "Oso" and myself. We picked up Patricia. She was upset that she had been abandoned in a dark park by her date. We drove her to Brenda's apartment. At the apartment, Brenda and I tried to talk the boys into taking the car and letting us remain with Patricia, but they would not agree. Armando insisted that Brenda and I remain with them and we got back into the car.

I was driving and the arguing and fighting continued. Armando and Jorge "Oso" were increasingly agitated. At a red light stop, they began to argue with some people outside of the car. I later learned they were Mr. Gilbert Rivas, her girlfriend Ms. Sharon Molina, Ms. Molina's son, and two of Mr. Rivas' brothers. I was watching for the light to change. Before we could move on, the door of my car opened and Brenda got out and argued with the lady Ms. Molina. The argument escalated and Brenda hit Ms. Molina. The man, Gilbert Rivas, took a protective position between Ms. Molina and Brenda. That is when the boys got out and began to argue. At this point, I was swiveling between the argument and the light. While facing the light, I heard a gunshot and turned to see Mr. Rivas fall to the ground. Forensics said there was a second shot, but I do not remember even hearing it. People were shouting and screaming. Brenda, Armando, and Jorge "Oso" all jumped in the car screaming for me to drive. I did. We drove the boys to a location they requested. Armando instructed me to go home and not to drive my car for a while. I obeyed.

3. Explain why you are requesting a pardon or commutation:

I am requesting a commutation because I've exhausted all my appeals and this is my chance to seek Mercy. During my trial I was offered a deal of 15 to Life but refused. My relationship and upbringing made snitching a worse offense than my accused crime. I also did not believe a person could be found guilty of murder, if they had not taken a life. My co-defendant Brenda Moreno was then offered the deal which she took. I was 25 naïve of the law but also of the fact that my role contributed to the death of another. I was sentenced to LWOP for felony murder, 25 to life for the use of a gun in the taking of a life, plus 17 years and 4 months for the carjacking of Ms. Wu.

Since arriving in prison, I have done my best to become the woman I should have been before the crime. I have taken nearly 1,000 hours in rehabilitative class. I completed vocational training in office services and have been an institutional clerk for the past 12 years. In 2015, I enrolled in Feather River Community College and will be completing my AA degree this year (2018). Through my classes, I have been able to see the flaws in my character that led me to be involved in the events that led to the murder of Mr. Rivas. My refusal to extract myself from an abusive and toxic relationship was the main contributor. I had to look within to see what I gained from such a relationship and then address those issues. That included self-esteem, need for acceptance, need for a sense of belonging, and ignorance of what a healthy relationship was. Before I could address these in depth, I had to address the anger I help over my situation. This included understanding who the victims were and the impact of my actions. I had to understand how my action (or refusal to act) had contributed to the events that led to murder. Had I extracted myself from the relations, had I said no to Armando, had I refused to get in the car when we took Patricia to the apartment, and had I asked Patricia to call for help when we left, could have saved Mr. Rivas' life. Once I dealt with the realization of my action, dealt with the anger, and then forgive everyone involved including myself, then and only then could I go back to resolve the character defects that led me to where I was. I did that with classes on relationships, domestic violence, and self-esteem.

My dedication to improving my education, living write-up free, participating in workshops, support groups, events on victim awareness, and events contributing to my local community have help to give me purpose while living what is coined "the hopeless sentence". I refuse to live hopeless and do my best to help my fellow prisoners live in hope. It is with that hope that I ask the Governor to look beyond the reckless person who drove her car on what turned out to be a deadly act. Please see the woman of 45 years who has taken advantage of the rehabilitation offered and the wisdom of a life lived in prison. I have fought hard to live a life of peace and programming in a maximum security prison with no-write ups for the last 15 years. Living within the rules in here for that long, I hope will be testament to my dedication to live crime free upon my release.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted pardon or commutation:

I believe I should be granted a commutation due to the fact that I have proven the last 15 years that I can live according the laws that govern over me. I have proven that I am no longer the reckless young person that I was. I am now a responsible women who lives a life of integrity with healthy boundaries. I live a life of hope and share that hope with others. Whether I am allowed to remain in the United States or I am deported to live with my family in Mexico, I will remain the woman I have become. It is my sincerest belief that I will succeed wherever I am placed. It is my goal to become an asset to my employer and a source of pride for my family.

Bonset Soun

On July 7, 1990, 18-year-old Bonset Soun and his friends entered a video store and demanded that the owner, Chan Kuhn, give up his jewelry. Mr. Kuhn refused, so Mr. Soun shot him in the chest three times, killing him. On January 8, 1993, the Santa Clara County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Soun to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a four year firearm enhancement.

In Mr. Soun's application for clemency, he expressed sincere remorse for his actions and wrote, "I know how much pain and suffering I have caused on the victim's family. . . . I have learned to value life, and through my bad decision is a testament of my then immaturity, I ask for a second chance to prove my worth to society." He told an investigator with the Board of Parole Hearings he is not the same person he once was, and wants to give back to the community and mentor youth.

Mr. Soun is now 46 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 28 years. He earned his GED, has obtained a vocational training certificate in small engine repair, and has participated in many self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Anger Management, Getting Out by Going In, and Victim Awareness. Mr. Soun has maintained a positive work record and routinely receives above average work ratings from his supervisors. A correctional officer who had known Mr. Soun for nine years praised his work ethic and wrote, "Over the years I observed Inmate Soun to be a programmer, a worker who is reliable and diligent. . . . Inmate Soun is to be commended for his positive attitude; he gets along with inmates of all races and staff."

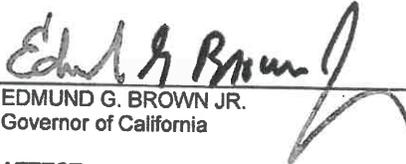

Notably, the surviving daughter of Mr. Kuhn is supportive of his release. She wrote, "The experience of getting to know Bonset has changed my perspective on life, leading me to live with more meaning and compassion. I believe he deserves a second chance to become the best version of himself in this society, give back to youth, be a good son to his mother, a great husband to his wife, and a productive member of the community." The Santa Clara District Attorney's Office also supports Mr. Soun's request for commutation of sentence, and wrote, "Bonset Soun was 18-years-old when he committed this horrible crime. He had no prior criminal history. His childhood was horrific and tragic. He has already served 28 years in custody. His application shows insight into the harm he committed when he murdered Chan Kuhn. His application also demonstrates the steps he has taken to better himself and the world around him."

Despite serving a sentence that offered him no hope of release, Mr. Soun has demonstrated a commitment to self-improvement through education and rehabilitation. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Soun has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Bonset Soun to a total of 28 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

3. Requesting a Commutation (Cont.)

I went to school, got GED, and went to Vocational Training and got certified in Small Engine Repair. And I have performed many job duties. Also, I attended many Self Help class.

Furthermore, I became a Buddhist practitioner, and I help counseled youth in a Delinquency Prevention Program. I have learned alot about life. Every day I applied the Buddhist teaching to my daily life. And I'm able to reflect and see how much harm can be done by not living life correctly.

I assured you that I will never ever violate any ones right again. Every one have a right to live in Peace and not be harmed mentally or physically. I know how much pain and suffering I have caused on the victim's family. I know that I didn't just killed a man. I killed a father, brother, son, husband, provider, and an important member of the community. I have apotogized to my victim's family. And I can never say I am sorry enough. My mother also suffered so much because of what I have done.

For many years now, I have lived life correctly. I do my part to give back to the community in here and out there in the free world. I counseled youth and make them aware of how much gang, drug, and violence

3. Requesting a Commutation (cont.):

David Spivey

In March 2006, David Spivey and other gang members fired several shots in the direction of a rival gang. Lasha Crooks, who was not a member of the rival gang, was shot and killed. Deshay King, a member of the rival gang, was seriously injured, but survived. On September 26, 2013, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced to Mr. Spivey to 25 years to life for murder, 3 years to life for shooting at an inhabited dwelling, plus a 25 year firearm enhancement, and a 5-year gang enhancement -- a total of 58 years to life.

Mr. Spivey was 17 years old when he committed this crime. In his application for clemency, Mr. Spivey wrote, "I know that with my sincere rehabilitation, maturity, remorse, and deep insight developed over these 12 years that I am ready to reenter society to be a productive citizen." He explained that he has changed significantly while in prison, and continued, "Today I stand before you every bit of a mature 29 year old man who has developed an excellent work ethic, has the utmost respect for self and others, and takes responsibility for my every action and decision."

Mr. Spivey's in prison record has been exemplary. During his almost 13 years in prison, Mr. Spivey has maintained a spotless record. He denounced his gang affiliation and has refrained from using violence or drugs in prison. A correctional sergeant commended Mr. Spivey for his positive programming and wrote, "Mr. Spivey sets a good example for other inmates and has demonstrated his willingness to progress in his rehabilitation." A correctional counselor who has known Mr. Spivey for four years wrote, "Spivey's persona and academic accomplishment as noted from his case file reflects an individual that is daily striving to become an exemplary citizen and human in today's society. In my opinion, Spivey has shown numerous examples that he is ready to be given a chance to be released back into society."

Mr. Spivey has focused on his education, earning his GED as well as a Certificate of Achievement in Business from Coastline College. An academic instructor praised Mr. Spivey's work as a tutor writing, "As a college student himself it is very apparent that Spivey has grown to recognize the value of education for both personal and professional reasons, and his enthusiasm has carried a profound ripple effect among the new students in this class..." Another academic instructor wrote that Spivey was an "exemplary tutor/mentor."

Mr. Spivey committed a senseless crime. When he entered prison he was a gang member who lacked the skills necessary to be a contributing member of society. It is clear, however, that Mr. Spivey has distinguished himself by his exemplary conduct and rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Spivey has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of David Spivey to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

As I sat inside of a motel on March 5, 2006 with fellow gang members an older member of the gang entered the motel room we were at. He informed the three of us that it was our time to "put in work" (kill) for the neighborhood. No one objected, but instead accepted loaded firearms as we made our way downstairs to a waiting car to drive into rival territory. We arrived at a liquor store in the rival's territory where it was believed that a rival was spotted going into that same liquor store. I was ordered to go in to see if she was inside of the store; she was not. As I went back to the car to inform the others that she wasn't inside of the store, the older member said we should walk to the motel next to the store where the rival's frequented constantly. As we made our way to the motel we saw two rival's (LaShay Crooks "the deceased" and Keyana Tate). I couldn't go through with this, and decided to run away, but was ordered, "I better get back there and do this shit," so wanting not to "rank out" I turned back and rather than directly shoot at anyone I shot my gun in the direction of Keyana Tate, but at an angle whereas not to hit her. This was done in an effort to look as if I was "down" all the way with the gang. LaShay was killed and her boyfriend (DeShay King) was struck inside of the motel room.

I am requesting a commutation because I know that with my sincere rehabilitation, maturity, remorse, and deep insight developed over these 12 years that I am ready to reenter society to be a productive citizen. In addition, I am requesting a commutation because at a young age I decided that I would leave everything that made sense in order to be a part of a gang. I stopped performing well in school to the point where I just stopped going all together. I gave up on my dreams of one day becoming a lawyer. I broke my mother's heart and my entire family's trust. Due to my ignorant choices I was arrested for murder, attempted murder, shooting at an occupied dwelling, and conspiracy to commit murder. I was found guilty of them all except attempted murder as an aider and abettor that resulted in a 50 to Life sentence. Since then I have matured into a functional and rational adult. In addition, to this I have an immense amount of remorse for my involvement in these horrible crimes, and for joining a criminal street gang that was a cancer to my community. Since my incarceration I have lost my mother to lupus and my brother to an infectious disease that resulted from a gunshot wound. These poor life decisions were made at a time in my life where I did not appreciate anything in life, and through rehabilitation I have been awakened from my slumber. I request this commutation in order to be given the opportunity to live life as an adult. Also I don't come from a big family, and my living family members are getting older and they all are having some form of health problems that could shorten their lives. This commutation being granted is the only meaningful chance I have at being able to see my grandmother alive. She has not seen me in person since I was 11 or 12 years old, and a commutation is the only possible way to bring this to fruition.

I believe that I should be granted a commutation, because in the twelve years that I have been incarcerated I have truly made a very real and sincere change in my life. When I first became incarcerated I was a defected human being with a warped sense of right and wrong. I was never able to accept any responsibility for my actions, frequently used and abused drugs and alcohol, lacked respect for self or others, possessed zero marketable/employable skills, and derived my self-worth from the opinions of others, but most devastatingly I had given up on myself to be anything of worth in life.

Today I stand before you every bit of a mature 29 year old adult man who has developed an excellent work ethic, has the utmost respect for self and others, and takes responsibility for my every action and decision. This came as I worked hard every day to fulfill my mother's dying wish, because as she laid on her death bed her only wish for me was that I become the person that she raised me to be. I have become very dependable as my work record in prison will show, and my role as a facilitator in various self-help classes demonstrates my ability to be counted upon. Through my involvement in the self-help programs offered at Ironwood State Prison a deep desire has developed within me to give back to the community I have robbed with my selfishness. I now have many marketable/employable skills that will allow me to be a productive member of society, and with my own experience as an at-risk youth coupled with my skills as a facilitator will allow for me to be a great mentor for the at-risk youth of today, because I would never want to see a child who has potential, not live up to it, due to low self-esteem partake in my footsteps causing destruction and turmoil to someone else's family as well as his own.

Furthermore, I should be granted a commutation because I respect my freedom and understand my full potential. Understanding when, where, and why my life turned for the worse has given me the advantage of not being a prisoner of my past. Also, while incarcerated I have overcome every obstacle put before me with flying colors. Pre-incarceration, I was a high school dropout, but within months upon entering CDCR I obtained my GED. I also have had success in secondary school by earning a Certification in Business. I have taken every possibility to better my life, and now I am fully prepared to reenter society with this same vigor. In conclusion, I left society as a boy pretending to be a man, but with the granting of this commutation along with the true rehabilitation that I have partaken in, I will be reentering society as a very hardworking and accountable man.

Robert Staedel

On September 11, 1988, Robert Staedel and Charles Carter arranged to meet with Kenneth Ericksen with the intention to rob him. When Mr. Ericksen arrived, he was ordered to remove his clothes and forced into the trunk of Mr. Carter's car. Mr. Staedel and Mr. Carter drove into the woods and demanded Mr. Ericksen's PIN number. When Mr. Ericksen attempted to flee, Mr. Carter and Mr. Staedel shot him. On June 15, 1990, the Contra Costa County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Staedel to life without the possibility of parole for murder, two years for a firearm enhancement, and three years for a great bodily injury enhancement.

Mr. Staedel was only 18 when he committed this crime, and has now been incarcerated for over 30 years – more than half his life. He has worked hard to turn his life around. In his application for clemency, Mr. Staedel wrote that "through years of maturity and self-discovery, my outlook is 'What can I give to the world.'" Mr. Staedel continued, "I know a lifetime is not enough to make amends for taking a life, but I also can see that we live many lifetimes within the one we live now." He told an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings that he has changed and is no longer the same person, and that he is deeply remorseful for his participation in this crime.

Despite serving nearly three decades without any chance of release from prison, Mr. Staedel has only been disciplined three times for misconduct. He earned a master's degree in religion, a bachelor's degree in theology, and an A.A. degree in social science. Mr. Staedel also completed vocational training in office services. He routinely received exceptional work ratings and completed a Leadership Development program in 2017. In 2016, he was commended by a mental health sponsor for his work facilitating a mental health group and exhibiting the "ability, patience, and understanding to lead...." Mr. Staedel was also a member of Life With Opportunities for Peace and volunteered as a literacy tutor. Additionally, Mr. Staedel was a member of Seeking to Educate Endangered Kids, a juvenile diversion program that works with at-risk youth from the community.

This is a very serious crime, but given Mr. Staedel's commitment to rehabilitation and his transformation in prison I believe that it is appropriate to reduce his sentence so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Robert Staedel to a total of 30 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Appendix

I. INTRODUCTION

Robert John Staedel, Jr., hereinafter referred to as "Robert" or "Mr. Staedel", is a forty-seven-old (47) prison inmate who has been incarcerated for 27 years. He is presently incarcerated at Sierra Conservation Center, 5150 O'Byrnes Ferry Road, Jamestown, California 95327.

The Governor of California should give serious consideration to commutation applications wherein the prisoner demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that he has made exceptional strides in self-development and self-improvement, and otherwise shows himself to be rehabilitated to the extent that the ends of justice would be achieved by release back into the community.

Mr. Staedel will demonstrate that he is particularly worthy of this serious consideration for earlier release, and such action at this time would in no way deprecate the seriousness of the offense nor promote disrespect for the law.

As letters in the appendix will confirm, family and others support him in this effort, and it is prayed that the Honorable Governor Jerry Brown grant the relief sought.

In this, Mr. Staedel's second bid for Executive Clemency, he is strongly supported in this effort by family and other citizens, and it is prayed that the Governor of California will conclude the ends of justice have been achieved and his "debt to society" sufficiently paid so that he might be released from further incarceration under such terms or conditions deemed appropriate.

Mr. Staedel is a United States citizen and does not have a military history.

His social security number is [REDACTED]

II. BIOGRAPHICAL PROFILE

Robert John Staedel, Jr. was born in La Jolla, California on [REDACTED] 1970.

His parents are Robert Staedel, age 72, and Diane Staedel, 71, who presently reside at [REDACTED]. Mr. Staedel is not married and has no children.

Robert recalls a good, loving family life with a two-parent family and both sets of grandparents. Both his parents were teachers and they enjoyed many family gatherings during the holidays and traveled during the summers.

Growing up, Robert participated in sports and received numerous awards and trophies for swimming, basketball and soccer. His grades in school were average and he was an earnest young man with a strong work ethic before his teenage years starting jobs early on with paper routes, lawn mowing and car washing. While in his teens, he held two jobs -- one at a nursery and another delivering pizza. None of his family members drank alcohol, did drugs or smoked; therefore, Robert had no interest in drinking or drugs. He attended church almost every Sunday with his mother and, during the summers, he would participate in all the church activities with his grandparents as well. In his own words, "At school I was the guy people would come to and talk to if they had troubles or concerns"

III. SUMMARY OF THE CASE

What follows is a summary of the facts of the case for which Mr. Staedel stands convicted as gleaned from documents presented to the court.

At the age of 18 years old, Robert John Staedel, Jr. was charged with First Degree Murder, Kidnapping for Robbery and Robbery in Contra Costa County, California on September 11, 1988. He was adjudicated guilty on March 29, 1990, Case No. 890283-5, and sentenced by the Honorable Robert G. McGrath on June 15, 1990, to Life Without Parole with the California Department of Corrections.

Mr. Staedel's description of the offense and the events surrounding this offense is, in his own words:

"I remember very little of the actual shooting, but afterward I remember sitting in my car as my co-defendant drove in utter silence. The shock of what happened hit me immediately and I couldn't do or think anything. The days following, I didn't want to have anything to do with my co-defendant or anyone else. I remember just sitting around the house in a stupor. I did finally go with him to shop and get items from the credit cards. I just knew my life had completely changed after the night of the crime. I felt utter pain over what I did. I remember even calling my girlfriend and telling her if anything happened to me that she was to know that I loved her. I thought about killing myself or running away but I had no motivation to do anything. Then I got arrested and my whole world changed."

IV. INSTITUTIONAL HISTORY AND ACCOMPLISHMENT

Overall, Mr. Staedel has been a very good inmate. He has made excellent institutional adjustment, and gives due respect to staff, officers, and his fellow inmates. He has demonstrated that he is capable of entering society and again becoming a productive citizen. His conduct has been impeccable. He has not received any disciplinary infractions during the last 27 years of incarceration.

Mr. Staedel recognized the need to respect authority and to follow rules, both inside prison walls and upon his return to free society.

Although not many rehabilitative programs are designed for those inmates serving a long sentence, Robert has not sat idle.

Mr. Staedel has participated in and completed numerous educational courses as well as many religious programs all of which are documented with copies of the certificate for participation and completion in Appendix A to this Petition.

These notable accomplishments demonstrate how tirelessly Mr. Staedel has worked to prepare himself to function and re-enter society. The educational and vocational pursuits, along with his focus on personal growth programs, have refined him for the day he will be released, and bear witness even now to how the rehabilitative efforts of the Department of Corrections and Mr. Staedel himself can and have been successful.

V. RELEASE PLAN

Upon release from prison, Mr. Staedel will have a strong support team around him that will help him grow in a positive manner and offer him opportunities to make sure he moves forward toward a successful future.

As letters in the Appendix bear witness, Robert is blessed to have a plethora of support from family and friends, all standing ready to be there for him in any way they might be needed as he integrates back into free society and beyond.

If Mr. Staedel's sentence is commuted, he and his family have established a long-term release plan that will help him make a successful transition back into free society and also keep him focused. He plans to reunite with his parents, his sister and his surviving grandparent. Gainful employment will be from the family's antique business.

Robert's personal goal is to help mentor kids who are in danger of going down the wrong path. Through his religious training, he is confident he can bring together groups to bring kids the opportunity to value themselves and life in general. He strongly believes he is capable of many contributions to his community and society as a whole.

VI. REASONS FOR GRANTING CLEMENCY

A. Maturity, Remorse, and Amendment of Life

In his own letter, Mr. Staedel expresses his heartfelt remorse for his actions of almost 30 years ago. He writes:

“...The sorrow I have had over taking the life of Kenneth Erikson has produced a wholesale change of will and mindset within me. At 18, I was so egotistical that I believed the world owed me everything and I had some right to take it. Now, through years of maturity and self-discovery my outlook is 'what can I give to the world'...I look to acknowledging the reverence of life by holding the fact that everyone has the standard of unconditional worth and value..."

But the stark and unyielding reality that weighs on Mr. Staedel is, of course, that he is powerless to change what happened all those years ago. In recompense, he does all he can do to value and protect life around him. This extends to his fellow inmates, who he lives peacefully with every day. This commitment envelops everyone he comes into contact with on a daily basis, including the men and women the State of California have placed in authority over him.

There can be no doubt but that he is not the man who entered the prison system almost 30 years ago. His character and values transformation have been remarkable. From listening to his words, conveyed through his letter from the heart, it is clear that he realized he could not go back and write a new beginning to his life story, so he steadfastly determined to start from behind his prison walls and begin to write a new and honorable ending to it. Once he found his direction, he has never veered from his course.

B. Institutional Adjustment and Achievement as Evidence of Ability to Act as a Responsible Person

Favorable consideration should be given to individuals who present proof of ability to act as a responsible person. Such proof may be offered through evidence of significant institutional achievement, such as work history, program participation, and educational accomplishments or by providing evidence of good institutional citizenship. Mr. Staedel has certainly provided such proof. His outstanding institutional history and conduct exemplify the development of maturity, responsibility, and a peaceful disposition.

Robert has made an excellent institutional adjustment and is a model inmate. He gives due respect to staff, officers, and his fellow inmates. He is following all rules and regulations to the letter, and demonstrating that he is capable of entering society as a productive citizen.

C. Family and Community Support

Robert has a large and extended support group consisting of family members and friends eager to welcome him back to his community. They have pledged their help and assistance in any way needed as he reintegrates into free society. It is evident from their letters that they have great affection for him; an affection stemming from the remembrance of the kind man he was, and now, knowing him to be the mature and responsible man he has developed into during his years of confinement.

The man he has become has encouraged all those closest to Robert. In support of Mr. Staedel's clemency efforts, his parents, Robert and Diane Staedel, write:

"...my son...was 18 years, one month old when he and a 'friend' killed someone...Robert had no priors before being sentenced. He was on his way to attending college in the fall of 1988...Robert is a positive influence on those around him. He has a girlfriend and a family that are giving him support. He has a home to live in and a job in the family antique business. A church member also offered him a job when he gets out. Robert, we feel, would be a constructive citizen and a positive influence on our society..."

Robert's family ties are strong and his aunt and uncle, Fred P. Staedel and Becky W. Staedel, have written the governor in support of his clemency. They write:

"...Our nephew was young and dumb. He is now older and smarter. If there is anyone that can benefit from imprisonment and whatever rehabilitation such incarceration could afford, it is 'B.J'...He has so much built up spirit to contribute to society that it would be a shame and a waste to keep him divorced from that society..."

Robert's grandfather, who is in his 90's, supports his plea for clemency and writes:

"...Robert has had no disciplinary action in all those years. His parents feel that he would be a positive, productive individual in society if he was able to get a second chance. I feel Robert is well educated, a good listener and he desires to contribute to society. A second chance would enable him to help his family...”

Numerous letters of support confirming the support and opportunities available for Mr. Staedel are attached in the Appendix to this Petition.

D. Disparity of the Sentence

Mr. Staedel understands the severity of the crime he committed and in no way means to belittle his culpability. Too, he is well aware that this Petition is no place to argue law or facts. This Petition is purely a plea for mercy and any decision should only be based on accurate and true circumstances surrounding this crime.

VII. Personal Letter from the Applicant

Mr. Staedel sincerely regrets that he will not be able to appear in person before the Clemency and Pardons Board to speak on his own behalf. Therefore, he has reduced what he would say to writing, and it is presented verbatim as follows.

Dear Governor Brown:

My plea through this letter is that you get to know me, the person now who has repented, reformed and rehabilitated his life through deep soul-searching, an active willingness to change, and a purpose driven life to help make the world we live in a harmonious experience for all.

In 1988, I was 18 years old and committed the crime of murder upon a man named Kenneth Erickson, yet the crime went further than that because my actions that night affected his loved ones, my loved ones, the security and peace of the people who saw it reported on the news, the responders at the scene, and many, many more. I realize that the choice I made 29 years ago has had life-changing consequences to so many people, and to this day, I feel the responsibility to make amends by doing all I can to promote the fact that all life is sacred.

The sorrow I have had over taking the life of Kenneth Erickson has produced a wholesale change of will and mindset within me. At 18, I was so egotistical that I believed the world owed me everything and I had some right to take it. Now, through years of maturity and self-discovery, my outlook is "What can I give to the world". This has led to a complete change of conduct in my life. I look to acknowledging the reverence of life by holding the fact that everyone has the standard of unconditional worth and value. I truly believe this!

The Department of Corrections has been just that – a place to correct my faulty way of thinking. In fact, my imprisonment has been almost 30 years of correcting and reforming my thought process. I need and deserved to be in captivity so that I could re-program the thoughts and actions of my youth and bring out the core self I have found to be loving, caring, tender and giving. From the many programs I have been involved in during my long prison term, I have started to live the ideas taught to me. The process of formulating the right thought and outlook about life and mankind received through reading books, attending lectures, and learning from the many volunteers started my path upon truly reforming myself.

The opening up to the damage I had done and honestly taking a look at my role in the crime I committed against Kenneth Erickson and others has enabled me to see that love for man, and seeing the sacredness and sanctity in all, is the only positive and productive life to live. Now, I am demonstrating what I have learned and opened to it by actively living it.

Sir, I hope through this letter you have felt somewhat inspired by the transformative nature of the human spirit. I hope that in some way my life's journey, so far, has opened you to the truth that there is hope for even those that have been called incorrigible. I know a lifetime is not enough to make amends for taking a life, but I also can see that we live many lifetimes within the one we live now.

Thank you for your time and consideration of this request.

Respectfully yours,

VIII. CONCLUSION

The teenage brain, Laurence Steinberg says, is like a car with a good accelerator but a weak brake. With powerful impulses under poor control, the likely result is a crash.

And, perhaps, a crime.

Steinberg, a Temple University psychology professor, helped draft an American Psychological Association brief for a 2005 case in which the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty for crimes committed before age 18.

That ruling relies on the most recent research on the adolescent brain, which indicates the juvenile brain is still maturing in the teen years and reasoning and judgment are developing well into the early to mid 20s. It is often cited as state lawmakers consider scaling back punitive juvenile justice laws passed during the 1990s.

"As any parent knows," wrote Justice Anthony Kennedy for the 5-4 majority, youths are more likely to show "a lack of maturity and an underdeveloped sense of responsibility" than adults. "... These qualities often result in impetuous and ill-considered actions and decisions."

He also noted that "juveniles are more vulnerable or susceptible to negative influences and outside pressures, including peer pressure," causing them to have less control over their environment.

Some child advocates have pointed to the Supreme Court decision and the research as evidence that teens — even those accused of serious crimes — should not be regarded in the same way as adults in the criminal justice system.

Dr. David Fassler, a psychiatry professor at the University of Vermont College of Medicine who has testified before legislative committees on brain development, says the research doesn't absolve teens but offers some explanation for their behavior.

"It doesn't mean adolescents can't make a rational decision or appreciate the difference between right and wrong," he said. "It does mean, particularly when confronted with stressful or emotional decisions, they are more likely to act impulsively, on instinct, without fully understanding or analyzing the consequences of their actions."

Violence toward others also tends to peak in adolescent years, says psychiatrist Peter Ash of Emory University. It's mostly likely to start around age 16, and people who haven't committed a violent crime by age 19 only rarely start doing it later, he said.

The good news here, he said, is that a violent adolescent doesn't necessarily become a violent adult. Some two-thirds to three-quarters of violent youth grow out of it, he said. "They get more self-controlled."

Robert committed this offense at the age of 18 years old. His behavior and accomplishment, while incarcerated, are above reproach.

Without a doubt, Robert John Staedel, Jr. is a safe and proper candidate to have his sentence commuted at this time. Such a commutation, under the totality of circumstance in this case, would in no way deprecate the seriousness of the offense nor promote disrespect for the law. He has sought out opportunities for personal growth and development and has made an excellent institutional adjustment.

Our society often fails to acknowledge change; fails to recognize total amendment of lives. We are reluctant to acknowledge that incarceration can indeed provide rehabilitation; that an individual's personality, character, and nature, can change, and that he or she, for all intents and purposes, can become a new creature; a positively transformed being; one who has truly benefitted from the rehabilitation efforts of the prison system; and one who no longer presents any danger or threat to society whatsoever. Mr. Staedel is such a person. It is with great hope that the Governor will acknowledge the change in this deserving applicant. Furthermore, that the conclusion will be drawn that the ends of justice would in no way be compromised by a commutation of his sentence. With clear introspection, most would agree that they have benefitted from multiple second chances granted to them. As demonstrated in this application, Robert John Staedel, Jr. should be granted another chance as well. Joined by so many others interested in his cause as evidenced by many having previously written to express support, he sincerely and respectfully requests your utmost consideration of his request, and prays the relief sought now be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

Robert John Staedel, Jr.

Nashawn Stewart

In March 1996, 14-year-old Nashawn Stewart saw a rival gang member shoot and kill his friend during an ongoing feud between the gangs. A few days later, Mr. Stewart passed Victor Larios on the street. Mr. Larios associated with the rival gang. Mr. Stewart pulled out a gun and fired at Mr. Larios, killing him. On March 2, 1998, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Stewart to 25 years to life for murder plus a 10-year firearm enhancement – a total term of 35 years to life in prison.

Mr. Stewart applied for a commutation of sentence based on his age at the time of the crime and his rehabilitation in the many years since then. In his application, he wrote, "Today I realize how my actions caused a 'ripple effect' in the many lives which were affected by my behavior. Since my incarceration, I have continue[d] to take the time to address the warped belief system I once had, criminal thinking, my anger." Mr. Stewart described the efforts he has made to turn his life around and concluded, "My actions are in honor of Mr. Victor Larios' life, and when I help others I make sure that his memory is at the forefront of my thoughts." Mr. Stewart is now 37 years old and has been incarcerated for over 22 years. He has spent his time in prison making serious efforts toward his rehabilitation. He earned his GED and is currently enrolled in college classes. He has maintained a positive work record, completed a vocational certification, and regularly receives exceptional ratings from his supervisors. Mr. Stewart has participated in many self-help courses including Alcoholics Anonymous, Alternatives to Violence, Anger Management, and Victim Offender Education.

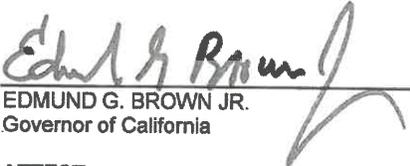

Notably, the warden of California Men's Colony recommended Mr. Stewart for a commutation, and many other prison staff members have praised him for his good conduct and attitude. In 2018, a correctional officer wrote, "[I]t is my opinion that Stewart's positive programming motivates others to emulate his values, exemplary behavior, and his participation in education [and] self-help programs." A correctional counselor commended Mr. Stewart for his work as a peer mentor and noted that he "consistently demonstrates a thorough understanding of the rehabilitative process." Also in 2018, a teacher concluded, "Stewart has grown into a mature man whose life represents the redemptive work provided through education and rehabilitative groups. Stewart's life represents the 'R' in CDCR." Mr. Stewart has a solid plan for his release from prison. Many members of his family have offered their support as he transitions back into the community. His commutation is also supported by several legal organizations, which have also pledged their support.

Mr. Stewart was just 14 years old when he committed this senseless crime. Despite coming to prison at a very young age and facing an extremely long sentence, he turned away from gangs and violence and has transformed himself into a mature, responsible man. For these reasons, I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Nashawn Stewart to a total of 22 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Purpose: Insight letter

Dear Governor Jerry Brown,

The purpose of this letter is to show my growth and maturity in what I have learned over these last 22 years of incarceration. Prior to changing my life around I ran from accepting responsibility for my actions out of fear. Most of my life growing up outside in free society, and in here being incarcerated showed me that my poor decisions lead to negative consequences because ^{my} thought process and belief system hadn't changed until I started taking my life seriously after turning 25 years old.

It wasn't until 2008, that I renounced my gang affiliation while in prison. And it was fortunate enough while at Solano Prison (CSP), that Ms. Chu CCH helped me in receiving a 128 Chrono in my c-file from the Investigative Security Unit (ISU), Mr. Medina, proving that I'm no longer affiliated with gangs.

Under the circumstances it has taken me over these last 12 years to address my character defects, my anger, low self-esteem, impulsive decision making, manipulation, criminal belief system, and substance abuse issues that kept me in my criminal addiction.

While participating in the "Re-writers" self-help program which addresses a person's gang lifestyle. This program gave me the necessary skills when it came to awareness to go back into my past in order to rewrite my future. I realize and have come to understand that seeking validation amongst my peers who were gang members gave me a false-sense of an identity based on acceptance. The more I chose to associate with gang members I became more influenced to make unwise decisions in my youth that would lead to breaking the law.

In the years 2007-2008, I participated in the self-help program called Criminal Gangmembers Anonymous (CGA), where I learned about the "cycle of Criminal Addiction": (1) Obsession (2) Compulsion (3) Progression. In my youth having the mindset of criminal ideas only warped my understanding further which distorted my perception of my reality. Now with the awareness of how I was addicted to this lifestyle of committing crimes, has allowed me to take what I learned in this program, and apply myself educationally wise in other areas of my life.

Over the last 11 years, I have been on the steering committees of the Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), and Narcotics Anonymous (NA) programs. Where I learned about how my life became unmanageable when I became susceptible to drugs and alcohol, in my home growing up, domestic violence, physical abuse, sexual abuse, and my past poor choices and decisions. Now I have the courage to reach out to ask for help, and be honest with myself & others whenever I meet new people.

Last year, I completed the Victim Offender Education Group (VOEG), and now I'm working as a facilitator in this class like many other programs I've taken in the past. In particular, VOEG helped me identify patterns in my behavior like Fear when I was triggered would lead to irrational decisions in my past. I had to complete a Crime Impact statement, and share my testimony at the end of 15 months with a victim panel. Today Mr. Larios, I do my best to honor in how I live my life. His memory as long as I'm alive will never be in vain. I wish to never create another victim again sir. I am sorry for my behavior, and do regret that this crime ever happened.

As a 14 year old, teenager I was running away mentally from years of pain I ~~had~~ ^{had} to endure. I refused to get the help I needed as a 12 year old, when I was raped repeatedly and I kept what happened to myself for over 19 years. I feared being judged and looked at differently and didn't want anybody else to try and treat me like a victim again.

I signed up for the Offender Mentor Certification Program (OMCP), in 2015. I went through a grueling process of looking at my behavior, thinking patterns, substance abuse issues, family addictions, and was trained as a California Addiction Treatment Counselor (CATC). This journey has changed my life for the better. Where the skills I am continuing, to learn now I'm using, to help other incarcerated men.

As a mentor working in the long term offender program (LTOP), I have been equip with the knowledge of cognitive restructuring, and been able to identify my own underlying factors, such as abandonment, resentment, being a victim of sexual abuse, and how my selfishness as a 14 year teenager, lead to me taking another human beings life which I am deeply sorry for having done.

In closing Mr. Brown I am asking for you to have mercy on me, in considering me for this commutation of sentence.

Thank you very much,

Sincerely,
Nasham Stewart

District Attorney: Please Return this Notice to the Governor's Office, Attn: Legal Affairs, State Capitol, Sacramento, CA 95814.

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime.

OF the Hoover Crips. The same day I, Nashawn Stewart, told fellow gang members what happened to Rasheed Evans. Fellow gang members believed I deserted Rasheed Evans, and the gang regulated me for my actions by beating me up. I was forced by fellow gang members take revenge or else there will be further punishment.

On March 26, 1996, I, Nashawn Stewart, shot and killed Victor Larios, out of retaliation. I admitted to Sheriff's Deputies on April 3, 1996, that I murdered Mr. Victor Larios.

Sincerely,
Nashawn Stewart

3. Explain why you are requesting a commutation.

about what happened to me prior to March 26, 1996. For the most part I lived my life in fear and I reacted out of anger when I felt my life was in danger as a youth. Today I realize how my actions caused a "ripple effect" in the many lives which were affected by my behavior. Since my incarceration I have continue to take the time to address the warped belief system I once had, criminal thinking, my anger, I have renounce my gang affiliation, and now I am a certified substance Abuse Counselor/Mentor working for the "Long Term Offender Program" here in prison. I am a Christian Man and I'm living a pro-social lifestyle today compared to before. My actions are in honor of Mr. Victor Larios' life, and when I help others I make sure that his memory is at the forefront of my thoughts. As you can see from the many chrono's (1280's) and certificates I have in my e-file I hope someday that you Mr. Governor Brown, will give me the opportunity, to help others outside in free society. I request a second chance, and I thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,

Nashawn B. Stewart

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

My age and immaturity at the time of this crime happening. Today I'm 36 years old, and I live a responsible lifestyle that is pro-social. I value human life today and I understand that my poor decisions have warranted a life sentence and justice was served. Yet, based on my age and youth at the time I pray for mercy.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSES IN SUPPORT OF

NASHAWN STEWART, K-88707

Question 3: Explain why you are requesting a commutation.

I cannot express how sorry I am for murdering Victor Larios. I take full and complete responsibility for my actions. I keep Mr. Larios in my thoughts. I have written remorse letters to him since 2011, and I engage in journal writing on certain special days, such as Thanksgiving, to write to him and express my deep sorrow. I donate to charities, including one for paraplegic veterans, in Mr. Larios's honor. I want to find a way to honor him, and I wish to continue to do everything I can to atone for my actions.

I am grateful for the many self-help groups, particularly the victim offender group, that I have been able to participate in while incarcerated. They have helped me understand the impact my actions had on Mr. Larios, his family, and the broader community. They forced me to confront how my actions impacted the lives of others. I am deeply sorry for murdering Mr. Larios; now he can no longer be with his family and enjoy his life, freedom, and opportunities.

The self-help groups also helped me develop insight into my crime and confront my negative characteristics. Up until I was five years old, I lived with my mother. She worked as a prostitute and was addicted to drugs, but she did whatever she could to support me and my half-brother Nateese, who is nine years older than I am. Nateese left the house when I was five years old. I then moved in with my grandmother and cousins. My mom would come home sometimes to collect welfare checks, but then she would leave for long periods of time. I felt neglected. I felt like I was not loved or cared about.

My grandmother died when I was ten years old. My cousins went into foster care, and I went to live with my father. My father was an alcoholic and did drugs. He would call me "stupid," "dumbass," and "idiot" whenever I misbehaved. I stole from the Payless shoe store because I was embarrassed that I did not have nice clothes and I wanted to fit in with my peers at school. When I got caught, my dad would slap me. I started to resent my dad and started to hang out on the streets more with people who were older than I am.

When I was twelve years old, I became a victim of rape by a neighbor who lived down the street from me and my father. The neighbor told me that if I told anyone, he would kill me. I didn't tell anyone; I kept that secret with me. The shame, humiliation, fear, guilt, pain, and anger I felt practically destroyed me.

Since I felt all of these mixed emotions along with feeling neglected and unloved, I joined a gang when I was 12. I knew a lot of the gang members in the neighborhood who sold drugs to my mother so I knew them and I was accepted by them. I wanted acceptance and validation because I didn't like feeling like a nobody or a victim. I started following in the footsteps of my cousin Anthony who was a gang member, while trying to earn a reputation amongst my peers. This behavior became a way that I coped with feeling inferior to others and feeling inadequate.

I ran away from home to get away from the neighbor's sexual abuse, and the physical and emotional abuse I'd suffered from my father. I went to go live with one of the older gang members I knew from the neighborhood. I had no reason to not trust him until he started to molest me in 1994. I felt helpless, confused, angry, and devastated. The fear I had inside became constant and that same year I started getting arrested for stealing cars and getting in fights. Getting arrested became my way of escape from the pain I held in my heart along with the resentments. Once I started getting arrested by the police, my father had to come pick me up from the police station on several occasions. He would question me about why I was acting out. But, the pain and fear I felt was overwhelming, and I thought I would be risking my life by telling him about the abuse and that would possibly put his life and my family's lives in danger as well. So, I kept what happened to me a secret.

I started acting out, consuming alcohol, and smoking marijuana as an escape. When I was 13, the juvenile court judge sent me to camp for the first time for violating my probation. I knew I needed help, but the idea of talking to my camp counselors while incarcerated made me fearful because I was afraid I would be rejected or treated differently. Unfortunately, my behavior escalated after I was released from camp. I was still immature, naïve, impulsive, and still trying to prove myself to my peers despite everything that had happened to me.

I was released from juvenile camp when I was 14. I ran into my childhood friend Rasheed Evans on March 22, 1996. We attempted to rob two men at a bus stop, and Rasheed ended up getting shot and dying. When I reported this back to the gang members, the gang members told me that I had deserted Rasheed on that day and they attacked me. I was told that I needed to take revenge or there would be additional punishment. I was scared. I did not know who had shot Rasheed, so I blamed it on a rival gang. Four days later, I saw Mr. Larios, who was quadriplegic and who I believed was associated with the rival gang in our neighborhood, by a liquor store. I told a gang member who lived up the street that an enemy was in our neighborhood. He gave me a gun, and I used it to murder Mr. Larios.

I entered the California prison system in April 1998, when I was sixteen years old. I was sent to New Corcoran for several months and then in October 1998, I was sent to Salinas Valley State Prison until 2002. I was scared to be on a Level IV yard, and I covered up my insecurities by continuing to act as a gang member. Fear was something I could never show around the men who were all older than me, or otherwise I would have been taken advantage of. So I hoped for the best under the circumstances. Anger was my defense mechanism against anyone who threatened me, but it was also my weakness as well. Prior to coming to prison I never learned how to control my emotions, identify my feelings, manage my anxieties and anger, identify high-risk situations, and/or problem solve without making irrational decisions. It all became apparent when I received my first Rules Violation Report in 1999 for fighting. My core belief of never allowing someone to take advantage of me again was the driving force behind my actions because I didn't want my peers to reject me or treat me differently. The underlying issues I had of being abandoned, sexually abused, hurt, resentful, and my toxic shame were all unresolved and not addressed because I didn't know what they were or how they were driving my behavior.

After my mother passed away in 2000, I felt devastated. It became a turning point of having a desire to change my life. I transferred to Ironwood State Prison in 2002, and I started making positive changes. I continued school to get my GED. I started acquiring critical thinking skills in hopes of someday changing my future. I was still in the gang lifestyle but my mentality was changing for the better. In participating in self-help groups like "Lifer Awareness," I began to understand the harm my reckless actions caused Mr. Larios and the "ripple effect" it had on his family.

I got involved in Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous after school and enrolled in "Office Services" while pursuing my GED. After my cousin Anthony was murdered by his homeboy in 2005, that was when I knew that this life—the gang lifestyle—was no longer for me. Yet the fear of leaving the gang was overwhelming. My belief system started to change, and I started the transition of not being a gang member anymore. I realized that fighting with associates of other gangs for petty reasons, getting into arguments, and my pride and shame interfered with me reaching my life goals.

Later that same year, I transferred to Soledad State Prison, but I got in a fight with my cellie in the dining hall. My gang mentality was still evident because rather than tell the truth to the correctional officer about what happened and why, I failed to do so because I didn't want others to think of me as a snitch for telling the officer that my cellie had pulled a knife on me in our cell prior to the fight. Being in Administrative Segregation (Ad-Seg) became a blessing for correcting my thinking, behavior, and self-reflection for what I wanted my life to be. I realized the toxic shame I had carried for most of my life made others' opinions of me more important than what I came to believe about myself.

In 2006, I transferred to the California Men's Colony, East. The importance of earning my GED, being accountable for my actions, and taking responsibility for how I lived my life was paramount to my success. I strived to make better choices and made valuable changes to correcting my thinking. I turned my life over to Jesus Christ in 2007. And, in 2008, I made the decision to renounce my gang affiliation. I told my associates at the time that I was no longer part of the gang. I haven't looked back.

In my 22 years of incarceration, I have a total of five RVRs and one 128-B chrono (for being tardy). My most recent RVR was from 2009, for talking back to an officer. I accept full responsibility for my life decisions, character defects, and the person I am today. Without having experienced my ultimate "low"—my breaking point that warranted me to be incarcerated—I wouldn't be who I am today. It is very unfortunate that it took the murder of Mr. Larios in order for me to live right. I will never minimize why I'm here and the many lives I've affected by my selfish behavior and callousness as a youth.

When I enrolled in the Machine Shop from 2008-2010, I acquired the necessary skills to become employable. After I graduated, I started working for the Developmental Disability Program (DDP) from 2010-2013 as an ADA aide. I learned how to help incarcerated men who suffered from strokes, dementia, and/or other cognitive disabilities learn how to do math, read, and other life skills. I was able to show my compassion, empathy, love, and respect to these individuals as it became a constant reminder of how I once took life for granted. I continue to give myself a better opportunity at earning a career, giving back to my community, because people in my life—both staff and inmates—encourage me to keep pressing forward in the right direction. I am pressing myself forward.

I have been a mentor and substance abuse counselor since 2016. I did this because I like giving back and helping people. Also, I knew that I came from a family of drug addicts and alcoholics, so getting involved was an opportunity to grow and learn about myself, family addictions, and to reach out to help others who suffer from addiction. I would like to turn it into a career. I passed the state certification test in 2016 and was re-certified in 2018 (after I finished the requisite 2,240 hours of training). When I passed my state-certified test to become a drug and alcohol counselor, I was proud of myself, because it allowed me to deal with my personal issues, forgive my parents, and help others overcome their addictions. I love doing this work because it helps me and others become a better human being. A lot of the lessons we present to the inmate population relate to their (and my) thinking patterns, substance abuse patterns, and dysfunctional home environments and where they came from. It's truly a reflection of who I was, where I came from, and the upbringing I had. I wished I had this information when I was living with my late mother, who then was working as a prostitute and addicted to cocaine. Through this process, I have been able to forgive her for her lifestyle. I am a mentor in the Long Term Offender Program where I try to live by example.

When not working as a substance abuse counselor, I keep busy bettering myself and supporting others. I am a college student enrolled at Cuesta College and take classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays. I also participate in small group communication, math, and English classes on Mondays and Wednesday. On Tuesday nights, I participate in the Literacy Council, a tutoring program that helps incarcerated men meet educational goals. I have both been a tutor in the program and now am a student being tutored in college math. On Wednesday nights, I facilitate a victim offender education group based on the principles of restorative justice. I previously was a participant in that group, and it helped me immensely, so I wanted to become a facilitator to help others have the same opportunity I did. On Thursday nights, once a month, I attend Narcotics Anonymous. On Friday nights, I am part of the steering committee of Alcoholics Anonymous. On Sundays, I attend church in the morning and participate in a Christian peer counseling group in the afternoon where we address, among other things, childhood-related issues such as physical and emotional abuse.

Through the many groups, activities, and programs I have participated in over the last two decades, I have now come to realize that shame and feeling weak, or being perceived as weak, played a big part in my anger and exploded on the day I murdered Mr. Larios. So did the fear, stress, and anxiety I felt about being regulated as far as punishment from the gang. At the time, I thought the only way to make things right was to murder someone. I did not realize that I had options. I thought I could not tell my father because I had a poor relationship with him. At the time, I was a liar. I was a manipulator. It was hard for me to be honest about stuff like that. Now, through my maturity and awareness as an adult, I know that being honest is what makes me who I am today and Christian man. I have learned now how to identify and address negative emotions. When I am angry, I now know that it is not appropriate to project my anger onto other people. I take a time out. I pray. I process what I am feeling in the moment. This has helped me tremendously to calm down, as opposed to giving into the fears that I once had when I was a teenager and thought the worst of things. I have learned to address my cognitive distortions and impulsivity. I request this commutation based upon the reasons explained above.

Question 4: Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

I have spent the majority of my life incarcerated. While incarcerated, I have been bettering myself and preparing myself to be a responsible, productive, and compassionate member of society. As explained above, I have worked very hard to understand why I committed the crime, to take full responsibility for the crime, and to make sure that I will never commit a crime again. If granted a commutation, I would like to be a substance abuse counselor and dedicate my life to helping young men and women address the root causes of their addiction.

First, it is safe to grant me a commutation because I am no longer that angry teenager who lacked self-control over my emotions, who reacted out of fear and impulsive thoughts, feelings, urges, and actions. For over a decade I have not associated with gang members or been affiliated with criminals or a gang. Today I live a productive and responsibly lifestyle in my community of prison. I do not break the rules any more, nor do I have the desire to do so when I return to society. I understand that my misguided attempts as a child to make myself feel important at the expense of hurting others was wrong.

Second, I have benefited from my rehabilitation efforts while in prison, which changed my perspective about how I lived my life, conducted myself, and how I treated others. You will see this in the many support letters describing my character as a person that are from correctional staff, other inmates, sponsors, formerly incarcerated men, and others. I have been fortunate to build a support system that holds me accountable, encourages me to keep doing the right things, and that supports my goals and ambitions. My actions today are a testament to my personal transformation.

Third, I have accepted full responsibility for my actions and character defects. I have learned that anger is a secondary emotion, and what was driving my anger was being hurt from being neglected, abandoned, and physically, sexually, and emotionally abused. I had unrealistic expectations of others and would become angry whenever I didn't get my way. I have learned that I am not in control of what other people say or do to me, but I am in control of my own actions and how I think, behave, and respond to other people. I make my amends to Mr. Larios, his family, and the community, by conducting myself in a positive way with integrity, responsibility, and by treating others with respect. I don't believe that violence is the answer to solve any situation. I take time to process my thoughts and what I am feeling, and the consequences of any negative action(s). I understand that I cannot ameliorate the damage I caused to Mr. Victor Larios and his family. It took me years to realize the impact from my actions I caused to him personally and the ripple effect his family suffered due to my cowardly and selfish behavior. I affected our community and society by perpetuating this kind of violence. The Larios family has suffered and continue to be affected today by my actions. I am so sorry for causing Mr. Larios's caregiver Ms. Ramirez the pain and trauma she suffered by my actions devaluing human life and taking him away from her.

Finally, I have taken advantage of my rehabilitation efforts since 1999, and have support upon my release. In my efforts, I have earned many college credits, a career in the substance abuse field as a certified addiction treatment counselor (CATC), a machinist trade, and life skills I'll be taking with me that will neutralize the lack of problem solving skills I once had, and potential problems that will occur in the immediate future. I realize I will have to support myself financially and manage a budget and bank account upon release. I have a support system along with the transitional residence I hope to be living in for a period of six months to one year after my release. The Anti-Recidivism Coalition in Los Angeles has written a letter of support for me, and will assist me with my re-entry and connecting me with services in Los Angeles. HealthRIGHT360 in both San Francisco and Los Angeles have also found me eligible for their transitional housing, as you will see from their enclosed letters. My great auntie Tempie Green also will allow me to live with her until I find my own residence and employment. It is not my intent to become a parasite to my community nor to my support system.

I would like to take what I have learned to help others in the community and to continue to honor Mr. Larios's life. For these reasons, I hope and pray for relief and that you will give me the opportunity and a second chance. I thank you for your consideration in this matter, and may God bless you, Governor Jerry Brown.

Ngne Chi Tang

In 1996, Ngne Tang was a passenger in Truong Ly's car. Mr. Ly cut-off Christopher Hernandez. Mr. Hernandez, Mr. Ly, and Mr. Tang engaged in a shouting match. Mr. Tang motioned to Mr. Hernandez to pull over. Mr. Tang shot Mr. Hernandez in the head, killing him. On June 18, 1998, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Tang to 25 years to life for murder, plus a ten year firearm enhancement – a total term of 35 years to life. Mr. Tang is tentatively scheduled for a youth offender parole suitability hearing in November 2020.

Mr. Tang was 17 years old when he committed this crime and has been incarcerated for 22 years, more than half of his life. He has incurred only three rules violations during his prison term and relinquished his gang ties over a decade ago. Mr. Tang has dedicated himself to academics, earning a GED and five A.A. degrees. Mr. Tang has also focused on improving himself through self-help programs such as Criminal and Gang Members Anonymous, Anger Management, Alternatives to Violence, Getting Out by Going In, and Nonviolent Conflict Resolution.

Mr. Tang's marked turnaround and pleasant demeanor has been noticed by prison staff. A correctional officer wrote that Mr. Tang "has shown to be cooperative, polite, respectful, and courteous to both inmates and staff. I commend him for the positive behavior he displayed during my time at F-Wing. He has been programming well thus far." Another officer wrote, "Through my interaction with Inmate Tang I have observed him to be polite and courteous with his fellow inmates and staff alike." Mr. Tang volunteers his time in the recreational department. A supervisor wrote, "He has proved to be an asset to the officiating crew by keeping a cool head and setting an example to his peers by defusing heated situations normally associated with sporting events."

Mr. Tang committed a reckless crime. When he entered prison he was a gang member who lacked the skills necessary to be a contributing member of society. It is clear, however, that Mr. Tang has distinguished himself by his advancements in education and positive rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Tang has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Ngne Chi Tang to a total of 22 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

Dear Governor Brown:

I am the attorney for Mr. Nghe Chi Tang (CDC No. P05230). On behalf of Mr. Tang, I am petitioning you to commute his sentence to 20 years to life. On June 18, 1998, Mr. Tang was sentenced to 35 years to life for a crime he committed on September 18, 1996, when he was 17 years old; a crime for which he takes complete responsibility, and for which he experiences sincere regret and remorse.

That crime, however, was the product of a family and community in which Mr. Tang faced a consistent danger of physical violence, both at home and in the community. Mr. Tang's childhood and early adolescence were shaped by his gang values, violence and physical danger. Mr. Tang made poor and potentially tragic choices, but his choices were often dictated by forces beyond his control. At age 17, like most children, he lacked the judgment, maturity, and ability to extricate himself from the violence-plagued environment that surrounded him.

Since 1998, Mr. Tang has turned his life around in prison. As detailed in the attached exhibits, he has made serious and successful efforts to improve himself, has obtained the education he gave up outside prison walls, and made himself into a successful and functioning adult. He poses no risk to society and hopes to counsel at-risk youth. Accordingly, Mr. Tang respectfully requests that you commute his current sentence of 35 years to life to a sentence of 20 years to life.

For the reasons stated in this letter brief, I now petition your office for clemency on behalf of Mr. Tang, and formally request a commutation of sentence.

I. CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE LIFE CRIME

According to the official appellate opinion on this case:

On April 23, 1999, Nghe Chi Tang, age 17, a member of the "V-Boyz" gang, was in a silver car on Main Street in Alhambra, California. Mr. Tang was in the passenger seat while his friend, Truong Ly, drove the car. Mr. Ly "cut off" an oncoming pickup truck driven by Christopher Hernandez. Mr. Hernandez's fiancé was riding in the passenger seat. Mr. Hernandez pulled the truck to the left side of Mr. Ly's car, rolled down the passenger window, and began yelling at Mr. Ly and Mr. Tang. Mr. Tang yelled back at Mr. Hernandez. Mr. Hernandez started pulling his vehicle towards the silver car, trying to run it off the road. Mr. Ly maneuvered the car to the left of the truck, and Mr. Tang shot at Mr. Hernandez, hitting him in the head and arm. (See Exhibit B; Court of Appeal Opinion).

Mr. Tang was convicted of murder. He was sentenced to 35 years to life in prison: 25 years to life for the crime, plus a 10-year enhancement for personal use of a firearm.

II. MR. TANG'S REASONS FOR REQUESTING COMMUTATION

Mr. Tang has been incarcerated for 20 years – more than half of his life. While in prison, however, he has matured and dramatically altered his priorities in life. He takes full responsibility for his crime and the mistakes he made as an adolescent and as a young adult in prison. Mr. Tang recognizes the ripple effect of harm to the victim, his family, and the larger community because of his crime. As a result, he has dedicated his time in prison to gaining an education and helping as many people as he can, both within and beyond the facility where he is housed. Mr. Tang is a changed man who is eager to give back to the society from which he took so much as a young man. In light of Mr. Tang's positive development in prison, his youth and family circumstances at the time of the crime, and the length of his sentence, Mr. Tang is requesting a commutation of his sentence.

III. REASONS THAT MR. TANG'S SENTENCE SHOULD BE COMMUTED

A. REHABILITATION

Mr. Tang has rehabilitated himself in several important ways. First, Mr. Tang has been disassociated from gangs for several years. Since his disassociation, Mr. Tang has regularly participated in Criminals & Gang Members Anonymous. Mr. Tang's steady involvement in self-help classes – including Anger Management, Alcoholics Anonymous, and Narcotics Anonymous – has helped him process traumatic events – both those he experienced and those he caused. (See Exhibit C; Positive Chronos and Certificates).

In short, Nghe Chi Tang, after a chaotic youth in prison, has become a mature, reflective man who wants and deserves a chance to give back to society.

B. MR. TANG'S LIFE CIRCUMSTANCES AT THE TIME OF THE CRIME

Mr. Tang's family circumstances during his childhood and adolescence were tumultuous, abusive, and shot through with gang dynamics that were beyond his control. At age 8, Mr. Tang, a first-generation immigrant, witnessed the shooting of his neighborhood friend, Danny Situ. Mr. Situ told Mr. Tang to run for his life, so Mr. Tang ran and sought cover in a convenience store. Mr. Situ survived the shooting; however, the incident marked a pivotal point in Mr. Tang's life. Mr. Tang lived in a constant state of fear as a result of the shooting. Mr. Tang acted out by getting into trouble at school, for which his father would physically beat him with a wooden cane. On one occasion, Mr. Tang's teacher noticed he was walking with a limp. The teacher uncovered severe bruising on Mr. Tang's legs and called DCFS. Mr. Tang and his sister were removed from their parents' home and placed in foster care for approximately six weeks until returning home.

From age 12 until he was arrested for this crime, Mr. Tang was consistently living in group homes and camps, and almost never at a home which, although it was violent and abusive, was at least a stable environment. Mr. Tang also spent time in juvenile hall, where he was told to get into fights in order to gain respect.

It was under these circumstances that Mr. Tang soon joined "V-Boyz" and eventually committed his life crime.

C. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF MR. TANG'S AGE AT THE TIME OF THE CRIME

Mr. Tang was 17 at the time he committed this crime. The courts have consistently seen youthful age as a mitigating factor in guilt and in sentencing. In Roper v. Simmons, 543 U.S. 551 (2005), the United States Supreme Court found that, even in the most serious murder cases, youthful offenders cannot with reliability be classified among the worst offenders. (Id. at 569). As compared to adults, young offenders have a "lack of maturity and an underdeveloped sense of responsibility," they "are more vulnerable or susceptible to negative influences and outside pressure," and their character is "not as well formed." (Id. at 569-570). Five years later in Graham v. Florida, 560 U.S. 48 (2010), the Supreme Court went further in its analysis and recognized that the same differences between youths and adults are relevant to the constitutionality of sentences, and banned life without the possibility of parole (LWOP) for juveniles who commit non-homicide offenses. (Id. at 74-75.) The Court repeated Roper's reasoning that because youthful offenders have lessened culpability, they are less deserving of the most severe punishments. (Id. at 75). Finally, the California Supreme Court extended Graham's holding to a type of sentence that is particularly common in California: functional LWOP for non-homicide crimes, concluding that such sentences are per se unconstitutional. (People v. Caballero, 55 Cal.4th 262, 268-69 (2012))

While Mr. Tang would not have been covered under Caballero, he is assuredly covered by the Miller line of cases. The California Legislature, recognizing the magnitude of having tens of thousands of young people serving long sentences, has created the Youth Offender Parole Hearing to deal with this problem. Juvenile offenders – and now many young adult offenders – are entitled to early hearings, at which they have the opportunity to prove that they are ready to reenter society, at 15, 20 or 25 years.

The dates of these hearings, however, do not reflect the individualized culpability of each youthful offender, taking into account everything the youthful offender has done since incarceration, which is a requirement under the Graham-Miller-Montgomery line of cases. (See, e.g., People v. Gutierrez, 58 Cal.4th 1354, 1378 (2014) ("[I]mposition of the harshest punishment on a juvenile requires individualized sentencing that takes into account an offender's 'youth (and all that accompanies it)'" quoting Miller v. Alabama, 132 S.Ct. 2455, 2464, 2469 (2012)).

This “one-size-fits-all” parole scheme cannot comport with these individualized sentencing requirements. For example, the fact that Mr. Tang was 17 years of age at the time of his crime, the fact that he faced special burdens as a child, and the fact that he has made tremendous strides in maturity and rehabilitation should be reflected in his parole eligibility date, not merely his ability to make a case for parole. At a time when juvenile offenders who were sentenced to life without parole are receiving parole hearings at 25 years, Mr. Tang’s lesser culpability and youth should advance the date of his eligibility.

As the U.S. Supreme Court recognized in Herrera v. Collins, 506 U.S. 390, 415 (1993) “[e]xecutive clemency has provided the “fail safe” in our criminal justice system.” Although in Herrera, the death penalty was at issue, it is generally accepted that executive clemency is an appropriate remedy for an unjust sentence, especially when there is no other remedy at law. This is the case for Mr. Tang. While the creation of Youth Offender Parole Hearings was an enormously important step to address the widespread injustice of sentencing young offenders to long sentences, it should not blind the state to the fact that some youthful offenders deserve even further relief.

Mr. Tang is precisely one of those youthful offenders. Had Mr. Tang been charged today, at age 17, he would have been guaranteed an attorney before being interrogated by the police. (Welf. & Inst. Code § 625.6) He would have received a transfer hearing pursuant to Proposition 57, where his background and immaturity could have been explored. (Welf. & Inst. Code § 707(b).) The judge would have had the discretion to reduce or strike his weapon enhancement, to make his sentence more proportional to his culpability. (Pen. Code § 12022.5(c).) But in 1996, as a child facing a long life sentence, Mr. Tang had none of these protections. Nor did he have a proper sentencing hearing, during which he could present mitigation evidence. These laws now exist because of a widespread recognition that the then existing scheme, and the resulting sentences, violate the U.S. and California constitutions, as well as human dignity. A parole hearing for Mr. Tang after 25 years, while very welcome, is too long a delay.

For these reasons, when considering the facts of the life crime, and the impulsivity and poor judgment displayed, Mr. Tang’s age at the time – only 17 years old – should be deemed a mitigating factor for purposes of a reduction in sentence.

D. POST-RELEASE PLANS AND COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Mr. Tang has been preparing for life after prison for over a decade. He has seized as many opportunities for vocational training as possible, in an effort to equip himself skills for when he is paroled. He earned his GED, has earned several Associate’s degrees, and is currently working towards a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology. (See Exhibit C; Positive Chronos and Certificates). Upon his parole, he plans on maintaining strict self-discipline and only go to work and then go home. He does not want to intentionally or accidentally put himself in any position that will threaten his parole and life.

Additionally, Mr. Tang is a client of Loyola Law School’s Juvenile Innocence and Fair Sentencing (JIFS) Clinic, which works with its clients through their reentry to ensure their successful and productive transition into the community. The JIFS Clinic, one of three clinics at Loyola Law School's Center for Juvenile Law & Policy, is committed to the Center's founding ideal of "holistic representation," which means that the Clinic, its students and attorneys, are not just committed to Mr. Tang's release, but to his successful reintegration into society. In the past, law students from the JIFS Clinic have helped clients locate transitional housing, obtain identification documents, find jobs, and connect with family members. JIFS students have accompanied clients to their parole appointments, transitional housing placements, and substance abuse groups. Most importantly, because of its connection to the legal community, the JIFS Clinic has connected clients to at-risk youth, where lifer parolees have unique credibility. Accordingly, the JIFS Clinic, as it has done with its other clients, will connect Mr. Tang to the appropriate resources, services, and support systems he needs in order to become the contributing member of society he aspires to be.

IV. CONCLUSION

Mr. Tang will never forget the crime that put him in prison. He takes full responsibility for shooting Mr. Hernandez, and subsequently altering many people's lives for the worse. He is ashamed of his actions and deeply sorry for committing this impulsive crime. In the 20 years that Mr. Tang has been incarcerated, he has matured, received an education, obtained practical job training, and pursued every available avenue for service to others. For the reasons stated above, justice will lie in this case if Mr. Tang is granted clemency and commutation of sentence.

On behalf of Mr. Tang and his family, I respectfully ask that Mr. Tang's sentence be commuted to 20 years to life. Thank you in advance for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Christopher Hawthorne (SB 210578)

Mannie Thomas III

On May 22, 2004, Mannie Thomas III committed a drive-by shooting after being kicked out of a residential party. While standing outside, Brian Scott was shot in both legs, but survived. On February 3, 2006, the Orange County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Thomas to 7 years to life for attempted murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement—a total of 32 years to life. Mr. Thomas has a youth offender parole eligible date of May 2023.

Mr. Thomas is 36 years old and has been incarcerated for 14 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Thomas stated, "I take full responsibility for the terrible crime I committed at age 22. I know my sentence of life for attempted murder was just." In an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Thomas somberly explained that up to and including the date of his crime, he used violence to dominate people and to feel valuable. He acknowledges that his request for a commutation is a request for "mercy" based upon his conduct in prison for more than a decade.

Mr. Thomas entered prison at a young age. He has never been disciplined for serious misconduct, and has never involved himself with gangs, drugs or violence. Instead, he chose to make educational gains. He has earned an A.S. degree in Business Management. He subsequently earned four A.A. degrees, including in Social and Behavioral Science and Mathematics and Science. He explained to the Board investigator that his educational accomplishments elevated his self-esteem. Mr. Thomas subsequently completed training and obtained a job developing comprehensive student education plans for other inmates. A supervisor wrote that he was an "outstanding Palo Verde College Clerk/Tutor specializing in the areas of English and Business."

Mr. Thomas also completed vocational programs. He earned certificates of career preparation in information technology literacy, and management information systems. Mr. Thomas also participated in numerous self-help programs, including Nonviolence Conflict Reconciliation, Breaking Barriers, Inside Out Writers, Emotional Intelligence, Anger Management, and Crime Impact. He has been an inmate facilitator of several programs, including Success Stories, and Alternatives to Violence. During his interview with the Board investigator, Mr. Thomas spoke very passionately about how these self-help programs encouraged him to consider the role he played in creating his current circumstance, and to regularly visualize the plan he has for his life. In the event of his release, he plans to continue his support of organizations that facilitate inmate rehabilitation. Currently, he volunteers for Life CYCLE, a diversion program for at-risk youth. Mr. Thomas is also a mentor in a youth offender program for inmates.

Mr. Thomas committed a senseless crime, but he has since distinguished himself by his exemplary conduct and rehabilitation in prison. For the foregoing reasons, I believe that Mr. Thomas has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Mannie Thomas III to a total of 14 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Attachment in Response to Question #3

I recently learned about the possibility of commutation during my documentation hearing. Commissioner Dianne Dobbs was extremely complimentary about my accomplishments during incarceration. She encouraged me to apply for a commutation, explaining that it might result in me obtaining an early parole consideration hearing.

Attachment in Response to Question #4

I take full responsibility for the terrible crime I committed at age 22. I know my sentence of life for attempted murder was just. But I seek mercy and request commutation of that sentence. I realize this is an extraordinary request, but I respectfully suggest that my accomplishments since my incarceration 14 years ago justify it.

As I will explain in more detail below, these accomplishments include:

- No CDCR 115 disciplinary violations during my incarceration.
- I have earned five AA degrees, in addition to five professional certificates. (See Appendix A.)
- I have prepared myself for a career in facilities maintenance, having received vocational training in bloodborne pathogen and chemical cleaning. I have already put this training to use cleaning my institution's healthcare facilities and have received a certificate of appreciation for that work. (See Appendix B.)
- I have participated in numerous self-health group in various areas including substance abuse recovery, nonviolent conflict resolution, and emotional intelligence. (See Appendix C.)
- My work (and that of other inmates) toward self-improvement was featured this year on CNN. (The show, The Feminist on Cellblock Y, can be seen online at <https://www.cnn.com/videos/us/2018/04/18/the-feminist-on-cellblock-y-doc-orig.cnn>.)
- I have received numerous laudatory chronos. (See Appendix D.)
- Many people support my release, as shown by their letters. (See Appendix E.) This includes one of the jurors on my case who has since visited me in prison and become a friend. She has even introduced me to her son, whom she brought to visit me when he was headed down the wrong path. Another supporter is my wife, whom I have known since high school. We married in 2016.

While an attorney helped to prepare this application, and will assist me if I am granted an early parole hearing, the following essay was written exclusively by me to explain why I believe that commutation is appropriate. The words have not been changed by my lawyer or anyone else:

Our system is no longer concerned with only punishment but instead with rehabilitation. I believe my behavior over these past 14 years of incarceration is an example of what rehabilitation looks like for those who diligently seek it. At the conclusion of my consultation hearing, I left with the feeling that "who I have become is what the Board of Prison Terms is looking for." I believe if given the opportunity to display my suitability, the Governor and other commissioners will agree.

I understand that my low self-esteem derived from my belief that my existence was an accident, feelings of being an outcast and rejection all contributed to my committing this horrible crime. I developed a pattern of using violence to dominate people and to feel I had value, whenever I felt less than or rejected. I know now that my inability to extricate myself from this behavior was in part due to my immaturity, recklessness, and not being cognizant of my actions or their long-term consequences.

None of this diminishes the harm I caused to Brian Scott, Lorenzo Moraes, Omar Moreno and the rest of the outstanding community. I tainted what should have been a joyous birthday celebration with memories of fear, uncertainty, pain, and despair, and I'm sure many, many more birthdays to follow. I remember Mr. Brian Scott said during trial that when the doctor was explaining his injuries, he wasn't sure if he could ever fulfill his dream of becoming a professional motocross rider. Ever since then it has continued to stick with me that the consequences of my actions may have destroyed a man's dreams. I now see that violence isn't the key to solving my problems, really it has only ever compounded them with more problems. I hope that my actions over the past 14 years have demonstrated that I no longer rely on violence, and that the work I've put in displays my remorse and indirect amends.

I wish that I could say that I have always been a healthy productive member of society but, at the age of 22 I committed an egregious crime for which I am extremely remorseful. I am thankful for the things I've learned and how they have shaped me into who I am today.

Today I am a model inmate with no disciplinary record, a continuous active programmer who has also created programs, maintained support from society, and developed insight into my past behavior while showing evidence of my rehabilitation. Over the past 14 years I have participated in many different spiritual studies which include Kairos, Crossroads Bible Study Program, Eleven Essential Doctrines of Faith, and many others from different faiths. All have helped me to develop a sense of peace through mutual respect, forgiveness for myself and others, self-examination, and social justice by gaining a better understanding of one's own culture as well as the culture of others.

I have also participated in numerous self-help programs to make sure I understand why I committed my crime. These include Inside-out Writers, three different anger management groups, Alcoholics Anonymous, Breaking Barriers, Cemanahuac Cultural Group, Success Stories, Cornerstone, and Alternative to Violence Project. I have also co-founded two groups the first deals with emotional intelligence. Participants are introduced to the five elements that are essential to an individual's acceptance of responsibility, accountability, growth, happiness, and success. The second focuses on social groups, peer groups, organizational membership, and intimate relationships. Having these relationships in a healthy way will increase emotional wellbeing, create stability, and assist one in successfully re-entering society.

During my time of incarceration, I have continuously demonstrated maturity, positive life choices, and leadership qualities. While at Ironwood State Prison, this pro-social behavior presented me with the opportunity to be a mentor in the Youth Offender

Program. It was a privilege to help shift the mindset of youthful offenders to begin making better decisions and encourage them to enroll in self-help programs and educational programs according to their personal case factors. I was able to help them navigate this difficult prison environment by building a rapport, providing useful information, insight, and tools to remain positive and productive along this journey and beyond. By showing them there are people who will support them making positive life choices I discovered I could give back in a way unique to only prisoners.

Although, all of this was essential to my transformation none was more paramount than the furthering of my education. In 2009, I enrolled in the Palo Verde College program. By 2013 I was on the Dean's List four times which elevated my self-esteem tremendously. People telling me I was smart was one thing but discovering it for myself through hard work and dedication made it more real. In 2015, I received one Certificate for Completion, four Certificates of Career Preparation, and five Associate Degrees. After graduating Cum Laude, I was hired as a college tutor, clerk, and education planner.

It is true that at one point society was better off without me, but now I know that I can give back in a way that is unique to formerly incarcerated people. I've discovered the "why" behind my actions, addressed my character defects and have undergone cognitive and behavioral therapy. I continue to make indirect amends by sharing my insight with Palma High School students, Hartnell College students and being a leader of the "Men Built for Others" team that works with a non-profit organization raising tuition money from other inmates to give a young man a life changing opportunity by receiving a quality education. I believe in community and I am thankful my community never stopped believing in me. These are some of my accomplishments while incarcerated, my promise is that even these will pale in comparison to the ones that follow when I am reintroduced into society.

Alvin Timbol

On November 14, 1995, Mr. Timbol and his friends decided to steal computer equipment from David Hessler's car. Mr. Hessler was awakened by noise of the break-in and exited his home, causing the burglars to flee. As they drove away, Mr. Timbol leaned outside the car window and fired a shot, striking Mr. Hessler once in the chest, killing him. On March 26, 2010, the San Diego County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Timbol to 15 years to life for murder plus 10 years for a firearm enhancement—a total term of 25 years to life.

Mr. Timbol was 19 years old when he committed this crime; he is now 42 and has been incarcerated for more than nine years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Timbol wrote, "While Mr. Hessler's murder remained unsolved for 14 years, I carried the burden of knowing that I had killed a man. I was cowardly and selfish for not turning myself in to the authorities the morning the incident happened; leaving Mr. Hessler's fiancée and family with devastation and unanswered questions[.] They deserved justice for Mr. Hessler's murder." Mr. Timbol has expressed great remorse for his crime and sought to make amends for his actions. Mr. Timbol regularly provides monetary and administrative support for fundraisers for veterans and other charitable organizations, and also contributes to a monthly publication that is distributed to juvenile halls. He has sought self-improvement by participating in self-help programs such as Anger Management, Nonviolent Communication, Restorative Justice Roundtable, and Alternatives to Violence. He has also facilitated other self-help groups for his peers.

Most importantly, in 2018, a correctional sergeant wrote in support of clemency stating that Mr. Timbol helped save his life in 2016 by assisting him when he was choking and could not breathe. The sergeant wrote, "Thanks to this selfless individual, inmate Timbol who saved my life, I'm still here with my family and loved ones and working in place I love. Inmate Timbol helped me when he didn't have to." The sergeant continued, "Through my interactions and observations, inmate Timbol is a very respectful and responsible person that has a great work ethic. He continuously displays professionalism and conducts himself in a respectful manner when dealing with custody, volunteers, and his fellow inmates." He concluded by stating, "I am confident that Inmate Timbol would not pose a risk of danger or threat to public safety should his sentence be commuted."

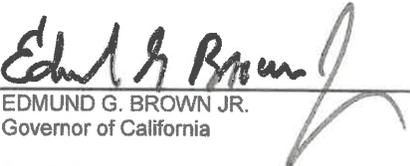

Mr. Timbol has also been commended by other staff members who know him well. He routinely received exceptional work ratings. A correctional officer who supports his application for clemency commented that within the last three years, Mr. Timbol had been promoted to "a trusted position that consists of more responsibilities as being a liaison between volunteers, inmates, and staff regarding self-help programs to help them run smoothly." A principal in the education department commented that "Mr. Timbol's knowledge and assistance has made the start-up process of this new [education] program very smooth and successful." A computer literacy instructor wrote in support of his request for a commutation, stating that Mr. Timbol "is currently in my lead Clerk's position, where he is tasked with helping in the training of 54 students in various levels on computer based projects and applications." The instructor concluded, "It is my firm belief that if Mr. Timbol is granted a commutation of sentence, he will be a contributing member to our community."

Mr. Timbol committed a senseless crime that continues to impact Mr. Hessler's loved ones. While I do not diminish the grave nature of his offense, I am moved by his dedication to rehabilitation. For these reasons, I believe he has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Alvin Timbol to a total of 14 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Question #2: Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a commutation:

On the early morning of November 14, 1995, Sean Azeez, Buzie Weimer, Khoi Bruster, Alvin Figuracion, and I drove to a quiet neighborhood located in University City, San Diego. After searching the area, we saw Mr. David Hessler's Nissan Pathfinder parked in the driveway. We then proceeded to burglarize the vehicle that contained computer equipment. In the commission of the burglary, Mr. Hessler and his fiancée Ms. Kim Kuney were awakened by the commotion. Mr. Hessler then proceeded outside his home to investigate the issue. When we heard Mr. Hessler start to exit his front door, we ran to Sean Azeez' car. I sat in the front passenger side. Once we started to flee, I saw Mr. Hessler chasing after us. That's when I made the poor choice to brandish my gun and shoot at Mr. Hessler as we sped away. I later learned that he died on his front lawn before the paramedics arrived. Mr. Hessler's murder remained unsolved for almost 14 years.

Question #3: Explain why you are requesting a commutation:

While Mr. Hessler's murder remained unsolved for almost 14 years, I carried the burden of knowing that I had killed a man. I was cowardly and selfish for not turning myself in to the authorities the morning the incident happened, leaving Mr. Hessler's fiancée and family with the devastation and unanswered questions to why did this have to happen to them. I can only fathom the amount of mental stress, heartache, pain, and agony that I had put Mr. Hessler's family and loved ones through for more than a decade. They deserved justice for Mr. Hessler's murder and when the time came for me to turn myself in, I complied because I knew it was the right thing for me to do and to take full responsibility for causing Mr. Hessler's death.

Since the beginning of my incarceration, I have had no in-prison violence and I've remained disciplinary free for over nine (9) years. I've managed to stay clear of the prison politics and avoided trouble at all costs. I've been allotted to work in high profile positions as a trusted Lieutenant's Clerk and Community Partnership Manager's Clerk. Till this day, I remain proactive by continuing to take multiple self-help programs while working as the Community Partnership Manager's (CPM) Clerk. My position as a CPM Clerk benefits me to be of service to all the self-help programs, outside sponsors, and inmates. Making amends is a daily goal for me when I made it my purpose to help others. I've learned about the commutation process here in San Quentin State Prison. I decided to enter my petition based on the work, my growth and improvements I've made in regards to my rehabilitation. I'm eligible for youth parole in 2028. I've had no criminal record before and after the worst mistake of my life when I murdered Mr. Hessler. I find that there is always room for improvement regardless of my situation. I continue to work on myself, model pro-social behaviors, and continue to work as a Community Partnership Manager's clerk in San Quentin State Prison.

Question 4: Provide a brief statement explain why you should be granted a commutation:

It is not for me to say that I should be granted a commutation, I can only be grateful if granted a commutation to be given the opportunity to show the Parole Board who I am today and that I am no longer the same impulsive individual that I was when I was 19 years old. I turned myself in on May 12, 2009 and I came into CDCR on April of 2010. Instead of partaking in the prison politics, I continued to work on becoming a better individual on a daily basis. I took advantage of all the opportunities that CDCR had to offer when it came to self-help programs so I can prepare myself one day for re-entry back into society. I took my freedom for granted when I killed Mr. Hessler and fled like a coward for 14 years. I've learned so much from my experience of being incarcerated, I know that I would continue to be a productive member of society if given the opportunity to parole.

There is no justification to why I killed Mr. Hessler, for he did not deserve to die. My destructive lifestyle in my past and the poor choices that I made eventually led me to kill Mr. Hessler. I understand the magnitude, hurt, harm, devastation, and impact that I've caused to the Hessler family and Ms. Kim Kuney, it will forever remain in their memories. I know that there is nothing that I can do or say to bring Mr. Hessler back. I wish every day that I could take back that horrible morning when I shot and killed Mr. Hessler.

Today, I'm a kind, caring, and pro-social individual that values life. I continue to take full responsibility for my actions by bettering myself so I may live in Mr. Hessler's honor. Killing Mr. Hessler was the worst thing that I've done and I'll live with that regret every day for the rest of my life. I know that I will never kill or harm anyone again because all life is precious. I understand the magnitude and impact of the trauma and agony that I have caused to the Hessler Family, Ms. Kim Kuney, and to all of Mr. Hessler friends and loved ones is irreparable. I welcome any questions from the BPH and look forward to any concerns whether or not I pose a threat to society. Again, I am grateful to have been given this opportunity and I thank you for your time and consideration.

Laura Troiani

In 1979, Carlo Troiani married his third wife, Laura Troiani. During the summer of 1984, Ms. Troiani met her co-defendants, U.S. Marines, Mark Schultz, Russell Harrison, Jeffrey Mizner, Kevin Watkins and Russell Sanders. Ms. Troiani had conversations with them regarding her unhappy marriage and wanted him killed. On August 10, 1984, Ms. Troiani called Mr. Troiani, and told him her car broke down. Ms. Troiani remained in the car, while Mr. Harrison and Mr. Schulz hid behind some bushes. When Mr. Troiani arrived, he pulled his car parallel to his wife's and got out. When Mr. Troiani was between the two cars, Mr. Schulz shot him in the lower back. He tried to crawl under Ms. Troiani's car as he called out to her for help. Mr. Schulz pulled him out and shot him in the back of the neck, killing him. On November 2, 1987, the San Diego County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Troiani to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a 1-year firearm enhancement.

In her application for clemency, Ms. Troiani explained that she was raised in a household "where the threat of violence was always present" and she "learned to be fearful and powerless around men." She witnessed her father's abusive behavior toward her mother, which she claimed was "devastating" to her self-esteem and self-worth. The abusive environment only continued when Ms. Troiani married her husband, who was 14 years her senior. She stated the abuse that she suffered at the hands of her husband started just three weeks into their marriage. Ms. Troiani described her husband as "indestructible," and "as the person who inflicted so much pain, brokenness, and heartache..." Evidence from the appellate record supports Ms. Troiani's assertions that her husband was violent and abusive. The court indicated Ms. Troiani's defense counsel wanted Mr. Troiani's first wife to testify as to his violent temper, his verbal threats to her friends, and his occasional violence before their divorce in 1967. Another of Mr. Troiani's ex-wives reported that he had a very "explosive" and "abusive" personality. There were instances where he would mistreat their son in front of Ms. Troiani. The court also admitted a "significant amount of evidence" from six witnesses, which supported Ms. Troiani's claims of the physical and mental abuse to which she was subjected. In 2001, an expert on family violence interviewed Ms. Troiani and stated that she is "convinced that Troiani and her children were terrorized by her husband... Ms. Troiani and her children lived in real fear of this man, and based on past experiences, they were convinced that he would follow through on his threats. Ms. Troiani was certain that her death, and possibly her children's death was inevitable."

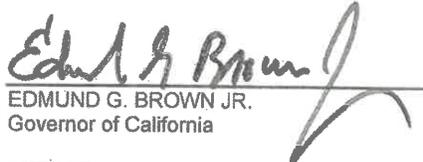

Ms. Troiani is now 57 years old and has been incarcerated for over 34 years. She has no prior criminal history and has only been disciplined once for non-violent misconduct in over three decades. Ms. Troiani has been a positive role model in prison and has demonstrated that she has fully rehabilitated herself. Ms. Troiani has completed numerous self-help programs, including Women of Wisdom, Domestic Violence, Creative Conflict, and Anger Management. In 2017, a Correctional Sergeant wrote "there are many projects you have been involved in during your incarceration, however, I consider you to be a role model to the inmate population and I wanted to recognize all of your positive accomplishments..." In 2014, after a 26-year career, a Correctional Counselor wrote, "I've witnessed noticeable growth, maturity, both mentally and emotionally. [Ms. Troiani] continues to maintain a role model level of behavior in her interactions with staff, inmates and volunteers whenever she interacts with them." Also, a supervisor wrote "the most important clue to her character is her unwillingness to give up or give in to the weight of her sentence...she works every day to make her life behind bars meaningful and relevant."

I do not discount the gravity of this crime, but I also believe Ms. Troiani's account of the significant domestic abuse by her husband at the time of the crime and see that she has since distinguished herself by her exemplary conduct in prison and her commitment to rehabilitation. For these reasons, I believe that Ms. Troiani has earned the opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Laura Troiani to a total of 35 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Addendum to Question #2: Briefly describe the circumstances of the crime(s) for which you are requesting a commutation.

On August 10, 1985, my husband, Carlo Troiani, a Marine, was shot and killed by another member of the military, Mark Schulz. A few weeks prior to the murder, Mark asked me about my husband's abuse and I shared with him that Carlo had been physically and psychologically abusing me since our 3rd week of marriage. I shared that I had gone to the military about the domestic violence and was turned away. The commanding officer told me that he would look in to it, but he never followed up.

On the day of the murder, Mark and my other co-defendants, Russell Harrison, Russell Sanders, Kevin Watkins, and Jeffrey Mizner, who were also Marines, asked me to purchase bullets for them. I did so, and believed them when they said they would use the bullets for target practice.

Shortly after the bullets were purchased, my co-defendants told me to meet them in a secluded area, so they could "teach Carlo a lesson" regarding the abuse. I followed their instructions. My co-defendant, Russell Sanders called my husband on the telephone and told him I was having car trouble and to meet me on North River Road, the secluded area where I was parked. When Carlo arrived, Mark emerged from nearby bushes and shot and killed my husband. I sat behind the steering wheel of my parked car as he was murdered, mentally and physically frozen. I personally never saw the gun, nor did I know Mark had one with him when I was parked at the scene of the crime.

When I returned home, in shock and denial, I called the police to inquire about any information they had about Carlo. I was arrested within 9 hours of Carlo's murder.

Addendum to Question #3: Explain why you are requesting a commutation.

I am requesting a commutation of my Life Without Parole sentence so that I can have the opportunity to go before the Parole Board and demonstrate my rehabilitation, insight, and accomplishments. I am no longer the scared, insecure, and passive young woman who participated in the murder of her husband. I am a stable, healed, and accountable 56-year-old woman who has accomplished a great deal during her incarceration, and has been free of any serious disciplinary infractions for 31 years.

Throughout my incarceration, I have intentionally sought out a deeper understanding of my history, my abuse, and the actions and mental state that lead to my involvement in the murder of my abusive husband. I take full accountability for my actions and inaction that led to my husband losing his life. For example, I believed Mark and my other co-defendants when they said asked me to purchase bullets claiming that they would be used for target practice. I also believed my co-defendants when they said they would only "teach Carlo a lesson." I was in denial that I would be contributing to causing harm or violence to Carlo. At the time of the crime, I viewed Carlo as indestructible. As the person who inflicted so much pain, brokenness and heartache in my life, I was in denial that he could die.

I was desperate for a "prince charming" to rescue me from the abuse. I adopted this belief as a child who was sexually and physically abused by her father; and then experienced similar abuse in her marriage. I blindly trusted that Mark and the others would rescue me and keep me safe. I was unable to stop the violence of my co-defendant due to a belief that I was powerless. I believed that if I tried to stop Mark from hurting and ultimately killing Carlo, he would turn on me and kill me next. I did not believe I could do anything to prevent violence.

I also disassociated from violent situations as a coping mechanism and this contributed to my inability to stop both the violence that happened to me by Carlo's hands and the violence that ended Carlo's life.

In trying to understand how I could have contributed to Carlo's death, I have unpacked my history of abuse. As a 23-year-old, I was in denial, in need of rescuing and was in self-destructive patterns. I believe I had nothing left to live for and that love meant being hurt. Carlo threatened to remove me from my children, he constantly belittled me and had a quick temper. Pain was always present. I believed I could "fix" him and that I could bring change and just be the best hostess, wife, mother by not being myself. I had lost me long before and had no idea who I was. I would do anything to make him happy and he took advantage of my vulnerabilities.

As a child, I was raised in a household where the threat of violence was always present and I learned to be fearful and powerless around men. I witnessed my father's continuous physical abuse of my mother. My father began to direct his abusive behavior towards me when I was 6-years-old. I was sexually abused by my father and adult male friends of his for three years. This abuse was devastating to my self-esteem and self-worth, as the man who was supposed to protect me was regularly violating my physical boundaries and putting me in danger by consenting to the abuse by his friends. By the time I was 17, I had dropped out of school and had my first child. I had no idea what was real or where to build a life for myself. I didn't know how to love myself. At the age of 18, I chose to marry a man, Carlo Troiani, who was 14 years older than me. He was a Marine and was similar to my abusive, unloving, demanding father.

Both of Carlo's previous marriages ended due to his violent, abusive behavior. He began abusing me during our 3rd week of marriage when he returned home one night drunk, angry, and cussing loudly. He pushed me against a wall and began to strangle me. After this incident, I packed up my bags and took my 9-week-old son to a friend's house. Eventually, I returned to my husband. He begged for me to return and as a high school drop-out and young mother, I didn't believe I had the resources to leave. I was uneducated about the cycles of violence. This was just the beginning of my husband's abuse. He nearly killed me too many times to count. Eventually, I sought assistance from the military for the domestic violence and was not taken seriously. The commanding officer told me that he would look in to it, but he never followed up with me.

I recognize the ways in which I used disassociation during the time of the crime to prevent myself from truly being present to the horrible reality of Carlo's murder. As a result, I was unable to prevent it. I now understand the level of harm I have caused through my participation in Carlo's murder. To say "I didn't mean or intend for this to happen" is sugar coating the senseless loss of life. Over the past 3 decades, I've attempted to put myself in Carlo's children's shoes to have empathy for how it would feel to have your father murdered. It is an unspeakable loss for Carlos' family and his military community, who were also negatively impacted by his death. I have committed to not only understanding how my past of abuse led to my complicity in Carlo's murder, but also how I can continue to give back to society for this crime.

Addendum to Question #4: Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a commutation.

It is safe to grant me a commutation of sentence because I am no longer the fearful, passive woman who would participate in harming another individual. I will not participate in any other crimes because I have healed the parts of myself that contributed to my participation in Carlo's murder.

Throughout my incarceration, I have participated in numerous groups and programs. My motivation is to improve my self-awareness and coping skills and to involve myself in giving back to society as a form of living amends for the harm I have caused. Each of these groups and programs has given me different tools and insight into my past. With each group that I have completed, I have been able to expand my tool box. I've put countless hours into my personal healing.

Most notable is my work to understand Domestic Violence and how it contributed to my participation in Carlo's murder. I was involved with Convicted Women Against Abuse for a total of 13 years. In that group, I openly discussed my past for the first time and learned that I was not just a victim but also a survivor. This shift allowed me to feel agency and empowerment that I had not ever experienced before. It allowed me to humanize myself and have the courage to understand my triggers. I continued this work with Dr. Ponath in a Domestic Violence Intensive for three years. My work to understand Domestic Violence taught me about the cycles of violence and the ways in which I was manipulated to believe I could "fix" my abusive husband. I've dealt with these issues of co-dependency in Codependency Anonymous, a 12-step group that I have facilitated. In this group, I learned about the false belief system that if I kept myself passive, I would not provoke my husband to cause me harm. I now know that there was nothing I could do to stop his violence and what I needed to focus on was getting myself and my children to safety, so that he wouldn't cause harm to me or others. Codependency Anonymous, as well as Alcoholics Anonymous and ALANON, allowed me understand my relationship patterns as addictive in nature. The 12-steps have been a powerful compliment to my strong spirituality and daily practice of Judaism. Due to my grasp of the material, I facilitated this support group within CIW and supported others in their healing.

I have gained a profound awareness of the far reaching consequences and impact that my crime caused through my work in Victim Impact and Restorative Justice. My work in Domestic Violence allowed me to understand my own causative factors of prolonged childhood sexual abuse and domestic violence. Once I gained that insight, I was prepared to look deeply at how my actions and inactions caused grave harm to others. I first participated in and then led the group on Victim Impact and continue to do work on Restorative Justice. I now conceive of the victims of my crime as extending far beyond Carlo to include his family, his children, his friends, his military community, and those who may not have known Carlo but were impacted by hearing about his murder. I strongly believe that we are all connected and that crime damages connection; our actions can harm or heal everyone who we are connected to. I now have a profound respect for myself and all living beings and would never participate in actions that harm others.

In addition to my healing work, I have certifications that would allow me to be a productive and safe member of society if I were to be granted commutation and parole. I have been certified as a dog trainer through the CIW Prison Pup Program and have successfully trained several dogs, who have gone on to support people with disabilities and children with autism on the outside. I have worked as both a primary trainer, secondary trainer, and puppy sitter. I also support other prisoners who are going through the program. I plan to pursue this work in society if I am ever granted parole. As a dog trainer, I can be hired at the C.S.T. Canine facility. I have found a lot of meaning in working with animals and giving back to society through my skills as a dog-trainer.

I am prepared to succeed in society. My work as a dog trainer will help me transition back to society with a sense of purpose. In addition, I plan to seek out ongoing therapy, 12-step groups, such as ALANON and Codependency Anonymous. I also plan to surround myself with positive, healthy people including several friends I have close relationships and my step-father, who has been an emotional rock for me throughout my decades of incarceration. I will get involved in a local synagogue and the Jewish community in the area where I parole. I was accepted to Harbor House, a transitional program in San Francisco and plan to take advantage of the support and services they offer.

As a 56-year-old woman, I feel as though I am ready to have a chance to prove my rehabilitation and healing to the parole board. I would be so grateful for an opportunity to live the last decades of my life as an active member of the community, who is dedicated to living life as a constant amends to my husband, Carlo Troiani, whose murder I participated in. While I do not believe I deserve a commutation, I would be very grateful to be commuted to a parole-eligible sentence.

Jesus Trujillo

On November 19, 2010, 17-year-old Jesus Trujillo and two fellow gang members were standing outside the home of rival gang member Jonathan Escobar. One of them sent Mr. Escobar a text message telling him to come outside. When Mr. Escobar exited his home, Mr. Trujillo and the others shot and killed him. On March 21, 2012, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Trujillo to 25 years to life for murder plus an additional 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement – a total term of 50 years to life in prison. Mr. Trujillo is currently eligible for a youth offender parole hearing in 2034.

In an interview with an investigator for the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Trujillo explained that he had begun associating with gangs, drinking alcohol, and using drugs when he was 12 or 13 years old. He reported that he tried to act "bad and tough" so he would not get bullied and picked on. In his application for clemency, Mr. Trujillo wrote, "Since the beginning of my incarceration I've had the blessing of being surrounded by positive people and with their help, guidance, advice and support I began to question why it was I became such an angry teen." Mr. Trujillo said when he came to prison, he realized that he could not continue living the gang lifestyle and wanted to become a positive role model for his daughter.

Mr. Trujillo has now been incarcerated for nearly eight years. In that time, he has shown remarkable growth and a strong commitment to his rehabilitation. He stopped associating with gangs and has completely avoided drugs and alcohol. In fact, Mr. Trujillo has never been disciplined for any misconduct in prison. He earned his GED and maintained a positive work record as a barber and working on the kitchen crew. Mr. Trujillo has participated in multiple self-help programs including Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous, Parenting, Victim Sensitivity, and Alternatives to Violence. He has lived on the Lancaster Progressive Programming Facility since 2013, and participates in a program that trains shelter dogs for future adoption. In 2018, one correctional officer praised Mr. Trujillo for his positive behavior and attitude and wrote, "Every inmate in CDCR has decisions to make on a daily basis. It is clear the decisions being made by Trujillo are of good nature and geared toward his own self-rehabilitation."

Very few inmates – especially those as young as Mr. Trujillo – transform themselves as significantly as he has during his time in prison. He has earned an earlier opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole. Mr. Trujillo is on the right path and should continue his rehabilitative efforts in the coming years.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Jesus Trujillo to a total of 15 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

2. On November 19, 2010 Johnathan Escobar was at his residence when he recieved a text message from one of my codefendant's cellphone asking him to come out of his house to the front gate of his apartment building, when he did so we shot at Johnathan multiple times murdering him. Prior to the tragic event I was at the residence of Nathalie Roman, I along with my codefendants stayed there several hours drinking alchohol and smoking marijuana. At around 11 P.M. I was informed about Johnathan and how he had an altercation with one of my codefendants and that they knew where he lived. I began to talk badly about Johnathan convincing my codefendant to text him so that we could have a word with him. I shamefully and willingly lured Johnathan out of his home. Then my codefendants and I drove to his house in two cars with the intent to shoot and kill him. Upon arriving at Johnathan's home we confronted him and he was murdered. I was one of the shooters and I take full responsibility for the crime.

3. Since the beginning of my incarceration I've had the blessing of being surrounded by positive people and with their help, guidance, advice and support I began to question why it was I became such an angry teen. Through much inner reflection I began to realize how poverty and domestic violence at home led me to become a 17 year old violent, selfish, angry gangmember who was capable of taking another human beings life. I have made a conscious decesion to change my way of thinking and attitude of life by addressing my inner traumas in order to fix myself. I know I no longer pose a threat to public safety nor to myself and I have committed myself to rehabilitation. My prison record will demonstrate how I've continued on my path to a positive personal growth. Commutations are afforded to those individuals who have dedicated themselves to a meaningful change and positive growth. Over the years I have dedicated myself to such growth and I humbly request a commutation not because I'm innocent. I take responsibility of the murder of Johnathan Escobar but because of my actions and growth have led me to seek mercy from Governor Brown.

4. I hope and pray to God to receive mercy from Governor Brown because in my seven years of a 50 years to life sentence I have strived to become a responsible, loving man who has goals and a purpose in life and has worked to reform myself. And now I give back the insight and positive knowledge I received when I first got incarcerated. I was arrested at the age of 17 and was sent to juvenile hall where I began to participate in Catholic services and self-help classes. My desire to change led me to meeting Scott Budnick in juvenile hall he helped me come to the Progressive Programming Facility (P.P.F.) yard in Lancaster where I denounced my gang ties and replaced them with positive ones. Upon my arrival to the P.P.F. yard I began to attend self-help classes that led me on the path of personal growth and self awareness. I have been on this path for the past seven years staying disciplinary free and I've had the privilege of helping facilitate self-help classes aimed at Spanish speaking inmates on the P.P.F. yard. I also joined Paws For Life (P.F.L.) program which rescues dogs from kill shelters by training them on basic obedience skills and commands plus we get to love them and heal them from their traumas. Now I have been entrusted with the duty of training service dog for veterans with P.T.S.D. Apart from training a service dog for five hours I am also enrolled in Feather River College. My desire for higher learning started in juvenile hall where I received my G.E.D. and now I'm on the road to receive my first A.A. degree in liberal arts and I hope to pursue a B.A. degree from Cal State L.A. I have held a job since my arrival to the P.P.F. yard (2014). I've worked as a barber for three years and now am currently assigned in the main kitchen working in the pots where I cook for the whole institution. I do not disagree with my sentence and take full responsibility for the murder of Johnathan Escobar, but I hope my prison record can help shed some light on the person I've become. Thank you for your time.

James Tucker

In 1985, James Tucker and Stephanie Abbott conspired to rob Alonzo Tarver. While Ms. Abbott and Mr. Tarver were having sex, Mr. Tucker entered the room and struck Mr. Tarver in the head with a crowbar multiple times, killing him. On December 22, 1988, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Tucker to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

In his application for clemency, Mr. Tucker exhibited a great deal of remorse and acknowledged the brutality of his crime. Mr. Tucker wrote, "Throughout the past twenty-five plus years, insight and maturity has allowed me to realize that [my victim] was just the first of many people who were affected and impacted by my reckless actions..." Prompted by these realizations, Mr. Tucker has sought to make amends by writing letters of remorse and changing his conduct in prison.

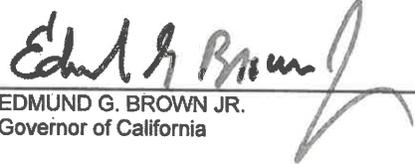

Mr. Tucker is now 63 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 33 years – over half of his life. During this time, Mr. Tucker has abstained from drugs and violence. Many correctional staff noticed Mr. Tucker's positive rehabilitation. A correctional officer praised Mr. Tucker for "constantly demonstrat[ing] a positive attitude and an above-average ability to work well with others." Another correctional officer wrote that Mr. Tucker "has always complied with my directives and would be an asset to any community upon his release." Another officer wrote, "Tucker's positive attitude and programming is commendable. Tucker should also be commended on his ability to show self-restraint. I have observed situations involving Tucker that could have turned potentially negative. Instead Tucker chose to exercise temperance and self-control in those situations. I strongly believe that Tucker will be an asset to any community upon his release, based upon my personal observation." In addition to Mr. Tucker's rehabilitative efforts in prison, I am moved by Mr. Tucker's significant health issues. Mr. Tucker is both visually and mobility impaired. He has undergone multiple surgeries that have taken a toll on his health. If released, Mr. Tucker hopes to live with his wife of over 25 years.

Mr. Tucker committed a very serious crime. However, over the last several decades, Mr. Tucker has shown remorse for his crime and has maintained positive rehabilitation which has been noticed by correctional staff. For all the foregoing reasons, I believe Mr. Tucker has earned the opportunity to make his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so that it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of James Tucker to a total of 33 years to life.

From the rear Mr. Tarver sexually-violated me, poking one of his fingers inside my rectum, stating that should speed-up your having a orgasm, so I can get my turn with her. Rage and anger filled me instantly; For I did not condone what Mr. Tarver did to me, nor did I give him consent, as I had been violated twice by Mr. Tarver within a matter of 5-to-10 minutes.

Realizing what Mr. Tarver had just done to me, I immediately stopped with what was going on with me and the female; pulled-up my pants, went directly to my car trunk and removed the tire-iron, wondering and hoping Mr. Tarver didn't have his handgun within reach.

Returning to the area I had departed a few minutes earlier, I observed Mr. Tarver lying on top of the female and did not see his handgun about him; at which point I began to hit him repeatedly with the tire iron, for what he had done to me moments earlier.

I thought I had justification. Remorsefully, I've come to realize justification or not, I did exhibit uncontrollable violence, a horrific act; multiple physical brutal assaults with a tire iron; committing an unlawful sinful act of murder; killing Mr. Tarver, whose life was not mine to take for any reason, which had nothing at all to do with robbery.

At no time did I remove, have possession, know the contents, nor share in, whatever monies Mr. Tarver's wallet contained. And although I did observe Mr. Tarver providing the female with some money, I could not see from a distance how much money he did give her.

to deny LWOP inmates suitability hearing.

Coleman v. Brown (2013) 952 F. Supp. 2d 901, (a) issued an order that requires the state to implement an Elderly Parole Program so that prisoners who are 60 years of age or older and who have been incarcerated at least 25 years on their current sentence will be referred to the Board of Parole Hearings (BPH) to determine suitability of parole.

(b) Under the existing Elderly Parole Program hearings, prisoners who are 60 years of age or older and who have been incarcerated 25 years of more on their current sentence serving either a determinate or indeterminate sentence, and who have not yet had an initial parole suitability hearing are referred by the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) to the BPH and scheduled for an Elderly Parole Program suitability hearing.

As of November 13, 2015, applicant will be 60 years of age and has been physically incarcerated 30 years on his current sentence; suffering permanent neuropathy (nerve) damage, uncontrollable slips, falls loss of balance, lack of coordination, leg weakness, associated with mobility impairment;

Virus infected Herpetic Keratitis, legal blindness, scarring of the right cornea severely damaged requiring corrective cornea transplant surgery, associated with vision impairment;

Perforated peptic ulcer surgery April 19, 2015, cautiously assigned to wheelchair while recovery still exists, associated with California's growing elderly prison population is costing billions in taxpayer dollars;

Given applicants present diminished physical condition, low risk of recidivism, no longer deemed a public safety risk, not posing an unreasonable risk of danger or risk for future violence, respectfully requests of the Honorable Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr., to also consider "COMPASSIONATE MEDICAL RELEASE" for applicant.

illegal drugs or alcohol; no positive random drugs testings.

I honestly attempted to remain disciplinary rules violation free. Yet, in several situations I faltered; receiving two rules violations within the past 14 years (2001 and 2009). While remaining disciplinary-infraction free since 2009 to the present (2015) has allowed me hope to prepare for a financial, residential, social re-entry plan which shall undoubtedly consist of challenges and adjustments.

Keeping balance not to be distracted from 2004-to-the present (2015) my focus primary objective was continuing with various facets of my "REHABILITATION-EFFORTS & PROPOSALS" being a way for me to amend and atone for some past wrongs.

Rehabilitation-efforts within CDCR has equipped me to righteously utilize effective choices with balance, calm, control decisions and a sense of positive purpose in any given situations or circumstances. And in all instances I would avoid illegal activities, crime, corruption which produces negative consequences; causation for one's integrity to be questioned and doubted.

Respectfully, if I am fortunate to have both sponsor(s) and supporter(s) on my behalf, in my physical absence explain and represent verbally each facet of my "Rehabilitation-Efforts & Proposals", I do wish I could please request of Governor Brown, who does have executive power to authorize and grant me a pardon, time-served, compassionate medical release, conditional release, to allow and permit both sponsor(s) and supporter(s) a closed-session face-to-face meeting. The Rehabilitation-Efforts & Proposals shall prove to serve a worthwhile purpose and be positively advantageous financially infinitely (hundreds-of-years) into the future for the State of California.

I seek no fame, glory, accolades, but respectfully request to remain "ANONYMOUS, INCOGNITO, BEHIND THE SCENES", personifying "SUCCESSFUL-REHABILITATION"; per Governor Brown's satisfaction, my sponsor(s) and supporter(s).

Jahn Vann

On January 12, 1979, Jahn Vann and his crime partner entered Daniel Nack's home intending to rob Mr. Nack. The robbers threatened the occupants at gunpoint, took money, and then tried to take Mr. Nack's wallet. During a struggle, Mr. Vann shot Mr. Nack in the face, killing him. The jury that heard the facts of Mr. Vann's crime concluded that he did not intentionally inflict great bodily injury on Mr. Nack during the attempted robbery. Subsequently, at sentencing the judge also referred to this crime as an "accidental killing." On February 25, 1980, the Ventura County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Vann to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Vann has been incarcerated for nearly 40 years and is now 68 years old. In his application for clemency, Mr. Vann states, "The depth of my remorse from the night I thought I heard Mr. Nack take his last breath continues to eat away at my soul. It was the all-consuming guilt that forced me to turn myself into the authorities." During an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Vann again expressed his regret and vowed that he would never engage in violence again.

During nearly four decades in prison and with no possibility of parole, Mr. Vann has demonstrated his commitment to being free of violence. He has never been disciplined for violent behavior and has avoided gangs. Mr. Vann earned his GED, completed a seminar in personal development, and took college courses. He finished vocational training in laundry, and for several years instructed other inmates on machine operations. Mr. Vann has primarily worked as a clerk for prison officials, and routinely received high work ratings. He has earned the respect of prison staff who see him on a regular basis. A supervisor wrote, "Vann has shown that he is willing to fill in wherever needed, is hard-working, diligent, a self-starter, and a competent clerk. He has always shown respect for and gotten along well with all staff and inmate workers alike." Another supervisor lauded his "exemplary attitude" and "good rapport with staff, custody, and his peers." Still another supervisor noted Mr. Vann's "amicable attitude towards staff and fellow inmates." Over the years, numerous other prison staff, including a correctional counselor, a college instructor, and a program administrator, have taken the time to document Mr. Vann's positive behavior, dependability, and work ethic.

Mr. Vann made a very serious decision to commit a home invasion robbery, but he has demonstrated through his conduct that he has turned away from criminal thinking and violence. I believe that Mr. Vann has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California; by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Jahn Vann to a total of 40 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

1. Conviction Summary:

Offense(s)	Date of offense(s)	County of conviction	Sentence(s)
a. Disturbing the peace	unk	Ventura	25 or 50 dollar fine
b. Possession and possession for sale	unk	Ventura	dismissed
c. Murder/robbery special circumstances	1-79	Ventura	LWOP

2. Briefly describe the circumstances of the crimes for which you are requesting a pardon or commutation (attach additional pages as necessary):

I attempted to rob Mr. Nack and Mr. Cumplido and during the course of the robbery I murdered Mr. Nack.

3. Explain why you are requesting a pardon or commutation (attach additional pages as necessary):

I am requesting commutation of sentence because I am a 67 year old first term offender who has served 38 years.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a pardon or commutation (attach additional pages if necessary):

The depth of my remorse from the night I thought I heard Mr. Nack take his last breath continues to eat away at my soul. It was the all consuming guilt that forced me to turn myself into the authorities. Judge Lewis, my trial judge, stated "one might say that for an accidental killing, life without possibility of parole is severe, nevertheless, the people have spoken..." He said this because the jury found that I "did not intentionally inflict great bodily injury upon the person of Daniel Nack during the commission or attempted commission of the offense alleged in count II of the information."

Matthew Vargas

On May 25, 1997, Matthew Vargas and Mark Alvarez were driving around looking for Oscar Garcia, Armondo Torrez, and Henry Hernandez, following an earlier confrontation with them. When Mr. Vargas spotted the men walking down the street, he shot all three with a rifle. Mr. Torrez and Mr. Hernandez were injured, and Mr. Garcia died as a result of his injuries. On December 21, 1998 Mr. Vargas was sentenced to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a 10-year firearm enhancement. On December 17, 2014, the Fresno County Superior Court resentedenced Mr. Vargas to 25 years to life for murder, 14 years to life for two counts of attempted murder plus a 10-year firearm enhancement and a 3-year enhancement for great bodily injury — a total term of 52 years to life. Mr. Vargas is parole eligible in 2021.

Mr. Vargas has now been incarcerated for over two decades. In his application for clemency, Mr. Vargas wrote that he began participating in criminal gang activity at the age of 12 because he looked up to his older brothers, who were active gang members. His application describes how at the time of the offense, Mr. Vargas was influenced by Mr. Alvarez, who was much older than Mr. Vargas, had a violent criminal history, and provided Mr. Vargas with the weapon used in the crime.

During more than two decades in prison, Mr. Vargas has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has never been disciplined for any misconduct. He earned his GED and is currently enrolled in college courses. Mr. Vargas has participated in various self-help programs, including Breaking Barriers, Alternatives to Violence, Anger Management, and Alcoholics Anonymous.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Vargas has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with him on a regular basis. Mr. Vargas has been commended for his work in the Enhanced Outpatient (EOP) Gold Coat Mentoring Program. In 2016, a staff psychologist praised Mr. Vargas for his work with the program, writing, "Inmate Vargas has demonstrated humility, patience, empathy, and self-awareness when assisting EOP inmate-patients. . . . This position requires stellar social skills, conflict resolutions skills, and frankly, a lot of finesses to succeed for any significant length of time, as Mr. Vargas has." The psychologist concluded, "Inmate Vargas has proven to be a valuable asset to his peers and staff, and can be credited with contributing to the continued success of the Enhanced Outpatient Program." In 2016, a social worker wrote, "While working with inmates in the EOP program, Mr. Vargas has demonstrated patience in interacting with those around him. He has shown the ability to be modest and respectful of the needs of others on a daily basis. Not only does he treat individuals with equality, but he also shows special skills when it comes to mentoring those EOP inmates that are part of the program." Also in 2016, a psychologist wrote, "It's my professional opinion, if given the opportunity to parole, Inmate Vargas would be an asset to his community as illustrated by his exceptional performance as a Gold Coat in the EOP program. He demonstrates great self-improvement, great social skills, role model behavior and great communication skills."

Mr. Vargas committed a very serious crime at the age of 17. Based on his conduct in prison, his dedication to self-improvement, and his commitment to helping other inmates, I believe that Mr. Vargas has earned an earlier opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Matthew Vargas to make him eligible for immediate parole consideration.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

RE: Matthew Vargas (K-93931), Application for Commutation of Sentence

Dear Governor Brown:

Matthew Vargas, who has spent more than half of his life incarcerated, does not have the opportunity to go before the Board of Parole Hearings for several years for crimes he participated in when he was 17 years old, and under the influence of a much older, violent criminal. Mr. Vargas has an exceptional post-conviction record. His sentence should be commuted, making him eligible for earlier parole consideration.

Mr. Vargas's intoxication and age made him particularly susceptible to the influence of his co-participant, Mark Alvarez, who encouraged Mr. Vargas to commit the crimes that led to his conviction – a shooting that claimed the life of one victim, and nearly claimed the lives of two others. Because he suffered from parental neglect, his only role models were his two older, gang-affiliated brothers. Consequently, Mr. Vargas's ability to develop positive relationships was crippled, and compounded by the pressures to join and have loyalty to a gang. He followed his brothers' footsteps by joining the Fresno Bulldogs, but realized he did not want to be affiliated with the violent nature of being in a gang. He disaffiliated from the gang by the age of sixteen, which resulted in tension between him and the other gang members. After being beaten up by the three victims, active Fresno Bulldog members, Mr. Vargas retaliated by committing his life crime.

In 2014, Mr. Vargas was resentenced from an LWOP sentence to a parole-eligible sentence. (Ex. A, Tr. of State Prison Sentencing, People v. Matthew Vargas (Dec. 17, 2014) (No. CF97596321) at 42:4-53:14.) Mr. Vargas's enhancements, however, were stayed and he is not eligible for parole until 2021. The circumstances of Mr. Vargas's youth, the circumstances of his crime, and his extraordinary rehabilitation support commutation of his sentence so he will be immediately eligible for the Youth Offender Parole process.

During two decades of incarceration, Mr. Vargas has not received any serious disciplinary violations. (Ex. C, Decl. of Daniel J. Fulks in Supp. of Sentencing Mem. and Statement in Mitigation, People v. Matthew Vargas (Aug. 20, 2014) (No. CF97596321) at 87, ¶ 6.) He has the lowest possible Preliminary Classification Score (0), and he has the lowest possible score on the CDCR recidivism risk assessment (1- Low Risk). (Id. at 108-09, ¶¶ 31-33.) Mr. Vargas has been a positive, contributing member of his prison community, exhibiting leadership and initiative in a wide variety of programming. He has maintained a stable work history and received evaluations rating his work performance as "exceptional." (Id. at 107, ¶ 27.)

Mr. Vargas represents the neglected, teenaged defendant. He represents the easily lost, coerced kid that was influenced by his gang-affiliated brothers and friends. Yet, he also

Matthew Vargas represents a successfully transformed man.

Mr. Vargas respectfully requests that the Governor commute his sentence to make him immediately eligible for the Youth Offender Parole process, which will allow him to demonstrate that he has successfully rehabilitated and no longer poses a danger to society. He has earned a chance to appear before the Board of Parole Hearings to make his case so they can determine whether he is ready to be released from prison.

I. CASE HISTORY

A. Family and Social Background

Mr. Vargas's childhood was filled with significant challenges and limited resources. His father never accepted him, and ultimately committed suicide when Mr. Vargas was just seven years old. (Ex. G, Probation Officer's Report, People v. Matthew Vargas (1998) (No. 84561-0) at 131.) Consequently, Mr. Vargas grew up in a single-parent household with many siblings. His mother was rarely in the home and was heavily intoxicated during the little time she stayed with her children. Without adequate parental supervision, Mr. Vargas's role models were his two older brothers.

Mr. Vargas's brothers were members of the Fresno Bulldogs gang and were often involved in dealing drugs, stealing, and hot-wiring cars. (Ex. D, Decl. of Aurora Swafford in Supp. of Sentencing Mem. and Statement in Mitigation, People v. Matthew Vargas (Aug. 15, 2014) (No. CF97596321) at ¶ 8.) The Vargas residence became a well-known "Bulldog house," where members frequently drank and participated in criminal acts. (Id. at ¶ 9.) It was not long before Mr. Vargas joined the Bulldogs, just like his older brothers. He began to drink heavily with other members, which was the norm within the gang culture and his family. (Id. at ¶ 10.)

Mr. Vargas's childhood led him to a friendship with Mark Alvarez, a participant in the crime. Mr. Alvarez had a previous conviction for assault with a deadly weapon before ever meeting Mr. Vargas. (Ex. F, Probation Officer's Report, People v. Mark Alvarez (1999) (No. CF97596324) at 125.) Those who knew Mr. Alvarez described him as a "manipulative person who acted violently if he didn't get what he wanted." (Ex. E, Decl. of Jessica Jenkins in Supp. of Sentencing Mem. and Statement in Mitigation, People v. Matthew Vargas (Aug. 15, 2014) (No. CF97596321) at ¶ 4.) One on occasion, Mr. Alvarez held a knife to his pregnant girlfriend's throat during an argument about picking up milk from the grocery store. (Id.)

This challenging environment impacted Mr. Vargas, and played a role in his participation in the crime. Dr. Seymour, a clinical psychologist, concluded that:

Children, like Mr. Vargas, who are raised in this type of environment, are even more likely to display impulsive behavior, a poor capacity to assess risk, a higher capacity for interpersonal violence, a higher rate of a full range of delinquent behaviors, inadequate emotional development, and likely contact with the criminal justice system.

(Ex. B, Decl. of Dr. Harold L. Seymour in Supp. of Sentencing Mem. and Statement in Mitigation, People v. Matthew Vargas (Sept. 2, 2014) (No. CF97596321) at 72.)

Mr. Vargas was unable to remove himself from his family's home. He had not finished high school and could not support himself financially. His home was filled with criminal behavior. He had no other place to go. These environmental factors mitigate his culpability in the crime and support a commutation of his sentence.

D. Commitment Offenses

On May 25, 1997, when Mr. Vargas was 17 years old, he shot three individuals who had physically attacked him earlier that night. His retaliation resulted in the death of Oscar Garcia and the injuries to Armando Torrez and Henry Hernandez. The three victims, members of the Bulldogs, were the aggressors in the initial confrontation. Mr. Vargas was intoxicated and felt humiliated, resulting in him calling Mr. Alvarez. After speaking briefly on the phone, Mr. Alvarez brought a loaded gun to Mr. Vargas's residence. They continued to drink alcohol and smoke marijuana. Later, Mr. Alvarez drove Mr. Vargas around the community in hopes of finding the victims. After finding them, Mr. Alvarez illuminated the car's bright headlights toward them, but Mr. Vargas hesitated in shooting the victims. After encouragement from Mr. Alvarez, he shot at the three victims.

E. Conviction/Resentencing

After his conviction in 1998, Mr. Vargas was sentenced to LWOP, with sentence enhancements. As to Count One, murder, Mr. Vargas was sentenced to LWOP, with an additional 10-year enhancement for aggravated gun use. As to Counts Two and Three, premeditated attempted murder, Mr. Vargas was sentenced to life with the possibility of parole, with the aggravated term for the remaining enhancement terms to run concurrently. In 2014, Mr. Vargas was resentenced from a LWOP sentence to a parole-eligible sentence. The prosecution recommended a parole-eligible life sentence based on the acknowledgement that Mr. Vargas has made a significant effort to change. (Ex. A at 14:26-29:8.) During the re-sentencing hearing, the court considered three factors: (1) Mr. Vargas had an adult co-participant; (2) he did not have a felony with a significant potential for personal harm to victims; and (3) he was intoxicated at the time of his commitment offense. (Id. at 42:4-53:14.) Mr. Vargas's enhancements however were stayed as to all Counts. Therefore, Mr. Vargas must serve 25 years to life plus an additional 10-year gun enhancement. Mr. Vargas respectfully requests that his sentence be commuted so he will be immediately eligible for the Youth Offender Parole process.

F. Exceptional Performance in Prison

Mr. Vargas has a remarkable prison record, and he has committed himself to rehabilitation from the very beginning of his incarceration. Although he was originally sentenced to LWOP, he wanted to be a programmer – an inmate that remains disciplinary free throughout his entire incarceration. Mr. Vargas has successfully achieved his goal during his two decades of incarceration. He has never received a serious disciplinary violation. (Ex. C at 102, ¶ 10.) According to Daniel J. Fulks, an expert in correctional matters, including California State Prisons, prison culture, and prison gangs, it is extremely rare for an inmate to remain disciplinary free for sixteen years. (Id. at ¶ 11) Due to his impeccable disciplinary record, Mr. Vargas's Preliminary Classification Score has been reduced to zero, the lowest Preliminary Classification Score possible. (Id. at 108-09, ¶ 31.) Additionally, Mr. Vargas maintains the lowest CDCR recidivism risk assessment score possible (1- Low Risk). (Id. at 109, ¶ 34.) Mr. Vargas renounced any gang affiliation 19 years ago, when he first arrived in CDCR. He has never been involved with any gang or disruptive group while in prison. (Id. at 103, ¶ 16).

Mr. Vargas has participated extensively in self-help programming, taken advantage of educational and vocational opportunities, and volunteered his time in various programs. He now understands what led to his involvement in his crime and has developed into an emotionally sound and stable person. He has worked hard to manage his substance abuse by voluntarily participating in Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous 12-step programs. His participation in these programs began while he was serving an LWOP sentence, which strongly supports Mr. Vargas's commitment to rehabilitation. Additionally, Mr. Vargas has participated in mood and anger management training, which taught him how to maintain control of his impulses and how to respond to difficult situations as opposed to reacting to them (See Ex. H).

Not long after arriving in CDCR, Mr. Vargas earned his G.E.D., and continued to educate himself. He achieved the highest score possible (12.9) on the Adult Basic Education test. (Ex. C at 106, ¶ 23.) Additionally, Mr. Vargas's work history has been steady and exceptional. He consistently receives positive Work Supervisory Reports, including comments such as "good worker," "good attitude," and "gets along well with staff." (Id. at 107, ¶ 27.)

Mr. Vargas has also been a contributing member of the prison community. He volunteers for various programs, including the Education, Diversion, and Goals to Endeavor ("E.D.G.E.") program. This program's purpose is to reach at-risk youth and steer them away from drugs, violence, and gang involvement. (Id. at 105, ¶ 21.) Mr. Vargas has counseled more than 45 juveniles, and was praised by prison officials for his "unselfish participation, due diligence, and dedication to the program." (Id.) In addition to the E.D.G.E. program, Mr. Vargas served as a facilitator in the Alternative to Violence Program (Id. at 106-07, ¶ 25.)

Mr. Vargas has worked tirelessly to improve himself and to help other inmates turn their lives around. He has fully demonstrated his tremendous capacity to rehabilitate, his willingness to do the hard work to change his life's course, and that he poses no risk of danger to society.

II. MR. VARGAS'S ENHANCEMENTS SHOULD BE COMMUTED.

A. The Equities of Mr. Vargas's Case Strongly Support Commutation.

Mr. Vargas's participation in his crimes did not result from malice or inherent criminality. He grew up surrounded by and subjected to gang involvement, which influenced him to become a member of the gang. At the time of the life crime, he had disaffiliated from the gang, and as a result of his disaffiliation, had been beaten by three active members. Mr. Vargas had no support from his family to maintain his disaffiliation and have a positive, productive life. He was a teenager with no financial support and no place to live other than his childhood home, a well-known gang-affiliated residence.

In a stable, structured environment, Mr. Vargas has sought out pro-social peers and thrived. Despite his original LWOP sentence, he applied himself from the moment he arrived in CDCR, worked hard, contributed to his community, and invested in addressing the causative factors of his crimes.

B. Mr. Vargas's Young Age Supports His Request for Commutation.

1. The Principles Underlying the Constitutional Limits on Juvenile Sentencing Support Commutation.

The U.S. Supreme Court has recognized that youth are different from adults in constitutionally significant ways, and that "those differences counsel against irrevocably sentencing them to a lifetime in prison." Miller v. Alabama, 132 S. Ct. 2455, 2469 (2012), Montgomery v. Louisiana, 136 S. Ct. 718, 733 (2016). These differences include "immaturity, impetuosity, and failure to appreciate risks and consequences," "recklessness," "heightened capacity for change," and an inability to extricate oneself from a family or home environment "no matter how brutal or dysfunctional." Miller, 132 S. Ct. at 2469. California law recognized the significance of these differences in Senate Bill 9. See Cal. Penal Code § 1170(d)(2) (allowing a person who was under 18 years old at the time of a crime and sentenced to LWOP to petition for resentencing).

Consideration of the Miller factors demonstrate that waiting until 2021 for parole consideration is not appropriate for Mr. Vargas. His crimes did not result from irreparable corruption. He was immature, intoxicated, and susceptible to negative peer influence, further diminishing his culpability for these crimes. Mr. Vargas's involvement with Mr. Alvarez – the moving force behind the crime – stemmed from his violent, gang-infested home environment. Mr. Vargas has demonstrated precisely the growth and rehabilitation that Miller/Montgomery contemplate for young persons.

IV. CONCLUSION

Mr. Vargas respectfully requests his sentence be commuted such that he is immediately eligible for a Youth Offender Parole Hearing. Commutation is warranted in this case. At the time of his crime, he was young and intoxicated. Mr. Vargas has served over half his life in prison, dedicating himself to personal growth, rehabilitation, and serving others. He deserves a meaningful opportunity to demonstrate to the parole board that he no longer poses any risk of danger to the community and to earn his release on parole.

Respectfully submitted,

Miguel Vigas

In April 2002, Regino Abundis, Juan Baragan, and Jose Morales went to a home to purchase drugs. 18-year-old Miguel Vigas and several armed crime partners attacked the men, bounding their eyes and hands with duct tape and taking their wallets. Mr. Vigas then shot Mr. Abundis in the chest, killing him. On May 20, 2004, the Stanislaus County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Vigas to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus 25 years to life for a firearm enhancement.

Mr. Vigas seeks a commutation based on his rehabilitation. In his application for clemency, Mr. Vigas wrote, "I was able to learn that drugs, easy money and anger is what led me to commit this crime leading me to harm my loved ones, killing Mr. Abundis and hurting his family and society in general. I have learned to think in a positive manner which has led me to become a better person."

During more than a decade in prison and with no possibility of parole, Mr. Vigas has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has successfully participated in the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard that holds its residents to high standards of conduct and offers unique rehabilitative programs and opportunities, for many years. Notably, Mr. Vigas removed himself from all gang involvement and has never been disciplined for drug or alcohol use. Mr. Vigas has also taken advantage of multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Victim Sensitivity, and Domestic Violence.

Mr. Vigas has been recognized by prison staff for his positive attitude and behavior. In 2017, a correctional work supervisor commended Mr. Vigas for his "exceptional behavior" and wrote, "Vigas exhibits leadership qualities and has displayed exceptional skills and knowledge. . . . In the event that Vigas is released back into society, I strongly believe that Vigas will abide by the law and be a model citizen." Mr. Vigas has a solid plan in place in the event of his release; he plans to live with family in Mexico and continue participating in Narcotics Anonymous.

Mr. Vigas committed a very serious crime. However, he has made significant strides to turn his life around and has demonstrated that he can become a contributing member to society. For these reasons, I believe that it is appropriate to reduce his sentence so that the Board of Parole Hearings can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Miguel Vigas to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

4. Provide a brief statement explaining why you should be granted a pardon or commutation:

I was 18 years old at the time of my offense. I have been incarcerated for 15 years. I have taken Alcoholic Anonymous, Narcotic Anonymous and Domestic Violence classes. It is through these classes that I was able to learn that drugs, easy money and anger is what led me to commit this crime leading me to harm my loved ones, killing Mr. Abundes and hurting his family and society in general. I have learned to think in a positive manner which has led me to become a better person.

Anthony Wafer

Between May and July 1998, Anthony Wafer committed 18 separate commercial robberies, in some cases inflicting injury on cashiers in order to steal money from the cash registers. On May 22, 1998, Mr. Wafer entered a gas station and struck the cashier, Wilson Kandanaarachige, on the head, then took his wallet and also money from the register. In January 1999, Mr. Kandanaarachige died of complications related to the head injury. On January 8, 2001, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Wafer to life without the possibility of parole for murder, 10 years for eight counts of robbery, plus one year and eight months for weapon enhancements.

Mr. Wafer has now been incarcerated for more than 20 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Wafer wrote, "I'm not the same drug and alcohol addicted person at 51 ½ years old as I once was 19 years ago." Mr. Wafer admitted that "I started to using and abusing drugs and alcohol in a short period of time as a means of coping or running away from my responsibilities. So shortly thereafter, I started committing a string of local commercial robberies to support my drug habit." Mr. Wafer also reported, "I've been clean and free of drugs and alcohol for 17 ½ years now." During an interview with an investigator from the Board of Parole Hearings, Mr. Wafer said that his application for clemency seeks "mercy" because "I don't deserve anything because of the things that I've done."

Mr. Wafer is now 53 years old. Although he has been incarcerated for two decades with no possibility of parole, Mr. Wafer has shown a sincere desire to change his life. He has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Anger Management, Paving the Way, Men for Honor, Constructive Communication, and Veterans Embracing Troops. Mr. Wafer has served his prison community by acting as a facilitator for basic and advanced Alternatives to Violence, a rehabilitation program. He has contributed to the larger community by writing letters to military troops serving in combat zones, by making donations to survivors of crime, the American Red Cross, and the American Cancer Society, and by participating in fundraisers to support veteran's organizations. Due to his positive conduct and the relationships he has fostered amongst his peers, he was recently elected to serve as the Vice Chairman of the Men's Advisory Council.

Mr. Wafer has also earned the respect of the prison staff who supervise his work. A correctional officer recently wrote a commendation to "acknowledge and document the exceptional conduct and work performance of inmate Wafer." He concluded by stating, "this laudatory chrono is fully justified by inmate Wafer's behavior, work performance, and interpersonal interactions with staff and other inmates as directly observed by this writer." Another supervisor wrote, "Wafer is a competent and efficient worker who performs all his duties with diligence. His willingness to assist both staff and all co-workers so that everyone exceeds at their job demonstrates his exceptional maturity and sense of responsibility."

Mr. Wafer committed serious crimes, but it is clear that he has endeavored to achieve rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Wafer has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Anthony Wafer to a total of 23 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

Complete this application to request a pardon or commutation from the Governor. A pardon is the forgiveness of a crime and a commutation is a reduction or elimination of a sentence. If you are eligible for a Certificate of Rehabilitation, do not complete this application; instead obtain a Certificate of Rehabilitation from the superior court in your county of residence. (See Penal Code, § 4852.01.) If a pardon is granted, this application will become a public record, however specific personal information will be redacted (hidden) before it is made available to the public.

Ronald Wagner

On September 21, 1989, Ronald Wagner, Allen Carberry, and Gilbert Robles strangled Kenneth Masters and Jim Hestler to death. Afterwards, they buried the bodies in the desert. On August 8, 1992, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Wagner to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Wagner was 21 years old when he committed his crime and has since been incarcerated for nearly thirty years. During his lengthy incarceration, Mr. Wagner has only been disciplined twice. He has avoided violence and gangs and maintained his sobriety for many years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Wagner expressed that he has made a wholesale change, writing, "My warped ways of thinking are behind me. I am a man that will not re-offend. . . . I have taken advantage of the college programing nearing my associate in arts degree and I do intend on furthering my education to the fullest. I will be a positive member of society. I am just asking for a second chance. I will not need a third chance."

In prison, Mr. Wagner has been steadfast in his work assignments and has committed to making educational improvements. Mr. Wagner has consistently received above average to exceptional work ratings, has completed a vocation in computer literacy, and is working towards his associate's degree. Mr. Wagner has spent substantial time tutoring other inmates, and in 2018, an academic instructor reported that Mr. Wagner "has demonstrated a high degree of both ability and responsibility in the performance of his duties." In 2016, another academic instructor reported that Mr. Wagner "has consistently performed his duties at a level of excellence that is rarely seen among workers, both in and outside of prison. During the short time that he has been assigned to [adult education classes], his proficiency at clerical duties and his ability to relate well to others, both staff and students, have been an important part of the success of the program."

Mr. Wagner asked in his commutation application "for another chance to be a positive and productive citizen of the community." While there is no question as to the serious and violent nature of Mr. Wagner's crimes, I believe that he has demonstrated his dedication to his rehabilitation. For all the foregoing reasons, I believe that Mr. Wagner has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Ronald Wagner to a total of 29 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th day of December, 2018.

Demetrius Walton

On December 19, 2001, Demetrius Walton, Rayshawn Sessions, and Damian Owens entered Russell Wilson's apartment, planning on robbing Mr. Wilson of drugs, money, and jewelry. During the course of the robbery, Mr. Sessions shot Mr. Wilson, killing him. All three men grabbed valuables as they left the apartment. On March 13, 2003, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Walton to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a one year firearm enhancement.

Mr. Walton has now been incarcerated for 17 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Walton stressed the change he has experienced since coming to prison. He stated in his application "[A]t the time I committed this crime, I was a young, immature kid. But since then, I have learned and have grown as a person and I can be an asset to my community if given the privilege."

Although Mr. Walton is serving a sentence with no possibility of parole, he has dedicated himself to turning his life around. He has been disciplined for misconduct only twice in almost two decades of incarceration. He earned his GED and two A.A. degrees. Mr. Walton has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Alternatives to Violence, Victim Offender Education Group, Celebrate Recovery, and Alcoholics Anonymous. He has also facilitated several self-help groups, including Victim Sensitivity and Life Skills. Mr. Walton resided on the Progressive Programming Facility, an honor yard, for several years.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Walton has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who see him on a regular basis. In 2013, Mr. Walton's Men for Honor sponsor stated, "His contributions in time and management of this academic peer to peer activity group helped hundreds of other inmates find direction, gain self-help and participate in a positive activity that was larger than themselves. His leadership is unique and appreciated and is exactly the type of attitude that makes the [honor yard] the unique success that it has been." In 2012, another sponsor stated "Inmate Walton mentored 17 inmates in earning their Associate of Arts degrees and 13 inmates in earning their GEDs. Inmate Walton is a positive member of this program and is to be commended for his efforts in helping to educate his fellow inmates."

Many people sentenced to life without the possibility of parole give up hope and lose themselves in drugs, gangs, and violence. Faced with that same sentence, Mr. Walton exhibited a commitment to rehabilitating himself and others. I acknowledge that this crime was devastating to Mr. Wilson's family members, who have opposed clemency in this case. However, after serious consideration, I believe Mr. Walton has transformed his life in prison. For this reason, I believe that Mr. Walton has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Demetrius Walton to a total of 23 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

Re: Letter to support the granting of my Commutation of Sentence

Dear Governor Brown,

My name is Demetrius Walton and I hired Tracy Lum to draft and file a Commutation of Sentence on my behalf. I'm writing my own support letter so please add this letter to the Clemency Commutation of Sentence that she filed for me.

On December 19, 2001, Rayshawn Session, Damien Owens, Shalimar Wiley and I went to the home of Russel Wilson to commit a robbery. After being there for two hours, Session tried to hit Wilson with a gun and it accidentally ^{fired} one round, fatally hitting Wilson in the chest. After Session shot Wilson, I asked Session why did he do that. His response was an order for me to take Wilson's rings. I didn't comply, instead I turned to leave the scene and grabbed a Sony playstation game console and left the residence. I was convicted of felony-murder and sentenced to life without parole plus one year.

I am requesting a Commutation of Sentence because I have been excluded from many recent laws that would apply to me but unfortunately my sentence of life without parole keep me ineligible from reaping the benefits of these laws.

Laws such as Senate Bill 261, in which you signed into law in 2015. This Bill follows scientific evidence on brain development in youths. Senate Bill 261 grants youth offender parole hearings to those who were under 23 years of age at the time of their offense.

I was 22 years of age at the time of my offense and this Bill recognizes the lack of maturity and lessened culpability of youthful offenders along with their special capacity for change. But, because I was convicted of special circumstance murder under the felony-murder rule as an aider and abettor, this Bill exclude persons such as myself regardless of my youthful age at the time of my offense.

Assembly Bill 1308 "would require the Board of Parole Hearings to conduct youth offender parole hearings for offenders sentenced to state prison who committed those specified crimes when they were 25 years of age or younger." This Bill follows the most recent scientific evidence on brain development in youths and again, I have been excluded for no other reason other than the fact that I was sentenced to life without parole.

Prior to Senate Bill 261 and Assembly Bill 1308, Senate Bill 9; which granted juveniles convicted of special circumstance murder and sentenced to life without parole, an opportunity to have a court reduce the life without parole sentence. In all three of these Bills the underlying science concludes that youths brains are not fully developed until sometime after their early 20's.

Miller v. Alabama (2012) 567 U.S. has accepted this very science and has held, "None of what it said about children — about their distinctive and transitory mental traits and environmental vulnerabilities — is crime specific. Those features are evident in the same way and to the same degree, when a botched robbery turns into a killing." In my situation a botched robbery turned into an accidental killing, and because of that, I am denied all of the protections and benefits others in my peer group were afforded. In my situation my youthfulness has been denied due to specific crimes, a killing that I did not personally commit.

I am also requesting a commutation of sentence because of the California Supreme Court's unanimous decision in People v. Banks (2015) 61 Cal. 4th 788, announced July 9, 2015, which held that "the individual culpability of a defendant who did not himself kill, attempt to kill or intend that a killing take place, or that lethal force will be employed, is not the same as the defendant who actually does kill." Therefore, making a defendant, who does not kill nor participate in the actual murder in a felony-murder, ineligible for a sentence of life without parole. The Banks case changed California's felony-murder law for aider and abettors.

This commutation of sentence is the only avenue I have to one day being released from prison because prior to the Banks decision, I had already filed a writ of habeas corpus in the Federal Courts and the only way I am allowed to file a second or successive habeas petition is to first file an Application to File a Successive Petition in the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, in which they are rarely granted.

My Application to File a Successive Petition was denied on January 23, 2017, which means the Courts never reached the merits of the Banks issue in my case. So, although I am ineligible for a sentence of life without parole, according to Banks, I am blocked from litigating my case in the Federal Courts. This Commutation of Sentence is all I have left in working towards release because I have exhausted all of my remedies through litigation and I am regularly excluded through legislation.

Governor Brown, I believe my Commutation of Sentence should be granted because I have no prior criminal record as an adult nor juvenile. And, in light of recent legislation such as Senate Bill 9 and Assembly Bill 1308, which each separately address the varying degrees of lessened culpability inherent in youths and minors.

Assembly Bill 1308 establishes a framework for considering the traits of youthfulness and the potential for growth in those who committed crimes while under the age of 25. Senate Bill 9 specifically make mention of the juvenile being convicted of felony-murder under aiding and abetting provisions.

The legislature recently passed Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 48 (SCR 48) which criticizes the aiding and abetting principles of the felony-murder rule; stating that "It is fundamentally unfair and in violation of basic principles of individual criminal culpability to hold one felon liable for the unforeseen results of another felon's actions, especially when such conduct was not agreed upon; and criminal liability and sentencing should comport with individual culpability, thereby making conviction under a felony-murder theory inconsistent with basic principles of law and equity." SCR 48 further states "the felony-murder doctrine is unnecessary and in many cases unjust in that it violates the basic premise of individual moral culpability upon which our criminal law is based."

In no other situation is the law so overly harsh and extreme as to punish a person far beyond their individual culpability and for this is why I believe you should grant my application for a Commutation of Sentence.

Lastly, I believe you should grant my application for Commutation of Sentence because during my imprisonment I have grown and matured in many ways over the 16 years that I've been incarcerated. Although I have two rules violations, both for being in possession of a cell phone, I've learned from those mistakes and I believe that my accomplishments and my ability to finally have hope will be enough to out-weigh those infractions; and the granting of this Commutation of Sentence will provide further incentive for me to continue on the right track.

During my imprisonment I've earned a GED, two Associate in Arts Degrees (one in Arts and Humanities, and the other in Social and Behavioral Science), I've worked as a clerk as well as a tutor, in which I mentored seventeen inmates in earning their GED and thirteen inmates in earning their Associate in Arts degrees. I've participated in the Dantes Subject Standardized Testing, which are accredited exams that are good for course credit towards a four-year Bachelor's degree. I've been the chairman of an Inmate Leisure Time Activity Group (ILTAG) called Men for Honor, in which during my tenure helped raise over $6000 through fund-raisers for outside charities such as Children's hospitals and Continuing the Dream: children of Incarcerated Parents. I've completed Fatherhood Focus, which is a parenting class, as well as a restorative justice program called Victim Offender Education Group, which helped me fully understand and take responsibility for my crime, the impact of my crime; how my crime affected the community as well as how my crime affects Mr. Wilson's family, my family and others I have never met. This class has also taught me to see my crime from the victims point of view. I've also completed the Alternatives to Violence Project (AVP) which helped me learn effective ways of dealing with conflict. And, I've also co-facilitated a course called Houses of Healing, which focus on emotional awareness and the development of empathy as well as provide the opportunity for us prisoners to face and heal some of the core issues that got us into prison.

In conclusion Governor Brown, I believe my commutation of sentence should be granted considering my limited role in the death of Mr. Wilson. I do not minimize my actions in this crime. At the time I committed this crime, I was a young immature kid. But since then I have learned and I have grown as a person, and I can be an asset to my community if given the privilege of a Second chance. The granting of my Commutation of Sentence will facilitate future rehabilitation, an incentive to maintain a discipline free prison misconduct record, the completion of various Vocational Training Courses, and it will give my family and I hope.

Allow me the opportunity to make my case before the Board of Parole Hearings by granting my Commutation of Sentence because I can and will be a productive member of Society. Thank you.

Sincerely

D. Walton

2. Circumstances of the offense:

On December 18, 2001, Damien Owens, Rayshawn Sessions, Shalimar Wiley and Demetrius were at Demetrius' house. Sessions asked Owens if he knew where he could get some money. Owens suggested that they rob Russell Wilson. Demetrius listened to the whole conversation and did not protest, but instead nodded his head in agreement. Later that evening, the four drove to Desert Hot Springs to Mr. Wilson's apartment. When they arrived at the apartment Owens told Sessions and Wiley to wait in the car while he and Demetrius went into the apartment to see who was there.

Owens knocked on the door. Sophia Lindsey answered the door, gave Owens a hug and let them into the apartment. Demetrius sat in the living room. Owens asked where Mr. Wilson and his girlfriend, Faye Ransom were. They were told that they were in the bedroom. Later in the evening, Demetrius asked to use the bathroom and Ms. Lindsey led him to the bathroom through the bedroom where Ms. Ransom and Mr. Wilson were. Ms. Ransom was watching TV and Mr. Wilson was covered with a blanket sleeping. Demetrius used the restroom and returned to the living room.

Sessions came to the door and asked for Owens. Owens went outside to talk to Sessions while Demetrius remained in the apartment. Owens returned after a short period of time and they continued to talk with the other women who were in the apartment. Later, Sessions came and knocked on the door a second time. Owens went outside to talk to him for few minutes while Demetrius remained in the apartment. When Owens returned Sessions came into the apartment with him.

At that time, Ms. Ransom came out of the bedroom and said she was tired of people coming in out of the apartment, so she locked the door and returned to the bedroom. Owens went to the kitchen and got a trash bag and Sessions followed Ms. Ransom into the bedroom. Demetrius entered the bedroom shortly after that and saw Sessions holding Ms. Ransom by the hair with one hand and pointing a gun at her head with the other. Sessions demanded to know where the money and the drugs were. Ms. Ransom was crying and said she did not have any drugs or money. Mr. Wilson was still sleeping and Sessions reached over and pulled the blanket off Mr. Wilson and put it over Ms. Ransom's head. Mr. Wilson started to roll over and Sessions shot him in the chest. Demetrius asked Sessions why did he did that, that's murder. Sessions wanted him to take the rings off Mr. Wilson's fingers, but Demetrius said "fuck that" and took a Play Station instead. Demetrius believes Sessions took Mr. Wilson's rings and Owens took a DVD player. They ran out of the apartment, got into the car and drove off. After driving about two blocks, they stopped and Sessions got rid of the gun. (Court of Appeal Opinion, pp. 3-5 (Exhibit A).) Probation Officer's Report, pp. 3-8 (Exhibit B).)

Demetrius takes full responsibility for his crime and realizes that he should have protested when the idea to rob Mr. Wilson was first mentioned. He believes if he had done this, the murder could have easily been prevented. He also has genuine remorse, having written an apology letter to Anna Marie Vargas, the daughter of Russell Wilson. (Apology Letters (Exhibit C).) He has also written an apology letter to his family. (Ibid.)

Demetrius has no other criminal history. (Exhibit B, p. 9.)

4. Reasons Clemency should be granted:

Youth Offender Factors:

Under California law, a youth offender is a person who commits a crime before the age of 26. (Pen. Code § 3051, subd. (b).) "Scientific evidence on adolescence and young adult development and neuroscience shows that certain areas of the brain, particularly those affecting judgment and decision-making, do not develop until the early-to mid-20s." (Senate Committee on Public Safety Hearing on AB 1308, June 27, 2017, p. 3 (Exhibit D).) "Research has shown that the prefrontal cortex doesn't have nearly the functional capacity at age 18 as it does at 25." (Exhibit D, p. 3.) "The prefrontal cortex is responsible for a variety of important functions of the brain including: attention, complex planning, decision making, impulse control, logical thinking, organized thinking, personality development, risk management, and short-term memory." (Exhibit D p. 3.) "These functions are highly relevant to criminal behavior and culpability." (Exhibit D p. 3) Regarding youth offenders, the Legislature has found that "only a relatively small proportion of adolescents" who engage in illegal activity "develop entrenched patterns of problem behavior," and that "developments in psychology and brain science continue to show fundamental differences between juvenile and adult minds," including "parts of the brain involved in behavior control." The Legislature recognizes that youthfulness both lessens a juvenile's moral culpability and enhances the prospect that, as a youth matures into an adult and neurological development occurs, these individuals can become contributing members of society. (Senate Bill 260, p. 3 (Exhibit E.)

The United States Supreme Court has identified "three significant gaps between juveniles and adults." (Miller v. Alabama (2012) 567 U.S. 460, 471.) "First, children have a lack of maturity and an underdeveloped sense of responsibility, leading to recklessness, impulsivity, and heedless risk-taking." (Ibid. quoting Roper v. Simmons (2005) 543 U.S. 551, 569 (Roper) (Internal quotation marks omitted).) "Second, children are more vulnerable . . . to negative influences and outside pressures, including from their family and peers; they have limited control over their own environment and lack the ability to extricate themselves from horrific, crime-producing settings." (Ibid. quoting Roper, supra, 543 U.S. at p. 569 (Internal quotation marks omitted).) "And third, a child's character is not as well formed as an adult's; his traits are less fixed and his actions less likely to be evidence of irretrievable depravity." (Ibid. quoting Roper, supra, 543 U.S. at p. 570 (Internal quotation marks omitted).)

Mr. Governor, I ask that you keep the above factors in mind as you consider whether to afford Demetrius, who was 22 years old when he committed this crime, an opportunity to prove his rehabilitation and possibly obtain release from prison.

Demetrius' father was in prison for much of Demetrius' childhood. While incarcerated, his father instilled the need to be a man to protect his mother and sisters. When his father was out of prison, he was distant with Demetrius and was physically abusive to his mother. He did not work, but was highly demanding of his children, and when they did not live up to his high standards, he would become physically abusive toward them. As a result, Demetrius began getting into fights with kids at school that picked on his sisters. He would feel helpless and like he had failed his mother when his father would abuse her.

As Demetrius grew older, he was self-conscious about talking, afraid that people would think he was dumb. He began to listen to rap music and watch how the "tough guys" wore their clothes, walked and talked. He mimicked what he saw and heard from these sources, so people would think he was a tough guy and not mess with him.

When Demetrius' mother got married to a man, not his father, Demetrius became defiant toward his mother and her husband. He started acting out at school and at home, by not doing his homework or chores and acting like he wanted to run away because such behavior got his father's attention. From ages 10 to 16, Demetrius got into a lot of fights and into a lot of trouble with his parents and at school.

Demetrius began to play football and excelled. As one of the best players, he was popular and included in all his classmates' social activities. He still felt out of place and different from other people, so he did not talk or express his opinion much for fear of being criticized.

Although Demetrius was a gifted athlete, school work did not come so easily for him. In his sophomore year, he went to continuation school to make up units to catch up to where he needed to be to be eligible to play football. The high school only accepted a fraction of the credits Demetrius had earned at continuation school, so he was not allowed to play on the football team, despite having the talent to be a starting running back. He became discouraged and quite school. Demetrius now understands that this was a big mistake, and if he had it to do over, he would have gone to another high school, played football, earned his diploma and gone to college.

From age 18 to 21, Demetrius learned to make rap music and spent much of his time in the studio. His involvement in rap music brought him into contact with gang members and eventually with Damien Owens.

With the help from many self-help courses, Demetrius has learned that he had developed the tough-guy façade based on the flawed concept of what "being a man" meant that he had learned from his father. He now knows that being a man is having responsibility, accountability and knowledge of self, being respectful and considerate of others, having morals, manners and ethics and leading by example and exhibiting those characteristics.

He has also learned that his fear of others opinions played a significant role in him not voicing his opposition to the plan to rob Mr. Wilson. He went along with the plan rather than oppose it because he did not want to look like a coward to his peers. Demetrius has improved his education by getting his GED and two college degrees. He has also turned to God and joined church to get spiritually grounded. These things have opened his eyes, heart and mind to a whole new way of thinking, behaving and living.

Demetrius overcame his fear of speaking his opinion by facilitating one of the self-help courses. Becoming a facilitator helped him to come out of his shell and to realize that his opinions can be a help and encouragement to others. Demetrius now realizes that he had the power to speak up against the plan to commit a robbery and had he done so, Mr. Wilson would still be alive, and Demetrius would be supporting his children. It is his hope that he might have an opportunity to still be a father to his children.

Rehabilitation and Behavior In Prison:

During his 17 years in prison, Demetrius has rehabilitated himself through self-help, education and volunteer work. While at CSP – Los Angeles, from 2010 to 2014, Demetrius programmed in the Progressive Programming Facility, which requires strict adherence to prison rules and participation in rehabilitative programs such as Parenting Classes, Self-Help Groups and Inmate Activity Groups. Prior to that from 2003 until 2010, Demetrius was a participant in the Facility A Honor Program, which required mandatory random drug testing. (Rehabilitation (Exhibit F).)

(See Exhibit E.)

Utilizing what he has learned from these rehabilitative programs, Demetrius has gained tremendous insight into his past character flaws and defects, and has worked extensively to address and overcome each of these issues. (Then & Now Charts (Exhibit G).)

Relapse Prevention Plans:

Demetrius has also developed an extensive relapse prevention plan, identifying his triggers and warning signs for relapse, and his support network. (Relapse Prevention Plan (Exhibit H).)

Parole Plans:

Demetrius also has detailed parole plans which include being accepted into a 12-24 month residential treatment program to assist with his transition back into society. (Parole Plans (Exhibit I).) His fiancé, children, mother, relative and friends all support his release from prison and will help him transition back into society. (Support Letters (Exhibit J).)

Community Support:

A petition supporting Demetrius' clemency petition has been started on Change.org. As of the date this clemency petition is being submitted, 1,918 people have signed the petition in support of Demetrius. (Change.org Petition (Exhibit K).)

Disciplinary History:

Demetrius has not committed an act of violence, nor used drugs or alcohol during his 17 years of incarceration. Throughout his entire incarceration, he has only been disciplined twice, once in 2012 for possession of a cell phone and tobacco and once in 2013 for possession of a cell phone. Demetrius takes full responsibility for these rules violations and had exemplary behavior ever since. (Disciplinary Reports (Exhibit L).) Demetrius takes full responsibility for his actions and has gained insight into how to avoid such misconduct in the future. (Scenarios (Exhibit M).)

Jeffrey Ward

On June 24, 2006, Jeffrey Ward and Raymond Walker got into a confrontation with a group at a park. Afterwards, Mr. Ward and Mr. Walker got into their car and drove toward Serge Zubenko, who was sitting in his car. One shot was fired into Mr. Zubenko's car, killing him. On November 14, 2008, the Sacramento County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Ward to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Ward is now 32 years old and has been incarcerated for almost 13 years. In that time, he has made strides toward turning his life around. In his application for clemency, he wrote, "Today I am a wholly different person than the 19 year old kid who was arrested and convicted of murder. I now operate my life based on a completely different set of morals and ideals." He continued, "I've learned a lot about myself and life during this process of rehabilitation. . . . I now know that I can be part of the solution, even while in prison, and I hope to one day regain my freedom to have an even bigger impact on positive change and healing the community."

Since his incarceration, Mr. Ward has earned his GED and is currently pursuing an A.A. degree. Mr. Ward has completed vocational training in computer literacy, and has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Getting Out by Going In, and Victim Impact. One of Mr. Ward's teachers commended him for exhibiting a positive turnaround. In 2017, a sponsor of his Getting Out by Going In group wrote, "Mr. Ward seems to exhibit a genuine compassion for his fellow inmates in the group and is supportive of their rehabilitative efforts to change how they think. He comes prepared to facilitate the weekly meetings and engages members of the group in ways that encourage integrity and self-introspection. From my experience, Mr. Ward also keeps his word, follows up on necessities to keep the group going, and communicates effectively and respectfully with both staff and inmates." Another sponsor wrote, "Mr. Ward seems to be determined to understand himself, and to encourage others to understand their lives in a way that empower them in their directions to behave differently."

Despite having a sentence with no hope of release, Mr. Ward has made efforts to better himself and help those around him. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Ward has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Jeffrey Ward to a total of 20 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR

#2(cont.) and against my better judgement I allowed Raymond E. Walker into my car armed with a gun. We adventually arrived at a park, next to some houses which had a little gathering of people. In slang terms it was a late night "hang out". There were around fifteen people present that night. I was leaning against my car talking to a girl when a fight broke out between 5 or 6 guys. We were in a high police area so I told everyone whom I was with "I'm outta here", we all got into my car and as I was driving away, Raymond E. Walker shot one shot into a parked car killing Serge Zubenko who was sitting inside the car.

#3(cont.) and only adult conviction. My appeals are exhausted and really this is my last hope at maybe one day regaining my physical freedom. It is not my intension to try and relitigate my case, however I do think it is important to note that the actual shooter recieved a 12 year sentence for Manslaughter. I however, am only begging for mercy and the chance to prove myself suitable in front of the BPH.

#4(cont.) I was a confused kid starving for attepction and acceptance, and I would go to great lengths to achieve this. I know now that my mind set, and low selfesteem was caused by my father leaving when I was 7 or 8 years old, and my mother being absent due to drug addicition. Back then I associated love with fear and intimidation, and placed the upmost value on what I thought others thought of me. Simply put I was lost. I now live a life where my moral code is based on love, but accompanied with care and affection; Real Love. I now realize that it is never okay to victimize anyone, and all my actions have real affects on people and my environment.

My self-esteem now comes from within, I no longer care what others think of me which allows me to live in my truth.

#4(cont.) The man I've grown into is a giver, not a taker. I know life dose'nt owe me anything, it is me who owes life, and now I live life with such a purpose.

During my incarceration I have educated myself, earning my G.E.D. and I'm very close to earning my AA degree. I have participated in numerous self-help groups, and facilitate many as well. I've learned a lot about myself and life during this process of rehabilitation. (Please review my c-file).

While incarcerated at High Desert State Prison, B-yard, I established G.O.G.I (GettingOutByGoingIn.org) as the prominate self-help group on that yard. I personally trained 10 facilitators who then mentored hundreds of men and continue to this day. I have now been involed in G.O.G.I for almost 4 years, I'm a certified G.O.G.I coach, and have now started the first G.O.G.I group here at S.C.C.

My ultimate goal is to one day earn my freedom and become a youth counselor where I can make a differnce in the lives of troubled youth. I want to guide the youth in a direction where they understand their true value, thus breaking the cycle of victimization.

I've started this process by writting letters for Prison Letters 4 Our Struggling Youth. An organization that takes prisoners' inspiring letters and reads them to struggling youth all over the state/country. I now know that I can be part of the solution, even while in prison, and I hope to one day regain my freedom to have an even bigger impact on positive change and healing the communitiy.

Thank you for your consideration.

Thomas Warren

On May 8, 1998, Dennis Reese and Thomas Warren lured John Fitusi to the side of the highway in Los Angeles County. Mr. Reese approached Mr. Fitusi's vehicle and fired multiple shots at him, killing him. Authorities later concluded Mr. Reese killed Mr. Fitusi over a financial dispute between the two men. On October 27, 1999, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Warren to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus two years for a firearm enhancement.

Mr. Warren has now been incarcerated for more than 20 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Warren described how his need for acceptance led to a "self-destructive anti-social lifestyle" and the "brutal, callous" murder of Mr. Fitusi. Mr. Warren described how he has transformed over the last two decades in prison. He wrote, "It has been a long and difficult process to change from the angry, insecure and in many ways ignorant young man I was upon coming to prison into the adult, married man I am today. My transformation did not come easily or quickly; it has taken many years of painful psychological insight and step-by-step emotional and spiritual maturing to become the healthy, honorable person I am now." Mr. Warren wrote, "I am now someone who can and will contribute to society in a positive way."

During more than two decades in prison with no possibility of parole, Mr. Warren has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has been disciplined only three times for misconduct and never for any violence. Mr. Warren has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Insight, Arts in Corrections, Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, and Criminals & Gangmembers Anonymous. Mr. Warren is currently taking college classes and assisting inmates with disabilities as an ADA worker.

Mr. Warren is an accomplished writer and participated in the Playwrights Project and the Insight-Out News at the Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility. In 2017, an instructor in the Playwrights Project commended Mr. Warren for his participation in the project, writing that he "voiced opinions with respect, revised his writing in response to feedback, and told an engaging story with empathetic characters using nonviolent strategies for problem solving." In 2016, a sponsor for the Insight-Out News praised Mr. Warren for his work on the newsletter, noting, "His contributions have been greatly appreciated and necessary to the growth of the group." The sponsor commended Mr. Warren on his help conceptualizing and finalizing articles and wrote, "He has assisted in the editing process and has started helping other writers to 'learn the ropes' of good writing. He continues to be a supporting pillar in the foundation of Insight-Out News." In 2003, an advanced writing class facilitator commended Mr. Warren on his submissions for a short story contest. The facilitator noted that Mr. Warren's writings "demonstrate a disciplined application and close attention to technique, and the story he submitted for the contest won second prize."

Since committing this very serious crime, Mr. Warren has transformed his life, turning away from violence and dedicating himself to self-improvement. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Warren has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Thomas Warren to a total of 23 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

CONTINUATION OF QUESTIONS

FROM: Thomas Warren
TO: Governor Jerry Brown

Sir,
Here are my question's continuations. Thank you.

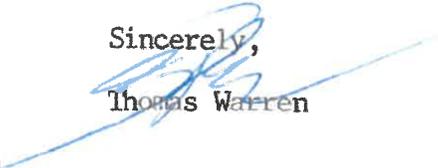

2. Reese shot victim Fitusi in his white rental car.

3. I am now. I am requesting commutation because I have put in many years of difficult work and I am now someone who can and will contribute to society in a positive way. My continued incarceration is an unjustified expense that no longer serves the public interest.

4. achieved, this led me to a self-destructive anti-social lifestyle that ultimately brought pain and greivous suffering to my community and upon my own family and friends. Now, as a middle-aged Christian man who is seeking to make amends, I can look back at the troubled youth I was with shame and regret, but also with compassion and understanding. It has been a difficult path to become the very different man I am today. I do not ask you to commute the sentence of the young man I was, but to restore to my wife and family, as well as church the man I am today.

Thank you in advance for taking the time to read my application and for your compassionate consideration of my plea.

Sincerely,

Thomas Warren

Charles Lewis Weyant

In February 1981, Charles Weyant and Paul Carrillo were heavily intoxicated and came up with a plan to call a taxi, knock out the driver, and use the taxi for the night without paying. They called a taxi driven by Stanley Pace. Around midnight, Mr. Weyant and Mr. Carrillo struck Mr. Pace multiple times in the head with a 2x4 with nails, killing him. On September 7, 1990, the Riverside County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Weyant to life without the possibility of parole for murder.

Mr. Weyant is now 62 years old and has been incarcerated for more than 37 years. He seeks a commutation based on his rehabilitation. In his application, he wrote, "I'm requesting commutation in the hope that I may one day be able to go before a parole board to show that I am not the same person that committed this horrible crime." He continued, "Long before I ever heard of the possibility of commutation of sentences, I have been living my life like I would in the community, if I was ever released – always striving back to give to the community, and in doing so, better myself."

During more than two decades in prison and with no possibility of parole, Mr. Weyant has been dedicated to transforming his life. He has only been disciplined for misconduct four times in nearly four decades, and has avoided gangs, drugs, and violence. Mr. Weyant earned his GED, is currently taking college classes, and has completed many vocational training programs. He has participated in self-help programs, including Narcotics Anonymous, Victim Sensitivity, and Houses of Healing.

Mr. Weyant has resided on the Progressive Programming Facility for several years and is a founding member of the Progressive Arts Program at Lancaster. A sponsor for the arts program wrote that Mr. Weyant "has demonstrated a willingness to make amends for the harm he has caused through his contributions to [himself] and outside communities. He has displayed characteristics that are consistent with the rehabilitative efforts of the Progressive Programming Facility. He has been a positive role model to his peers and his leadership is commended." If he were to be released from prison, Mr. Weyant plans to enter transitional housing, and he will also receive support from his brother and sister.

Although Mr. Weyant was given a sentence that gave him no hope of release, he has remained dedicated to and focused on his rehabilitation throughout his incarceration. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Weyant has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Charles Lewis Weyant to a total of 37 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

James White

In 1980, James White approached Harvey Booth, Sr. and shot him, killing him. On February 24, 1981, the Los Angeles County Superior Court sentenced Mr. White to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus eight years for murder, assault with intent to commit murder, and a firearm enhancement.

Mr. White is now 73 years old and has been incarcerated for nearly four decades. During that time, he has never been disciplined for any misconduct – a remarkable accomplishment. Mr. White has participated in many self-help programs including Victims Awareness and Breaking Barriers, and has been active in veterans groups for many years. He is a hospice volunteer, participates in fundraisers for charity, volunteers as a literacy tutor, and mentors youthful offenders.

Mr. White earned an A.A. degree and a business management certificate from Palo Verde College, and has been instrumental in establishing college and tutoring programs at Ironwood State Prison. Many members of the correctional and education staff have commended him for his efforts. One instructor praised Mr. White's dedication to self-help and education programs and wrote, "[I]f I have ever seen a candidate who I personally believe would be one who would not only succeed but who would become an asset to any community he was released into it is White. I would have absolutely no qualms of having [him] as my neighbor." Another instructor wrote, "Mr. White's efforts to promote rehabilitation go above and beyond the norm in generating position change within the community here at ISP, and I believe, if he were to be released, that effect would extend to the community outside these walls as well." A correctional officer praised Mr. White's positive behavior and wrote, "He is highly motivated, and a self-starter, and leads inmates into a more productive life. I consider White a role model for all the inmates located in this housing unit."

Additionally, Mr. White's application was reviewed by the Board of Parole Hearings, which voted at an en banc meeting to recommend clemency. The California Supreme Court also made the recommendation required by the California Constitution for a grant of clemency to Mr. White. For all of these reasons, I believe that Mr. White has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of James White to a total of 38 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

APPLICATION FOR
COMMUTATION OF SENTENCEName: Taewon Yun Wilson*DOB: [REDACTED]-1974*Inmate ID: K-12245*Address: 44750 60th Street West, Lancaster CA 93536 Facility: CSP-Lancaster Los Angeles County*4. Provide a brief statement explain why you should be granted a commutation (attach additional pages if necessary):

When I was convicted of my crime and was sentenced to LWOP, I accepted the sentence because I agreed that I should be punished for my participation in this crime. In lieu of my sentence I promised myself and my family that while I was incarcerated I would work on becoming a better person and involve myself in positive programs to change. I also believe that in becoming a better individual, I owe this to the victim, Mrs. Delphina Gittens and her family. In my 20 young years of life before this night, I had never been in trouble with the law. I was not in any gang growing up nor while incarcerated, I had no prior convictions as a youth or as an adult, and I have one write up in 24 years of incarceration.

From 1996-2013 I was housed at Corcoran where I enrolled and participated in every class and program that was available to me in a level IV facility. I completed conflict resolution, AA and NA. From 1996-1997 I worked as a clothing room clerk. From 1997-1998 I received my GED and was a teacher's aide. From 1998 to 2013 I was the clothing room tailor and lead man. In 2013 I transferred to level III Lancaster A-Yard due to law changes that allowed LWOP's to be in a lower level facility. While in Lancaster I have been able to enroll and participate in Conflict Resolution, Parenting Class, and I received my GED again on 2014; due to no record in my file. I was able to sign up for and enroll in the Alternative to Violence Program where I finished the basic course, the advanced course, and I am now a facilitator for AVP. I am currently enrolled in Antelope Valley College and Coast Line Community College. I am working towards receiving multiple AA degrees in Social Studies/Humanities and Business/Computer Science, while maintaining a 4.0 GPA. I am also currently enrolled in American Sign Language. My goal is to continue my education and earn my bachelor's degree in communications. If I am given the chance to go in front of the parole board and I am granted my freedom I plan on giving back to the community as much as possible, helping my family, and making amends every day to honor and remember Delphina Gittens.

With gratitude and hope, thank you for taking the time to read my application,

Taewon Yun Wilson K-12245

Linda Woo

On March 29, 2006, Linda Woo, who was suffering from major depression, attempted suicide and tried to kill her children by placing them in a vehicle and lighting a portable grill. Ms. Woo then closed all the car doors and windows and got into the car with her children. When authorities found Ms. Woo and her children, she and her son were suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning. Ms. Woo's daughter died as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning. On November 24, 2009, the San Francisco County Superior Court sentenced Ms. Woo to 25 years to life for murder.

Ms. Woo has now been incarcerated for almost 13 years. She seeks a commutation based on her rehabilitation. In her application, she wrote, "I am profoundly sorry for my actions and I go forward in life trying every day to be the best possible person I can be. . . . Over these last 12 years I have gained great insight into myself and – working closely with mental health professionals – have also been able to address the sources of my depression." Ms. Woo continued, "I have been able to learn a great deal here and have established meaningful relationships, acquired much needed insight into myself, and discovered a joy in helping others meet their goals."

Ms. Woo has demonstrated her commitment to her rehabilitation over the last 13 years. She has never been disciplined for any misconduct. Ms. Woo is currently enrolled in the Last Mile computer coding program. She has participated in various self-help programs, including Relapse Prevention, Leadership, Relationships, and Restorative Justice/Victim Impact. Ms. Woo also served as a facilitator for Alternatives to Violence and Anger Transformation. She has lived in an honor dorm since 2014.

Through her positive attitude and behavior, Ms. Woo has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with her on a regular basis. In 2018, a correctional officer described Ms. Woo as an "exemplary person" and commended her for her work on suicide prevention, writing, "She pays close attention to those affected and often goes out of her way to share her experience and offer support to those in need." Ms. Woo has volunteered as a grief and relationships counselor for the Compassionate Companions Program since 2014. The program's sponsor wrote, "Ms. Woo is competent, reliable, hardworking, and motivated at all times to go above and beyond." In 2015, the Prado Adult School principal recognized Ms. Woo for her "extraordinary" work tutoring her peers and wrote, "She has demonstrated an extraordinary work ethic and above average initiative, integrity, dependability, and good judgment, consistently earning an exceptional rating on her performance evaluations." Ms. Woo also volunteered as a literacy tutor.

Ms. Woo's family, including her son, who survived this crime, are supportive of her release. Ms. Woo's son wrote, "For all my life I have wanted her back in my life." He continued, "I sincerely hope you will give me and my mother a chance to be a family again." Ms. Woo's ex-husband also wrote in support of clemency, stating, "Giving Linda an opportunity to be released while she is still relatively young seems to me to be the right thing. She has paid a significant price for her actions; and maintaining her incarceration does not appear to serve anyone's interest."

While Ms. Woo committed a heartbreaking and tragic crime, she has focused on her rehabilitation and worked to address the factors that led her to commit this act. Therefore, I believe that Ms. Woo has earned an earlier opportunity to present her case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether she is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Linda Woo to a total of 13 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.

INTRODUCTION

This case arises out of a tragedy of stunningly painful dimensions. For most of her life, Linda Woo lived a productive, admirable, and happy life. Born in 1966 into a stable and supportive family, a graduate of two of California's leading public educational institutions – Lowell High School in San Francisco and the University of California at Berkeley – Linda pursued a successful career as a rate analyst at PG&E, married her college sweetheart, and bore two children to whom she was a loving and devoted mother.

Yet, when her marriage deteriorated and a love affair fell apart, she fell into a long and increasingly severe clinical depression that led to her attempt to take her own life. From the vantage point of her illness, she became convinced that her children would not be able to face life without their mother, and that the only solution that made sense was to take them with her. She took them into the vehicle in which she intended to asphyxiate herself by carbon monoxide poisoning, in her garage. By the time friends found the three, Linda's three year old daughter, Olive, was dead. Linda and her four and a half year old son, Carter, were rushed to the hospital and survived. Linda was convicted of first-degree murder of Olive, and attempted murder of Carter, and sentenced to a term of 25 years to life with the possibility of parole.

For the remainder of her life, Linda must live with the reality that she caused the death of her own daughter and nearly killed her son. No matter how hard she has striven to understand the sources of her mental illness (powerfully described in expert testimony at her murder trial), and to better herself and contribute to the betterment of others, her daily life will always be burdened by profound sorrow. As her ex-husband, Gavin [REDACTED], Olive's father, writes of Linda, "[s]he must live the rest of her days knowing what she did to Olive, to Carter, to me, and to all that know those two children."

Yet, despite his awful loss, Gavin [REDACTED] supports, as does his family, Linda's application for a grant of clemency. Gavin recognizes Carter's need for his mother, writing that "Linda's release would provide a possibility to process what has happened to him in a way that wouldn't be possible with her continued incarceration. He has spent the majority of his life without seeing his mother, and changing this may be beneficial." Gavin concludes by stating that – given that Linda "is doing everything the State could want from an inmate, and more," maintaining Linda's "incarceration does not appear to serve anyone's interest. ... For that reason I am asking you to grant Linda's petition for commutation of sentence."

Gavin's request for clemency is echoed by his son Carter, who writes of his mother: "I get so much joy from what she writes to me, and hope that someday we can speak face to face... I sincerely hope you will give me and my mother a chance to be a family again." Linda's psychological recuperation is fully documented in this application, as is her truly remarkable record of in-prison achievement and rehabilitation. She seeks only to now be made parole eligible, in order that the Board of Prison Hearings may consider and determine if and when she is suitable to rejoin society.

THE COMMITMENT OFFENSE

Linda Woo and Gavin [REDACTED], her husband and father to their two children, separated in June 2005. Not long after, Gavin observed a gathering depression in Linda and became increasingly worried about her mental state. In early March 2006 Linda told Gavin that she was depressed and suicidal. Gavin tried to help by reaching out to Linda's sisters and friends, asking them to call more often and keep her company during a difficult and lonely time. He also contacted Linda's therapist to see what, if anything, could be done, and on the therapist's advice he and a friend went to Linda's house on March 20, 2006, to ask her to voluntarily check herself into a mental hospital. Linda refused, stating it was not necessary. Later that week, when Gavin saw Linda, he thought she looked worse than ever, like a “zombie,” “lifeless,” and “not there.”

Linda had been having an on-again, off-again affair with Eric Embry since 2000. When Gavin moved out in June 2005, Eric and Linda had just recently rekindled their relationship. At this point Linda was already experiencing depression. Eric was not happy, and the relationship was tumultuous. He kept trying to break up with Linda, but she would not let him. She asked him not to abandon her. She also told him that she wanted to kill herself. Eric was very concerned and said he would call Gavin and Linda’s sister, but Linda responded that she was not serious and told him not to call them. On March 23, 2006, Linda emailed Eric about suicide and called him close to 30 times. She asked him to be there with her so she would not want to die. On Sunday, March 26, Eric saw Linda and upon seeing her acting ‘fine,’ he became mad at her. They fought and argued and Eric told Linda that she was not serious about killing herself.

On March 29, as he was leaving for work, Eric discovered that his car was missing from its parking spot and that Linda’s car was in its place. He got a ride from a coworker and went to Linda’s house to check on things. At around 7:00 a.m. he saw Linda and her two small children inside her garage, in his car. He tried to wake Linda, but she did not respond. Her son Carter, however, began to stir, which prompted Eric to leave. He left the garage and told his coworker that Linda and her kids were sleeping in his car, and went to work. He did not call anybody else.

By the early afternoon, someone from the children’s nursery called Gavin to report that Linda and the children had not shown up, even though it was her day to work there. Gavin was working in San Jose, so he called long-time friends Thomas Kauth and his wife, Lisa Velarde, and they immediately drove to the house, arriving at about 1:00 pm. They found Linda and the children, saw the hibachi barbecue grill on the front passenger seat, a suicide note on the dashboard and called 911. They tried CPR on Linda's daughter, Olive, but they could tell that she was already dead. They wrapped her son, Carter, in blankets to warm him up. On the way to the hospital a paramedic asked Linda if she had tried to kill herself and her children, and she responded that she had.

In a letter she left for Gavin [REDACTED], Linda wrote: "I am sorry for your pain and your suffering, and also for my mother's and everyone else's.... I cannot let [the children] go through the pain of losing me and then struggling to live a normal life knowing their mother killed herself and left them. It's too much for them ... I love my children more than anything... I know you and everyone will think I am a monster. I am robbing them of their lives, yes, but I am also saving them from so much sorrow and grief."

According to Dr. Gilbert Villela, Linda's treating psychiatrist at San Francisco General Hospital after her suicide attempt, Linda was one of the most severely depressed patients he had ever encountered in his clinical experience. During her hospital stay, Linda was also treated and evaluated by emergency room physician Dr. Eric Isaac, who similarly testified that she was one of the most profoundly depressed people he had cared for. Linda was treated with an antidepressant and her condition improved over time.

At trial, seven of Linda's friends testified about their happy-go-lucky, energetic, outgoing and fun friend, Linda Woo, and how over the course of the year or more preceding the incident, she had begun to appear tired and depressed. Each described a Linda who was joyless, or lonely, or uncharacteristically tearful and needing of help. A total of six mental health experts testified, three retained by the defense, two appointed by the court, and one hired by the prosecution. With the exception of Dr. David Kan, the prosecution's expert, all agreed that Linda suffered from

Major Depressive Disorder of a severe type. Dr. Kan diagnosed her as having “Depressive Disorder, Not Otherwise Specified.”

LINDA WOO’S RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT AND REHABILITATION

“Linda is deeply remorseful for the tragic mistakes she has made, and fully grappling with the devastating circumstances that led to the crime for which she is incarcerated. ... I recognize her incredible intellect, her passion for making amends and building a better life and world, have made her one of the most exceptional students, teachers, mentors and human beings I have ever met.”

Bryonn Bain, Associate Professor and Director,
UCLA Prison Education Program

Linda Woo’s prison C-File is replete with dozens of laudatory chronological reports praising her level of contribution and care for fellow inmates through her participation in roughly two dozen programs. What follows is a selection of those reports.

The Last Mile Coding and Software Engineering program is a highly selective program (a 3-part application process) which aims to prepare its graduates for employment in the technology sector. According to Katherine McMurray, the classroom facilitator for the program at California Institute for Women (CIW), Linda finished at the top of her class for the “Track 1” portion and is currently enrolled in Track 2. “Furthermore, because of her unparalleled content knowledge and advanced programming skills, Ms. Woo has just been hired as 1 of 3 top students to be employed as the first ever incarcerated female software engineers in history.” As a result of a joint venture with the California Prison Industry Authority, Linda Woo “will be joining the tech industry before release,” earning $15.46 per hour, “while meaningfully contributing to a savings account and building an up to date portfolio to help her hit the ground running and find a job quickly after release.” Despite these achievements, Ms. McMurray reserves her highest admiration for Linda’s “inherent ability to connect with and aid others ... She goes out of her way to aid her peers through one on one instruction, small group teaching, and whole class lectures. She contributes sustainable, positive impact for those in our program as well as the entire prison, earning the respect and admiration of peers and staff. Linda Woo is brilliant, gracious, humble, practical, optimistic, patient, analytical – completely well-rounded. In my years as an educator of hundreds of youth and adults, I have never encountered a more capable and gracious student. I have witnessed Linda Woo’s positive contribution to her community. She has the attitude, personal and professional experience, opportunity, and acumen to successfully transition and continue having positive impact upon release. I, as well as The Last Mile team, fully support her, during her incarceration and beyond.” (Exhibit A: Letter of Katherine McMurray, The Last Mile Program)

UCLA associate professor and Director of the UCLA Prison Education Program, Bryonn Bain met Linda Woo in the fall of 2015. He writes that “Linda stood out immediately as a woman who was not only highly educated, but also caring and compassionate enough to tutor countless other women in need of academic support and mentorship. It was clear early on that she was among the most sought-after teachers and mentors at the facility, and my work with her over the years that followed would reveal to me exactly why.” Bain describes Linda’s role as a founding member of the CIW Think Tank – a leadership organization of incarcerated women which guided the establishment of the Prison Education Program, which he directs: “Linda helped to develop and then participated as a student in the first college credit-bearing UCLA pilot course in a correctional facility, ‘Narratives of Change,’ in which she earned the highest marks through a combination of critical analysis, insightful writing and collaborative work. This led to Linda’s involvement in coordinating a Creative Writing Workshop which adapted the L. Frank Baum classic, “The Wonderful Wizard of Oz” which was staged at the Los Angeles Theater Center and at the 2017 inaugural national conference at UCLA – Beyond the Bars LA.

Bain describes as “consistently extraordinary,” Linda’s “instrumental role in the yearlong research and development of a memorandum for the Los Angeles Mayor’s Office of Reentry, in collaboration with the International Human Rights Law Clinic at the UCLA School of Law.” The law students and law professors who came to CIW to meet with Linda and the clinic participants were “astounded – to the point of embarrassment at times, of how much further she delved into the assignments and tasks she took on in an effort to enhance the quality of life and opportunities for the successful community reentry of her peers ... With little expectation that she might personally benefit from the work, Ms. Woo surveyed incarcerated women about their needs, researched and compiled data regarding the resources available and lacking in Los Angeles for returning citizens, and produced sophisticated multi-variable analysis and charts above and beyond any expectations – and surpassing the abilities of many law students and even faculty.” Bain sees Linda’s “drive to improve the lives of others” as being the result of “insight she has gleaned through years of critical introspection. The psychological depth she has reached by way of self-reflection and personal inventory of her actions are evidence of tremendous individual effort to reconcile her traumatic past with present actions that lead to a redemptive future ... With her rigorous introspection, service to others, and remarkable intellect, Linda has demonstrated not only her preparedness to rejoin society, but also offered a glimpse into what amazing work she might yet do, if given the opportunity.” (Exhibit B: Letter of Bryonn Bain, UCLA)

The Alternatives to Violence Project (AVP) is a non-profit organization “offering experiential workshops in nonviolent conflict resolution and communication skills, currently offered in 26 of California’s 33 prisons.” Linda Woo first became involved with AVP in 2014, and “has positively impacted the program through her work, dedication, and leadership skills.

First, as a participant in the 60 hours of workshop training, and later she completed an additional 60 hours of apprenticeship to become a certified AVP facilitator. “Based on her skill as a facilitator” she was chosen to be trained as a Team Coordinator, a responsibility which – in addition to its “sophisticated” managerial/administrative duties – includes mentoring other facilitators. “In pursuit of this goal, Linda completed an extended mentorship period in which she was trained by three additional individuals ... Furthermore, Linda has repeatedly shown herself willing and able to use her AVP skills outside of the workshop space, turning possible situations of conflict into positive discussions that has served to strengthen the AVP community at CIW.” According to Milena Tyler von Wrangel, who serves on the Steering Committee of AVP California, there are only three individuals who have been selected to be Team Coordinators at CIW, at present. (Exhibit C: Letter of Milena Tyler von Wrangel, AVP/CA)

Rita Chairez is the co-facilitator of the Victim Offender Education Group (VOEG) and a survivor of violence. She writes that Linda, when she applied to the program, was interested in investigating and understanding the root causes of her crime, and that “her need to have a sense of commitment, accountability and responsibility was evident when she was interviewed for the VOEG group.” Most memorable was the “Goodbye Letter she wrote to someone she didn’t have the opportunity to say goodbye to. “As she was reading her letter her accountability was very present and she was feeling every word she was sharing.” Nor did she shy away from going deeper when invited to by the facilitators’ questions, or questions posed by other women, which made it possible for Linda “to understand the pain and grief she caused her victims and all the people around her in a respectful and responsible way ... If given the opportunity to be part of a community once again, she will be part of the solution because that’s the way she will give back some of what she has taken from her community.” (Exhibit D: Letter of Rita Chairez, VOEG)

Linda has also been an active participant in a program called Compassionate Companions, since its inception in 2014. Compassionate Companions is a hospice group which provides “comforting support for qualified inmates experiencing loss, grief, pain ... due to chronic illness.” For this she was trained by Hines Hospice. According to Jennifer Olivares, a staff sponsor of the program at CIW, Linda Woo’s “own experience with loss and grief made her an exceptional asset to this program and, in turn, this program helped Ms. Woo to heal and grow in ways that may not have been possible without the group.” Ms. Olivares also notes that she worked with Linda Woo when she was a Chaffey College Staff Sponsor where Linda was a tutor, stating that “Ms. Woo’s ability to communicate and articulate are key in aiding students who have difficulty grasping the curriculum. Ms. Woo demonstrated extraordinary skills and creativity in tutoring. She was able to work with other tutors cohesively to ensure the students received the most help.” (Exhibit E: Letter of Jennifer Olivares, CDCR)

Ben Rodriguez is an educator and liaison between the CIW and various college programs, who has worked with Linda Woo for over 3 years. He describes her as “one of the most stable, prudent and consistently reliable workers I have seen among prison inmates. Inmate Woo seems to find deep satisfaction in helping her peers and her supervisors complete difficult tasks. She is highly skilled, a master problem solver, and patient ... I give her my highest recommendation for your consideration.” (Exhibit F: Letter of Ben Rodriguez, CDCR)

And finally, Correctional Officer Linda Vasquez, who has known Linda for “several years,” attests to her character as an “exemplary person” who was an “integral part of the team that created Suicide Prevention Week at CIW and a large contributor to its success. She pays close attention to those affected and often goes out of her way to share her experience and offer support to those in need.” (Exhibit G: Letter of Linda Vasquez, C.O., CDCR)

LINDA WOO'S FAMILY

Carter [REDACTED], Linda's son, writes simply and movingly about his longing for his mother. His letter is quoted here in full:

"My name is [REDACTED] and I am Linda Woo's son. I have lived without my mom for as long as I can remember. She has been in prison since before I started in elementary school. I don't really know what to say here, but just that I hope you consider my opinion. For all my life I have wanted her back in my life; I have never found it within myself to blame her for what she did to myself or my sister. As a result, the blame she must feel on her own shoulders is immense; in my letters from her and the few calls we have shared I have felt nothing but sorrow and regret from her. She must be as remorseful as I am distraught at what I still don't fully understand.

Whenever I talk to her, I don't hear someone who would kill another person. If that is what my mom once was, I don't think it is anymore. I have heard that she is doing everything she can in prison to better herself, by exercising and taking classes, and to help others, by leading classes, and helping people who are at the end of life. I don't see why it would be necessary to subject excess pain and suffering to those who have experienced enough already.

I don't know what I would gain by my mother's release; I cannot, having never truly known her. Everyone has told me that she was an exceptional mom to me and Olive. This love that I received from her then, I may not remember it, but it is part of me. I have only pictures and letters now. I get so much joy from what she writes to me, and hope that someday we can speak face to face. I have no memories of anything like that. I just want to know that all the letters mean something; that they can mean something substantial and that their author I can soon meet.

Thank you for reading this, and I sincerely hope you will give me and my mother a chance to be a family again."

Sincerely, Carter ██████████ (Exhibit H: Letter of Carter ██████████)

Steve Woo, Linda's brother, stepped in and – along with his parents while they were still living – assumed shared custody of Carter with his father, Gavin ██████████. As Carter has grown older, Steve has played an increasingly prominent role in his life.

Steve writes of his sister: “Linda has always been one of the most generous, creative, intelligent, kind, and unpretentious people I know. I believe this is why she has been able to have such a positive and compassionate impact on so many people while incarcerated. However, the one person in the world who most needs to feel Linda's love and compassion has been unable to for the past 12 years.”

Steve writes of the “perpetual dark cloud” that has hung over his family since March 29, 2006, and of his own journey, from seeing Carter in the Emergency Room and Linda behind a glass window at SF General Hospital, thinking then that he could not “imagine how Linda and Carter could ever have a strong mother-son relationship again.” Yet, despite not remembering his mother, “Carter has always become emotional when talking about his mother and his sister Olive. It's been heartbreaking to see him long for his mother all these years, knowing that she is in prison for harming him.” Steve also describes Carter's eagerness to speak with Linda when she calls, and their conversations about “normal things” like college applications and cross-country races. Steve now believes that “[t]he seeds of reconciliation have been planted, and I'm very hopeful that their relationship can strengthen if Linda is granted an early release.”

“I have seen Carter grow up from a cute little 5 year old boy to an intelligent 17 year old on the brink of adulthood and preparing to attend college, while his mother, hundreds of miles away, has made the best of her life in prison by immersing herself in teaching and mentoring programs for other inmates, and working on social research projects with academic specialists and professors. Seeing my nephew and my sister cope so positively under their individual circumstances has made me proud of both of them.”

Steve recognizes that there will be “an awkwardness and a period of re-adjustment for everyone ... But Carter is still young and has many more milestones to achieve ... He’s already gone through most of his childhood without a mother to share some of the most important moments in his life, but could benefit so much if he got to know his mother and the person she is.” Writing as a parent who has “raised Carter and wishes only the very best and happiest life for him, I am hoping that he can be reunited with his mother soon so their relationship can heal and grow.” (Exhibit I: Letter of Steve Woo)

Cynthia ‘Cindy’ Woo, Linda’s sister, writes about the losses their family has suffered in just the last year, of both of her parents. These losses “took another emotional toll on Carter and our family and I mourn the fact that my parents in their last years cried often and never lived to see their daughter released. My heart breaks that these same thoughts could be Carter’s fears.” In addition to the pride Cindy takes in her sister’s present achievements, she also remembers her as “the generous sister ... who learned the guitar just to entertain the children at daycare on her volunteer days, and who made the most amazing Halloween costumes.” Cindy writes that she has “sensed [Linda’s] sadness because she can’t be there for Carter during his most vulnerable years,” but knows that “Linda is trying to stay optimistic as she works hard each day to earn the chance to be with her son again.” “For Carter, in such a short lifetime there have been too many tears, too many family members taken. Carter needs more than just hope he will be with his mother again – he desperately needs her right now.” Although living in Seattle, Cindy and her husband stand ready to welcome Linda into their home and offer a position in their small optometry practice. (Exhibit J: Letter of Cynthia Woo)

Debbie Woo is Linda's sister. She writes of how she watched Carter in the early years following the separation from his mother, "struggling with his emotions and impulses, not understanding why his mother and sister were gone." Now, she and Carter are able to talk more openly, and Debbie tells Carter stories about his mother. She says that Carter "is brave and doesn't share so much, but quite sensitive and tearful when we talk like this. It surprises me and I get tearful myself ... I believe that this boy, my nephew, deserves and needs to have his mother back in his life and to experience the unconditional love that he's craved. He deserves that happiness and security after so many years of pain." Debbie writes that Linda has "worked hard to understand how things devolved with her depression, and she's worked with therapists while in prison to understand her mental illness and to establish a regimen of treatment. She is healthy and has been managing her depression effectively and is ready to return to her life here in the Bay Area."

Debbie tells of how, when their grandmother lost both her hearing and her sight and was moved to an assisted living facility in Mill Valley, Linda – who was in her 20s – was the only one of more than 15 grandchildren who visited her regularly and sat by her bedside. She also describes how Linda was the only family member who came to the airport at 1 a.m. when Debbie and her husband were bringing their adopted daughter home from China. Linda showed up with a new baby car seat and was thrilled to greet her new niece.

Debbie offers financial support and notes that their family home in San Francisco is available to Linda, as well as Debbie's own home in Mill Valley. (Exhibit K: Letter of Debbie Woo)

GAVIN ██████████ AND THE ██████████ FAMILY

“There is a space in society for kindness.”

-Gavin ██████████

In his letter, after recognizing all the people who were hurt by Linda’s actions, most of all Olive and Carter, Gavin turns his attention to Linda, acknowledging that her worst punishment is that she must live with what she did: “In addition to all the other lives that Linda has hurt, her needless and senseless act was also directed upon herself. She must live the rest of her days knowing what she did to Olive, to Carter, to me, and to all that know those two children.” Gavin states that Linda needed to be removed from society as punishment and “to take whatever steps she needed in order to heal herself.” From the perspective of societal punishment, he believes “she has paid a sufficient price.” As for healing and rehabilitation, he writes that based upon what he has heard about Linda’s activities, “I get the impression that she has been working hard to make the best of her time there. There is a place in society for kindness. Giving Linda an opportunity to be released while she is still relatively young seems to me to be the right thing. She has paid a significant price for her actions; and maintaining her incarceration does not appear to serve anyone’s interest.”

Gavin concludes his letter by considering what it would mean for Carter to have his mother returned to him, saying that “Linda’s release would provide a possibility to process what has happened to him in a way that wouldn’t be possible with her continued incarceration. He has spent the majority of his life without seeing his mother, and changing this may be beneficial ...

(Exhibit L: Letter of Gavin ██████████)

Anne ██████████, Olive’s grandmother, also supports Linda’s application for clemency. She writes that Linda suffered from depression in the year preceding her crime, and that she “has helped her fellow inmates to obtain their GEDs. Please give her the opportunity to contribute to society, and she will be a positive impact at whatever she chooses to do and be no threat to society or the family.” Ann adds that Linda was “very solicitous” of her deceased husband and of her, stating that they were always included in social events and trips. “Linda was truly a lovely person and a wonderful unique and fun daughter in law. Linda and I frequently talk on the phone and have meaningful conversations. I always look forward to her next call.” (Exhibit M: Letter of Ann [REDACTED])

Gavin [REDACTED] sister, Deirdre, begins by saying, about her tightly knit family, that “Linda was regarded as a blood relative in our large Irish family. She was adored by my parents and of her own volition, with or without my brother Gavin, would take both children to visit with them as frequently as possible. This continued to be the case after she and my brother separated. When planning family vacations her first thought was always to include them.”

About Carter, Deirdre writes that “[a]s complex as the situation is he can clearly see how much his mother was loved and continues to be loved by both families. In other words he knows that she is a good person. The family support notwithstanding there has been a large void in Carter’s life. I believe he needs to have his mother in his life in order to heal.” Deirdre concludes by saying that she is “wholly convinced that Linda will never be a danger to anyone in the future and respectfully request that you commute her sentence.” (Exhibit N: Letter of Deirdre [REDACTED])

Gavin’s brother, Declan [REDACTED] and Declan’s wife Kajsa [REDACTED]; also attest to Linda’s good character, their abiding affection for her, their belief that what happened was the result of illness, and give their pledge to support Linda in every way they can when she is released. Declan writes of the “huge hole” left in their family when Gavin and Linda separated, and how they “didn’t want to lose Linda and I know Linda didn’t want to lose the [REDACTED] Family. I remember before the crime always telling my friends about my wonderful sister-in-law. I believe when released Linda would perform a positive role for Carter and society at large.” (Exhibit O: Letter of Declan [REDACTED], and Exhibit P: Letter of Kajsa [REDACTED])

LINDA WOO’S FRIENDS

“I think the world would be a better place if there were more people like Linda in it. In a holiday card she sent a year ago she wrote: ‘Prison is what you make of it. There are good people here and lots of learning opportunities.’ To me this is evidence of a determination and resilience that are remarkable.”
-Minnie Ingersoll

Lisa Velarde has known Linda for 25 years, and it was Lisa, with her husband Thomas Kauth, who found Linda, Olive and Carter in the car on March 29, 2006. She writes of having sometimes wondered, prior to 2006, if Linda’s propensity for staying busy “was a way to avoid thinking about things. But in the last couple of years, I have seen a very different Linda.” This newer Linda is “a totally open, self-reflective, and deeply thoughtful person who is truly atoning for her crime. The last time I visited her, I found her extremely familiar with her inner mental landscape. I was a little jealous of how self-actualized she was, to be honest, as though the mystery of her motivations and behavior was now revealed to her and she was completely aware of every one of her personality strengths and weaknesses, allowing her to make healthy, informed decisions going forward in life.” (Exhibit Q: Letter of Lisa Velarde)

Lisa’s husband, Thomas Kauth, has known Linda since elementary school, and remembers her as “the smartest, the funniest, and the most athletic girl in class.” Linda is “my oldest friend and one who I care for deeply. ... And though I’m sure her life has not turned out the way she’d planned, she has not given in to despair.” Thomas echoes the words of many of Linda’s mentors when he – a software developer – “can tell she has the instincts, temperament, the logic skills and the attention to detail to be a great programmer.” Far from being a threat to anyone, Linda, if released, would be the “responsible, hardworking, honest person that I’ve known for so many years.” (Exhibit R: Letter of Thomas Kauth)

Minnie Ingersoll is an enormously successful person. She was “an early product manager at Google before becoming COO of Code for America and founder of Shift, a $150M online marketplace for buying and selling used cars.” However, but for successful intervention, she may not have lived to mark these achievements, marry, or have children. When in college, she writes, “I woke up every morning wishing I could kill myself. I dropped out of college. But then I went on medication and I got a second chance.”

Minnie met Linda when they both were members of a soccer team. Minnie admired the “fun, wise-cracking mother of two,” and they would room together when traveling to tournaments. From Minnie’s perspective, Linda received the treatment that she needed once she was arrested and hospitalized, “and of course it is an understatement to say that she regretted what she had done. I truly believe that Linda’s story could be anyone’s, just as it could have been mine. As a person who has first-hand experience with suicidal depression, it pains me to no end to see how poorly understood this illness is in society, and how our laws have not evolved to incorporate what mental health experts plainly know regarding the mental state of severely depressed individuals.” She believes that “Linda’s son, Carter, deserves to know the real Linda. None of this was his fault. The woman I knew and know would do everything for her children.” (Exhibit S: Letter of Minnie Ingersoll)

Richard Looker, who has known Linda for 25 years, has seen his friendship with Linda deepen during her period of incarceration. Richard has also “struggled with depression and contemplated suicide” so Linda’s “state of mind was not an abstraction” for him: “I could fully understand how she could arrive in a state where rational thought can get pushed aside because of emotional pain. Many of our early letters dealt with this topic, and I think my understanding and experience with depression allowed us to become better friends ...” Richard is struck by what he sees as Linda’s “relentless drive to better herself and find ways to help her fellow inmates” and often wonders if he would be able to do the same if he were in her circumstance.

Richard quotes from a letter from Linda, describing how she is helping her friend to prepare for being released by acting as her personal trainer. Perhaps most important of all, Richard recognizes that Linda has struggled with depression while incarcerated, but that she has not “withdrawn within herself. She tried to help other people in lots of ways despite her own pain. I know from firsthand experience that this is very difficult to do when battling depression ... In this as in many other respects, Linda is a remarkable woman.”

Finally, like Minnie Ingersoll and others, Richard sincerely believes that Linda is remorseful and that “[s]ociety needs more people like her.” (Exhibit T: Letter of Richard Looker)

LINDA WOO IN HER OWN WORDS

Dear Governor Brown,

In 2006, in the midst of a severe depression, I wanted to kill myself. I could not, however, because I had two beautiful children and I could not put them through the pain of losing their mother. I believed that this would ruin their lives forever, as they could not possibly survive without me. As my depression grew worse, it suddenly dawned on me that I could spare them this terrible loss by taking them with me. I made the horrible decision to kill my children, and myself.

I have spent the last 12 years living with the consequences of my actions. The death of my three-year-old daughter, Olive, has left a gaping hole in my heart that will never be filled. I will miss her for the rest of my life. I have deep regret and remorse for all the pain that I have caused everyone, especially her father and her brother, grandparents, all her family and friends and the entire community. I am truly humbled by their forgiveness of me, and their gracious offers of support for me. The taking of anyone's life is a shocking crime that shakes the core of society as a whole. But when that life is a small child, it is even more disturbing. I am profoundly sorry for my actions and I go forward in life trying every day to be the best possible person that I can be.

I am requesting this commutation because, at the age of four and a half my son, Carter, had his mother ripped from his life. He woke up in the hospital with no explanation. In his eyes, I abandoned him. I was not allowed any contact with him until he was ten, and by then I was a complete stranger to him. I was allowed to write him short, monitored letters, and have continued to do so ever since.

Late last year at my mother's funeral, Carter learned that I had been talking to my mother on the phone. He approached his father and asked whether people spoke to me on the phone, and asked if he could also. Since then I have called Carter once a month and we have begun to build a relationship. Carter tells me that he has no memory of me or Olive, but that he wished he did. During these phone calls, which have been a blessing to us, we have both cried.

Carter is now 17 and a senior in high school. He has begun the process of applying to colleges. I am grateful to his father, my brother Steve, and my parents for raising him to be an outstanding young man whom I am so proud of. Still, I believe that Carter deserves, wants, and needs his mother in his life during these crucial years, as he continues to develop emotionally and cognitively.

Over these last 12 years I have gained real insight into myself and – working closely with mental health professionals – have also been able to address the sources of my depression. Of equal importance, I have developed the coping skills necessary to managing my feelings. I do not believe prison is a horrible place – I have been able to learn a great deal here and have established meaningful relationships, acquired much needed insight into myself, and discovered a joy in helping others meet their goals.

I ask for this commutation for Carter’s sake. I love him so much; he was an innocent victim whose life was upended by my actions. I know that he holds a great deal of pain inside of him as a result of my crime, and has many unanswered questions; I want to support him emotionally and in all his endeavors, answer all his questions, love him, and be a mother to him.

Yours truly,

Linda Woo

Nicky Woodall

In October 1987, two drug dealers offered 20-year-old Nicky Woodall money to kill Michael Hoy, a drug dealer they were feuding with. On October 30, 1987, Mr. Woodall struck Mr. Hoy repeatedly in the head with a wrench, killing him. A couple of days later, Mr. Woodall enlisted the help of others to dispose of the body by dumping it in an aqueduct. On March 9, 1988, the Kern County Superior Court sentenced Mr. Woodall to life without the possibility of parole for murder plus a 1-year deadly weapon enhancement.

Mr. Woodall has now been incarcerated 31 years. In his application for clemency, Mr. Woodall wrote that he began participating in criminal activity as a result of his dysfunctional childhood. He wrote that he "simply did not have the coping skills to make pro-social choices," and that his poor decision making was exacerbated by his chronic drug use. He reported that he committed the crime when he had been up for several days on a drug binge. Mr. Woodall has refrained from substance abuse for over 20 years and has worked to address his addiction in prison.

During more than two decades in prison and with no possibility of parole, Mr. Woodall has been dedicated to transforming his life. He was last disciplined for misconduct 20 years ago. He earned his GED, a career readiness certificate in paralegal studies, and completed vocational training in office services. Mr. Woodall has participated in multiple self-help programs, including Getting Out by Going In, Anger Management, and Alcoholics Anonymous.

Through his positive attitude and behavior, Mr. Woodall has earned the respect of the staff members and prison volunteers who interact with him on a regular basis. Mr. Woodall has been praised by the prison chaplain for being "spiritually mature, mentally and emotionally grounded in reality, and an example of someone who is truly rehabilitated." In 2008, a correctional lieutenant wrote of Mr. Woodall, "Through many years I have dealt with Woodall in the capacity of captain's clerk. . . . In a prison setting, where integrity and ethics are regularly compromised, Woodall stands apart." Also in 2008, a correctional counselor who worked with Mr. Woodall while a captain's clerk wrote, "Having worked closely with Woodall over the years, I find him to be very mature, goal-oriented, and an example of what rehabilitation is and should be." Another correctional counselor wrote in 2008, "Woodall's demonstrated character and work ethic is rare in the workplace, and has proven invaluable many times. He remains cordial and professional, always ready to assist in any way needed." A facility captain praised Mr. Woodall in 2008, writing, "Woodall has consistently impressed me with his clerical skills, exceptional work product, and professional attitude. He has remained a valuable tool in the normal operations of the facility program office, always demonstrating an aptitude for solutions to any difficult task he confronts. In my fourteen plus years in the department, he is by far the best clerk I have ever encountered."

Impressively, 95 employees at the Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility, including correctional counselors, officers, lieutenants, sergeants, and facility captains, signed a letter supporting Mr. Woodall's clemency application in 2007.

Mr. Woodall committed a very serious crime, but it is clear that he has distinguished himself through his hard work and commitment to his rehabilitation in prison. For these reasons, I believe that Mr. Woodall has earned the opportunity to present his case to the Board of Parole Hearings so it can determine whether he is suitable for parole.

THEREFORE, I, EDMUND G. BROWN JR., Governor of the State of California, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes of the State of California, do hereby commute the sentence of Nicky Woodall to a total of 31 years to life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 24th Day of December, 2018.

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.

ADDENDUM TO THE APPLICATION FOR COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

INTRODUCTION

TO THE HONORABLE GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN JR. AND THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF KERN COUNTY:

Pursuant to Penal Code section 4800 and Article V, Section 8, of the California Constitution, Petitioner Nicky William Woodall is asking the Honorable Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. to commute his sentence of Life without the possibility of parole plus one year to an indeterminate sentence of 25 years to life with the possibility of parole. Mr. Woodall was first arrested in April of 1983 at the age of 16 for Grand Theft. He was again arrested at the age of 17 for Receiving Stolen Property and Possession of Alcohol. Each arrest resulted in placement in Juvenile Forestry Camp. Mr. Woodall's adult criminal history includes arrests/convictions for Petty Theft and his controlling case.¹ Mr. Woodall was received into the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) on April 12, 1988, subsequent to his conviction for Murder in the 1st Degree, PC 187 with Special Circumstances (financial gain), PC 190.2 and Use of a Deadly Weapon, PC 12022 (b).²

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Petitioner, Nicky William Woodall, was found guilty by jury on March 9, 1988, to first degree murder with special circumstances and use of a deadly weapon. On October 30, 1987, Mr. Woodall hit Michael Hoy multiple times with a torque wrench resulting in his death.³ The taking of Michael Hoy's life was for financial gain. Mr.

³ Id. CDCR Evaluation.

Woodall feels deep remorse for his reckless and heinous conduct. He accepts full responsibility for his actions and the senseless murder of Michael Hoy and the lifelong suffering his family and friends must have endured. In July of 2007 the Bakersfield Californian newspaper published a letter that Nick had written expressing his sorrow and shame.⁴ Mr. Woodall has matured significantly throughout his 29 years of incarceration. His ability to understand the motivations behind the murder of Michael Hoy has evolved through the therapeutic programs and rehabilitation options offered by CDCR. Mr. Woodall grew up in a highly dysfunctional environment and he simply did not have the coping skills to make pro-social choices. His poor decision making was exacerbated by his chronic drug use. Mr. Woodall was unable to understand and appreciate the consequences of his actions. On the day of his controlling offense, Mr. Woodall had not slept for several days and he was on an eleven day methamphetamine binge. Regardless of his state of mind, he committed an unspeakable act and he deserved to be punished to the fullest extent of the law at that time.

INSTITUTIONAL BEHAVIOR

Mr. Woodall's incarceration should be viewed in two distinct segments. The first segment covers the period when he was first received into CDCR in April of 1988 throughout November of 1995. The second segment relates to Mr. Woodall's rehabilitation and programming from December of 1995 to present day. Mr. Woodall received approximately nine Rules Violations Reports (RVR), the first 7 years in prison.⁵ He had difficulty adjusting to prison life. The majority of his RVR(s) were a direct result of his past inability to deal with his anger and impulsivity issues. For years he rationalized that his negative behavior was necessary if he wanted to survive prison life. He saw himself as the victim and blamed others for the negative choices he made both in the free community and in prison. Fortunately, Nicky's warped mindset would change in 1995 when he gave himself to his savior, Jesus Christ. Mr. Woodall has demonstrated a commitment to rehabilitation through his participation in various self-help programs over the years. Such rehabilitation efforts include: acting as the designated Christian Leader within Facility III-A, for the purposes of conducting regularly scheduled Christian leadership meetings; facilitating multiple Bible Studies Courses; Conducting "Undeniable Truths Seminar" which is comprised of Biblical principles and part of an on going evangelical ministry within Facility III-A; Advanced Anger Management; Coping Skills Training; Group Therapy for Coping Skills and Strategies; Anger Management; Alcoholic Anonymous; Care Giver Training; Writing the "Soldier's Call" Christian Newsletter.⁶

⁴ Id. July 2007 Bakersfield Californian Newspaper Article

CAUSATIVE FACTORS

For many years Mr. Woodall refused to accept the fact that he was powerless over drugs. Unfortunately, it took his life crime to force him to come to terms with his addiction. Years of therapy, prayer, and self-help programs have given Nicky significant insight into the motivations that led him to commit his crime. He has detailed his criminal causative factors in a four page essay entitled, INSIGHT.⁷ Below are some of the underlying reasons why he committed his life crime.

Low Self Esteem: Nicky had a sense of inferiority from being demeaned and having a poor self image.

⁷ Id. Insight Essay.

Unhealthy Desire for Attention/Acceptance: Nicky surrounded himself with criminals and negative peer groups and family members.

Resolving Conflicts with Violence: Learned behavior from family and social peers.

Warped Beliefs: Distorted principles developed from family and negative experiences and behaviors.

Selfish and Self-Centered Thinking: Nicky developed a sense of entitlement from family and all the negative things that happened to him.

Inability to Deal with Life Stressors: Nicky never asked for help when he was confused or scared. He always tried to do things on his own.

Extreme Short Term Thinking: Nicky had no purpose or future goals. He was unable to envision a future in his life past the immediate weeks and months.

Impulsivity: Nicky Lacked discipline/control in managing urges.

Poor Choices and Poor Decision Making Skills: Nicky often was overwhelmed by emotions and impulsivity; he did not know how to identify, assess, or choose the best alternative.

Lack of Emotional Control and Other Negative Feelings: Pervasive, negative self-talk and emotions overpowered Nicky's rational thoughts.

Coping Strategies: One of the primary reasons Mr. Woodall has been able to avoid issues with his fellow inmates is he has developed an effective strategy to diffuse potentially volatile situations. His primary strategy has been using and applying Biblical principles and exemplifying God's love. When he encounters a difficult situation he now evaluates the matter and finds an affirmative option(s) to resolve the conflict in a peaceful way. He understands he must remain calm and focus on a positive solution. Such strategies include: listening to another point of view, excusing himself and walking away to assess the situation, utilizing the S.T.A.R. technique which stands for Stop, Think, Assess, and React. With these techniques Nicky will be able to make calm reasonable choices.

POSITIVE FAMILY & SOCIAL RELATIONSHIPS

Despite his nearly thirty years of incarceration Nicky, has maintained strong ties with his family through visits, letters, and authorized phone calls. He has also befriended dozens of Correctional Officers and free staff members who either endorse his request to have his sentence commuted to life with the possibility of parole or have written letters/chronos affirming his positive changes and long term growth. Such letters/chronos include:

Support Letters/Chronos from Staff:

Correctional Officers: (Correctional Sergeant B. Cooke, et al.) Approximately Ninety-Five Correctional Officers have signed a form letter in which they all opine that Nicky's behavior is consistent with that of a rehabilitated individual. They base their recommendations on their years of experience encountering inmate populations and the fact that they have had the opportunity to observe Mr. Woodall over an extended period of time in their official capacity. ⁸

Wife: (Lynette Woodall) Mrs. Woodall has been married to Nicky for over twenty-three years. She believes that Nicky has developed a true sense of humility and a full realization of the consequences of his actions. She has personally observed his change and she believes he has been rehabilitated.⁹

Inmate: (Leif Taylor) As an inmate within CDCR, Leif has known Nicky for over twenty years. He credits Nicky with having a positive impact on his life and helping him spread the word of God.¹⁰

Former Inmate: (Matthew Feldmeth) Mr. Feldmeth and Nicky taught Bible Study in prison. Matthew writes how Nicky counsels others and how he is constantly serving the Lord. He considers Nicky one of the kindest persons he knows.

Former Lifer: (Jeffrey Inglett) Mr. Inglett was celled with Nick periodically for approximately ten years. Nick's guidance and fellowship planted the seed for Jeffrey's rehabilitation.¹¹

NOTABLE QUOTES

Protestant Chaplain E. Crain 03/25/06

I have known inmate Woodall as a fellow brother in Christ, for several years, in which we have enjoyed fellowship, studied the Bible, and engaged in many discussions concerning such. He is a well read, honest, and trustworthy person who has been instrumental in creating and coordinating different Chapel programs, Bible Studies, as well as counseling other inmates with spiritual/life issues.¹²

Facility Captain G. Rangel 05/09/07

Over the years, I have worked closely with inmate Woodall in my capacity as CCII and Facility Captain. He is very respectful and courteous, always conducting himself in the most professional manner. Inmate Woodall regularly goes above and beyond the call of duty, not merely doing what is required of him but, taking every opportunity to do the best job possible. ¹³

Facility Sergeant B. Cooke 03/28/05

I have known inmate Woodall for many years, in my capacity as Facility III-A Sergeant, several of which he has been assigned as the Facility III-A Captain's Clerk. I have had the opportunity to work closely with him, observing his behavior over an extended period of time. Based on this I can attest to his strong work ethic, high level of integrity and trustworthiness. ¹⁴

Correctional Lieutenant S. Grandy 06/12/07

Woodall has been a great help to me and the overall operations of Facility III-A. In a prison setting where honesty and integrity are regularly compromised, Woodall stands apart as an example of what rehabilitation is and should be. Based on this information, it is my pleasure to document such and commend Woodall for his professionalism and demonstrated character. ¹⁵

Correctional Officer J. Montemayor 04/25/13

I have observed inmate Woodall over an extended period of time during the course of my duties. Inmate Woodall has consistently demonstrated to me that he has the ability to work with others and deal with others in a mature and meaningful manner. Inmate Woodall is polite with all staff, courteous, obeys all orders and follow instructions given to him. If inmate Woodall is to be given a parole date, in my opinion, he would be able to successfully re-integrate into society. ¹⁶

Pastors/Chaplains Tom & Dottie Hooper 09/06/16

Although we have never met Nick in person, we feel we know him through letters he has written, and by his honest and sincere answers to the questions asked in our 12-Step lessons. We believe Nick has honestly repented of his crime, and that he has sincerely changed his life, and is ready for parole and re-entry into society. ¹⁷

EDUCATION

Mr. Woodall has upgraded educationally by earning his General Equivalency Diplomas on 03/13/1989. He also earned his Paralegal degree from Blackstone Career Institute on 06/22/2004 and was recognized for successful completion of Vocational Office Services. ¹⁸ In terms of his work assignments, Nicky has consistently earned above average to exceptional ratings from his supervisors. ¹⁹

YOUTHFUL CHARACTERISTICS

Without question one can opine that at the age of twenty Nicky was an impulsive drug addict whose life was unmanageable. Nicky clearly lacked the coping skills to make pro-social choices. He was unable to appreciate the consequences of his actions. His susceptibility to negative peer influences and rash behavior was undeniable. However, recent scientific evidence has shown that young adult development and neuroscience shows that certain areas of the brain, specifically, those affecting judgment and decision-making, do not fully develop until the early to mid twenties. Numerous studies have confirmed that the process of brain development continues well beyond the age of eighteen. This research has been relied upon by judges and lawmakers.²⁰ Mr. Woodall is well aware he does not qualify for Senate Bill 261 consideration.²¹ However, his age (20) at the time of his life crime should be a relevant factor when considering his commutation request.

Nicky is no longer the same person he was when he committed his life crime. His ability to understand the motivations behind his crime has evolved through the therapeutic process offered by CDCR. His programming and Christian lifestyle has allowed him to identify his past defects of character and the causative factors of his criminality. This was only done through hard work and his unwavering commitment to self analysis. He has written a detailed Relapsed Prevention Plan²² which has enabled him to manage stressors in prison and will assist him in the free community. His rehabilitation has enabled him to have the coping skills to flourish in prison and, God willing, perhaps someday in the free community.

CONCLUSION

Nicky Woodall, by and through his counsel, respectfully request that the Honorable Governor Jerry Brown commute his sentence of life without the possibility of parole to an indeterminate sentence of 25 years to life with the possibility of parole because Nicky Woodall is a rehabilitated inmate. For over twenty-two years he has shown himself to be an exemplary inmate. He has not incurred a RVR in over twenty-two years. He continues to better himself through institutional programs, his religious services and self therapy. His commitment to Jesus Christ is unwavering and has enabled him to have the coping skills and pro-social mentality to make the right choices.
